African Nations Assailed

SASKATOON (CP) — The parliamnet of the United Church of Canada condemned policies of South Africa, Rhodesia and Portugal Wednesday night, but was warned about lecturing African governments "with colonial vigor."

The parliament, meeting as the 25th general council of the church, passed almost unanimously resolutions dealing with the treatment of black people by the three countries.

The only debate came on a last-minute resolution dealing with th the threatened expulsion from Uganda of 55,000 Asians with British passports.

There was no opposition to a call for the church to express concern for the welfare of the refugees and for the Canadian government to offer sanctuary to those expelled. But, when delegates attempted to introduce an amendment calling on the government of Uganda to extend the deadline for the expulsion of refugees, they were reprimanded by Rev. Garth Legge of Toronto, associate secretary of the church's division of world outreach.

"The day has long passed when with colonial vigor we should lecture African governments," said Dr. Legge, director of church work and research for Africa, the Caribbean and Latin America.

He said any country has the right to declare who is acceptable to it and who is silen.

Dr. Legge said spontaneous sympathy with people in difficulty is understandable, but added that the United Church should listen to "what black Africa has to say."

The resolution was referred back to a committee for study.

Among resolutions passed was one directed at South Africa for exercising "stringent apartheid measures" and supporting racist policies in other African countries.

It asked the Canadian government to request national and international sports organizations and the public "to deny any form of recognition to any sports activities where Canadian persons are barred or subjected to any discrimination on the basis of race, religion or political affiliation."

The church also was asked to examine its own investment portfolio to determine whether United Church capital is giving tacit support to South African apartheid.

Another resolution said that Portugal, while receiving support from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, continues to oppress indigenous peoples contrary to the United Nations' declaration of human rights.

The council agreed to ask the Canadian government to discontinue assistance to Portugal through NATO until Portugal has granted independence to its African territories.

Earlier, Rt. Rev. Roy G. Needhall, a Trinidad senator, told the council the church has a duty, spelled out in the Bible, to work for the liberation of oppressed people.

"The gospel projects the total liberation of man and society, condemning the forces that oppress and proposing a new society based on justice and solidarity."

Egg Market Plan to Get Hearings

OTTAWA (CP) — Public hearings will be held in September on a national egg marketing proposal, the government's national farm products marketing council announced Wednesday.

The egg plan, submitted by the Canadian Egg Producers Council, is the first marketing scheme to be studied by the marketing council since it was created by Parliament early this year.

The hearings are to be held here Sept., 14, in Moncton, N.B., Sept., 19, and in Calgary, Sept., 22.

Marketing council Chairman Paul Babey said the egg proposal plan will be reviewed after public hearings and recommendations on whether to accept all or part of it will then be submitted to the agriculture minister.

Basically, the plan would set a national egg production maximum of 475 million dozen per year, with provincial quotas established according to production during the last five years.

A national egg marketing board would be established to "supervise" and co-ordinate the operations of the existing 10 provincial boards.

The marketing boards would arrange prices and supply of eggs, including those for hatching and food processing, and develop export markets.

They would confiscate all eggs produced in excess of producers' quotas and would dispose of them by means of as yet undetermined programs.

Firestone double belted mileage for $24.95 is really something special. (And there are comparable bargains for most other cars too.) The low price is only one way you'll save. Long, long double belted mileage will keep the savings coming your way. Why do they last so long? Because our two sturdy belts under the tread combat tread squirm that scrubs rubber off ordinary tires. And the belts hold the tread true for a full-width grip on pavement. If you're now driving on belts, here's the replacement bargain for you. But if you haven't yet made the move to belts, now is the time . . . this is the price . . . and we're the place . . . to start enjoying belted benefits.

It means SERVICE too.

WHEEL ALIGNMENT is a must for every car on the road from time to time. What happens if you don't bother? For one thing, your tires will wear out thousands of miles too soon. You could damage other mechanical components in your Riding System. And your car won't handle as smoothly and safely as it should.

WHEEL BALANCING is also vital for long tire life. And the money you can save by stretching tire mileage will be far more than this front end investment. OUTER WHEEL BEARING REPACK is another way we can save you money. Because when grease gets hard and caked, it can't do its job. And that can lead to wheel bearing replacement, which is bad news.

And APPLIANCES.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

FRIDAY, AUG. 18

Aries (March 21-April 19): The importance of your career effort now makes it imperative not to get involved and delayed with casual, careless trivia or accidents.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Progress cannot be put off any longer. Try new tools, experimental approaches. Family resources stand to gain from changes.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Communications go on with greater effect. You have your choice of many wild ideas and a few sad ones. Creative planning is favored.

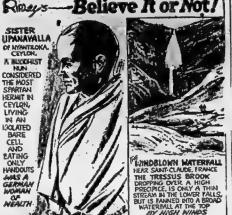
Cancer (June 21-July 22): Recent efforts prove useful. Accept promises with care. Old issues, perhaps the problems of older people come to you for attention.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): There's a dividend on investments. Constructive hobbies and good manners today. Share your luck with those you really care about.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Be co-operative, leave off any attitude of quibble or squabble. Information coming to you may be confidential and quite valuable.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Be serene, concentrate on the task at hand. Ventures depending on your resources and action can make greater progress.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Credit and its use becomes a touchy subject, particularly where a group or your family have pooled their resources.



Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Opposition from friends and family can be expected. Look back over the last few days, clear up any unfinished details now.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Leave centre stage to others. Reflection over recent developments indicates something important that has escaped general notice.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Theories have to be supplemented by practical experience. Local conditions are cause of concern. Younger people are in your attention.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Your plans run into heavy going, both from those who understand something of what they are and from those who don't. Stick to business.

Iron Is Not Only Cure for Anemia

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I was told by a nurse that I was anemic. She told me there was no cure except to eat lots of food with iron and take vitamins plus iron, but she didn't tell me what foods have iron.

I have two small children and was told last week that my baby's blood count was lower than normal. I don't want my baby to become anemic. Please tell me some food that have iron.—Mrs. B.D.

With I knew just a little more about you. If the nurse just thought you looked pale—that's not enough for a diagnosis of anemia.

Anemia means lack of sufficient iron in the blood; that's true. But is it because of sheer lack of iron, or is it because there is a lack of red cells in which are the ones that carry iron?

Is it pernicious anemia, which no amount of iron will help? Yet pernicious anemia can be corrected with vitamin B-12.

Is some chronic infection causing the anemia? Or some subtle but continuing blood loss? Or is some blood disorder involved?

Anemia, you see, is a term that includes quite a variety of types, and except in very simple cases, certain blood tests are required to find out which. After that has been determined, it is possible to decide what treatment is appropriate.

I can, and do, suspect that a patient may be anemic just from looking at him—but that's only the beginning. I would want some blood tests before making a diagnosis, and before deciding on the proper treatment.

Another question which can be important to you and your baby: Are you both getting enough protein? Protein is necessary to prevent anemia.

Actually, iron is plentiful in quite a few foods; Meats of all kinds are rich in both protein and iron, and a large number of vegetables contain iron but in general don't have much protein.

Instead of accepting the nurse's opinion at face value, you need the attention of a physician to find out exactly what your problem is and how to solve it.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: For many years I have done abdominal exercises designed to limber up the waist and strengthen abdominal muscles.

Recently an article said that exercises of this type should be done at a certain time between meals, the implication being non-interference with digestion and elimination. I often do these exercises just before breakfast or lunch.

Would such activity over the years cause any adverse conditions—A.B.

If the article undertook to specify some particular time for the exercises, I'd think it was being overfussy, but strenuous exercises immediately after a meal, particularly a large meal, can usurp some of the circulation that should be devoted to digestive action.

I certainly see no harm in your schedule of exercising before meals. Or an hour or so after a big meal would be all right.

The bidding:

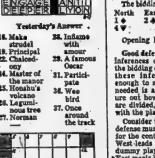
North	East	South	West
1♥	2♠	3♥	4♥

Opening lead—two of clubs.

Good defense rests heavily on inferences drawn from either the bidding or the play. Usually these inferences are easy enough to spot, for all that is needed is a willingness to be sure not how the unseen cards are divided, but how compatible with the play.

Consider the case where the defense must function perfectly for the contract to be stopped. West leads the deuce of clubs, dummy playing the three, and East beats his first test by playing the eight, which wins the trick. East has a right to assume that West led the deuce from either three or four small cards in that suit, especially in the light of his three club bid.

East's next play is also crucial, for, if he makes the mistake of playing the ace of clubs at trick two, South will easily avoid his trump loser. Instead, he should play the ace of diamonds, hoping to get a diamond ruff later on and thus defeat the contract.



The diamond play is based on the necessary assumption that West has either the ace of trumps or the guarded king, in which case a diamond ruff defers by far the best chance of holding the contract.

Now West comes into the picture when he signals for a diamond continuation by playing the seven on the ace. West realizes that there is very little chance of South's having another club, and he reads the loss of diamonds play as showing either a singleton or doubleton diamond.

So East leads another diamond and the three and the contract goes down one as a result of the inferential defense. Declarer cannot prevent East from ruffing a diamond later on, since West will win the first trump lead by South and return a diamond to score the setting trick.

Hijacked Reno Plane Flies to Vancouver

Lone Rifleman Only Passenger

RENO, Nev. (AP-CP) — A United Airlines passenger jet hijacked at the international airport here early today was believed headed for Vancouver.

A man armed with a rifle boarded the plane and ordered the passengers off, leaving the three-man crew. The plane circled the airport for several minutes before heading north.

The Federal Aviation Administration said in Washington the hijacking occurred at 9:31 a.m. EDT.

The plane, a Boeing 727 jet, was scheduled to fly to San Francisco.

The FAA said the plane took off in a northwestward direction and climbed to 23,000 feet, and at 10:40 a.m. EDT it was 30 miles southwest of Redding, Ore.

The plane was heading northwest with its destination unknown, the FAA said.

A spokesman for United said the plane was headed for Vancouver with the only occupants being the three crew members and the hijacker. The latter was reported in the cockpit with the flight crew.

The spokesman said the man apparently rushed the plane on the ground.

He did not have a ticket.

Kissinger Ends Talks In Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — Henry Kissinger ended two days of talks with President Nguyen Van Thieu today and flew to Japan, leaving no public hints of what they said to each other.

Brief statements issued by the U.S. embassy and by Thieu's office said the more than five hours of talks had dealt with the "general situation" in Vietnam and the peace negotiations in Paris.

If there were any significant disagreements between Kissinger and the South Vietnamese, they were not revealed by the statements, even though they were issued separately.

Catholics Bombed Protestants Seek Revenge

BELFAST (CP) — Two powerful bombs blasted Belfast early today and threatened to carry Northern Ireland into a fresh path of blood and destruction.

Hit-and-run raids with bombs are becoming commonplace in Northern Ireland, but previous blasts have been blamed almost exclusively on the Catholic-oriented Irish Republican Army.

If Protestant bomb factories have switched into full gear for massive retaliation against the IRA, the outlook for Ulster — which had been brightening slightly in recent weeks — is grim.

Although no one was injured in today's blasts, police reported the discovery this morning of a man's bullet-riddled body in a house in a Protestant section of Belfast. Guerrilla bombs erected a bar in the Protestant Shankill Road district Thursday, injuring 55 persons.

Late Thursday night another British soldier was killed when an IRA gunman opened fire on a foot patrol in the city's Catholic Falls Road.

The dead man, a 21-year-old corporal, was the 115th soldier to die in Northern Ireland since the troubles began three years ago.

Two British soldiers were seriously injured when a remote-control land mine exploded in West Belfast early today, on a street that lies between the Catholic Falls Road and the Protestant Shankill Road.

In Londonderry, a soldier was in critical condition after being hit in the chest by an IRA sniper.

Asylum Refused Moroccans

RABAT (CP) — About 1,000 men of the Moroccan air force were being detained today in a massive crackdown following an unsuccessful attempt Wednesday on the life of King Hassan II, sources reported.

The sources said the men, attached to Kenitra air base, were being held at an army camp near the air base, 25 miles north of Rabat.

Two top Moroccan air force officers, believed involved in the assassination attempt, were also under arrest here today after Britain refused them asylum in Gibraltar. Thirteen other air force officers were under arrest, the sources said.

Informed sources said Thursday that one of the two who fled to Gibraltar was Lt.-Col. Mohamed Amigrane, until about a month ago the commander of the Kenitra base.

Check Easy

TORONTO (CP) — The public can check the reliability of charter airline companies by calling the Better Business Bureau, a bureau official said Thursday.

Suit Filed Over Times Ad Attacking Nixon

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — A suing sponsors of a controversial advertisement that appeared in the New York Times on May 31 urging the impeachment of President Nixon for his Vietnam policies.

The suit, filed in a U.S. district court in New York by the justice department, was the first to be brought under the terms of the Federal Campaign Election Act of 1971, which took effect in April.

The broad purpose of the new law is to tighten up procedures on the disclosure by election candidate of the source of their campaign funds.

Bill Would Curtail Busing

WASHINGTON (CP) — The House of Representatives passed early today by a vote of 282 to 102 a bill curtailing mandatory busing of children from their home neighborhoods to achieve racially integrated schools.

The bill, which also allows the new curbs to be applied to past court orders for desegregation, is a modification of a Nixon administration measure intended to mollify white parents worried about court orders to bus their children into schools in black districts.

The bill would:

— Prohibit busing except as the last resort for desegregation. Even as a last resort, a child could not be bused farther than the second - closest school to his home.

—Permit school districts already under desegregation orders to petition a court to reopen the case and modify the orders to meet the new restrictions. Most such orders involve Southern U.S. schools.

The busing issue has become the most politically explosive issue of the election in some cities and suburbs, resulting in a number of congressmen with otherwise liberal voting records failing in behind southerners and conservative northerners.

The bill, passed after 13 hours of debate and the consideration of about 24 amendments, still faces an uncertain future in the Senate and a challenge in the U.S. Supreme Court. But by then the election will be over and civil rights forces hope the anti-busing pressure will cool down.

Half of Dockers Approve Settlement

LONDON (CP) — A power struggle between Britain's dock union leader and his militant rivals was building up today as 10,000 London longshoremen prepared to vote on whether to continue their three-week strike.

About half the country's 42,500 dockworkers voted at mass meetings Thursday to comply with the transport union's decision to return to work Monday.

But at the northern port of Liverpool 9,000 men decided to follow the line of the militant National Dock Shop Stewards Committee and continue the strike, called in protest against dwindling dock jobs caused by containerization.

The big test in the power struggle between union leader Jack Jones and the militant shop stewards will come with today's vote by the London dockers.

Militant floor leaders predicted the London men would extend the walkout, making it likely that at least half of Britain's 42,000 dockers would be on wildcat strike when the official strike ends. Militants at Hull, another major port, also believed their men would vote today to stay out.

Fugitive from Millhaven Is Captured in Vancouver

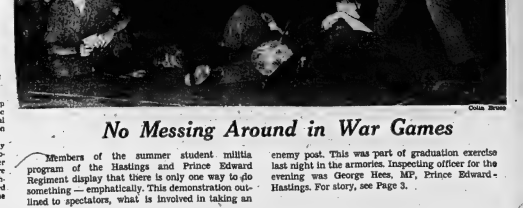
Sgt. Robert Brolly said Constable Klick arrested McCauley while on a routine check of a suspected car theft.

The constable followed two cars from a garage and stopped them near the bridge. One of the cars escaped across the bridge, while the driver of the second produced identification indicating he was a North Vancouver, B.C., man.

During interviews at the bridge, the man struggled with the constable, who then drew his gun and arrested him.



The man was later identified by fingerprints as McCauley.

A search of the car produced $771, a knife, several bullets and four black stocking masks, Sgt. Brolly said.

McCauley was earlier reported in Ottawa.

In Napanee, 45 members of the Ontario Provincial Police continue their search for two of the remaining escapees still believed to be in the area. Chief Inspector John Hillmer said no leads have been received for the past couple of days.

Vancouver Dockers Still Out

VANCOUVER (CP) — Employers and longshoremen's representatives met again Thursday, but no end to the dock dispute appeared in sight as the shut-down moved into its 11th day.

In Ottawa Thursday, Labor Minister Martin O'Connell rejected Premier W. A. C. Bennett's appeal for a declaration of a national emergency.

"It is a very serious problem, but I think to elevate it at this time to status of a national emergency is premature," he said.

Da Nang Shelled

SAIGON (AP) — Communist forces shelled the Da Nang air base and an adjoining village today and shot down an American plane over North Vietnam, the U.S. command announced today.

U.S. B-52 heavy bombers made heavy raids 60 to 80 miles west and southwest of Saigon.

15,000 to Go to India

KAMPALA, Uganda (Reuter) — Up to 15,000 of an estimated 55,000 British Asians ordered to leave Uganda by Nov. 5 are expected to settle in India instead of Britain, diplomatic sources here reported today. Many British Asians — including elderly people who do not want to start fresh in Britain and wealthy members of the community with property in India — have been applying at the Indian high commission here for visas.

Expulsions Widened

KAMPALA (AP) — President Idi Amin of Uganda announced Thursday that Asian professional people previously exempted from the government's expulsion order must also leave the country. He did not say when they must go but implied they will be subject to the same three months' deadline applied to the other Asians.

Agnew to Succeed Nixon?

Republicans Already Split Over '76 Presidential Choice

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Preliminaries for next week's Republican convention are turning into a forum for attacks on Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern and mark the opening stages in the battle for control of the Republican party in 1976.

A floor fight over the shape of the 1976 convention was ensured Thursday when the Republican national committee approved a delegate allotment plan supported by party leaders and party conservatives that favors the smaller, more solid Republican states.

Party moderates, claiming states likely to back Vice President Spiro T. Agnew for the 1976 Republican presidential nomination favor the plan, hope to reverse the action at next week's convention. Even if they fail, the plan is sure to be challenged in the federal courts.

The final public session of the platform committee produced a sharp attack by William Ruckelshaus, the Nixon administration's environmental chief, on McGovern's anti-pollution proposals.

Other Republicans fired a steady barrage of criticism at the Democratic nominee for sending former White House press secretary Pierre Salinger to Paris to determine whether the North Vietnamese still planned to hold all U.S. prisoners until the Vietnam war ends.

No Messing Around in War Games

Members of the summer student militia program of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment display that there is only one way to do something — emphatically. This demonstration outlined to spectators, what is involved in taking an enemy post. This was part of graduation exercise last night in the armories. Inspecting officer for the evening was George Hees, MP, Prince Edward - Hastings. For story, see Page 3.

Sunrise Prepared for Court Unless Town Halts Runoff

By KENNETH SMITH
Staff Reporter

TRENTON (Staff) — Developer Waul Sidor charges that town councillors are wrong when they say his land below Parkside Drive is a swamp. He added that the town is responsible for the bulk of water draining onto the property and consequently for its designation in the official plan as hazard land.

The property west of Hannah Park is earmarked by Sidor and his business partner Gerald Weaver for a 160-home, subdivision and Sidor says engineering studies have shown the land is usable or was before the town installed a four-foot storm sewer near by.

The town feeds the storm sewer on to adjacent property in a ravine below Parkside Drive and this water, says Sidor, flows onto the Sunrise Development's land.

Sunrise, the Weaver-Sidor partnership, has advised the town legal action will be taken if the drainage is not stopped.

Council is investigating its responsibilities in the matter, but councillors have said Trenton should not be held fully responsible for pouring water into a natural water course.

Sidor says all he wants is for the town to correct what it is doing and not to worry about corrections Sunrise itself must be responsible for.

He emphasizes his willingness to settle the issue in a court battle.

Sunrise has another subdivision for 20 homes planned for the hill between Parkside Drive and Parkview Heights. However, this plan must be approved by the Ontario Municipal Board. Development of the 160-lot lowland parcel would follow, again if OMB approval is secured.

Hees, Taylor to Attend Prince Edward Council

PICTON (Staff) — George Hees, MP for Prince Edward-Hastings and James Taylor, MPP for Prince Edward - Lennox, will attend the August session of Prince Edward County Council for an exchange of opinions and ideas.

The meeting will be held in Shire Hall, August 23 at 7:30 p.m. and is open to the public.

A similar meeting was held last year and was attended by Mr. Hees and retired MPP for Prince Edward - Lennox, Norris Whitney.

New Face for Federation

Calls for Long-range Program

From the Toronto Bureau of The Intelligencer

TORONTO (Special) — Ponald Poste of Trenton, newly-elected president of the Ontario Public School Men Teachers' Federation says he wants his executive to develop a clear, long-range goal.

Mr. Poste, principal and teacher at Queen Elizabeth Public School, Trenton for the past 13 years and new principal at Prince Charles Public School, Belleville, was elected Thursday morning.

He said he believes that at 52, he is the youngest president of the federation in its 51-year history.

Mr. Poste said in his pre-election campaign material, "all too often, the rush is to get on the bandwagon, and then find you can't play the instruments. Keeping this in mind, I feel it is necessary for the federation to have a clear long-range goal."

He said the federation must know exactly what it is doing and why.

The priorities, he said, include assistance to teachers on pension, study of the federation - teacher, federation - principal, and teacher principal relationships, and involvement in teacher education.

Mr. Poste said a need exists for a method to exercise the professional responsibility of licensing or registering members.

The provincial three - day conference in Toronto this week was attended by delegates from each area of the federation.

He was first elected a provincial executive member in 1968 and has served as second and first vice-president.

Mr. Poste said his presidential position will necessitate many weekends in Toronto but will not conflict with his work as principal.

Summer Soldiers Reviewed

George Hees, MP for Prince Edward Hastings last night said militia training should be enlarged and expressed his desire that "the federal government should see fit to expand the entire militia program." He was reviewing the summer soldier student program of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment.

Families and regimental officers lined the walls of the Belleville armories last night as 27 ranks — employed through the summer by the militia — were put through their paces during graduating ceremonies.

Mr. Hees was the inspecting officer for the day.

Accompanied by Major Carl Hubel, officer commanding, 'A' Company, the Belleville contingent of the militia, Mr. Hees remained on the reviewing stand while precision drill squads marched back and forth across the parade square.

The program for the evening included demonstrations of every facet of training given to the summer soldiers.

One highlight of the demonstrations were the attacking procedure.

Firing blanks, militia personnel stalked an enemy post, engaged in battle and took prisoners.

The one or two 'wounded' in the battle remained on the floor while first aid teams went to their assistance.

For the first time last night, the inspecting officer had to recognize women in the ranks usually made up of men.

Two of the three girls training with the regiment turned out last night and fell in with their platoon.

Mr. Hees, in his final address to the company said, "this is what we have seen here this evening — is what happens when a fine regiment puts itself to training a fine group of men and women."

"You have shown that you are ready."

Pte. Wayne Murray was awarded the best shot trophy in the group. He scored 85, well above the usual average of 60.

Pte. Murray had not touched the issue weapon before enrolling in the program this summer.

The award for the best recruit was presented to Pte. Douglas Callfas.

A spokesman for the regiment said today that all the men are expected to be returning in the fall to join the regular militia.

Soggy Slap in the Face

Rodney Semova knew there would be days like this — but why it so young an age? The resident of 6 Ernest Court was a willing volunteer for the wet sponge toss, part of last night's Penny Carnival, winding up the city's summer recreation program. By the end of the evening, however, he was having second thoughts, even though most hurlers missed his frowning face. For only a penny, city youngsters threw every thing from sponges to rubber hoops vying for records, balloons and other prizes in the annual Memorial Arena event.

Bloomfield Fire

Cause of the blaze is unknown.

Bloomfield - Hallowell Fire Chief Ralph Ralston said an alarm was called in at 6:30 a.m. by an unidentified woman. Two pumpers and a 1,800 gallon tank truck were rushed to the scene. Mr. Ralston said the blaze apparently started in an upstairs bedroom and spread to a down stairs bedroom directly below it. He noted that firemen used 2,575 gallons of water from the trucks initially, then replenished their supply from Bloomfield gravel pit and from the Baxter Canning Company.

The brick house formerly was owned by well - known cattle breeder Fredrick Hubbs. The new owner, Stephen Fabian of Toronto acquired the house only as a summer residence on weekends. The house was unoccupied at the time of the fire. No estimate of damage has been made as yet. The house is believed to have been covered by insurance.

Finishing Touches

After the initial assault (see front page), attackers search "bodies". Firing blank rounds, a patrol party simulates the procedure of attacking an enemy outpost. George Hees, MP Prince Edward - Hastings, inspecting officer for the graduation ceremonies said, "these people have shown they are ready." A spokesman for the Hastings - Prince Edward Regiment said, "an unusually high percentage of the group will return in the fall to train with the regular militia.

Pinnacle St. Future

Not only would this increase traffic hazards of the kind currently being experienced on North Front Street, where accidents occur frequently, but it would deprive the merchants of a substantial amount of business from shoppers who park on Pinnacle.

It may be argued that the rumored plan is in line with the city's growth and projected traffic patterns and that Pinnacle cannot remain the relatively quiet route it is now. Nevertheless City Council, when it considers this issue — and it likely will do so Monday since a petition has been mailed to the Mayor from the merchants must go into it very thoroughly.

Certainly such a plan contains damaging prospects for the downtown business community. It is reported to have been submitted to the city by the consultant firm of Totten, Sims, Hubicki which is preparing the city's official plan.

Pinnacle Street itself would be affected adversely by the increased traffic flow involved in such a plan. There are a number of businesses along the route, access to which would be placed in jeopardy. What with the illumination of the county buildings and the buses that stop there, not to mention the Quinte Hotel and the tire company's establishment across the street? What about the students from BCI?

There is another, more indefinable, quality about Pinnacle Street and it has to do with its relative solitude and spaciousness. As yet it is only lightly touched by the demands of the automobile (if we may forget rush-hour for a moment) and it is possible to enjoy the scene around the county building for example, with its trees, lawns and flowers. On the sidewalk people wait for the bus and there is the relaxed look of the young people in particular as they sit on the ledge along the wall. All this and much more would go with any conversion of Pinnacle into a two-lane route.

Conservation Needed

Preservation of Ontario shorelines and, where industry and home development exist, the need to maintain a proper balance, are desirable ends and it is encouraging to note the discussions that have been taking place in these spheres.

A meeting in Belleville attended by representatives of the Canada-Ontario-Rideau-Trent-Severn Study (CORTS) and the Lake Ontario Regional Development Council heard references to the urban development that has taken place along both shores of the bay of Quinte and the fact there are no park facilities of any notable no chance remaining to create them.

The meeting also heard a recommendation to the federal and provincial governments that be acquired for parkland the shore routes as Kingston-Adolphustown and Picton-Deseronto and developed for public recreational use.

Already there is concern at the changing face of Highway 33 near Bath because of such developments as the Canada Cement LaFarge plant and the Ontario Hydro station, although it is felt proper landscaping will enhance the surroundings. Doubtless this is so, but on a recent drive along this route we were dismayed by the neglected look of a picnic spot we had used a couple of years ago before all this construction got under way. Once it was a peaceful lookout above some rocks which the visitor could step down to at low tide. Or just sit by the tree on the grassy knoll from where the historic plaque is located that tells of the escape of the British vessel Royal George from an American squadron. Now the bank at this lakeside point overlooking the waters between Prince Edward County and Amherst Island is somewhat overgrown and certainly no longer the pleasant stop-off it has been in the past.

This is one good reason why conservationists should pursue their efforts to maintain the natural beauty of the landscape and coastline of Ontario. There is no time to be lost, for what was once virgin environment has a habit of suddenly sprouting industrial wings that might better come to land elsewhere.

Real Caouette Has Operation

Newfoundland's Jack Pickersgill Is Retiring

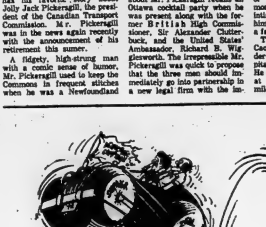
By FARMER TISSINGTON
From The Intelligencer's
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Just about everyone here who has been connected with federal politics during the past number of years has his favorite story about Jolly Jack Pickersgill, the president of the Canadian Transport Commission. Mr. Pickersgill was in the news again recently with the announcement of his retirement this summer.

A fidgety, high-strung man with a robust sense of humor, Mr. Pickersgill used to keep the Commons in frequent stitches when he was a Newfoundland MP and cabinet minister He was especially funny in the years of the Diefenbaker administration when the so-called Three Horsemen—Pickersgill, Paul Martin and Lionel Chevrier—led the liberal attack on Tory cabinet ministers.

One of the favorite anecdotes about Mr. Pickersgill recalls an Ottawa cocktail party when he was present along with the former British High Commissioner, Sir Alexander Cluttterbuck, and the United States Ambassador, Richard B. Wigglesworth. The irrepressible Mr. Pickersgill was quick to propose that the three men should immediately go into partnership in a new legal firm with the impressive title of Cluttterbuck, Wigglesworth and Pickersgill.

Social Credit Leader Real Caouette is alive and reasonably well, despite a stormy visit of Montreal to the contrary. The report indicated Mr. Caouette had undergone a severe operation and would probably be out of action for the next four months of recuperation. It was intimated this might well keep him from active campaigning in a fall federal election.



The "real" truth is that Mr. Caouette had a simple gall bladder operation in a Montreal hospital about the middle of July. He is making a good recovery at his summer cottage a few miles north of his Rouyn-Noranda home. But he expects to be present for the annual provincial meeting of the Alberta branch of the party late in August.

Mr. Caouette has had diabetes for a number of years and takes insulin. But as long as he takes care of himself and gets enough rest each day he does not and seem to be any reason why he cannot carry out a full campaign schedule this fall.

What neither is the Social Credit party you can hardly ignore British Columbia Premier Bennett's decision to hold the provincial election late this month. Mr. Bennett has established a tradition of going to the voters well in advance of the legal electoral deadline. But some Ottawa observers were of the view that Mr. Bennett might have delayed his re-election bid until later because of the possibility of a federal vote soon.

The theory is that Mr. Bennett's main B.C. opponent is the New Democratic Party and the NDP is not as well heeled as Social Credit. The socialists would have been forced to expend much of their money and energy in trying to elect and reelect their B.C. federal representation, leaving them without much gas for a provincial election soon afterwards. For reasons of his own I Bennett decided against this strategy.

The Conservatives, who were wiped out in the province in 1968 had hopes Social Credit might run only a token federal candidates at time. The Tories might to have expected some support from the Bennett organization. But the advent of a rejuvenated provincial Conservative organization has apparently put a stop to that. The Socreadspect to run candidates in all federal ridings and this is only hurt the chances of Conservatives.

Inflation Erodes Economy

Sherbrooke La Tribune: The Trudeau government was elected on promises of the just society and measures to combat inflation. The just society will always remain an ideal to be reached and should not be realized until the government efforts.

As for reduction of inflation, we are forced to admit prices are rising steadily, unemployment follows an ascending curve and nothing indicates it will be slowed down.

At first glance, the drastic solution of the Young prices and incomes commission will not lure all Canadians when it invites them to tighten their belts.

In effect, the principal recommendation of this commission is aimed at establishing a control system on prices and incomes to balance price rises more in line with changing demand conditions.

Such a policy will not produce effective results if it is not endorsed by all Canadians, if it is not applied at all levels.

Moreover, before restraining increases in income, it is necessary to make sure the real income of people is sufficient to give them, the means to deal with current prices.

Many Canadians are in the state next to misery and simple control of prices will not help them contribute to raising their financial or social situation.

To accept the Young commission's prices-incomes-salaries right off would not render justice, particularly to those whose financial income is not sufficient to make both ends meet, and it would enlarge the gap between rich and poor.

If the government adopts these measures, which it certainly won't do before the general election, it will be necessary first to make sure citizens will not be unjustly penalized by this control and will not be forced to continue to live in conditions already unacceptable.

Immigration and Linguistic Problems

A significant percentage of the number of individuals welcomed each year in a given region simply moves on, depending certain areas of a necessary contribution and supervising others.

Let us now consider the immigrant's point of view. When he leaves his country, he does not really leave for Quebec or Ontario but for America. He crosses the seas only to make his fortune as quickly as possible.

On this subject, a growing number of Quebecers are asking if this tendency to move on could not be reduced by forcing the immigrant to integrate more in Franco-Quebec society.

The obligation for an immigrant to send his children to French schools can appear a little stiff at first sight, but if the immigrant really intends to establish himself in Quebec and make his future as possible, it is normal that he would want, just like the English-language old stock, to familiarize himself in the language of the majority.

Ottawa is seeking to readjust its immigration policy in conformity with contemporary requirements. Just recently Mr. Mackasey ordered a general revision of files of candidates for immigration to the country with a objective of softening the requirements.

For a start, Ottawa should also revise timidity on the subject. It still especially see about signalling fears which threaten feed runners of a presumed rigid linguistic policy.

Three-Cornered Conference Will Be Closed to Press

By DON O'HEARN
From The Intelligencer's
Queen's Park Bureau

Good Lord!

A federal-provincial-municipal conference, the first ever, is to be held here in Toronto Nov. 20 and 21.

But the conference is to be closed to the press and public!

This was announced by Mayor Dan Campbell of Whitby, president of the Canadian Federation of Mayors, and has been confirmed by spokesmen for the other levels of government.

Surely this must be ranked as an incredible development.

The meeting is called a "working" conference. At least the municipalities, for one, hope it will be.

They see it as the beginning of a new relationship, the start of a three-partner concept in our system of government.

And that the discussions and conversations leading up to the first conference should not be entirely in the open is no naive as it is fantastic.

What kind of a foundation can there be for such a decision? I know what the thinking is behind the over-all secrecy. It is normal that he would want, just like the English-language old stock, to familiarize himself in the language of the majority.

Ottawa is seeking to readjust its immigration policy in conformity with contemporary requirements. Just recently Mr. Mackasey ordered a general revision of files of candi-

University's Work In Agricultural Sphere

Oak Reporter

Among the agricultural testing services offered from the University of Guelph campus, perhaps the best known is the soil testing service operated by contract basis with the Ontario ministry of agriculture and food. It has served Ontario farmers for three decades, and now handles 50,000 to 60,000 samples a year. In addition, OMAF's veterinary services branch, in the Guelph campus, tests animal carcasses for cause of death.

Two more recently introduced testing services on campus help to meet the needs of farmers with more detailed data for their farm operations. These are the plant tissue testing services offered by the University through the animal and plant resource science, and the feed testing service offered under contract with OMAF through the department of animal and poultry science.

The testing service for plants (which also deals with manure, sewage sludge and other materials) does analysis of the nine elements needed for plant growth.

"The plant analysis' laboratory was originally opened in 1967 for research purposes, gathered with the department of land resource science," says Prof. Jim Smith, who supervises the service. "Last year, however, we began operating it on a fee basis for researchers throughout the university and the public at large.

The lab now handles about 130 samples a week, has five department, and 15 for outside customers. Within a few years, greenhouse growers began using the service to check the success of their fertilizing programs. For them a special soil service is used, but by and large for a small extra charge, they could get data in approximately a week. In the summer, fertilizer companies have used the service extensively for the testing of corn leaves.

"There are more and more samples of manure and sewage sludge being analysed, says Prof. Smith. Farmers and municipal officials are finding the disposal of these materials a problem and want to know what amounts can be applied to spreading on the fields as fertilizer.

The feed testing service, organized by OMAF and operated through the department of animal and poultry science, tests about 2,000 samples a year for protein and dry matter. It has been in operation for four years.

"Farmers send in samples of their forages and grains, and want to feed their livestock," says Prof. Joel Buchanan-Smith, who supervises the testing process. "We do analyses and recommendations for results. An OMAF extension personnel who, in turn, passes the information back to farmers." The charge for the service is $5.

Commercial feeds, however, are not tested. Their nutrient levels are known because the companies that manufacture them and are specified on the package which they sell.

In a separate operation, the testing of research samples collected within the department of animal and poultry science is carried on. "We analyse test feeds, animal substances and occasionally whole carcasses," says Prof. Buchanan - Smith. "We handle about 5,000 samples a year, testing them for ether extract, acid-ether extract, or nitrogen free extract; for dietary fibre and crude fibre; and for ash and mineral substances."

Tomato Crops Also Affected by Rain

Prince Edward County's tomato crops also are being hit by the continued wet weather afflicting much of Ontario's farm industry.

Late ripening of tomatoes threatens to delay canning production schedules, Ronald Hyatt, one of the area's major canners, said today.

A similar situation exists in southwestern Ontario where a report from Chatham says tomato crops likely will be 20 to 25 percent smaller than last year.

In Prince Edward, rains have caused excessive vine growth which is preventing tomatoes from maturing, said Mr. Hyatt, president of Hyatt Canning at Cherry Valley and Virga Foods canning factory at Shannonville.

"And of course, we're holding our breath, hoping we don't get into a late blight or disease," he said.

An in-between situation for canners now exists in the county.

"If the weather gives us a break we're optimistic . . . we've a good crop of tomatoes in Prince Edward," said Mr. Hyatt.

Last year, canning operations were running "fairly steadily" by the last weeks in August. At present, conditions indicate steady production could now be delayed into September, he claims.

In southwestern Ontario, the tomato crop likely will be reduced because of cold wet weather and some fields have not recovered from a heavy June frost, Frank Parry, of Chatham, a past chairman of the Ontario Vegetable Growers' Marketing Board said Thursday.

Up to 8 a.m. today, 2.72 inches of rain had been measured since Aug. 1 at the Canadian Forces Base Trenton weather office. The norm for the month is 2.54 inches.

Despite lighter rains in July the fallout for the summer months to date is running way ahead of averages. In July 3.28 inches fell — compared with 2.29, and 1.84 inches compared to a 2.37 mean in August.

However, elusive sun will shine more frequently in the next few days.

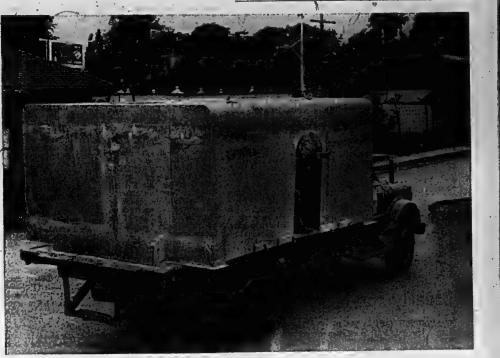
The weekend should be mainly sunny.



Anti-Smoking Posters Helpful

Belleville General Hospital is now graced with anti-smoking posters created by students from three district secondary schools. They are designed to bring to the attention smoking is harmful to patients.

The poster competition was sponsored by the Hastings-Prince Edward Tuberculosis and Respiratory Diseases Association and judged by Dr. T. I. Woodley of the Pulmonary Function Department of the hospital.

Theme was: Smoke. If you must, but not in the hospital". Many different ideas were brought out in the posters.

WEDDINGS

MISS JUDY QUINN daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Quinn, Bridge St. E. Belleville graduated from the Osler School of Nursing recently and has accepted a position at the Belleville General Hospital.

EATON — LATENDRE — Holy Rosary Church was the scene of the August 5 wedding ceremony of Marilyn Anne Latendre, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Latendre. Plaintield, to John A. Eaton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Eaton, Belleville Rev. Karl Clemens, cousin of the bride, was the officiating clergyman. Joan Yanch was organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a floor length empire waisted gown of peau de soie with long sleeves and pearl buttons fastened to the cuffs. Her orange blossom finger tip veil headdress fell to the chapel length train which was attached at the waist by little white roses. She carried a cascade bouquet of red carnations.

The bridesmaids, Mrs. Rosanna Havinga, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Lorna Latendre, sister of the bride wore long A-line dresses in multi-colors of mauve, yellow, pink and green crepe Georgette over taffeta. Mauve wide brimmed hats and white mum bouquets enhanced the la dy gowns. Flower girl, Anne Marie Soules, niece of the bride, wore a long multicolored chiffon dress with mauve sleeves and pearl buttons fastened to the cuffs. Her orange blossom finger tip veil headdress fell to the chapel length train which was attached at the waist by little white roses. She carried a cascade bouquet of red carnations.

Robert Tyndall attended the bridegroom and ushers were Joe Eaton, brother of the bridegroom and Leonard Latendre brother of the bride.

CAUGHEY — ARMSTRONG — Rev. Father O'Rourke officiated at the recent wedding ceremony in St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church, Oshawa, of Janice Elaine Armstrong, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl J. Armstrong, Belleville and Bruce E. Caughey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace E. Caughey, Plainfield.

The bride given in marriage by her father wore a sleeveless floor length gown of white silk polyester with a shirred bodice. A white picture hat enhanced her gown and she carried a bouquet of red roses, with white mums and baby's breath interspersed with white ribbon.

The maid of honor, Miss Barbara Armstrong, sister of the bride, selected an empire waist floor length gown of yellow floral chiffon over taffeta with a matching picture hat trimmed with yellow floral chiffon. She carried a bouquet of yellow mums and daisies with yellow ribbon.

For the reception held at Hotel Eastview in Vankleek Ontawa, the bride's mother received guests wearing a long sleeved floor length gown of lilac polyester crepe with silver accessories. A corsage of pink carnations and baby's breath trimmed with pink ribbon completed her attire.

Mr. and Mrs. Caughey will reside at 335 Brittany Dr., Ottawa.

SINCLAIR — COURNEYA — TWEED — A double-ring wedding ceremony was solemnized in St. Carthage's Church, Tweed, recently, when Dean C. F. Baker united in marriage Judith Anne Courneya, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clovis Courneya of Tweed, and William Alexander Sinclair, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Sinclair of Maple (formerly of Tweed). The wedding music was played by Peter Marchen of Toronto. Mrs. Gwen Kingston of Tweed was soloist.

Maid of honor, Miss Mary Courneya, sister of the bride, selected a white floor-length gown of polyester cotton flocked material with a background of purple star burst flowers, featuring a square neckline and short butterfly sleeves. A dark purple velvet ribbon encircled the empire waist to form a bow with long streamers at the centre back. Her headpiece consisted of two purple and mauve flowers and leaves. She carried a bouquet of yellow daisies, yellow baby roses and purple carnations with baby's breath.

The bridesmaids were Miss Dally Courneya, sister of the bride, Mrs. Diane Gerrish, Toronto, and Miss Lynn Chisholm, of Roslin, who selected mauve colored gowns and headdresses identical in design to that of the maid of honor. The flower girl was Miss Rochelle Courneya, sister of the bride, who wore a gown of white and carried a basket of flowers.

Groomsman was Glen Sinclair, brother of the bridegroom, of Maple, Ontario. The ushers were Paul Courneya, brother of the bride, Toronto; Dennis Brunner, Ottawa and John Robertson, Kingston.

Following the wedding ceremony, a reception was held in the Land O'Lakes Curling Club, Tweed, where the bride's mother received the guests attired in a floor-length gown of armel jersey. White accessories and a white gardenia corsage enhanced her ensemble. The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a yellow floor length of polyester crepe of A-line design. She chose matching yellow accessories, a white gardenia corsage and headpiece of yellow gold braid.

For a wedding trip to the Maritimes, the bride selected a two-piece set of navy blue, and red and white seersucker, consisting of a sailor top, and large flared pants, with matching red accessories and corsage of red carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Sinclair will reside at 216 Essex Avenue, Apt. 427, Richmond Hill, Ontario.

Gets New Ring

MONTREAL (CP) — The McArdles got married again — for the second time — to celebrate their golden wedding anniversary. Mrs. McArdle is especially pleased about the new wedding ring her husband gave for the occasion because she lost her original one on their 10th anniversary and had been wearing a makeshift ring ever since. "I've finally got another one that came to me through the ceremony," she said after their marriage which was conducted by their son Joseph, a Jesuit priest.

Conservation Awards Presented

TWEED — Laura Lee Lloyd R. R. 1, Cloyne, is one of eight girls and 24 boys who have received 1972 junior conservation awards. She is sponsored by the Napanee Region Conservation Authority and the girls are working as a group and living in a 100 year old farmhouse without electricity which is owned by the Sasgeen Valley Conservation Authority at Hanover.

The program is sponsored by the Ministry of Natural Resources and has been under the conservation authorities branch since it was started in 1966. This year, there are 32 teenagers from Ontario who are participating in the program.

The students spend six weeks in the program. The first week was spent at the Albion Hills Conservation Area where they received an intensive educational course in such resource management techniques as map reading, water pollution testing, compass reading, basic forestry and surveying. Upon completion of the course, they were divided into four groups to work independently on assigned projects.

The program involves a normal hard day's work six days a week for which students receive $5 per day plus room and board. In their spare time they have plenty of opportunities to learn more about the environment and its preservation and conservation. They also have time for varied recreational activities from fishing to canoeing and from swimming to hiking to camping out.

At the Sasgeen Valley Conservation Authority, the leader of the eight girl's is Mary Powell, a York University graduate student in environment studies.

"The Junior Conservationist Award Program has proven to be an excellent means of introducing serious, conservation minded young people to the day-to day resource management situation in Ontario," said Hon. Leo Bernier, Minister of Natural Resources. "We are pleased to provide these students with this opportunity, and we are confident that the experience will stand them in good stead in achieving any aspirations they may have in this field".

School Open to Women

PARIS (Reuter) — One of France's last traditional male bastions, the military-run Ecole Polytechnique, has fallen to a woman—at the first attempt.

The ecole, France's most influential school, opened its doors to women this year for the first time, and 19-year-old Anne Chopinet has finished first in the tough entrance examinations.

This rank traditionally assumes its holder will have a brilliant career through some of the highest public or private posts in the country offers.

Miss Chopinet, of Paris, had an over-all score in the examination of 2,246—15 points ahead of her nearest competitor, Patrick Merle.

There were seven other girls in the class of 300 and one of these, Ta Ta Thuy from Vietnam, finished first among the foreign entrants.

The school, formed by Napoleon to train an elite of officers, high functionaries and engineers, is run by the military authorities. It is one of the last of France's major schools to admit women.

School officials said after the examination results were announced that none of the careers the polytechnique traditionally leads to—including the army—will be closed to Miss Chopinet.

Preview for Baby Sitting

Little Michael Cross, who attends St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Day Care Nursery is quite enthused with a turtle much he shows to several of the 13 girls who have recently received their Canada Safety Council of Baby-sitters' training course certificates. Keeping an eye on the pet also are Debbie Wilton, 15; Pamela Woodley, 13; Debbie Latowski, 12, and Leslie Morgan, 13, who received their certificates. Mrs. Ann Pearson will be accepting calls at the church for anybody-sitting jobs and anyone wishing to call may reach her at 968-8586.

Medical Examination Procedure Questioned

By DORIS CLAIRE

Dear Doris: Does a doctor no longer require a nurse present when doing an internal examination on a married woman? We have found this very upsetting to the husband to feel that another man was alone with his wife in such a position, even if he was a doctor. This can make him feel that his is no longer his private property, and be disturbing to a happy marriage.

Also, is it acceptable for the husband to be present for the examination if no one else is there? — Any Restrictions?

Dear Any: My medical consultant assures me there is no legal requirement that there should be anyone present with the doctor during an internal examination. At the same time, the doctor usually wants a nurse or secretary there at least some of the time (1) to comfort a nervous patient and (2) to protect the doctor from any unreasonable accusations which have been known to happen later on a patient later.

The man who brings his wife to be examined is surely showing confidence in the doctor, medically and morally.

If a person is nervous or very young the mother is often invited into the room; and in the same spirit the husband might well be present. This is a matter for discussion between family doctor, patient and husband.

Dear Doris: I am 17 and hit it off with this guy 21. We became quite serious from the beginning. As time went on we became very close and we ended up going all the way twice.

Then I told him how ashamed I felt and scared and he promised this would not happen again. We tried hard but became so frustrated from not even being able to kiss for fear something would happen. So, of course, we went all the way again.

He has said he is not sure of his love for me and he loves me. For my part, I am very sure of my love for him and even though I know this will happen again I can't bring myself to break up with him.

Can someone love you one minute and not the next? — Still Hoping

Dear Still Hoping: Not usually — not the matter. I care more - about - your - happiness - than - anything kind of love. And when the two persons are young, the love still has to be tested.

I can't see any solution for you but to break away, get him to take out some other girls and give him a few months — maybe a year or two — to be sure of his feelings. Meanwhile, do the same thing yourself — and hold him off!

Dear Doris: I have quite long hair and it is oily. For quite a while now it has been falling out at the roots.

I would like to know if there is any way I can stop these problems without getting my hair cut. — Melissa

Dear Melting: The best way I know to keep healthy hair is to keep healthy all over.

How long is it since you had a medical check-up? Are you eating all the right things? Do you get enough rest? And to strengthen the hair roots, have you thought of that old-fashioned sure-fire method — brush 100 strokes daily?

I am told hair falls out in cycles, and there may be something to this — but the remedy I recommend is taking care of your health.

I am sending you my leaflet "On Being Well Dressed" which supplies some important ideas on hair care. (Available to other readers for 20 cents and stamped, self addressed envelope.)

The study received a $4,000 grant from the solicitor - general's department.

Ann Landers

The Other Man Also Rates Letter

Dear Ann Landers: You have printed many letters in your column from the Other Woman. Why is it that you have never published an letter from the Other Man? Surely you know he exists. I'd like to address a few remarks to the gentlemen.

Dear Sir: Do you think I am stupid that I do not know about you? Do you think you has selected to follow you? True, I have never confronted her with the evidence. I have managed to be pleasant when we meet, but I know very much aware of your presence.

You will be relieved to know I am not angry, upset or dangerously dangerous. I accept you, as I have accepted the others.

I have also stopped blaming myself. I realize now that my wife's insatiable need for attention is an illness and no reflection on my manhood. She is a good mother and except for her nymphomania she's a good wife. A sweeter and more generous person never lived. She's more considerate of my mother than our sisters. Everyone loves her. I needn't tell my initials. You know who I am, I just wanted you to know that I know the wholesome intake that he bring you and you, too. Thanks for the printed many letters in your forum, Ann Landers. — Her Husband

Dear Husband: Just when I think I've heard everything I get a letter like yours. As my grandmother used to say, "There's somebody for everybody." Meanwhile, on the Other Woman's behalf:

Dear Ann Landers: Too long the cheating husband has been getting away with murder—telling lies at home and sneaking to his mistress as well. "My wife is not sympathetic. I've got to be patient, etc." This letter is to the Other Woman who sighed herself, "Sorry. You saw him First."

Dear Woman: I'm sorry you didn't see him first, too. When you wrote to me, although Ann Landers' column you pleaded with me to let my husband go so you two could make a great life together. If I knew who you were, I'd gift wrap the jerk and send him special delivery. Since I don't know who you are—and you know who I am—will you

Dear Ann Landers: Nine years ago I married a soldier who was stationed at a nearby base. It was a terrible mistake. I was too young. We were divorced two years later when our baby was only five weeks old. Six years have passed and I am now married to a wonderful man. He is the only father Lisa has ever known.

Following the advice in your column, we told Lisa that this daddy adopted her. She keeps asking if she can see her real daddy one day. We don't know what to tell her. He has never sent the child so much as a greeting card since he left. We will be within 50 miles of his home this summer when we take a camping trip. Shall we contact him and arrange for Lisa to see her real daddy? — Wara Mosher

Dear Wara: The less said about him the better. His lack of interest speaks volumes. Let us see me? I want to repeat this offer in his presence.

Believe me, I'd welcome you with open arms. I'd make coffee. We could have an honest conversation, and insist that he choose between us.

And so help me, I hope he chooses you because I've had it.

Dear Had It: Here's your letter and it's a lulu. No doubt it will be considered an unspeakable traitor by cheating husbands everywhere, but I think you've hit on a neat solution. (The score is now Christians 10, Lions 0.)

Women's Institutes

QUINTE WI

Rather than the regular meeting, the Quinte Women's Institute took a bus trip in the summer cottage of Mrs. E. A. Fleming at Otty Lake, near Perth where all enjoyed a delicious potluck dinner. Preparations were made to have dinner on the spacious lawn near the water, but due to rain, dinner was served in the cottage.

After the meal, the members toured Mr. Cameron's blacksmith and woodworking shop where displays were shown, and Mr. Cameron commented on some of the marvellous wood carvings.

Before returning home all visited the Lanark knitted goods shop which specializes in a well-known brand of knitwear.

The 65th anniversary of the Quinte WI was recently celebrated at the hall which was appropriately decorated for the occasion with the tea table adorned with cutwork tablecloth enhanced with golden candles and the anniversary cake.

Pouring tea for the occasion were Mrs. Noble Brown and Mrs. Harry Grills. The first vice - president Mrs. Jack McLaren was chairman for entertainment which consisted of a variety program. Included was a piano duet by Mrs. J. Parrott and Mrs. George Ashley, a vocal duet by Fred and Arnold Mitchell, and to conclude the program members put on a little play entitled "Fall Fair" which was most humorous.

Mrs. Parrott gave a history of the branch and listed the various past presidents and the years they served.

Mirror of Your Mind

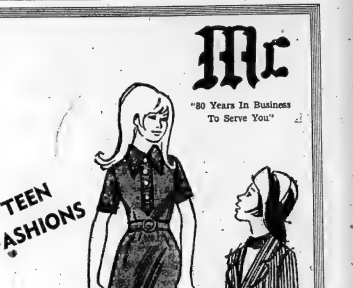
by JOHN CONWELL

Are children judged too quickly?

* YES; they are always "on display." Let a child be a little slow to share a toy, for instance, and he is called selfish. Often the one who is acting as the child's judge would be the first to plead for understanding if he were observed doing some of the things he does only because he is sure nobody knows about them. Perhaps, does only because he is sure nobody knows about them. Perhaps, too, when children do something they shouldn't, the governing should be touched by a twinge of guilt about his own behavior.

Could psychiatry decrease skylacking?

ONLY if every potential skylacker were to get the mental help he needs even before he contemplates taking over a plane. Nor would it do much good to require that all jet plane pilots be wedding candidates or psychologists so that they could remain with a skylacker and also be able to tell if he is indeed capable of carrying out his threat. Even if a therapist could confront a skylacker in action, the time is too short and the risk too great.



Is love enough to remain faithful?

NOT only is love enough, it is the only motive strong enough for a man and a woman to want to remain faithful to each other. No matter how intense, fights, nagging, jealousy, misunderstanding, disinterest, etc.—all these forces look their combined power to destroy a spouse to give in to the temptation of infidelity, if love is present. Marital love is total commitment: If a spouse is unfaithful to his wife, he is also unfaithful to himself.

"80 Years In Business To Serve You"

Cannifton Couple Mark 50th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Farnham of Cannifton were 'At Home' to a large number of relatives, friends and neighbors to mark the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary on July 29, 1972 at St. Mark's United Church Hall. The couple was married on August 1, 1922 by Rev. Enos Farnsworth at Canniffon United Church Parsonage. The attendants were Pearl Honeywell and Charles Wessels.

Greeting the guests with Mr. and Mrs. H. Farnham were their three daughters: Mrs. Harold Deneke (Ruth); Mrs. Claudia Wilson and Mrs. Wm. McMurter (Marjorie).

The couple received many lovely gifts along with a money tree which was presented by the family. Many beautiful floral arrangements were received and suitably arranged.

Messages of congratulations were read by Rev. Jack Morrison from Prime Minister Trudeau, Hon. Robert L. Stanfield, Premier William Davis, Lee Grills M.P.; Clarke Rollins M.P.P and Lieutenant Governor of Ontario, Ross Macdonald. A phone call was received from England from Miss Doreen Reynolds extending her best wishes.

Mrs. Clare Horton played suitable music throughout the afternoon and Mrs. Manley Mitchell during the evening.

A delicious tea arranged by the Carmel-Canniffon U.C.W. was served by several of the granddaughters. There were 12 grandchildren and one grandson (in law) present for the occasion.

Mrs. Doris Ellsworth supervised the decorating of the church hall. A three-tiered wedding cake made by Marjorie McMurter and decorated in gold by Doreen Reynolds formed the centerpiece for the table with a gold candelabra and gold candles on either side.

Mrs. Jessie Howard and Mrs. Bessie Pound assisted with unwrapping the gifts.

Fashions for Over 40 Now Take Limelight

TORONTO — Women over 40, too long neglected in fashion because of the young, are back in the limelight again.

Few fashion shows have been held strictly for mature women over the past few years. Very few.

Now that classic clothes are back again, women over 40 are getting some attention. And why not? Simplicity, good cut and quality fabrics are the keynotes to their chic way of dressing. They have more money to spend on clothes than the young and don't mind investing in good fashion.

"The shows have been designed to give a positive answer to many women in the prime of their life who are fond of saying 'There are no clothes for me in the market place. Or, if there are, I have great difficulty finding them'," says Norma Wild goose, fashion co ordinator.

"The clothes are for women who are readers. Women over 40 are sensitive. They don't like being called matronly and more than many homemakers enjoy being referred to as housewives.

"Mature women," she adds, "should avoid long blunt falls and skirts that are too short. They should go for softer cuts in hair and wear trousers that are a little easier so they will not look too tight."

Minnie Charlish, a buyer for Ira Berg Ltd., points out that women over 40 should avoid faddish styles. They should look for something that is elegant and sophisticated.

"They want to look feminine," she says, "not matronly but elegant.

"The very young can wear almost anything and get away with it but it's a different story with the older women. "When I buy a dress for myself, I want people to say that I look nice rather than saying what a nice dress I'm wearing. I feel the mature woman strives for this.

"Many mature women make the mistake of wearing drab, muddy colors," she says. "They are better off wearing soft colors such as blush rose, beiges and pale greens that are more flattering to their complexions.

"Smart fashions and good make up technique can make women look younger.

The older woman should avoid the layered way of dressing, too dresses and coats, ruffles, big pockets and large prints.

"Short women should wear A line dresses, skirts and coats.

"The focal point is where they are smallest. If they are short and hippy, dresses left ed above the waist are good because they give them a longer looking skirt which adds height.

"Tall women don't have as many clothes problems as the short ones. Almost everything looks good on them.

"If they are very tall, they can have clothes altered for them or have them specially ordered to get the right fit.

Accessories are important for pulling elegant looks together.

Mature women look a little silly wearing purple or orange stockings to match or contrast with their outfits. They should stick to the pale beiges or dark stockings for a more conservative look.

Hats are very becoming to women over 40 and there'll be lots of variety from turbans to fedoras to add ... ing touches to their outfits for fall.

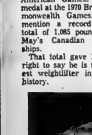
Getting There Half the Fun

by



Maurice Switzer

Sports Editor

When Price Morris lifts his last competitive weight some years from now, the stocky Frankford strongman will have more than one athlete's share of pleasant memories to look back on.

There have been five Canadian championships, four bronze medals at the 1971 Pan-American Games, a bronze medal at the 1970 British Commonwealth Games, not to mention a record three-lift total of 1,065 pounds at last May's Canadian championships.

That total gave Morris the right to say he is the strongest weightlifter in Canadian history.

PRICE MORRIS

Ironically, of all the accomplishments, records and just plain fun Morris has had representing Belleville's Apollo Barbell Club and coach Ken Carr-Brainl, the one he may most remember — participation in the 1972 Munich Olympic Games — is a losing cause from the word go.

Because "amateur" in general and weightlifting in particular, are largely ignored in favor of high - priced professional attractions in this part of the world, Morris has to do his training in coach Carr-Brainl's Boswell St. garage, and is taking a three-week leave of absence — minus pay — to represent his country in the 1972 Olympics.

All this trouble for a competition in which he knows he could finish no better than tenth.

"I had been hoping to finish in the top six — to get a point in the standings for Canada," said Morris, in the midst of packing for his departure from Montreal Sunday for Munich with the rest of other members of Canada's small weightlifting contingent.

"But from the magazines I've been reading, I'll be lucky to finish in the top ten."

"No — I don't find the lifts differences discouraging." But what bothers me is when I read things like Redman's donating $185,000 to the equestrain team and I can't get $200 in wages."

In fact, if it wasn't for support from persons like the Belleville Yardmen's Benefit Fund, Trenton Rotarians, and Frankford's Lower Trent Valley Fish and Game Club, Price Morris would even be making the trip to Munich.

"It's not the getting there that costs me anything — the government looks after that all right. But somebody's got to put bread on my family's table."

"I was reading that some Russians made 25,000 rubles — I think that's about $8,000 — for breaking a record. I've been assisted, but if you don't go out and kiss somebody's — well, you don't get anything."

"If you do something for your country, your country should do something for you. The key is incentive. If you get incentive, you get participation, and if you get that, you get better performances.

"But to me, it's a success to go. Anyone I've talked to says that competing in the Olympics is 10 times the thrill of anything they've ever done. It's been my goal to make the Olympics — the ultimate."

He's still only 30, yet in 17 years since he first took up weightlifting, Price Morris has done more for his sport — and his country's athletic reputation, than most could ever hope to do.

He's done as much as one man can, do, but that's the problem: one man can't do it.

That would have been the day she left for Munich with the Canadian archery team, but she fell short of her goal at the qualifying trials in Regina.

She consoles herself with the knowledge that "I'm just a baby in archery," referring to the fact that she only took up the sport in 1968.

She was Canadian women's champion in 1967 and 1968 and the upcoming Olympic Games mark the first time she has not qualified for a Canadian international team since 1967, in that period she has been eligible to represent her country in three world championships and five Ambassador Cup bouts with the United States.

CAROL ARMSTRONG

Mrs. Armstrong missed her chance to compete at Munich by the narrowest of margins. To qualify, the six top archers had to have four Olympic rounds of 1,100 (men) and 1,050 (women) points.

Mrs. Armstrong had three, and five in the 1080s.

But there's always next summer's world championships at Grenoble, France to aim for, and, of course, the 1976 Montreal Olympics.

She will be participating in the Recreation Department's winter archery program, beginning in October.

Todd Takes Title

Erma Todd gives a post-championship demonstration of her bowling style that won her the Provincial Ladies' Singles title yesterday at the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club. The Port Colbourne native won the day-long competition handily in her first year for singles play at the provincial level.

Printers Ousted By Cobourg Juniors

A brief moment of elation was too much for the Belleville Ellis Juniors in their third and deciding game with Cobourg in the OASA Junior A playdowns as the locals bowed out of further competition after a 5-2, 10-inning loss.

The Ellis nine broke up a pitcher's duel with a pair of runs in the seventh inning but their jubilation was short lived when their visitors from Cobourg came up with two of their own in the eighth, sending the game into extra innings. It was game over as far as the Printers were concerned however as Cobourg tore into them for three runs in the first extra frame, ending further Ellis OASA hopes.

Singles from pitcher Al Fenton and Dennis Smith, a double from John Clarey and a costly throwing error provided the visitors' winning margin in the tenth.

Steve Campbell's single, a walk to Wayne Andrews and Terry Meagher's two-run single gave the home team the lead in the seventh before the roof fell in.

Fenton went the distance for last year's Junior B Ontario champions, allowing only six hits. He walked three Printer batters and walked one.

Ron Hill was the losing pitcher for Belleville, fanning six and walking three. Terry Meagher had three-singles for the losers with Hill, Glenn Carlton and Campbell adding the other hits, all singles.

The local juniors had opened the best of three series with a 16-3 win at home before dropping a 9-1 decision in Cobourg to force last night's deciding game.

Erma Todd Can Go It Alone

By RANDY DERBY
Sports Staff

It's taken Erma Todd 27 years to venture into the singles competition of the Ladies' Provincial Lawn Bowling Championships and when she finally did, it gained her a trip to Montreal and the National Finals.

Mrs. Todd made it look easy in the Provincial Championships held at the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club Thursday, sweeping to the singles' title and the Ray R. Knight trophy in convincing fashion.

The Port Colbourne native recorded a three-win total of 43 to easily outdistance competition from three other district winners.

"I've been at the national finals four other times but always in the doubles with Loretta Taylor so this year I decided to try it alone," commented the blonde bowler who drew applause with her decisive shots and bowling knowledge.

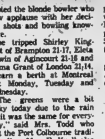
She tripped Shirley Kingshott of Brampton 21-17, Gleta Frewin of Agincourt 21-18 and Norma Grant of London 21-14, to earn a berth at Montreal next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

"The greens were a bit tricky today due to the rain but it was the same for everybody," said Mrs. Todd who kept the Port Colbourne tradition alive. Mrs. E. Knoll also of Port Colbourne was last year's provincial champion.

The Lloyd Spalding Memorial Trophy awarded to the provincial doubles champs went to Millie Kipp and Shirley Otis of Woodstock. The pair had a three-win total of 58 to emerge victorious over three other teams.

Skip Eve Hodkinson and partners Kenny Watt and J. Armstrong survived a three-end, sudden death play-off with Mrs. Bond's Simcoe trio to win the trebles competition and the Don Taylor Memorial Trophy.

Competitors from Kingston, London, St. Catharines, Hamilton, Oshawa, Brampton, Agincourt and Port Colbourne attended the championships.



Parks Aces Marysville 4th

Grant Parks shot an eagle Wednesday afternoon but he won't have to worry about reminiations from bird-watchers society.

The Belleville fireman fired a hole - in - one at his home Belleville Golf and Country Club, the first such shot this year and fourth in the Marysville course's two-year history.

Playing with fellow firefighter Ron Hiles, Parks pushed his three-iron shot just short of the green on the 185-yard par-three fourth hole and watched it roll into the cup for the ace. He earned a dozen golf balls from the club for his feat

The three previous holes-in-one had been at the 155-yard, par-three 12th hole, shortest on the course.

"That's the third time you've been by a week, Hawkins! I don't think you could win on a ziffle!"

Dea Gets Job

DETROIT (CP) — Former forward Billy Dea of the National Hockey League has been hired as coach and manager of Detroit Junior Wings of the Southern Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, it was announced Thursday.

Dea, 29, completed a 10-year professional career as a player last season with Tidewater Tides of the American Hockey League. He played in the NHL with New York, Detroit, Chicago and Pittsburgh.

Mead Johnson Squirts Overcome Late Boots

The Mead Johnson squirts must have been thinking of football in their second Ontario Amateur Softball Association meeting with Pakenham as they booted the ball six times but at the final gun the Belleville boys still had the winning touchdown.

Meads weathered the load of bobbling balls to nip the home team 3-2, giving the locals the best-of-three third-round series in straight games. It was the ninth O.A.S.A. victory without a loss for Meads.

Meads hopped off to a 3-0 lead but errors allowed Pakenham to close the gap before Tim Soule doused the fire with a pair of seventh-inning strikeouts.

Andy Rossi had a double for the winners' only extra-base hit while John Cherney and Tim Soule had a pair of singles each. Paul Soule, Dave Urch, Ron Hodge and Darrell Colman all singled to round out Belleville's nine-hit surge.

Soule wound up with a six-hitter and nine strikeouts. He allowed triples to A. Stewart and opposing pitcher Jeff Donner for Pakenham's only hitting threats.

Chenier fanned seven in a losing cause.

Meads now meet the winner of the Cobourg-Port Hope series in the fourth round of the playdowns.

As a warm-up for the next series the locals will be travelling to Barrie for a tournament this Saturday. Downtown, one of the two teams to beat Meads this year, will supply the first opposition at 10:30 a.m.

Tykes Crash Age Barrier

One team started in the right direction but four others were left at the crossroads in a trio of Belleville Minor Baseball play-off games Thursday night.

The Mel Barriage tykes weren't impressed by the Kinmen peewees and stopped their older counterparts 12-7 to take the initial contest of their best-of-three series.

John Dent and Curtis LaBelle hurled a three-hitter for the tykes, fanning five and walking five. Brian Cronkright smashed a triple and single while Shawn Mulroney, Garth Scully and Dale McTaggart had three singles apiece for the EOBA tyke finalists.

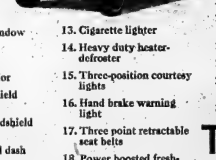
In another peewee contest, Eagne Masonary staved off elimination and forced a third and deciding game by doubling up Motorland Chrysler 10-5.

Wally Gagne had a double and two singles to lead the winners hitting attack while Terry Kingsman produced three singles in a losing effort.

In tadpole play-offs the Kinsmen also forced a third and deciding game by tripping Bob's Sports 10-7.

Sharks Cruise Peewee Playoffs



Sharks were usually the scourge of the ocean but Belleville had a Red Shark that patrolled the city ball diamonds Thursday.

The Red Shark peewees moved into the finals of the Belleville Minor Softball League peewee play-offs with a convincing 14-3 victory over Western Tire.

Ward Morieon threw the win, fitting shutout ball until the seventh frame when the Sharkmen erupted for all five of their runs.

HAMILTON (CP) — The new World Hockey Association, which to date has signed up more than 25 National Hockey League players, now appears to have its sights on NHL referees and linesmen.

Bill Friday, a referee with 10 years service in the NHL, said Wednesday he is among those seriously considering moving to the new pro league, and indicated that as many as half the NHL's 14 referees and 16 linesmen may be doing likewise.

"We are negotiating, but nothing is settled yet," Friday said in an interview.

"If they come up with the bread I'll be going. After all I've got a wife and five kids and if I can double my salary — well, you don't have to think twice."

The average salary in the NHL is $18,000 for referees, but senior men like Friday earn in the $25,000 range.

Bruins Moving

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League announced Thursday plans for construction of a new 18,000-seat arena. Weston Adams, Bruins president, said there was no estimate yet of the probable cost, and that a site had not been selected. He said it is hoped to build the arena in the central city. It would be privately financed as a joint venture by the Garden Arena Corp., main tenant of the Boston Garden, and by the 128 Trust of Boston, the Garden landlord.

EHL for Farms?

WINNIPEG (CP) — Teams from the new World Hockey Association and Eastern and Eastern Hockey League franchises as possible farm clubs. A spokesman for owner Ben Hatskin of Winnipeg Jets said Thursday the Jets and New England Whalers have negotiated an agreement and players may ver contract to Springfield, Mass. The EHL entry there is to be known as New England Blades.

Park Rejoins Camp

TORONTO (CP) — Defenceman Brad Park, injured Wednesday during a Team Canada practice, was released from hospital Thursday and was expected to rejoin the team this morning.

"Whether I scrimmage or not depends on how I feel," the 24-year-old defenceman for New York Rangers said Thursday night. "I'm a lot better now."

Park was hit on the cheekbone when the puck from a Dennis Hull slapshot deflected off a stick. He was unconscious for about two minutes.

Meanwhile, Team Canada made up of stars from the National Hockey League, continued scrimmaging Thursday in preparation for their hockey series with the Soviet Union, beginning in Montreal Sept. 2.

A few players missed practice Thursday. Phil and Tony Esposito were excused for business commitments. Yvan Cournoyer missed the morning practice and Paul Henderson and Rod Gilbert dropped out in the afternoon with minor ills.

Goaltender Michel Larocque also missed the afternoon session after being hit in the groin area by a shot.

Friday said that NHL referee-in-chief Scotty Morrison "knows the figure I've been offered and I haven't heard from him in the past 10 days, so I guess he doesn't intend to increase my contract."

Friday said that "probably not 50 per cent" of the NHL's referees and linesmen have received their contracts.

Morrison agreed that "all of my officials have not signed up for the year."

"I'm aware that some are negotiating with the WHA—they have to get them someplace and we have the best ones."

Morrison said he doesn't "want to lose any, if possible," but "if the defectors are referees we have some who are trained as linesmen who could move up."

Friday, who said "something should be finalized within the next few days" in his negotiations with the WHA, cited a reason other than money that plays a part in the officials' thinking about changing leagues—the use of amateur officials for the Canada-Canada hockey series.

Four American referees, one with Central Professional Hockey League experience, the others coming from college ranks, will handle the games in Canada and two West Germans, one Czech and a Swede will officiate at games in Russia.

"A lot of us NHL officials are disappointed," said Friday. "I think our referees' association should have really caused a big stink about this."

Is Friday taking a chance if he elects to join the WHA

"I'm sure the league won't fold—there's too much work and money gone into it. But I'd like to think I'd be welcomed back to the NHL in that eventuality."

Meads Blind Optic Batters

American Optical weren't seeing anything but the bare facets in last night's Industrial Softball League play-off action as Mead Johnson's avenged the earlier loss by blanking the Optics 5-0.

Losers of their first encounter to AOCO 4-1, Meads stormed back behind the five-hit pitching of Ken Osbourne. Both teams have identical 2-1 records in the division with Osborne's portion of the double round-robin series.

Osbourne struck out five and walked one for the divi-

Grill Start Stays Good

A good start is half the race in track and field but Cosy Grill made it the whole race in winning their first Belleville and District Ladies Softball League play-off game Thursday night.

The Grill girls exploded for 12 runs in the first frame and then settled back to enjoy a 15-3 win over the Bland-Reid Barn.

Suzanne Fobert threw a five-hitter for the winners, striking out three and walking three. Verna Hill led Fobert's supporting cast with a triple and three singles with Beth Palmer adding four singles. Cathy Brown threw safeties and Sharon Francis and Carol Merrill a double and two singles each.

Jonas Tosses Three

Bombers Blast B. C. Lions 39-7

VANCOUVER (CP) — Head coach Jim Spavital, assessing Winnipeg's 39-7 thumping of British Columbia in a Western Football Conference game Thursday night, said his Blue Bombers team "really took it" to the Lions.

Seven interceptions, three fumbles and assorted gridiron mishaps committed by the Lions turned the game into a walkaway for the Bombers. But Spavital preferred to talk about his club's offensive performance.

"Our ground attack really opened up our passing game," the Winnipeg coach said. "It enabled our receivers to get open deep."

Winnipeg quarterback Don Jonas, last year's most valuable player in the Canadian Football League, fired three touchdown passes in the first half.

He opened up the game on

When the Lions moved up to stop the run, Jonas switched to his aerial attack, finding receivers open all over the field to total 225 yards passing.

"But give some credit to our defence, they played a fine game," Spavital said. "We had good pass rush, and our defensive backs did a good job."

Canadian Ken Ribbins, who is playing his first season at defensive half and his second with the Bombers, picked off four passes, giving him a total of seven this season.

"So far, luck has been with me," Ribbins said. "I've pearsed a lot from the other defensive backs, especially Doug Strong."

Panasiuk in Command

HULL, Que. (CP) — Crowdpleasing Bob Panasiuk of Tecumseh, Ont., held a healthy three-stroke lead in the 72-hole Canadian Professional Golfers' Association championship Thursday with an opening round eight-under-par 64.

Panasiuk, 30, joked happily with a troop of about 250 fans as he finished up to a six-under-par 30 on the back nine of the 6,380-yard Rivermead golf course, boosting the most cut 34 he shot on the first nine holes.

SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — John Schlee has a share of the lead going into today's second round in the $200,000 USI Golf Classic because he went against his caddy's advice.

"I went back to putting cross handed," Schlee said after carding five strokes off par with 69 in Thursday's first round, giving him a share of the top spot with Tommy Aaron.

Gary Bowerman of Toronto shot par 72, but two other Canadians, George Knudson of Toronto and Ken Pullen of Montreal, must improve in the second round if they are to survive the cut for the final 36 holes.

WINNIPEG (CP) — Karl Hulteng of Eugene, Ore., received a eight on the final hole Thursday to take a one-stroke lead into today's final round of the Canadian junior women's golf championship.

The Ontario three-some of Debbie Daymond of Mississauga, Cheryll Gibb of Amherstburg and Terri Fleet of Willowdale captured the interprovincial team championship by two shots.

Miss Gibb, 17, the Ontario champion, said she "didn't really shoot all that well" but it was 39 in the final 18 holes of the 36 - hole team tournament that enabled Ontario to win its first junior girls team title since 1969.

Tantrum For Show?

TORONTO (CP) — Bob Hewlett kicked a chair, criticized some calls, belled a ball near the box seats and flung his racquet Thursday at the Canadian Open tennis championships.

Then the lean Australian who played some clutch shot-making as he won five straight games and erased a 6-3 third set deficit to gain the quarter-finals of the $72,000 tournament with a 6-7, 6-4, 7-5 decision over Ivan Molina of Colombia.

Afterwards, the 26th-seeded told reporters his court deportment has "improved 100 per cent" over what it was as a junior.

"Now, you wouldn't recognize me. I've improved my court behaviour tremendously but a lot of people won't give me credit for that."

The remaining three other seeds had less trouble in their matches.

Top-seeded Ilie Nastase of Romania trounced Spaniard Antonio Munoz 6-3, 6-1 to move into quarter-final play today against second-seeded Adriano Panatta of Italy who got past Spencer Mottram of Chatanooga, Tenn., 6-4, 6-2.

Patric Proisy of France had little trouble in advancing the seeded players as he completed a rain-delayed 6-2, 7-6 victory over Romanian Ion Tiriac and then beat Jun Kamiwaruma of Japan, 6-2, 6-1.

The sixth seeded Proisy will play Guillermo Vilas of Argentina who upset fourth-seeded Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia 6, 6-4 on Wednesday.

Virginia Wade, the third-seeded Briton, triumphed 4-6, 7-5, 6-2 over Nathalie Fuchs, the former French junior champion.

Miss Goolagong beat Pat Pretorius of South Africa 6-3, 6-3, while Mrs. Court eliminated Andree Jaeger of France 6-2, 6-2.

In doubles, the fourth seeded Czech combination of Kodes and Jan Kukal eliminated Canadians Tony Ramsley of Vancouver and Ken Rinea of Toronto 6-2, 6-4.

That left Mike Belkin of Toronto, who is teamed with Eddie Dibbs of Miami, as the only Canadian in the tournament.

Plane's Concrete can 'Read' the writing on the wall again in their South Hastings Baseball League semi-finals after bowing 4-0 to Read Thursday night.

Frank Farrell blazed a one-hitter for Read, giving the winners 3-1 lead with a tie in the best-of-seven series. Farrell fanned five and walked two.

Pete Enright, Steve White, Caren Milligan and Bert Cross ry singled for Read while Bob Robb's base hit was the only one for Plane's.

Alex Ameiro whiffed seven for the defending league champions from Cannifton. Next game in the series will be Sunday in Read.

Carlton's String at 15

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was a birthday present pitcher Steve Carlton had been saving for three weeks. And when he presented it to his wife, she had to share it with 53,375 other delighted onlookers.

"I was very happy I could give it to her," the Philadelphia Phillies' left-hander said Thursday night after winning his 20th game of the baseball season, the first National League pitcher to reach that plateau.

For a while, it appeared he'd have trouble getting it. Then the Phillies multiplied their muscles and, battering three Cincinnati hurlers for 16 hits, tipped up the Reds 9-4, providing Carlton with his 15th consecutive victory.

Elsewhere in the National League, New York Mets edged Atlanta Braves 5-4, Houston Astros destroyed Montreal Expos 17-5, Chicago Cubs nipped San Francisco Giants 3-1, San Diego Padres slipped St. Louis Cardinals 5-4 and Los Angeles Dodgers whipped Pittsburgh Pirates 6-2.

About three weeks ago, after Steve had won his 19th game of the year, his wife looked at the Phillies' schedule and figured he'd be going for No. 20 Aug. 11.

"That's my birthday," she told her husband, "and that's what I want. Your 20th victory."

It was a tough order, because Carlton hadn't beaten the Reds since 1967.

For a while, it looked like Cincinnati's streak against him would continue. After Dave Johnson gave him a lead with a two-run homer, the Reds jumped him for three runs in the third on Dave Concepcion's single, Bill Plummer's double, Pete Rose's single and Joe Morgan's double.

But Don Money's sacrifice fly and Willie Montanez' two-run homer in the fifth gave him a 4-3 edge and the Phils built on it with two more runs apiece in the sixth and seventh innings.

Ed Kranepool broke a tie with an eighth-inning sacrifice fly and Tug McGraw came out of the Mets' bullpen to preserve Tom Seaver's 14th victory, shutting off a ninth-inning rally after the Braves had put runners on second and third with one out.

Smith Lets His Bat Do Talking

Reggie Smith is making noise—with his bat, if nothing else.

The Boston Red Sox outfielder continued to play the role of silent hero with a three-run homer Thursday night that helped the Red Sox beat Texas Rangers 4-3.

"I don't care what he does as long as he keeps hitting," says Boston manager Eddie Kasko, referring to his uncommunicative star.

Smith wound up a three-game series in Arlington, Tex., with eights hits in 13 at-bats, including four homers, and 10 RBI. But he refused to talk to reporters, as he has since the Red Sox came into town Tuesday.

While Smith shut off communications between him and the press, Baltimore Orioles and Chicago White Sox played to a silent crowd Thursday. Only 855 paid customers showed up in Baltimore to watch the White Sox beat the Orioles 6-1 and throw both American League baseball races into a real traffic jam.

The White Sox inched to within a half-game of the idle Oakland Athletics in the West while the Orioles' lead dropped to the same margin in the East.

Closing ground on the Orioles were Detroit Tigers, who split a twinight doubleheader with Minnesota Twins. The Tigers won the opener 12-2 and the Twins the second game, 7-4 in 10 innings.

The third-place New York Yankees, idle Thursday, moved within 1½ games of the top, while Boston topped off a game to three behind the Orioles. Fifth-place Cleveland Indians, also in contention, remained eight games behind after losing to California Angels 4-2.

Rader and Cesar Cedeno each added a solo shot to lead the Astros' 20-hit assault against six Montreal pitchers—or, more precisely, five pitchers and a shortstop.

Montreal manager Gene Mauch wound up using Hector Torres for the final two outs after Joe Gilbert had been manhandled for eight hits and seven runs in 1 1-3 innings.

"I used all the pitchers I was going to use and Gilbert couldn't get of the outs," Mauch explained.

Jose Cardenal's two-run homer in the third inning carried the Cubs past the Giants. Mate Colbert drove in two runs, one of them with his 34th homer of the year, to lead the Padres past the Cardinals and Wes Parker belted a tie-breaking triple in the sixth inning then scored on Bobby Valentine's squeeze bunt to send the Dodgers past the Pirates.

Preston Close To Pole

Preston Stary won't have the pole position in Saturday night's ninth race but as number two he'll be trying harder.

Preston will have the number two position in the Quinte Exhibition and Raceway's featured harness race and will be out to prove that last week's victory was no beginner's luck for driver Earl Willard. Willard reined Preston to the gelding's second lifetime victory and his own first win since earning his license last year.

Post time for the nine-race harness card is 7:45 p.m.

Leafs Resolve Feud

The agreement came Thursday night in a meeting with Domenico, whom the Leafs tried to fire on Tuesday. They planned to pay their own expenses during the league playoffs against London Avcos.

A statement after the meeting said all issues in the dispute "have been satisfactorily and amicably resolved" and the Leafs will meet Avcos in London tonight for the opening game of the semi-final.

Earlier Thursday, field manager Jim Lless was told by league commissioner Reub Hair that, unless he and the players changed their minds in the dispute they would be suspended.

Soviets Send Team of 507

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union will send 507 athletes to the Munich Olympic Games with entrants in all events except field hockey, Sergei Pavlov, head of the Soviet delegation, said Thursday more than 100 trainers and officials will accompany the team. The first contingent will leave the Soviet Union Sunday.

Eye Makeup Essential

The eyes are the most important part of the face says Elizabeth Marshall as she applies mascara to the face of Youtheatre '72 student Catherine Parsons. Mrs. Marshall showed members of the group how to put on standard makeup and changed one of the cast into an old man with a few deft applications.

Youtheatre Learns Makeup Secrets

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

The eyes are the key to the face and Elizabeth Marshall, director and actress, spent hours at the Pinnacle Playhouse yesterday, outlining to students exactly how to make up the eyes to open any theatrical door.

"They are the most important part of the face," said Mrs. Marshall. "You can tell the entire story of the character by looking at them."

Mrs. Marshall, a graduate of the University of Mount Allison and drama school and resident of Hillier, believes a player should be able to make no move or sound on stage and still relate to the audience — through makeup — the kind of character being portrayed.

Using two models selected from the cast of the Youtheatre '72, Mrs. Marshall created standard makeup and transformed a youngish looking man into a shaking, wrinkled old timer.

The work shop was provided for the benefit of Youtheatre '72 and the participants who will be staging their final production Friday, Aug. 25 and Saturday, Aug. 26 at the playhouse.

"I feel that the makeup applied in most amateur theatre groups is quite poor," she said.

"You see things such as men wearing bright red lipstick and eye shadow," said Mrs. Marshall. "It always looks like the character is going drag."

Mrs. Marshall, while teaching the course, talked with members of the group of the coming production. She will direct called The Price by Arthur Miller.

The play will be the first of the season for the Pinnacle Playhouse resident company with auditions scheduled for Monday, Aug. 21.

Three men and one woman are needed for the cast as well as many back stage staff.

Handling only the direction of the play, Mrs. Marshall is looking for stage managers, set designers, wardrobe mistresses and a dozen others who will be needed to run a smooth opening production.

Those who do attend the auditions will get from the script while seated and talk briefly with the director.

"If I find a few that I want to see again I will have them on stage standing and reading the part," said Mrs. Marshall.

Perhaps will be the most important technical aspect of the production and particular interest will be shown in the choice of props manager. The play evolves around two brothers who have to dispose of their parents' furniture.

Getting A Closer Look

While Hillier resident Elizabeth Marshall set the makeup on Catherine Parsons, son Michael needs a bit for closer look demanding to know what's going on.

The class was part of the course for students in Youtheatre '72 who will stage their final production starting Friday, Aug. 25.

Toronto Chosen Site For Underwater Movie

TORONTO (CP) — A multi-million dollar Canadian underwater movie will be made here starting in September.

Ernest Borgnine, Walter Lidgren, Ben Gazzara and Yvette Mimeux are confirmed for the starring roles in the movie, The Neptune Factor, originally to be titled Conquest of the Deeps.

The project has a $200,000 investment from the Canadian Film Development Corporation and will be distributed by 20th Century Fox.

It's backed chiefly by private financiers and co-produced by Toronto's Quadrant Films and Hollywood producer Sandy Howard.

Scenes also will be shot in Halifax, Jamaica and cast ing is underway in Toronto for local actors.

Director is Canadian born Daniel Petrie.

Big Band Sounds Featured at CNE

TORONTO (Special) — It's going to be "the real thing" at this year's Canadian National Exhibition when head line stars of the 30s and 40s perform in the band shell sponsored by the Coca Cola Company.

For the first time in its five year history, the Real Sounds Show will feature great con temporary music from the past and present.

Among the bands will be Benny Goodman, performing the weekend of Friday, Aug. 19 (three days) followed on the weekend of Friday, Aug. 25, 26 and 27 by Gene Krupa.

The final act of the three-week series will be Les Elgart, performing the weekend of Friday, Sept. 1, 2 and 3.

Modern bands, Ocean, Dr. Music and Crowbar, will be performing on the same shows.

Admission for all shows is free with two shows each day beginning at 8:30 p.m. and 9:45 p.m.

Charge Laid

TWEED (Special) — An Ottawa youth has been charged with careless driving after his car went out of control and rolled over, four miles east of Madoc about 11 a.m. Thursday.

David Seth Grossmith, 19, of Ottawa was westbound at the time of the accident, police report. Damage was estimated at $800. There were no personal injuries.

Bill Cosby Returns to TV With Two Styles of Show

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Teacher-comedian Bill Cosby is returning to television in both his guises during the 1972-73 season. On Monday nights he'll present his CBS variety show.

Sometimes it's hard to tell when Cosby-the-comic stops and teacher-Cosby begins. With the Saturday morning show, he'll combine both functions.

Cosby will introduce the animated Fat Albert and the Cosby Kids, based on the humorous stories he has told of his youth. The cartoons won't be your ordinary, slam-bang Saturday morning entertainment.

CBS and Filmation, producer of the cartoons, have organized a panel, of experts to review the shows for their effect on young audiences.

Heading the panel is Dr. Gordon Berry, assistant dean of the school of education at University of California at Los Angeles. He explained how the panel functions:

"We have a wide spread of disciplines represented — men and women who are expert in such areas as social welfare, psychiatry, sociology, child psychology, education and communication. In addition, we can go outside the panel when other fields of expertise are needed.

"I work closely with the producer and the writer, feeding them ideas from the panel on what kinds of story premises might be of value and what story lines would work with children.

"The important thing is to find stories that teach without preaching."

INDIAN HUNTING GROUNDS AND GOLD MINE COUNTRY

Shawano is a Canadian Heritage. One of the few unspoiled areas remaining in Southern Ontario it offers year-round vacation living in a truly spectacular setting. The 1,200 acre tract encompasses four lovely lakes and lush hardwood forests where wildlife range freely. Centuries before the arrival of European settlers, Ojibway tribes hunted and fished the area, which was prized for its beauty. A century ago, the region was the scene of Ontario's first gold mine.

You can now buy a lake-front lot from $490 down ($4,900 full price), choose from 15 gorgeous cottage plans from $9,655. Special terms prices available, including lot, cottage, plumbing and wiring. Shawano is only 15 miles northeast of Peterborough in the Highlands of Hastings. If you're a piece of history, Shawano is your kind of place. What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

Saturday, Aug. 19

Aries (March 21-April 19): Do what you planned to do, with no time wasted explaining to people who do not understand. You can get technical advice if you need it.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Investments yield results according to what you've put in and the validity of your choices. Bring serious transactions to final stage.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Follow a green light, an open invitation, and make the most of it. There's a streak of luck going for you with important people.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Worthwhile offers are probably available all about you. Prepare to take on larger responsibility; use skills you have mastered.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Invest some time in hobbies, exploration of unfamiliar information. Your persuasive skills are high —use them wherever you can.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Circumstances present a more favorable appearance than reality justifies. Action based on incomplete knowledge may be effective if used constructively.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Seek those who can be of help to you. Family arrangements are complex. A lick and a promise is enough for most of the chores.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Beneath a neutral or unpromising surface, there are plenty of subtle indications of opportunity you must be on the alert.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Extension of personal ventures, replanning of career are prime subjects for today. Distant people are open to your story.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): It's time to put some of your plans into action. If you must work hard, put in a bid for better working conditions, changes.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): A surprise is indicated, also the need to keep it to yourself for the time being. Unfamiliar people require special attention.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Don't neglect any opportunity to improve your situation. Arbitrate past conflicts among the people you know, if you are asked.

To Your Good Health

'The Pill' May Aid Acne Sufferers

By G.C. THOSTESON MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My daughter, 18, asked if I would ask our family doctor for the birth control pills. Would he prescribe them?

She said half the girls at high school take them for their complexion. Is there such a thing as pills helping complexion?

Did you ever hear of such a thing? Please answer so I can prove it to her.—Mrs. I.K.

Yes, there is such a thing—estrogen, which is one of the hormones in birth control pills, is sometimes used for acne in girls.

But not all girls have acne, and not all those with acne need or ought to have hormones.

I'd like a better description of your daughter's complexion problem—if she has a problem. If it is an occasional pimple that blossoms with her menstrual period, I doubt that she needs any hormone treatment. And if complexion problem involves acting and sallow, estrogen won't help anyway.

It is hard for me to conceive that all the girls in any high school have an acne problem severe enough to warrant use of the pill. And mild cases of acne can be handled pretty well with other medications.

It couldn't be that some of the girls are using complexion as an excuse for taking the pill for other purposes?

To settle the matter, why don't you and your daughter see your family doctor and let him decide whether her complexion problem needs treatment? And discuss the pill with him.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am near panic with various veins and aching legs at the age of 22. Seems to have worsened since the insertion of an IUD. Is this my imagination? Does alcohol affect varicose veins?—L.D.

I doubt that the IUD had anything to do with the veins, and alcohol would have no effect. I'd suggest wearing full-length support hose for comfort, or have the various veins removed surgically, which is the only truly corrective measure. Neither support hose or any other method will make the veins improve.

Why? Because calves have been damaged, blood accumulates in the veins instead of being carried upward, and the condition continues to worsen.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Could a five-year-old child's overweight problem be due partly to fluid retention caused by too much salt?—D.L.

I would very much doubt it—unless, of course, there is some more serious underlying cause such as, for example, kidney disease.

Instead of looking for some simple excuse like too much salt, I'd take the child to a pediatrician for a thorough examination. If no disease is present, then I'd start a common-sense diet program to get him back to normal weight.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 18 and have not had my period in seven months. (I am not pregnant.) Is it possible that I could have cancer?—P.L.

Why the concern about cancer? First, it is very unlikely at your age; second, it usually causes bleeding.

Contract Bridge — B. Jay Becker

Bidding Quiz

You are South with both sides vulnerable. The bidding has been:

North	East	South	West
1 ♥	2 ♠	?

What would you bid now with each of the following four hands?

1. ♠AKJ8 ♥Q5 ♦KQ10 ♣J3
2. ♠KQ8762 ♥10 ♦AK64 ♣A7
3. ♠AQ65 ♥K8 ♦AK9 ♣KQ87
4. ♠K9864 ♥AKJ73 ♦A4 ♣5

1. Two diamonds. This is a game-going hand, no matter how it opens the bidding, but the best contract is not yet apparent. Your immediate aim this round should be to describe your hand as accurately as possible, leaving it to let partner choose the final contract.

You intend to bid two spades over partner's expected rebid of two hearts, in which case partner will know that you have only four cards in length and that the diamonds are longer, since you bid them first. North will then be able to express his preference for either spades, hearts, diamonds or notrump.

2. Four spades. You can't play this hand at less than game, and you clearly don't want to play it in any suit but spades, the leap directly to game denies interest in a slam. It indicates a hand worth seven or eight tricks offensively, but only about one trick defensively.

3. Double. With four probable tricks facing the three partner is likely to have for his opening bid, it's best to let the opponents play the hand, exacting a penalty for the privilege. There is no good reason for assuming you have a game your way of the table, for partner may still have only a minimum opening bid.

To bid two diamonds or two notrump at this juncture might result in letting the opponents off the hook in a hand where there is only a part score in prospect.

4. Two hearts. Of course, the trump support is nothing to brag about, but the hand is simply too good for a pass, considering the 5-3 fit in spades and the singleton club.

It would be hard to justify a jump to four, compelling partner to bid again and forcing you into a high level. By bidding two hearts, which shows strictly limited upper and lower values, you allow the auction to come to an early end if partner has a minimum opening bid.

Abortion Big Issue At Church Parley

SASKATOON (CP) — Advocates of "basic power" are battling proponents of "abortion on demand" at emotional meetings of the parliament of the United Church of Canada.

The church, under fire from many of its 2.2 million members and adherents since it adopted a position on abortion in 1971, is taking a second look at the controversial issue.

Some delegates to the church's 25th general council meeting argued Thursday that the killing of a fetus is as morally wrong as killing a child. Others said abortion is a private matter between a woman and her doctor.

The latter view is close to the church's 1971 position which said abortion is permissible in certain medical, social and economic circumstances.

A newly prepared 3,000-word statement on abortion calls it "only the lesser of two evils" and adds that contraception is preferable to prevent unwanted children.

It suggests that prior to 12 weeks of pregnancy, abortion should be a private matter between a woman and her doctor. After that, it says, abortion should be performed only following consultation with another doctor.

Salinger's Contact With Hanoi Deplored

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House said Thursday that contacts by representatives of Democratic presidential candidate George McGovern with the North Vietnamese "could jeopardize" the president's efforts in seeking to negotiate a peaceful settlement of the war.

Presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler emphasized the word "could," telling reporters: "We do not know what was said in those meetings."

The comments from the White House came in response to questions as to whether contacts made in Paris by Pierre Salinger, co-chairman of the Citizens for McGovern Committee, affected the president's negotiations with the North Vietnamese.

When asked how they could jeopardize the situation, Ziegler noted that McGovern has declined to be briefed on the negotiating efforts now under way. Though not mentioning Salinger by name, he said McGovern's representative could say something to the North Vietnamese "that could jeopardize these efforts" now under way in both public and private talks.

Increase in Fires Blamed on Arson

TORONTO (CP) — A 400-per-cent increase in fire damage to Ontario schools outside the Metro Toronto area last year was attributed Thursday to arson, not accident.

Statistics show that fires caused $1.8 million damage to the schools in 1971, compared to about $464,000 in 1970.

H. Edward Hartley, insurance consultant to the Metro Toronto school board, compiled the statistics for the Ontario Association of School Business Officials.

The data, collected from 65 of the 76 county school boards and 36 of the 49 separate school boards outside Metro, also showed that school fires last year rose to 244 from 202 a year earlier.

FBI Shoots Hijacker Seeking to Aid Hanoi

Cycling Pirate Got B.C. Gold

From AP-REUTER

SEATTLE (CP) — A man was in hospital today after being shot in the finale of an airline hijacking that took a jetliner from the United States to Vancouver and back again in what the armed man said was a protest against the U.S. war in Vietnam.

The hijacking began when the 42-year-old man rode his bicycle up to a United Airlines jetliner parked on a Reno, Nev., runway and took over the aircraft. He forced officials to hand over $2 million ransom in Seattle after he received 15 gold bars in Vancouver worth $15,000.

The 12-hour, 800-mile hijacking ended when two FBI agents, posing as a relief crew, shot the man in the shoulder and leg and dragged him from the plane here.

The exterminist, described in good condition, had forced the pilot, co-pilot and flight engineer to fly to Vancouver and then to Seattle.

The man claimed membership in a para-military organization opposed to the Nixon administration's Vietnam policies and said he planned to use the ransom for crippled Vietnamese children.

U.S. Attorney Stan Pitkin identified the wounded man as Frank Markoe Sibley of Stateline, Nev. Pitkin said Sibley would be charged with air piracy. Sibley's wounds were described as serious but not critical.

The penalty under the law is 20 years to life.

Sibley was shot in the hijacked Boeing 727 here late Friday night after a four-hour stop in Vancouver.

Two FBI agents boarded the plane after the sky pirate insisted on a new crew and demanded maps of Canada.

While the agents were forklifted aboard the 727 semi-nude to prove they were unarmed, other FBI men passed a gun on a pole through a cabin window. With the weapon, the FBI agents confronted the hijacker in the cockpit as he held an army-type carbine on the airline's pilot, C. J. Lenahan of Denver, the FBI said.

An FBI spokesman said about five shots were fired. The man was hit by two bullets in the left thigh and one in the shoulder.

The FBI said he tried to resist after he was hit by drawing a knife but was wrestled out of the plane and to the ground where he was overpowered.

United Airlines said the hijacker pedalled a bicycle through a hole in a fence and up to the jet, which was preparing to leave for San Francisco with 52 passengers. He was holding a rifle and wearing a ski-mask.

A passenger ran into the terminal to report it and an airline official raced to the plane and dropped the rear stairway. He and the three stewardesses hustled all the passengers out.

With the hijacker, his bicycle and the flight crew aboard, the aircraft took off and headed northwest. United said the hijacker ordered the pilot to Vancouver. The crew advised by radio the mags insisted on $2 million in cash, 15 gold bars, pistols, sub-machine-guns and other weapons, a flashlight, pep pills and a mouthering radio.

His prepared statement dictated to United Airlines officials over the plane's radio was broadcast by Vancouver radio station CJOR.

United had been selected by his organization, the hijacker said, because it was a major contributor to the war effort based on profits and greed."

Oddity in Nature

Orchard keeper Allan Weese of RR 1 Carrying Place may have performed the impossible unknowingly. Apparently the scions from a Bartlett pear tree became mixed in with the ones from a McIntosh tree he was using in grafting to change the variety of a Red Astrachan tree. As the picture shows, both apples and pears are growing together on the same tree. What usually happens is one species rejects the other according to agricultural experts consulted by Mr. Weese.

Bourassa Seeks Aid

If You Want More Money Raise Taxes, PM's Reply

MONTREAL (CP) — Premier Robert Bourassa says he sought more federal money Friday in a private meeting with Prime Minister Trudeau but "I did not empty his pockets, obviously."

Prime Minister Trudeau, whose home in suburban Outremont was the site of the meeting, said his answer was:

"If you want more money, raise taxes. If we in Ottawa want more money, we must increases taxes and you must do the same."

Mr. Bourassa also said he told the prime minister he would reply when new federal family-allowance legislation is passed, to a June message from the federal government on Quebec's demands in this area.

Speaking at a dinner marking the opening of the Central Canada Exhibition, the premier declared that "the most serious threat to Canadian unity remains the inequality which exists between citizens in different parts of the country."

An effective attack on inequality requires more decentralization of power, a greater provincial role in drawing up national social and economic programs, and a transfer of funds from the federal government to the provinces, he said.

Smallwood Will Face Civil Suit

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — The Newfoundland government will take civil action against former premier Joseph Smallwood and two other men named in a controversial royal commission report into provincial liquor store rentals, Premier Frank Moores announced Friday.

However, the premier told reporters following a cabinet meeting, the government will not take criminal action against the men mentioned in the report.

The report named Mr. Smallwood, Oliver Vardy, former deputy minister of social development, and businessman Arthur Landrican as shareholders in a company renting seven buildings to the Newfoundland liquor commission.

Mr. Moores said the government will write to all principals involved requesting adequate settlement of past overcharges and insist that present agreements and leases be settled to the government's satisfaction.

"We feel very strongly that monies due to the people of Newfoundland from overpayments and future obligations must be recovered as soon as possible," Mr. Moores said.

British Troops Ready For Protestant March

BELFAST (Reuter) — Army and police were on full alert today for trouble resulting from a planned march through Belfast by uniformed members of the Ulster Defence Association following a day of the worst violence in this Northern Ireland capital in nearly a month.

A para-military Protestant organization has announced that its members will parade through the city to a rally in a park.

The rally was called to protest the alleged inability of the British troops to cope with the Irish Republican Army after the explosion in a Protestant area Thursday which injured more than 50 persons.

The Provisional IRA shot dead two soldiers in the Roman Catholic Falls Road area of the city Friday. A third soldier was killed Thursday in the same district.

Two soldiers were wounded early Friday when a remote-controlled landmine was detonated under their feet. One of the men lost both legs and is in critical condition. The other man had one leg amputated.

Uniformed members of the UDA continued their patrols of Protestant areas of the city today. Police stood by and watched as the UDA men stopped and checked cars for unpermitted members of the IRA.

It was not clear early today whether the security forces would take action against UDA members who parade in uniform during today's march. Para-military uniforms are banned in Northern Ireland under an act of Parliament but it is thought the army and police will not make arrests and risk a possible confrontation.

Old Hat

DIEPPE, France (CP)— Bruce McDermott of Toronto was served by customs officials in the suburban Scarborough, after Canadian army officials told him his 1942 Dieppe combat helmet had been recovered.

He was traced to Toronto after Sister du Sacre Coeur turned over the bullet-scarred helmet to army authorities.

He had been wounded at Dieppe and taken to the local hospital. His helmet had been there ever since.

China Wants More Wheat

OTTAWA (CP) — China is in the market for still more Canadian wheat, Trade Minister Jean-Luc Pepin disclosed Friday.

He told reporters after a two-hour meeting with Pai Hsiang-kuo, foreign trade minister of the Chinese People's Republic, that the Chinese are keen to deliver with the Canadian Wheat Board for further purchases.

At the same time, Mr. Pai had reiterated Peking's pledge, made last year, to maintain Canada in "first place on the list of wheat suppliers.

"They have honored their commitment perfectly, and Mr. Pai repeated it today," said Mr. Pepin.

The 54-year-old Chinese minister listened "gracefully," Mr. Pepin reported, but said neither yes nor no to Mr. Pepin's suggestion that the two countries set upper and lower limits on Canada's annual wheat exports to China. He did agree to study the matter.

News Briefs

Kissinger in Tokyo

TOKYO (AP) — U.S. presidential adviser Henry Kissinger and Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka agreed that Japan's proposed recognition of mainland China will not hurt U.S.-Japanese relations, Japanese sources reported today.

Kissinger and Tanaka exchanged views on problems to be discussed at Tanaka's talks with President Nixon in Honolulu Aug. 31 - Sept. 1, the sources said.

Calley Plea Disputed

WASHINGTON (CP-AP) — The U.S. Army denied Friday that the personal lawyer of the former U.S. commander in South Vietnam, Gen. William Westmoreland, prevented prosecution of higher-ranking officers than Lieut. William Calley after the massacre of civilians at the Vietnamese village of My Lai.

The army filed a brief with the court of military review disputing an appeal filed with the court April 30 by George Latimer, the lawyer for Calley who was convicted of murdering at least 22 Vietnamese civilians.

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces were reported today to have cut major highways on three sides of Saigon and South Vietnamese troops were trying to reopen the vital arteries.

Embassy Attacked

CAIRO (Reuter) — Libyan demonstrators attacked the British embassy building in Tripoli today in protest at Britain's returning of two Moroccan officers accused of taking part in Wednesday's attempted assassination of King Hassan, it was reported here today.

"Oh yes, Wall & Finnie you bet!"

Fourteen Moroccans Face Trial

RABAT (CP) — About a dozen Moroccan air force officers, including two sent back from Gibraltar by Britain, are to be tried following an attempt, masterminded by strongman Gen. Mohamed Oufkir, to shoot down a plane carrying King Hassan II.

Gen. Oufkir, who was defence minister responsible for the king's safety and was regarded as the staunchest supporter, killed himself with his own pistol at Skirat Palace only hours after F-5 jets failed Wednesday to shoot down a Boeing 727 bringing the Moroccan monarch back from France.

Benhima announced that the officers will be tried.

Republicans Portray McGovern As Leftist Isolationist

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (CP) — A Republican portrayal of Senator George McGovern as a leftist isolationist, ready to surrender in Vietnam at any cost, has set the tone for what may be the bitterest U.S. presidential campaign in years.

The attack on Mr. McGovern, the Democratic presidential candidate, appeared [illegible] platform to be submitted for approval by the Republican presidential convention, which opens Monday.

Taking a swipe at McGovern's "Come Home America" campaign theme, the Republican party's draft platform said:

"We declare ourselves unalterably opposed to a unilateral slash of our military power and we reject a shrinking 'Come Back America' retreat into isolationism."

The draft Republican platform, put together for Nixon to run on in November, is a mixture of ringing praise of the president and dire warnings of the consequences for world peace if McGovern is elected.

It invites Democrats to vote for Richard Nixon and forsake what it says is "the radical clique" controlling the Democratic party.

The draft platform predicts the Nixon bandwagon will be joined by "thousands" concerning Democrats and concerned independents who will not, and cannot, take part in the convulsive leftward lurch of the [illegible] Democratic party."

The draft will reach the convention Tuesday. Its adoption is considered certain.

In Washington [illegible] said he is becoming a dartboard for a cadre of Nixon administration lieutenants who want the president himself "pretends that he doesn't even know about them" being an election going on."

The White House, McGovern said, "has about 15 people taking potshots at me."

McGovern's proposals to withdraw two divisions of U.S. troops from Europe were rejected by the Republicans without any direct reference to the Democratic nominee.

The main points of the defence and foreign affairs sections of the proposed platform that will be submitted to the Republican convention are:

—No amnesty for draft dodgers and deserters.

—An all-volunteer armed forces and a goal of ending the draft by mid-1973.

—Followups to Nixon's efforts at improving relations with the Soviet Union and China, but also close co-operation with Taiwan, Japan and NATO allies.

Public Fear and Near-panic Reaction To Drug Abuse Hindering Prevention

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

HAMILTON — Public fear and near - panic over drug abuse and addiction has threatened long - range prevention measures aimed at solving a major social and health issue, Ontario Health Minister Dr. R. T. Potter warned here Friday.

Society's over-reaction often has resulted in a crusade for quick cures, harmful to long-term solutions needed to treat drug problems, he said.

Local community services, with a broad role of social activities should not abandon their traditions because of public pressure for immediate action over drugs.

Dr. Potter was the final speaker at the 13th annual institute on Addiction studies held at McMaster University.

Alcoholism and drug abuse are major health problems involving citizens of all ages, he said.

But "society's reaction to the drug problem over the last few years has ranged from fear to near panic. . ." said Dr. Potter.

This "amply demonstrates the need for objectivity and judgment . . ." he warned.

"One of my concerns is that many of our responses have tended to focus on expedient, short-range objectives, to the neglect of long-range strategies for prevention."

Short-term objectives involve treatment programs and these must be available, even increase in some areas.

But, said Dr. Potter, he is concerned about lack of understanding and commitment to a "comprehensive strategy for prevention".

"Up until now, our approach has been directed toward crisis, intervention and treatment. This of course, is far more dramatic than a preventive - oriented program. But in the long run it is practically ineffective."

He regretted that some "well - established services" have reduced or withdrawn from traditional roles because of public demand for immediate action over drug problems.

"This is understandable and well - intentioned — but ill-advised."

"To withdraw from a role that contributes to a balanced range of community activities is surely a mistake," he said.

Good youth programs by local agencies — schools, churches, YMCAs — which encourage social and personal growth, will "do more to prevent problems than a second - rate crisis intervention centre.

"It takes courage and competence to stick to your guns in the face of passing fads and fancies. But it has to be done."

What must be developed is a comprehensive partnership involving professionals, volunteers, government and private agencies.

"When I see a young person deeply involved in drug abuse, I see not only a potential for disease and malnutrition," said the health minister, "I see a person disenchanted, without meaningful goals and values, who has chosen chemicals, rather than convictions as a basis of existence.

"It is in what we are ultimately going to have to prevent."

Already, the provincial government is financing a partnership framework involving community projects, through its Addiction Research Foundation.

In the past six years this has produced an "amazing variety" of projects to offset drugs and alcohol problems.

Statistics show that in 1970 there were more than four million drinkers in Ontario, consuming 139 million gallons of beverage alcohol. About 6.1 per cent drank amounts considered hazardous to health, Dr. Potter told the delegates.

If the social and personal costs of alcoholism is to be reduced, "over-all consumption will have to be reduced.

"How it is reduced — by legislation, by price, social controls or personal choice — will be decided by the public. But first, people must know what's at stake."

Evidence of social costs balanced against social benefit must be produced and public awareness heightened "if this vital aspect of prevention is to be effected."

DR. R. T. POTTER

If social and personal costs of alcoholism is to be reduced, over all consumption will have to be reduced

Harvey McFarland Recalls Visits With President Nixon

By MARGARET HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON (Staff) — Harvey J. McFarland, in his first press conference since he stepped down as mayor of Picton, yesterday revealed details of a recent Washington visit with United States president Richard Nixon.

The construction tycoon, who headed Picton's administration for 30 years, flew to Washington D.C. on August 1 and on Wednesday, August 2, called at the White House shortly after noon.

Mr. McFarland, a personal friend of the Nixon family, was received by the president's secretary and invited to visit with him in his office.

"It's really something to walk through those iron gates and see those guards," fellows," commented Mr. McFarland.

The offices of the president's secretary also impressed Mr. McFarland, who observed "talk about telephones and buttons to push."

The former Picton mayor said Mr. Nixon greeted him by his first name and immediately called for a staff photographer to snap pictures of their meeting.

Mr. McFarland noted the Viet Nam war was discussed and he told the president he was sorry that he had taken blame for it.

He added that he suggested to Mr. Nixon the late president Kennedy might have prevented the rise of guerilla warfare by going into Cuba with a full-scale fleet and effecting a takeover.

Nostalgia marked the conversation as the president and Mr. McFarland recalled the former's visit to Picton in 1967.

Mr. Nixon signed autographs from his yacht docked at Prince Edward Yacht Club and made a wish come true for one unidentified 3-year-old boy. Mayor McFarland remembered the child told Mr. Nixon his mother was a fan of his but could not see him in person because she was ill. Mr. Nixon promptly left his yacht and visited with the little boy to his home to say hello to the woman.

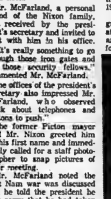
President Nixon, in Mr. McFarland's opinion, is at present making commendable efforts on behalf of his country.

"I don't think there is anyone trying to do more than he is," ventured the former mayor.

"He didn't cause the war and he is doing his best to settle it and to bring the soldiers back," he added.

Mr. McFarland said he dislikes criticisms from Canadians concerning the location of American industry here. "It's for the interest of our people and our children," he asserted.

Mr. McFarland also praised president Nixon for his establishment of a wage scale and called it a "good move."



When asked if he thought president Nixon would re-visit Prince Edward one day, Mr. McFarland replied that he considered it likely. He stated he had invited Mr. and Mr. Nixon to come to the county with evangelist Billy Graham while he was mayor of Picton.

The men were to have spent a day here, possibly at Outlet Beach-provincial park. Although the trip had been confirmed, it failed to materialize when Mr. McFarland refused to stand for re-election in 1970.

Asked if he had considered running for election as mayor of Picton this fall, Mr. McFarland replied he has received many calls urging him to seek office. He indicated interest, but suggested he might find a lighter schedule of duties necessary should he decide to

PRESIDENT NIXON

Former Picton Mayor Attends U. S. Republican Covention

PICTON (Staff) — Dubbed "the ambassador of anads" by president Richard Nixon, former Picton mayor Harvey J. McFarland will fly to Florida this month for the Republican convention.

Mr. McFarland who visited the president in Washington D.C. earlier this month will attend the $500 plate dinner at the Republican Convention Gala '72 held at Miami Beach this weekend.

The convention will begin Monday morning and Mr. McFarland has expressed hopes for "a cup of coffee and a chat" with the president.

When he visited the White House on August 2, Mr. McFarland was presented with an elusive selection of gifts from his friend Richard Nixon.

He proudly displayed a pair of cuff links bearing the presidential seal, a silver cigarette case, a lapel pin signifying the privileges of the White House and a large gold medalby, all presented to him on his recent visit.

The gifts were wrapped in heavily embossed white paper bearing the presidential seal in gold.

Mr. McFarland has enjoyed a long friendship with Richard Nixon and attended the president's inauguration with his wife, Artie.

Paintings, Sculpture Bought For Educational Purposes

Four Belleville educational institutions have purchased a package of paintings and sculpture put together by the Ontario Arts Council under the name of Artario 72.

Twenty-one Canadian artists each created a print, sculpture or ceramic work specially for the exhibition. Each piece was then reproduced in quantity and put together into individual kits. Each kit, packed in two cartons, contains a reproduction of each artist's work, together with display stands, study guides and biographical notes on the artists.

Local groups paying $186 for kits are Bayside Secondary School, Loyalist College, Quinte Secondary and the Hastings county board of education. The Artario 72 exhibition will remain the property of the purchaser.

About 100 exhibition kits have been ordered across Canada, and all will go on display simultaneously in the premises of purchasers on Oct. 17. Any other group wants to, can order a copy of any work in the display at prices ranging from $2 to $15.

The Ontario Arts Council labels Artario 72 "a province-wide celebration of Canadian art."

It is designed to bring contemporary Canadian art to citizens in "the familiar surroundings of their own communities".

Hastings county board of education is a major purchaser of the Artario 72 kits. Exhibitions are also going to S. H. Connor Public School in Trenton, Trenton High School and to the board's Instructional Media Centre in Trenton.

Sprinkler Drenches Restaurant Cooks

Patrons of Sneaky Pete's Restaurant in the Quinte Mall must have thought a second Flood was upon them last night.

A fire sprinkler, accidently set off when a kitchen exhaust fan broke, left the restaurant inches deep in water. The dining room was filled to capacity at the time.

Only persons to get wet in the mishap were the cooks. The restaurant closed immediately.

Belleville firemen arrived 20 minutes after the shower began and helped restaurant personnel clean up. The incident occured at 8 p.m. but crews were at work until 3 a.m.. Sneaky Pete's Restaurant is a cooking device and pounds of food were ruined. Sneaky Pete's was open for business today.

Commons Speaker Has A Decision to Make

OTTAWA (CP) — Common Speaker Lucien Lamoureux hasn't officially indicated his future plans, but unless he makes a decision quickly, he may have difficulty returning to a new Parliament.

Mr. Lamoureux, one of the most popular Speakers in the country's history, now is the Independent MP for Stormont-Dundas in southeastern Ontario — a seat he was allowed to win in 1968 with only token opposition.

But this time a battle is looming. The Conservatives, who lost the 1968 campaign, already have a candidate nominated and a Liberal nominating convention has been called for Aug. 29.

Mr. Lamoureux, a long time Liberal who became an Independent in 1968 for the purposes of presiding over Parliament, could save the nomination at the Aug. 28 convention, but sources say it is almost inconceivable he would go back to partisan campaigning.

And should he decide to take another run as an independent, he could have difficulty retaining his seat.

The Cornwall-area constituency includes an area of chronic unemployment, and while the 65-year-old MP is credited with working doggedly on local problems, the nature of his job prevented him from being a vocal parliamentarian.

While the opposition MPs would welcome Mr. Lamoureux back to a new Parliament as Speaker, the official attitude is that the voters of Stormont - Dundas should not be deprived of the right to choose a candidate.

For a time it appeared the problem would be solved by creating a special Parliament Hill riding for a permanent Speaker, but this idea has apparently died, enmeshed in technicalities.

Mr. Lamoureux has hinted that he may retire, and he has been quoted as saying that if he did run again it would be as an independent. But unless he makes such a decision soon, he could become embroiled in an exceedingly difficult campaign.

Brian Lynch, president of the Stormont - Dundas Liberal Association, has said that his association wouldn't oppose Mr. Lamoureux if he sought re-election as an Independent. But once a candidate is chosen at the Aug. 28 convention, it would be difficult to call him off. And, meanwhile, Grant Campbell, the Conservative candidate, has been campaigning vigorously since June.

In 1968, Mr. Lamoureux was opposed only by a New Democratic Party candidate, operating without the blessing of the national party. The candidate, Tim Wees, received 5,959 votes compared with Mr. Lamoureux's 17,014.

In a three-way fight in 1965, Mr. Lamoureux won by 6,039 votes, after being Deputy Speaker for two years.

Although he has carefully avoided giving any firm commitment about his plans, observers here feel that with every passing day Mr. Lamoureux's future Speakership is becoming more and more in doubt. All parties would be sorry to see him go.

Scout Leader Will 'Retire' To Ministry

OTTAWA (CP) — Bert Morlock, 64, intends to lead a different type of troop—an Anglican parish—when he retires this fall after 30 years in Canadian scouting.

A former newspaper man, now national information director for the Boy Scouts of Canada, Mr. Morlock says he'll be fulfilling a boyhood dream when he enters the Anglican ministry.

Throughout his life here and in the small Ontario community of Bowmanville he has taken an interest in the church, acting as a lay reader and a delegate to Anglican synods, or meetings.

He has taken over small parishes for as long as several months in the absence of ministers.

But early dreams to enter the ministry full-time were set aside during the Depression of the 1930s when Mr. Morlock worked with a team in Bowmanville collecting and fixing toys and groceries for families on relief.

That work led him to scout headquarters in Ottawa. He also became scoutmaster for an Ottawa troop.

As information director, he is responsible for acting as liaison for Canada's 5,000 scouts.

Belleville's Fred Stone — Fiddler on the Hoof

MPP James Taylor, Right, Tours Toronto Plant

He Fiddles Around With Eggs, Combs and Gloves

By BRIAN AMARON
Staff Reporter

Belleville's fiddler deluxe Fred Stone returns to television Tuesday, Sept. 19.

The versatile picker — who plays with chicken eggs, toothpicks, combs, even boxing gloves — has a slightly more conventional role on the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation's children's show Mr. Dressup. He'll imitate bird calls and perform a tune he's composed on behalf of Tweed's national Dairy Princess, Diane Gunning.

How he manages to incorporate the sounds of a robin, crow, woodpecker and canary into a half hour television show is a tribute to the CBC's inventive staff writers.

Fred plays the part of a new neighbor who happens along just as a puppet named Casey is becoming exasperated over some mysterious bird sounds. Together with Mr. Dressup, the trio discovers the source of the warblings in the person of Finnegap, a beleaguered birdoid.

Fred is no stranger to television. He has appeared on The Tommy Hunter Show four times — with another appearance lined up for October — and in 1968, was an unlucky entrant on Ted Mack's Original Amateur Hour.

The Mack show, on which he played Listen to the Mocking Bird, was a frustrating episode in Fred's checkered career.

"Canadians never win," he laments. "They never tell you how you made out, either."

That was the time he played with the egg, toothpick and comb. He has also been known to imitate bagpipes on his multi-toned instrument, his favorite being Road to the Isles.

Fred's favorite trick, though, is to perform in boxing gloves. He says a fellow pugilist at sea during World War II dared him to attempt the feat — and lost the bet.

"Tommy Hunter says I'm the only fiddler he's ever seen who can wear boxing gloves," says Fred proudly.

Encouraging Quinte neighbors to tune in, the resident of 180 Herchimer Ave. says: "This time, I'm making my acting debut."

Mr. Dressup goes on the air at 10 a.m.

Prince Edward-Lennox MPP Lauds Recycling

TORONTO (Special) — James Taylor, MPP for Prince Edward — Lennox, recently joined a group of legislators from Queen's Park in touring the recycling operations of the Continental Can Company.

Mr. Taylor said he was impressed by the size and complexity of the operation and with the length of time the material has been recycled.

The Continental Can Company since 1938 has used more thhy-two million tons of recovered fibre at its Toronto site. A highly organized recovery system involving used paper dealers has evolved during this period.

It was noted that Continental annually uses more than 60 per cent of the 185,000 tons of the recovered secondary fibre in its paperboard mills in Toronto harbor.

The dry reclaimed paper fibre is collected in the greater Toronto area for the manufacture of paperboard.

Continental's mills in Toronto and Montreal require 90,000 tons annually of the 250,000 tons of recovered fibre consumed in Eastern Canada, which represents the conservation of forest resources and material savings to municipal solid waste management authorities who do not have to destroy used paper.

Librarian Sought

Library Extension Ready by September

TRENTON (Staff) — Trenton Memorial Library's new extension will open sometime in September.

The original target date was late August but several delays have pushed the project behind schedule.

Meanwhile, response to advertisements for a new librarian has been very good, reports Ian Darling, chairman of the library board. A decision will be made during the last week of September.

A new system plan will soon be instituted, compulsory for new employees but optional for present help.

Lights atop both the Quinte Street branch and the James Cot Library have been moved to poles a short distance from the building. Vandals were wreaking havoc with the lights when they were on the roofs.

Finally, sub - committees have been established to deal with particular aspects of library operation. Most matters had been left to the board as increasing workloads made this approach impractical.

Six Schools Up for Sale

TRENTON (Staff) — Northumberland and Durham County Board of Education plans to sell some of its schools no longer used for educational purposes.

Bethel Public School near Trenton will be sold on the real estate market, as will Brown Public School. Four others in the county will be put up for tender.

Obituaries and Funerals

MRS. EDWIN ADAMS

A native of the Colborne area, Mrs. Sarah Stella Adams, 24 Cedar Street, Belleville, died Friday evening, August 18, in Belleville General Hospital following a short illness. She was 92.

She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Buchanan and was predeceased by her husband, Edwin Adams.

Mrs. Adams is survived by three daughters, Miss Clara Adams and Mrs. Norman (Annabel) Havelock, Belleville and Mrs. Douglas (Jean) Anderson, Saint John, N.B.; one son, Rex Adams, Wallerton, Ont.; a sister, Mrs. Gertrude Mischell, Scarborough; seven grandchildren and 18 great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Adams was a member of Holloway United Church Women.

Funeral service will be conducted by Rev. J. W. Lamb at 2 p.m. Monday, August 20 in the chapel of the John R. Bush Funeral Home. Interment will be in Lakeport Cemetery, Colborne.

JOSEPH O'CONNOR

A native of Marysville, Joseph O'Connor, 13 St. Paul St., died suddenly early this morning in Belleville General Hospital. He was in his 75th year. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas O'Connor.

Mr. O'Connor retired 10 years ago from Stewart-Warner Corp., where he had been employed for many years. He is survived by his widow, the former Ethel Ehler.

Funeral will be at St. Michael's Church Monday, August 21 at 10 a.m. Interment will be in St. James' Cemetery. Resting at the O'Brien Funeral Residence.

Japanese TV Fans

This emerges from a number of recent government and private studies. West Germany and the United States were chosen for comparison purposes.

The semi-governmental Japanese Broadcasting Corp. reportde that American adult males spend only 25 per cent of their rest time in front of television screens, while the West German figure was 17 per cent, compared with Japan's 42 per cent.

This is partly the result of the phenomenal growth of television in Japan, where 93 per cent of all households have a set.

A study by the Japanese Institute of Labor showed a heavy male preference for the erotic and violent in entertainment. They are well catered for on television and cinema screens and in weekly magazines.

Despite the popular image of the always-working Japanese, figures reveal that leisure time available varies little between Japan and West Germany.

Fitness Buffs

So you want to be fit — and stay fit. That is the motto of many nowadays, including The Earlybirds, a group of Belleville stalwarts who set off each day from the Y for some early morning jogging.

It is the group also of 33 members of The Canadian Masters International Track team which is off to Europe to compete against Masters teams (they comprise athletes who are aged 40 and over) from Australia, the United States, England, Finland, Sweden, Denmark and Germany.

The idea of Masters in Track originated in New Zealand which is not surprising for it was there that jogging as a road to fitness originated. It was part and parcel for instance of coach Arthur Lydiard's training of former mile champion Peter Snell.

It goes without saying that none of the Canadian team smokes and as team manager Sid Morris, 43, also points out, none has a standing pulse beat of more than 68. Hans Warwas, 55, also of Toronto, has a beat of only 62 compared with the normal 70-72.

We recall that Peter Snell's pulse was in the same low range and it was said it would be impossible for a man of that degree of fitness to suffer a heart attack. The slow beat means the heart doesn't require effort to fulfill its function in pumping blood.

Looking around at the populace generally it cannot be said the country is overflowing with athletic looking people. Certainly there are few who, like these "aging" gentlemen, look ten years younger than they are. And observing the extraordinary increase in smoking by young people one wonders about the future health of the nation. We need more interest in fitness among the young, for if not there will be few entering the category of The Masters when they reach 40.

Another Target

The Belfast Boat Club, one of the latest targets of extremists, is a venerable sporting establishment that is known more, paradoxically, for tennis than for boating. Founded in the 1880s its grass courts by the River Lagan are the venue for provincial and international tournaments.

We have seen exhibitions there by Fred Perry, Donald Budge, Bobby Riggs and Jaroslav Drobny and if this matter dates us we console ourselves with the fact that Don Rosewall, who lost to Drobny at Wimbledon in 1954, is still soldiering on at the age of 38 on the pro circuit.

Boating there is too, of course, and on the hitherto quiet banks of the River Lagan the atmosphere is more like that of Jerome K. Jerome's classic Three Men in a Boat — for in addition to latter-day scullers and eights there are available Victorian-style boats of the kind seen in old prints, with gentlemen in straw boaters and ladies in the fulsome garb of the day and carrying parasols.

Now this pleasant spot has joined others as a victim of the contemporary Irish madness. One wonders how with its relative isolation the terrorists were able to bomb the place and escape. For the last visited there 20 years or more ago access was by a self-operated punt-ferry across the river, or alternatively by the boardwalk of a nearby lock. It would have been easy enough for police to seal off the approach road but once again surprise seems to have been the key.

The 'Mountain'

The mystery of the "mountain" seen from the R. L. Lazier residence in Tyendinaga Township (as depicted in the Hastings and Prince Edward historical atlas of 1878) has been solved. Mrs. Jessie Craig of Hastings Drive informs us that the name "Mountainview" stems froth what was actually a rocky bluff behind the house which still stands about amile and a quarter north of Shannonville.

Tidying Up

The car park area along the street from this office, which we mentioned the other day, still is fringed with weeds and littered with paper and cigaret butts. We noted that a start had been made toward cleaning up but there is still much to be done. The park itself is private property but since it abuts on the public sidewalk and may be observed by all a tidy appearance is desirable.

Defence Department Main Target

Empire-Building in Civil Service Blasted by Orlikow

By RICHARD JACKSON ..
from The Intelligencer's
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — When recently David Orlikow, New Democratic MP for Winnipeg North Centre, blew the whistle on the federal public service for "empire building", he only knows half the story.

His point was that the appointment of "Chiefs" as against "Indians" in the civil service proportionately was running just about eight to one.

That is, while the total number of all employees in departments, boards, bureaus, commissions, crown corporations and assorted federal agencies had increased seven percent, the upper salary bracket executives had mushroomed 85 percent.

It ran completely against New Democratic political character that David Orlikow should fret about the very size of the federal establishment because the socialist philosophy is that of the Government running more and more sectors of the economy.

And to man Big Government, you must have big staff.

But he shot his arrow to this obvious NDP truth, perhaps because it afforded him a chance to slash Prime Minister Trudeau.

He recalled the Prime Minister's pledge of three years ago that the public service staff would be pared by 10 percent.

And he called it "hollow" since, instead of shrinking, the civil service had swollen from 233,000 to 267,000 with an annual payroll of $3.6 billion running to 20 percent of the federal budget.

Three departments, Statistics Canada, the International Development Agency and Justice, complained David Orlikow, basking his figures on information the government itself made available, had increased in excess of 100 percent in the number of high-salary executive types.

The Prime Minister's own office, running a good second in "empire-building," had a 93 percent increase in the number of positions at the top.

There, while cutting the rank and file by more than five percent, Defence had boomed its senior staff by 208 percent.

"Obviously," said David Orlikow with relish, "never have so few been commanded by so many."

Perhaps not . . . except that now even fewer are being commanded by still more.

Reason?

David Orlikow's figures were out of date.

He had secured them from Statistics Canada and they are a year behind fast - moving events in National Defence Headquarters where Defence Minister Edgar Benson is hard at work "restructuring" the Brass and Braid.

National defence currently has a deputy minister and three assistant deputies.

It is getting two more for a total of five.

And the resulting shuffle, bringing some 13 more into the associate deputy level — known as senior executive officers — will take to a new high of 87 the number of generals and their civilian counterparts.

One four-star general.

Four three - star lieutenant-generals.

Nine two-star major generals.

Twenty-eight one-star brigadier generals.

Total: 42 in uniform.

But the various ranks of the generals are matched by several grades of deputies in civilian.

On the civilian side of NDHQ this is the executive suite structure:

Three (soon to be five) assistant deputies, the opposite numbers to the four three-star lieutenant generals.

Word from the East Block where the Treasury Board mounts guard on the loot from the taxpayers is that the second "empire - building" in Defence is being "resisted."

If Defence wins and Treasury Board loses, it will mean a total of 67 brass hats, in uniform and business suit with the rank of generals.

And give David Orlikow something more to talk about.

The things we did last summer . . . when the snow starts to fly and the days are short and the desolation of winter sets in these youngsters will recall outings like this. Staff reporter Harry Mulhall took the picture from the banks of the Salmon River at Shannonville.

As with the United States South Africa Is Gun-Happy

Aida Parker in The South African Financial Gazette

So once again South Africa has had to submit to gunfire. In Durban a star-crossed lover guns down his girl friend in the Trust Bank. In Springs a police are held off for five hours in a gun battle in a saloon.

Unusual? Not in the least. All year round South Africans, Black and White alike, are shot down just like sheep.

In Johannesburg — which has more murders than the whole of England, Scotland and Wales combined — shooting incidents are reported almost daily. Shooting in public places — with innocent bystanders getting plugged, sometimes fatally — is no rarity.

Surprising? Again, not in the least. . . not in a country where gun possession has reached fantastic proportions.

Precisely how many guns are there in private ownership in this country? That is anybody's guess.

Generally accepted figure (licensed and unlicensed weapons) is 2-million, making White South Africans together with the Americans the biggest private owners of firearms in the world.

The consequences of these deaths-by-gun? Criminals and home armouries are as grim as they are inevitable. Because there are so many guns about, and because they are treated with such massive disrespect, they tend to be used for some highly unorthodox purposes. Such as settling marital disputes, as toys to keep children occupied — even as a sort of home-made border industry.

The price we pay for this folly is staggering. South Africa has a case of murder five times that in the world. In the 11 months from July 1, 1971, to May 31 this year, according to figures supplied to The Gazette by Pretoria, the police recorded a total of 7,220 murder dockets. Of these, 4,491 cases were sent to trial, 144 charges were withdrawn, 1,446 cases were unsolved and 579 were still under inquiry-to be false.

Exactly how many of these were gun murders? No one knows. The figures are not broken down. But even so, Brig. Hattingh, recently given in Parliament, it is estimated that about 400 South Africans a year die of gunshot wounds accidentally inflicted, and inflicted unintentionally inflicted.

It can (and is) argued that such fatalities have been brought about less by the prevalence of guns than by some intangible factors, such as the nervous instability of the national temperament, or by particular social problems such as the strains of urbanization and deculturization or the complexity of our ethnic and racial mixture.

Such arguments cut both ways. Here it can be argued that a nation with such a temperament or social problems needs stricter, not looser, gun control.

How is that South Africa and the U.S. are the most urban industrial nations on earth which permit private citizens literally to walk around at any time carrying a gun?

Well, both countries have a rather similar Wild West tradition. . . that is not a man who doesn't have a gun, that a man takes all men equal, a tradition with its origins in the formative days of both nations. For the first days of their history South Africans were as particularly-armed as the frontiersmen people, struggling to control the wilderness about them. Also, they lived on a continent abounding with edible game — and a man ate better when he shot better.

Finally and no less importantly there were the Black cattle raiders, often formidable opponents.Like the White man they had guns and like him they didn't hesitate to use them.

None of them fought by the rules of the Geneva Convention. Truly can it be said that the gun tamed South Africa.

But that was long ago and far away. Today the police have very little sympathy indeed for this lingering gun culture.

And with Britons generally? Are police making any attempt to stem the alarming spread of guns? Indeed. Under police pressure Parliament passed the Arms and Ammunition Act of 1968, which transfers control of gun licences from the Department of Justice to the SAP.

A Central Arms Registry has been set up and all those now holding gun licences must apply to be re-licensed before February next year. A year-long amnesty has been declared in which those holding unlicensed guns may hand them over to the police, no questions asked, and with the possibility of a licence being granted if conditions warrant it. Stolen firearms must now be reported within 48 hours.

Many (including the police) feel that even now there is not enough clout in the gun control laws but at least the new Act is our first major step towards sanity.

Foreign Junkets Irk Taxpaying Public

By DON O'HEARN
From The Intelligencer's
Queen's Park Bureau

This fall or next winter members here at Queen's Park will be voting themselves a raise in pay.

At the time there will be some public criticism but all the members will be hurt, and somewhat surprised that the public is not more understanding.

There has always been some cynicism when the indemnities and expense allowances are increased (usually every four years), but this time there could be a peak of indignation.

If so, a trip the select committees of economic nationalism is taking could be a main reason.

It was announced a while ago that the 11-member committee intended to spend three weeks in Europe and the U.K. in September, visiting six countries in all. The reaction from the man on the street to this was sudden and strong. There was derision.

Members of the committee were short-sighted in deciding on this trip, for how else could they expect the public to view it except as a junket, if only because 11 men could have nothing to add to what one, or two or three could find out.

Because of this alone, the members should have known better.

But they had a further reason to have given much more sober thought to their expedition than they apparently did. This was that until very recently the committees of this house were never let travel beyond continental North America.

Our premiers of the day had an absolute prohibition on this, and if the members concerned felt reflected on why they did, they would have realized it was because they, master politicians, appreciated that overseas junkets could be political dynamite.

This prohibition was broken through a couple of years ago by the 13-member committee on election law, and in a big way. This committee managed to go not only to the U.K. but to Australia, to California and a number of other states and to British Columbia and Quebec.

There no public reassurance in the way this came about.

The chairman of the committee, Tory member Edward Dunlop, had suggested that perhaps he and one or two other members should study experience in other countries firsthand. But the members couldn't decide just who should go, so they went by train and thought the U.K. and Australia trips were partially divided up).

Now a precedent has been set, and with the nationalism committee it is doing the grand tour as a body.

There are many pros and cons as to such trips being realistically justified even for one or a few members. This is a controversy for another day, except to say for those that there was evidence in the election law committee report that there was a value to its first - hand study.

But whether justified or not the members have been politically inept in their approach. And because of their ineptness (and that of other committees which may now follow along) there can be little sympathy if the public gets aroused over their next raise (which, incidentally, they merit).

"Then spake Jesus again unto them, saying, I am the light of the world: he that followeth Me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life."—John 8:12

When we find ourselves spending a great deal or time in the "dark" in the matters of life, it is a good sign we need to walk a little closer to Him "who is the light of the world".

Today In History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Aug. 19, 1972 . . .

Canadians paid a heavy toll 30 years ago today — 1942—when units of the 2nd Division raided the French town of Dieppe during the Second World War. Of the nearly 5,000 men who crossed the English Channel, 3,369 were—9 1119—ii, wounded or captured. The main body of attackers were stalled on the beaches and only a handful of troops managed to break into the town. Despite the great loss, the attack was regarded by many military strategists as a valuable lesson for later seaborne landings.

1954—The United States Congress approved a bill outlawing the Communist party.

1871—Pioneer aviator Orville Wright was born.

1809—Accommodation, Inc. first Canadian steamship, was launched at Montreal.

Choquette's Measures Criticized

Montreal La Presse: On July 31 a selection of editorials from the English-language press of Canada appeared on this page . . .

Now, on this particular day, four out of five editorials severely judged Justice Minister Jerome Choquette's law giving the police commission extraordinary powers to combat terrorism.

Thus the editorial writer from London Free Press writes: "Nobody in Canada or Quebec is ready to accept terrorism as a threat with organized crime." Anything short of suspension of civil rights and control of the rights of man.

Other influential newspapers, Ottawa Citizen, Winnipeg Free Press Hamilton Spectator expressed a similar opinion in different terms.

Throughout all, the criticism aimed at Mr. Choquette's law, which could be said that opposite words were trying to put the whole of Quebec society on trial.

The conclusion sums up the editorial well: "How can intelligent Canadians value freedom, not recognize tyranny when they see it?"

The Globe's outburst is exaggerated because it believes it detects in a law which, according to the newspaper, gives excessive powers to police commission investigators.

The editorial writer finds it fashionable that the investigators themselves can issue warrants . . . when such a power should be reserved to a judge outside the commission. . . .

Mr. Choquette himself has answered his critics, at least indirectly. His responses have not disarmed his critics nor reassured the public.

It is strange to note to what extent the English press remains preoccupied with the form the investigation into organized crime will take while here . . . opinion is divided between those who believe the investigation is necessary and those who think it useless.

It is necessary. . . .

Saskatchewan Catholic Bishop Aids Those Leaving Priesthood

SASKATOON (CP) — Bishop James Mahoney of the Saskatoon Roman Catholic diocese understands the feelings of priests who want to leave the priesthood for marriage or because they can't cope.

Leaving the priesthood isn't an easy thing or a decision arrived at overnight but one that causes a great deal of mental anguish, Bishop Mahoney said in an interview.

Canadian bishops had supported a motion that priests be allowed to marry but the motion "voted down solidly" at Vatican II.

When a decision is made by a priest in his diocese to leave the priesthood or discontinue the celibate life he usually comes to Bishop Mahoney.

"Together we apply to Rome, asking that the priest be no longer bound by his obligations to the priesthood.

"In return for the granting of the request, the priest is asked to cease preaching, dispensing of sacraments and celebrating mass."

When this process is followed, the priest is free to marry in the church, the bishop said. Prior to 1962, a priest would face threat of excommunication.

Bishop Mahoney said none had left his diocese in an atmosphere of confrontation or anger. It had been personal sorrow on both sides.

"It has never been an easy thing for them to, take away. . . . There hasn't been a guy leaving who hasn't . . . received understanding from fellow priests."

Bishop Mahoney said four priests of Saskatoon diocese all had married within a year of leaving the priesthood. Also, all by their own choice, had left the city.

All found employment in teaching or social work within four months of their departure from the city.

For the last five or six years there had been a "vocational crisis" within the church with fewer people entering the priesthood.

"The church is in time of change and turmoil it hardly ask treactivé because you don't know what you're attracted to."

Old Tomb Of Pope Discovered

VATICAN CITY (Reuter) — Vatican archeologists say they have found the tomb of Saint Calixtus—the oldest tomb of a pope to be discovered apart from the legendary burial place of the first pope, Saint Peter, in the Vatican itself.

The reported tomb of St. Calixtus, pope from 217 AD until his martyrdom in 222, was located on the Via Aurelia, the road north out of ancient Rome.

He was always known to have been buried somewhere in the Rome area but the tomb itself had not been identified until now.

St. Calixtus became pope when Christianity was still a partially underground religion in the Roman empire. He was killed by being thrown into a well then he was discovered baptizing a man in the area across the Tiber River now known as Trastevere.

St. Calixtus was said to have been born in the area and he founded the church of Santa Maria in Trastevere, one of the oldest in Rome.

The archaeologists identified the tomb from a series of frag ments of frescoes on its walls depicting the martyrdom of Calixtus.

In one fragment a man dressed in pallium and wearing a type of papal hat is being thrown into a well by two men. Also on the fragment are the letters "tus"—taken to come from the end of his name—and "pale," the beginning of the word palaeal (well).

One fragment discovered by the archaeologists showed the same scene with the letters: "pxis . . . ant . . . . s . . . . c . . . . m . . . . i . . . . taken to be part of the Latin inscription, "in paternam lactant sanctal-Istum" (they threw Saint Calixtus in the well)

'Church Lobby' Active in U.S.

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The church lobby," some call it. Others describe it as an "educational" organization.

By whatever name, religious groups in the United States today maintain an impressive array of offices in the nation's capital devoted to the public issues of the times.

"We seek to inject moral principles into the country's decision making," says Rev. Eldon Ernest Fife, the United Methodist governmental-relations liaison representative in Washington. "It's a vital responsibility of the churches."

Testimony before on the federal legislative scene, which expanded chiefly in the mid-1960s drive for former civil rights standards, lately has taken on a decidedly religious dimension to the Vietnam war and efforts for welfare reform and anti-poverty measures.

But the religious "government relations" offices have been on a myriad of other issues, ranging from education to environmental pollution and tax policies, actual both to keep their denominations posted and to convey church positions to the lawmakers.

The process occasionally arouses complaints about church "meddling in politics," but the religious representatives reply that every significant political issue has moral implications, a distinctive concern of the churches.

No other institution works specifically to "shape public values" into society's policy, making process. Edward F. Snyder, director of the Office of the Friendly Committee on National Legislation, writes in the Christian Century.

"It is appropriate and important that the churches bring their concerns for peace and justice into the legislative arena.

In any case, nearly every major American religious body, Protestant, Roman Catholic and Jewish, as well as the National Interdenominational organizations have permanent agencies for liaison with the federal city. They shape joint strategy through a "Washington Interreligious Staff Council" which lists about 30 members and meets every two weeks.

Opinions of their effectiveness varies. Father Robert J. Drinan, Democratic congressman from Massachusetts, is simply of a black and white opinion.

He said the success of the aid depended on its shock value. Nearly every beggar man reads Playboy, and they'd never seen anything like it before."

He added there were no plans to repeat the experiment. "This kind of thing, you can only do once."

Playboy Ad Brings Students

NEW YORK (Reuter) — A full-page ad in Playboy magazine seeking young men for the priesthood has brought in 600 inquiries—at a time when recruitment is declining.

Sandwiched among ads for naked young women, sports cars, and stereo sets in a recent edition, the ad said: "You who have love to give and the courage to offer it . . . come work with your brothers."

About 600 readers replied to the small community that closed the ad, the Order of the Most Holy Trinity, The Trinitarians work mainly among the poor, the imprisoned, and the mentally ill.

Rev. Joseph Lupo, the order's vocational director, said about 20 of the young men who wrote had so far been accepted for the lengthy process of testing for the priesthood. If approved, they will enter a seminary.

"The average intake of Trinitarian students is about five a year. Father Lupo said advertisements in other magazines had received a poor response and recruitment was on a steep decline.

Father Lupo said the magazine was the best way to reach young men who might be potential priests. "We were just not getting through to the people in the second and third year at college, and it was made clear to me we would get the most mileage from Playboy."

He said the success of the ad depended on its shock value.

He added there were no plans to repeat the experiment. "This kind of thing, you can only do once."

It Can Happen Today, Too

Healing Theme Runs Through Gospels

By The Rev. Gordon C. Smyth

If you go through the four Gospels with a pair of scissors cutting out their healing stories, you might end up with three separate Gospels themselves. You would have removed one half of the record of the mission and message of Jesus.

You may recall the natural interest of John the Baptist in our Lord's ministry. The forerunner of the Messiah kept receiving reports in prison and felt sure and yet wanted to be double sure. He sent two disciples to inquire, "Are you He who is to come, or shall we look for another?"

Jesus replied, "Go and tell John what you have seen and heard: the blind receive their sight, the lame walk, lepers are cleansed, and the deaf hear, the dead are raised up, the poor have good news preached to them. And blessed is he who takes no offence at Me." This reply was to substantiate our Lord's authority to preach and forgive sins.

The text of that authority was the quality of the life He transmitted to others. In Jesus we see complete maturity and find that, through such maturity, the very Being of the Cosmic Power He called "Father" is expressed. For instance, the purpose and balance of His reactions, His freedom from legalism and moral disorder, like that of the "demoniac" (Luke 8:26-39), spirits", and the man sat at Jesus' feet, "clothed and in his right mind". We saw this also in Pittsburgh. Indeed, somebody who felt the feather-like touch of Kathryn Kuhlman's fingers on his forehead standing. An alert and sympathetic attendant was on hand to deal with each of those who began slumping to the floor as the healing gift of God was transmitted. I will never forget the scene.

Again, it was like being in Galilee to witness the telepathic impact of Miss Kuhlman's ministry. "Somebody in the right gallery has been healed of arthritis," she exclaimed at one point. Someone in the centre pews was also being healed at this very moment of breast cancer," she would break into what she was otherwise saying to announce. Remember the healing of the centurion's servant without Jesus taking any step to go to him (Matthew 8:5-13)? The traditional distinction between organic disease and functional illness is breaking down.

However, I have never actually there. I suggest you read the impressive series of broadcasts about Kathryn Kuhlman in "God Can Do It Again" published by Prentice-Hall. I suggest you ponder these words published by Jesus Christ, "He who believes in Me will also do the works that I do. . . ." (John 14:12). Every finger of God is pointing at me and you!

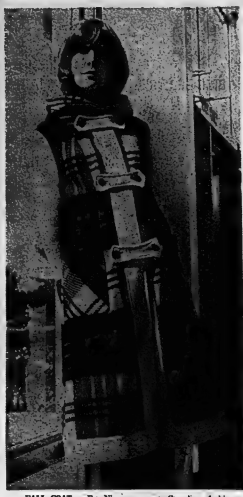
Radical Bible Issue

NEW YORK (AP) — The Bible has been used by some to comfort the afflicted, but now comes The Radical Bible which aims to afflict the comfortable.

This pocket-sized paperback with a cover that looks like blue denim takes selected passages from the Bible and juxtaposes them with quotations and facts from prominent individuals and organizations about the problems of the world and its developing nations.

"The Radical Bible is intended to confront American with the need for justice and the importance of meeting the demands of the poor countries of the world," says Philip Scharper, editor-in-chief of Orbis Books, publishers for the Catholic Foreign Mission Society of America at Maryknoll, N.Y., which has adapted the Radical Bible from its original German version.

The book sold nearly 150,000 copies in Europe and is ready to go into its second printing in the United States. It sells for $1.95.



Quotes from Exodus, Isaiah and Matthew contrast with statements from Martin Luther King, Mahatma Gandhi, Julius K. Nyerere, the president of Tanzania, as well as items from the diary of a Brazilian slum dweller and notes from conferences on world development.

The Bible story of the bogus prophets and the rich man who feasted sumptuously is juxtaposed with a quote from a Presbyterian study that notes, "The dominantly 'white' nations are those with the most Christian tradition and are most often identified with the oppressor and seen as the enemy of the poor."

A passage from Luke reads, "Blessed are you poor for yours is the kingdom of God. Blessed are you that hunger now, for you shall be satisfied."

Then there are the notes from the diary of Carolina Maria de Jesus, who lived in the slums of Brazil:

"The money didn't stretch far enough to buy meat, so I cooked macaroni with carrot. I didn't have any grease, it was horrible. Vera was the only one who complained yet asked for more."

Love for Cooking Turns to Good Business

NIAGARA - ON-THE-LAKE, Ont. (CP) — Kerry Burrows, who always liked to cook, has turned her amateur love of cuisine into a flourishing business and now she is thinking of expansion.

Mrs. Burrows came here last year with four young children and her husband Tom who became general manager of NiaSraFest Shaw Festival. Tom had been managing director of the Yale Repertory Company for the previous five years.

Now she is busy running Kerry's Kitchen which caters to picnickers.

"We always had picnics at Yale," she recalled. "And when we came here last summer I just looked around and saw all those marvellous parks and I couldn't believe no one made picnics.

"Tom and I just fiddled around with the idea all winter."

The idea grew and Kerry's Kitchen opened in mid-June with expectations of continuing throughout the Shaw Festival into September.

Kerry plans to limit it to a summer business this year but she may stretch out her season next year.

While the nightmare of hundreds of customers descending on her for picnic bags hasn't happened, "things are going fine" and as Kerry puts it, "we are equipped to do quite a lot."

There were some growing pains before the season started.

"I was going to do the cooking here at home but the health department said I had 'an uncontrolled kitchen.' That means I have children," she said.

So she looked around and found the place she wanted in the basement of a fire hall on the main street. Now she has plans to move her place of business up to street level so that customers can see her products.

There were other troubles.

"I realized I was so new to business I didn't even know how billing was done. Things began arriving at the house in thousands.

"I ordered Cornish game hens from a company but at first they didn't want to split them for me. I had visions of splitting hundreds of hens but the man finally relented and agreed to break the rule.

"I hadn't even thought about costing the menus until Tom made me sit down in the kitchen and figure out the cost of food, the cost for day care for my children, my supplies and even things like the plumber's bill for installing the sink."

Once she had the details worked out she had handbills printed and bicycled about town distributing them. While she was mainly looking forward to festival visitors as customers, she had the foresight to distribute her handbills to yacht clubs.

Each picnic bag serves two adults and comes complete with napkins and utensils.

Her $3.75 menu consists of sandwiches, cherry tomatoes, assorted puddings, lemonade and fresh fruit. A medium-priced picnic costs $5.75 and the picknickers get cold soup such as zucchini, curry or salmon bisque, fresh local bread, chicken, butter and local cheese, cherry tomatoes, fresh fruits and lemonade.

The "posh" picnic has cold soup, fresh bread, home-made pate, cheese, cold Cornish hens, marinated vegetables, chocolate mousse, fresh fruits and lemonade at a cost of $7.75.

Meagre Advice on Pill

TORONTO (CP) — Doctors are unwittingly contributing to the rise in abortions because they do not provide optimum birth control advice to their patients, says a leading obstetrician.

Dr. Walter Hannah, chief of obstetrics and gynecology at Women's College Hospital here, cites, in a report in the journal of the College of Family Physicians of Canada, doctors who advise women to stop using the pill for a month or two.

"I wish I could tell you the number of women who have been referred for abortion because they were advised by their physician to discontinue the pill for two or three months simply because they have been taking it for one or two years," he writes

Dr. Hannah says many women are uneasy and uncertain about the pill and their doctors fail to reassure them. He says the pill is not perfect but it is a "totally effective, highly safe product."

"There should be an extremely sound reason for not prescribing it."

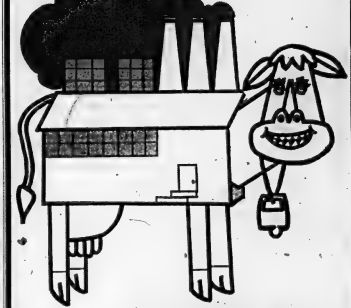
Mirror of Your Mind
by JOHN CAMPBELL

How does a couple know "this is it"?



ONLY someone who has never known "this is it" would ever have to ask that question. When a man and woman arrive at that special plateau when they look neither ahead nor backward, they know they have reached that supreme moment in life when they need only the purest acknowledgment of their love for each other. A couple then sense that they can accept whatever life has to offer; everything is secondary to their love.

Is accepting second best a copout?

NO; not if a person knows its limitations, embodies his motivation and assesses his efforts. Then he has a pretty good idea of whether he is copping out or just doing the best he can. Indeed, such an individual might be more able to accept reality than would the person who must "shoot for the stars" simply because he originally set such a high goal, and settling for anything less would be a blow to his self-esteem.

THAT'S usually unnecessary. In most cases Pop would be more of a hindrance. A son who is anxious to "rev up" an old car probably knows more than his father about such things. Dad could supply the encouragement and should tell his son he is doing a good job. Praise from the "old man" the son looks up to is as much a boost for the teenager's ego as financial aid would be to his wallet.

THE ROSE GARDENS OF CORBY PARK

"Flowers are so enticing I fear they are sins, the gambling or apostasy." — Emily Dickinson.

As one basks in the glory and joy of such floral creativeness and colorful arrangement, awareness looms that the care and love lavished here is allotted with a subtle, disciplined, trained "know-how"; and discovery reveals much is indeed due to the head gardener — Mr. John Eggett.

"I've never taken any courses, or read any books", Mr. Eggett is a believer in experimentation. One of his specialties is grafting rose bushes, thereby producing unusual and beautiful specimens and varieties of roses. "And now," (at time of writing), "is the time to do this. You know, in gardening, much depends on time. There is a time to do—a time not to do."

Mr. Eggett asked how he created the array of roses according to color and combination, he said modestly, "You just plant the roses and the colors you want in groups. Don't try to plant a single yellow rose here and there. Plant the color you want in either large or small groups — this makes for colorful showing."

The flowers call him her care, and Mrs. Eggett is precious, and Mr. Eggett with a bow, hastens to administer to their needs, leaving the visitor to leisurely drink in the beauty about him, with an added dimension, gratitude and appreciation for a gardener who relates well with a deaf French writer, born in 1875, who once wrote:

"Blessed is he suffering more
Inhuman than deafness. But I will not be resigned."

Ann Landers

Sensible Solution To Obesity Problem

Dear Ann Landers: Last month I was 40 pounds overweight but I am losing a half a pound every day and will keep at it until I am down to where I ought to be. My story might help someone else, so please print it.

I weighed 117 when I married in 1955. I don't know how it happened but I kept putting on a little here and a little there, gradually after pregnancies. Three weeks ago I was horrified when the scales registered 157 pounds. I went to my doctor and asked for some pills. He said nothing doing, insisted on a physical examination, found no organic problem and handed me a diet.

He then asked if I did much eackatiling if I ate between meals, and what my favorite foods were. When I told him I eat less than anybody in the family he replied, "I hear that all the time."

Then he instructed me to carry a pencil and paper for three days and write down everything I put into my mouth, even chewing gum. I thought this was crazy but I did it and provided the key to the mystery.

I ate only a small bowl of cereal for breakfast, plus a cup of coffee and a piece of buttered toast. But then I found myself writing down, "Finished Tom and Maria's cereal—just a few spoonfuls — finished John's toast—half a slice . . . finished Nora's bacon and eggs."

Dinner was interesting. While preparing the chicken soup I ate a dumpling and a half-cup of noodles. Before I finished the salad, I had put away an avocado and several tastes of salad dressing. I sampled the whipped-cream frosting on the cake and ate just a smidge of fudge sauce. After dinner I finished Maria's soup, Tom's salad and Julie's dessert.

It soon became clear that it wasn't what I was eating at meals that had made me fat, but tasting and finishing up the leftovers on everyody else's plates. Now that I know the facts, I've put a imaginary padlock on my mouth while cooking and cleaning up. It works like a charm.

Great! You'd better believe it, Ann. I feel light as a feather because victory is in sight. — Former Blimp in Bethesda.

Dear Feather: Bravo. And now, all you overweight readers who don't eat anything," take a lesson.

Dear Ann Landers: I wrote to you a few years ago to say my plants were dying. Then I told you my neighbor explained the reason. She said I didn't speak to them nicely, and their feelings were hurt.

I thought she was nuts, until she showed me how beautifully her plants were flourishing. I concluded there must be something to it and decided to give it a try. Well, Ann, ever since I've started to talk to my plants they've been thriving.

I kept this secret to myself

Successful Living

Love Implies Force of Character

By DORIS CLARK

What is love?. . .Is it a game, an adventure, a desire to seduce or dominate? Or is it a human and, even a divine reality, the summit of friendship implying a gift?

Love is the highest and the most profound mystery of the universe, the source and end of all things, but it implies force of character, inner fidelity, intelligence, delicacy of heart and above all the capacity to listen, to accept and to place oneself at the disposition of the other.

These attitudes are rare in our society but rare things are often the most beautiful and the heart and mind of man must be developed towards them. — from Eruption To Hope — by Jean Vanier.

Dear Doris: The letter from Frustrated Mother touched my heart. I too had a problem child, very hard to manage. One day I looked my problem over and changed by tactics.

The boy was also a mischief, but I started treating his escapades casually, grateful him when I could. I never allowed my relatives to tag him a bad boy. Neither he insisted on doing something wrong for the child's fall on and it was no love tap.

But we always talked things over calmly. I never allowed the other children to twit each other about his misdeeds.

Today my "problem son" is a handsome, well-adjusted, successful businessman. When I visit his palatial home his children are delighted to see Grandma.

Don't punish your little boy for wetting and messing himself; underneath there is a frightened, hurt child. Have patience; it will take grit and grunch, but it will pay off. And don't forget to pray about it. — Grandman Past 80.

Dear Grandma: Good for you. You show rare patience, love and good sense — and what you have done will help other puzzled parents.

Dear Doris: I am 15. I am not boy crazy but would enjoy the company of boys if I could speak to them. I just go cold and sweaty and clam up.

Boys like witty girls. Any boy must dread sitting with a big dumb nut (me) as much as I dislike sitting with him.

Each night when I go to sleep I cry about it. My mother told me to "just be yourself" when I'm with the opposite sex but I just cannot. It is affecting my school work. — Stupid Dumb Me.

Dear Stupid: I hope you do not think you are the first girl who got tongue-tied when she happened to find a boy next to her. I was like that myself, once.

If for one period of 30 seconds you could realize that that boy is worrying, not about you, but about himself, and then give him a big smile and tell him it's a nice day, you would look feel better.

Another secret: When you speak make it a question — about something he's keen on. Pay a little attention to football news and try to know something about what goes on right around home.

Be a good listener. Every time you start to wonder how you look or to worry about what he thinks of you, banish the thought.

Teachers Hear Feminist

TORONTO (CP) — Feminist Gloria Steinem told a group of women teachers Thursday night, "If there is to be a better tomorrow, then we have wasted our trip here today."

Addressing the Federation of Women Teachers' Association, the editor of Ms. magazine told the teachers that women are participating in a revolution, not merely reform.

Preferring to be called Ms. rather than Miss, she said:

"The movement is for all women, as long as we are discriminated against, and it's so important for teachers."

Ms. Steinem said the feminist movement is ridiculed, misunderstood and trivialized in the press.

Women, and blacks, are discriminated against for political and economic reasons, she said.

"There is a myth that what women want to be is like men. . . A man is not an attractive thing to be."

Earlier, at a news conference, Ms. Steinem said women are beginning to examine their roles in life with a view to changing them for the better.

She said men resent the fact they are supposed to be the sole bread-winners for the family but if they are channelled into a job, they are not allowed to complain and they don't see their children as often as they like.

Margaret Sloan, a black feminist active in Chicago, said black women are the bottom of the U.S. earning scale, black men next, then white women "and you know who on top."

"Black people are beginning to be taken seriously on a token level, and that's a big step, but women are still ridiculed."

Club Honors Couple

A surprise dinner party was held at the Four Seasons Hotel, Belleville, to honor Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rayfield on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary.

Friends were present from Belleville, Stirling, Cobourg, Lindsay, Delhi, Smithville, Toronto, Brantford and Montreal. These were friendships made through the fellowship of the Energetic Club of Holloway Street United Church, Belleville. This club was formed in the fall of 1931 and the honored guests were charter members. Mr. Rayfield was president of the club in 1936. The friendships formed in this club have lasted through the years, even though members have moved to other areas. It was the general wish that they get together to honor the Rayfield's at this time.

After Grace was said by a former member Charlie Heath from Delhi a delicious dinner was served in the family banquet room overlooking the Bay of Quinte. A time of reminiscence was enjoyed during the meal especially as when guests changed their arrangements between courses with further chance to visit.

Following the meal, Fred Woodley of Colborne in a humorous manner proposed a toast to the couple and Mrs. Ken Ray of Brantford on behalf of the group presented them with a beautiful table lamp for which both expressed appreciation; also for the event in their honor.

After a sing-song with Mrs. Olive Downey of Lindsay at the piano the gathering spent the rest of the evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Campbell where a time of fellowship was enjoyed.

Lunch was served at midnight to conclude a most eventful evening.

FAMILY REUNION

LLOYD CLAN

TWEED — Sixty members of the Lloyd family gathered at the residence of Ward Lloyd, at RR 31, Kaladar, recently for the annual family reunion. The weather was ideal, hot and cool for that time of the year.

Members were present from Northumberland, Peterborough, Athelston, Quebec, Sharon, Newtonville, Detroit, Michigan, Tampa, Florida, Belleville, Whitby, Deseronto, Toronto, London and Blackstock.

Lunch was served and enjoyed by all.

Many new members were present this year. It is expected that the family will meet again next year at Walt Lloyd's home.

Survey Reveals Mixed Opinion On Lord's Day Act in Canada

By MIKE WILLIAMS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A recent ruling by an Alberta Supreme Court judge it no longer is a crime to work on Sundays in that province makes it official, but in reality the law has been all but ignored for several years across the nation.

Mr. Justice Harold Riley ruled that the key section of the Lord's Day Act is outside the jurisdiction of criminal law.

Since 1906, the section of the law has made it legal to work on Sundays only for employees involved in essential public services.

"Section 4 of the Lord's Day Act is, to say the least, obsolete, archaic, inapplicable and unenforceable and in no sense criminal law," Mr. Justice Riley said in handing down his decision.

A Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press shows that although the law is a federal one, provincial governments, whose job it is to enforce it, have been stretching regulations to give workers almost complete freedom to operate on the seventh day.

In the Maritime provinces, as in all other provinces, government agencies are lenient, and none has recorded convictions under the law in recent years.

New Brunswick's Deputy Minister of Justice G. F. Gregory said in an interview the act isn't policed except in response to complaints.

"Frankly," he added, "we simply don't get complaints."

Most small concerns in the Atlantic provinces have been allowed to operate on Sunday and other concerns, including construction, are given permission to operate with special permits, in some cases issued by municipalities.

In Quebec, most small operations again are exempted from the Lord's Day Act and union leaders of larger firms say it is "fairly easy" to get permission to open on the seventh day.

Some officials, however, feel that workers asked to work Sundays should be compensated.

Says Ferand Daoust, secretary-general of the Quebec Federation of Labor: "It is a moral reign:

"We have long fought against workers having to work on Sunday which we consider a privileged day for everyone to rest. Some services we recognize as essential, such as hospitals. But in cases where continuing operations are not essential, we demand overtime pay for workers to try to discourage employers from extending operations to Sunday."

Alec Harper, assistant general manager of the Montreal Board of Trade, feels laws should be uniform.

"If laws do restrict working hours, we would rather they be uniform such as a federal or provincial law rather than a mass of municipal laws."

Canon A. E. Rawlins of the Anglican Church of Canada says people will work on Sundays no matter what—"little cars stop them."

"I always work on Sunday," he added.

In Ontario, the practice is no different than elsewhere in Canada and in most it seems that officials are even more lenient.

A spokesman for the attorney general's department said there's a "plenty" of so-called non-essential work going on in the province Sunday.

The provincial government itself is probably an offender," he said, "with its many that operate on Sundays with full staff. Canada and water systems with staffed locks operate seven days. The list is endless."

Some "continual process" industries have an "understanding" with the ministry that they won't be prosecuted if they operate on Sundays, the spokesman added.

However, there have been some prosecutions of retail outlets, particularly supermarkets, in Toronto, Hamilton and Ottawa.

Manitoba's Deputy Attorney-General E. Pilkey says the Lord's Day Act is "not strictly enforced" in the province, and "quite a bit" of non-essential work goes on on Sunday.

The province's Employment Standards' Act stipulates that employers, except under certain conditions, give employees a full 34-hour day of rest each week.

While the act says that "wherever possible the rest period shall be on Sunday," it does not require it.

Mr. Pilkey said he cannot remember any prosecutions in recent years.

Bill Davies, executive secretary of the Saskatchewan Federation of Labor, said in an interview that the federation does not want to see too much relaxation of the law.

In that province, policing of the law is done by local law officials and deputy attorney-general Roy Bickerton says he can't remember any recent prosecutions under the act.

Most operators, particularly small ones, take advantage of the lax enforcement and continue operations on Sunday.

Father Thomas Kroetsch of St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Cathedral in Edmonton, says Sunday as a day of rest is up to the individual.

"Everyone should have time set aside to fulfil human relationships, whether this is Sunday or not," he said.

As in all other provinces, Alberta enforces most operations continuing on Sundays, in contravention of the act.

In British Columbia, Attorney-General Leslie Peterson's office says most operations are allowed to continue Sundays except where complaints are received.

Although there have been no recent prosecutions under the act that anyone can recollect, there is one outstanding against a Vancouver Island dry goods store after numerous complaints by residents.

Who Is Wildest ?

Beast Brings Out Worst in Spectators

By RANDY DERRY
Sports Staff

Professional wrestling isn't the type of work for just anybody. You have to have that little animal in you to crawl into the ring night after night and hammer your fellow man, which brings us to The Beast who has a bit more animal than most.

The Beast, or Wolf as he is affectionately called by his friends, is a 15-year veteran of the world of professional wrestling and has the scars to prove it.

"Some guy in Philadelphia pulls a knife on me and starts slashing away, and some nut breaks my head open with a bottle in Montreal it's a pretty rough life," reflects Wolf on some of the less eventful moments of his wrestling career as he rubs a five-inch scar which has killed the feeling in his arm from the elbow down.

His life now isn't exactly a bed of roses but he considers it better than what life would be like in his native Hungary, the home that developed his wrestling attitude and view on life in general.

"There was lots of trouble in the old country and now I hate everybody. I don't trust anyone. They call me a bad guy and dirty when I wrestle but I've been hurt often enough to know it's a rough business. I just don't trust anybody," states the former Wolfman.

It's a rough business for the Beast but a good one as it has taken him around the world and will be taking him to Germany this fall.

"I'm not the smartest man alive and there's good money in wrestling so I'll stick with it for awhile."

He earns his money most every night of the week wrestling around the country, usually with his pore the Wildman.

Truthfully, the six-foot-three, 286-pound Beast isn't as wild and animalistic as his name and attitude make him appear. In fact he was quite friendly and calm when asking bystanders where he could get a quart of blood after Friday night's Belleville wrestling card.

Wrestlers get thirsty too!

Beautiful Bruce Forgets Friendship

An old flame was rekindled in Friday night's professional wrestling card at the Memorial Arena when Beautiful Bruce Swayze returned to the ring in a spectacular demonstration of wrestling science with Eric the Red.

The former tag team partners, who have become sworn enemies over a dispute about money, met each other for the third time last night with the blood and bodies flying. Nothing was held back as fists and feet were pushed into every conceivable part of the wrestlers exterior.

All wrestling rules and mode of conduct were quickly forgotten as the pair turned the ring into a blood-covered battle ground. The official results had both wrestlers disqualified and the unofficial results had both Beautiful Bruce and Eric the Red hurting.

Beautiful Bruce's return to the ring last night marked his first appearance in Belleville since his recovery from a broken back sustained last month. His recovery seemed complete as the crowd pleaser whirlwind Eric's best shots and came back for more.

In another main attraction bout, popular Italian favorite Vic Rossatanni survived the Beast's needle sharp attack to record a comeback victory.

The Beast put a six-inch needle to good work for most of the bout, keeping Vic reeling but once he lost his metal aid he was no match for the inspired Rossatanni.

In a mixed tag team feature tiff the duo of lady Rachel DuBois and midget Bobo Johnson soon came out on top of Beverly Shade and the Little Bruiser.

Two Too Many

One was enough for Rachel DuBois to handle but two was a bit too much when Beverly Shade and the Little Bruiser ganged up on her in last night's professional wrestling mixed tag-team bout. Rachel soon was rescued by her team mate Bobo Johnson and the duo went on to win the match.

Meads Over Biggest Hump

Mead Johnson have made it over the hump! The division B pennant winners captured the division winners' double round-robin series with a 3-2 win over The Intelligencer Friday night assuring them of advancing into the semi-finals of the Industrial Softball League play-offs.

Back in — back homers from Gary Genereaux and Ken Lesseirs were the sparks that set fire on fire in their second win over The Intell and third win in the Series.

The homers erased a one-run Printer lead and set the stage for the winning run in the sixth inning. The Printers had taken the lead in the first inning on Genereaux's rbi double.

Sonny Holoway fired the win, allowing eight hits and fanning 12. Gary Genereaux had a homer, double and single to pace the winners.

The CN moved a step closer to wrapping up their series with a 15-12 win over Brooke Bond Friday night.

Hommer Thomas led the Trainmen in their slugfest victory over the Bond with a home run and double. Zane Plumbe had a triple, double and single and Rob McMurter a double and single as the winners rallied for five runs in the seventh frame to snatch the victory.

The Post Office are finding a win hard to come by in their series, dropping their second play-off start 5-2 to Stewart Warner last night.

Fred Davis picked up the win, firing a four-hitter and whiffing two. Ed Christopher had a circuit clout for Warner's big blast.

Ray Johnson was tagged with the loss for the Posties. He was touched for eight hits.

East Meets West at Track

KINGSTON — East is east and west is west and Sunday the twain shall meet.

John's Prince of Scely's Bay and Rapid Henry of Russell make up the easterly half and Mary Bing of Colbourne and Phillaurie of Picton the western half in Sunday's featured ninth race at Frontenac Downs.

Argo End Splits

TORONTO (CP) — Jim Henderson, a third-year split end with Toronto Argonauts, left the Eastern Football Conference club's camp Friday after a dispute with head coach John Gabriel.

The Argos, who have an 0-3 won-loss record this season, also announced Friday night that Bill Van Burkleo, a quarterback defensive halfback released earlier in the season by Calgary Stampeders, had been cut.

This means Jim Chasey, former Montreal Alouette quarterback, will be the back-up man to Greg Barton when the Argos play in Winnipeg against the Blue Bombers next Wednesday.

Saturday	6.15	12.30	6.45	1.05
Sunday	7.20	1.30	7.40	1.55

Actually the referee isn't giving the Beast a haircut or shave but trying to pull him off Vic Rossatanni. The Beast used most of the dirty tricks in the book but all for naught as the crowd favorite, Rossatanni, stormed back from early setbacks to win the match. The bout was one of an action-packed card of professional wrestling at the Memorial Arena.

King Holding Court

DENVER (AP) — Wimbledon champion Billie Jean King averted an upset Friday with a third-set rally which propelled her into the semi-finals of the $25,000 Virginia Slims of Denver International tennis tournament. After sagging badly in the second set, the top seeded Mrs. King, regained her composure for a 6-1, 1-6, 6-3 victory over Julie Heldman of Houston to move into today's semi-final opposite Australian Lesley Hunt, a 6-4, 6-2 upset winner over Francoise Durr of France.

Peewees Cross First Road

TORONTO — The Belleville Conductors and Brakemen peewees crossed one tough road only to run into an even tougher one as they advance into the second round of the 32-team Star - CNE Peewee Baseball Tournament.

The Belleville team blanked their Eastern Ontario Baseball Association final series opponents from Peterborough 6-0 Friday night to advance into the next round where they will face defending champion Hamilton Police, 16-1 victors over Paris.

Peter Hall was the star in the Belleville win, throwing a three-hitter. He fanned 14 and did not walk a man. Bill Gow snapped a double and single, Bruce Bell two singles and Andy Lupenette a double to lead the locals at the plate.

That won't be the last the Conductors and Brakemen will be seeing of the Peterborough nine as both teams went at it again today in the second game of their EOBA championship series with Belleville leading the best-of-three series 1-0.

Flyers End On Winning Note

The Supreme Fence Flyers ended their regular season on a winning note Friday night with a convincing 6-1 victory over the Golden Mile.

Randy Cox led the way for the Fence with a hat trick while Paul D'Anna netted a pair and Gary Fredericks one.

American Black Athletes Might Join African Boycott

MUNICH (AP) — A group of black American track stars has projected itself into the smouldering Rhodesian rhubarb with the Olympic Games set to open a week from today.

The American blacks indicated they might not compete in a "united stand with our African brothers" if white-ruled Rhodesia is permitted to participate in the Games.

Eleven African countries, headed by talent-loaded Ethiopia and Kenya, have said they will pull out of the Games unless Rhodesia is booted out.

The International Olympic Committee, which runs the show, and Avery Brundage, the American president who runs the IOC, has said repeatedly that Rhodesia will compete.

"This is pure politics, pure politics," says Brundage, 84. "We are not concerned with politics. All sportsmen will be here.

"We made an agreement a year ago with the National Olympic Committees concerned. Rhodesia was invited. Rhodesia will participate."

The American blacks, among the early arrivals at Olympic Village, issued a one-paragraph statement as a nameless group.

"In light of the Rhodesian acceptance into the Games, the U.S.' Black Athletes now in Olympic Park believe it imperative to take a stand concerning the issue. We denounce Rhodesia's participation and, if they are allowed to compete, we will take a united stand with our African brothers."

A general walkout by blacks from the American track, basketball and boxing teams would cripple the U.S. team and take away much of the hoopla from the Games, held every four years.

An IOC executive committee member said Brundage had the complete backing of the board because the African countries had agreed to the conditions of the Rhodesian participation, under which the Rhodesians would use the Union Jack and the British national anthem. There are seven blacks on the Rhodesia team.

The Rhodesians say they intend to stay.

Ethiopia and Tanzania have officially withdrawn from the Games. Uganda has served notice along with Liberia and Mali. Kenya, Zambia, Sudan, Somalia, Ghana and Sierra Leone are ready to walk out.

Sanderson Still Eligible To Play for Team Canada?

BOSTON (AP) — A court ruling that two Boston Bruins stars who jumped to the World Hockey Association are still bound to the National Hockey League should make them eligible to play for Team Canada against Russia, lawyer Robert G. Woolf said Friday.

Woolf, who represents a luminous string of major league stars from several sports, said if Derek Sanderson, who he represents, and Gerry Cheevers are still bound to the NHL they should be eligible to play in the September series.

Earlier the NHL ruled them ineligible for the team because they had joined the WHA. However, U.S. District Court Judge Levin H. Campbell ruled Thursday that they were bound to the Bruins until Oct. 1 when current NHL contracts expire.

Woolf said that if the two players are still part of the NHL, there should be no reason why they couldn't play for the Canadian team.

"I'm not sure of he (Derek) would want to play if he wasn't truly wanted," Woolf said. "But I still would like to see them play . . . against the Russians. I think it's only fair."

In his decision, Campbell said the two players, who helped the Bruins to their second Stanley Cup championship in three years last season, must refrain from making public appearances on behalf of Cleveland and Philadelphia.

He scheduled a hearing on the enforceability of the NHL's reserve clause for Sept. 7 before Chief Judge Andrew A. Caffrey.

Detroit's Turn to Have Upper Hand

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The American League East Division race is having its ups and downs. Right now, Detroit Tigers are up and Baltimore Orioles are down.

Detroit moved into first place again with a 2-0 victory over the California Angels Friday night while Baltimore lost to Minnesota Twins 3-1.

"I don't feel any different being in first place," said Detroit manager Billy Martin who said the same last week when his team dropped to second.

"It'll be an interesting race," said California manager Del Rice, "Not too many guys are playing well in that Eastern Division."

The Tigers have lost seven of their last 10 games and have a half-game lead over Baltimore despite their inept play of late. That's because the Orioles have been almost as inept-losing six of 10.

The same can't be said of the volatile West race, where Oakland Athletics hold a big game lead over Chicago White Sox. The Athletics have won five of their last seven including Friday night's 8-0 triumph over Cleveland Indians. The White Sox have taken 20 of 23, including an 8-1 blitz of Boston Red Sox Friday night.

Nolan Ryan set a California single-season strikeout record by raising his total to 211 with five Friday night.

John (Blue Moon) Odom pitched a four-hitter and Sal Bando and Bert Campaneris hit two-run homers to lead Oakland over Cleveland.

Chicago blasted Boston with the home run ball as Dick Allen and Ed Johnstone each delivered three-run clouts for the White Sox. Allen, who leads the American League in homers with 29 and RBI with 81, moved into a tie for the lead in batting with .317 alongside Oakland's Joe Rudi.

Pitcher Can Throw, Too

It was the first National League win for the young right-hander who had struggled through five previous losses while wielding a bat that has produced a .356 average.

Against the Giants, Durham scored the game's first run in the third inning and produced the winner in the fifth with his second major league home run.

Swim Uniforms

Members of Canada's Olympic swimming team will wear swimsuits with a distinctive Canadian motif when they compete in this year's games in Munich, Germany. The lightweight nylon suits, designed by Speedo Knitting Mills Ltd. of Australia, consist of white maple leaves against a red background with blue and white vertical stripes. Speedo, designed swim suits will be worn by swimmers of more than 40 countries competing in this year's Olympics.

Court Lobbed Out

TORONTO (CP) — Virginia Wade of Great Britain lobbed her way into today's women's singles, final of the Canadian open tennis championships Friday with a 6-3, 1-6, 6-3 victory over Margaret Court of Australia.

She'll meet Evonne Goolagong of Australia, last year's Wimbledon queen, who gained a flawless straight-set 6-3, 6-2 decision Friday over fourth-seeded Linda Tuero of Mexicairie, La.

In men's singles, Andrew Pattison of Rhodesia tripped Bob Hewitt of South Africa 6-2, 3-6, 6-2, ensuring one unseeded player will make it to Sunday's final which pays $11,000 to the winner and $5,500 to the loser.

Romania entered today's semi-finals when seventh-seeded Adriano Panatta of Italy had to retire in the first set due to a muscle pull in his back.

Pattison's adversary will be unseeded Jaime Fillol of Chile who ousted Jiro Velasco of Colombia 6-1, 7-6.

Fillol also has recorded four straight-set victories and has been unbeatable in three times he was involved in best-of-nine points tiebreakers used to decide sets that go to 6-6 in games.

In doubles, Hewitt and countryman Free McMillan whipped Mike Belkin of Toronto and Eddie Dibbs of Miami 6-2, 6-0 to advance to the semi-finals against Jan Kodes and Jan Kukal.

Young Also Coaching Seals

OAKLAND (AP) — Garry Young, general manager of California Golden Seals, was named Friday as coach of the team as well for the coming National Hockey League season.

"I was very happy to accept the job," said Young, 31, who joined the Seals last year after 20 years in Boston Bruins' organization.

Fred Glover began last season as Seals' coach but was fired by Young about two weeks later. Former Philadelphia Flyers coach Vic Stasiuk took over, but was fired at the end of the season after losing the team to a fifth-place finish in the Western Division.

Glover recently rejoined the Seals as executive vice president for owner Charles Oknsky.

Ten players who finished last year with the Seals have been signed by teams in the new World Hockey Association.

Sport Briefs

MILWAUKEE- (AP) — Milwaukee Bucks announced Friday centre Kareem Abdul-Jabbar has signed a new four-year contract which, according to the National Basketball Association club, will make him one of the highest-paid professional athletes.

The 7-foot-2 Abdul-Jabbar, the NBA's leading scorer the last two seasons, had two years to run on a five-year contract, believed to be worth in excess of $1 million.

The new pact will extend through the 1976-77 season and give the Bucks an option on Abdul-Jabbar's services for the 1977-78 season. It is believed worth about $2.5 million, if Abdul-Jabbar stays through 1977.

SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — Hale Irwin and Tommy Aaron had high hopes and a share of the lead in the $200,000 USI Golf Classic, but Lee Trevino had a splint in his end a warning:

"The legs are coming back." The British Open champ said after two rounds of the rich event. "I'm getting stronger every day. I can feel it.

The flamboyant Trevino, almost knocked out of this event by a virus attack early in the week, rallied for a three-under-par 69 and 141 after two rounds. That put him seven strokes back of the co-leaders but Trevino still contended he was in shape to take the $40,000 first prize.

Toronto's Gary Bowerman was the only Canadian to make the halfway cut. He fired a 74 for a 146, the cutoff point.

SHAWINO NUGGETS

JUST LIKE THE OLD DAYS

by SOURDOUGH SAM

My old pappy, who enjoyed 103 summers, used to tell us how it's nice to live in Ontario because here to settle, the place was Ojibway country.

They set great store to it as huntin' and fishin' grounds. Not surprisin' either what with all the fat deer in the forests and lakes bustin' with trout and bass. 'Cos it wasn't called Shawano then.

There's been some changes.

Some logging and clearing for homesteads and settlements. But it's not much different from what it was in the old days.

Folks tell as how some places once like Shawano have been so hacked up they're as different as a badger to a skunk.

Fellers as bought Shawano said they won't be doin' much choppin' up. Most of the place'll be left untouched, 'cos that's what a lot of city folks want to buy.

I mosey around the place to see what's goin' on and some of the places they're building make my old cabin look like a run dog after a scuffle with a bear.

Dangled places even got backhouses inside.

Glad to see there are no fences cluttering the place up. And there's as much fuss about cuttin' down a tree as there was about lopping off Bill Cook's hair.

Another thing I noticed. Folks livin' at Shawano seem as happy as a dog with a ham bone. Friendly too.

Place is gettin' to be, jus as it did to me and my pappy and his pappy fore him. Seems the place Shawano, meaning a quiet place if the woods was pretty smart figgerin'.

Shawano is the 1,200-acre four season vacationland in the beautiful Highlands of Hastings, 75 miles northeast of Peterborough. Get your free colored brochure from Bowes & Cocks Ltd., Realtor, 175 North Front Street, Belleville, 968-4571.

Sunday, Aug. 26

Aries (March 21-April 19): Leave the surface undisturbed this Sunday as far as you can manage. Stone conditions include someone asking a question and difficult answer.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Material conditions and consciousness should be put aside for the week week; make this Sunday a rest and a time for spiritual refresh.

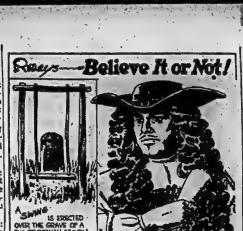
Gemini (May 21-June 20): Good questions provoke or inspire vivid answers. Use your imagination to fill in the gaps, get the whole picture and learn from it.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Caution is natural for you. Those you love demand your attentions. Mechanical things are to be handled with care or left alone.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 21): New information intrigues you. Shake your usual rounds and the friends waiting to bait you with their jokes and questions.

Virgo (Aug. 22-Sept. 22): Nobody quite understands what you want to do. Clear explanations help momentarily as you appear determined to reach some conclusions.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Being skeptical has its merit this confusing day. Most transactions offered are unfair to others in the long run. Think what you're doing.



Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): If you can elect to be solitary or nearly so for the day or a good part of it, do so. If you can't, seek inner serenity.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Your forthright nature doesn't meet like behavior, and you are prone to misunderstand or incorrectly evaluate what you hear.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): There is no such thing as readily available opportunity to become rich. Hold your own in the community by consistent attitudes.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Time out for reflection, assessment of probabilities is strongly advised. Use the week end for observation rather than action.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Exclude strangers from personal affairs. Where there are emotional ties, relationships tend to moments of tension, needs for declaration of intentions.

To Your Good Health

Silicone Injection For Bust Opposed

By G.C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can you tell me anything about silicone injections that are used to breast enlargement. In fact, I crease the size? Are they have been telling about them effective? Are they harmful in periodically for several years, any way? What kind of a doctor but people keep on taking would one go to for this pur- loosely about them, so other people keep on thinking that it's a way to enlarge the breasts. Hope springs eternal in the female breast, evidently.

Here are the facts:

Silicone for this purpose is not approved by the United States foods and drug administration. So to get such injections in this country you'd have to find somebody who is willing to do a bootleg operation, outside the law.

This type of injection is not approved because it has not been known to be safe. Maybe some form of silicone may prove to be safe and practical, someday, but that's just a maybe. It hasn't so far.

Such injections have been tried, but with indifferent success. There's nothing to hold the silicone in place. Some women found they had to wear brassiers about 23 hours a day, more or less, to keep the breasts from sagging and of shape. In other cases, the silicone was found to have migrated to lower parts of the body.

The only proved and approved method of enlargement of the breasts is to implant sacs made of an inert material and filled with silicone. The sacs keep the silicone in shape and in place, and prevent direct contact between the silicone and body tissues.

This procedure is done by plastic surgeons. If you want to find a doctor who does that type of work (not injections) ask your regular physician to refer you to a plastic surgeon.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a habit of grinding my teeth at night when I sleep. My teeth are worn down from it, but mother finds it very annoying, I am 11. I also have asthma.—J.B.

For the sake of your teeth as well as your mother's nerves, I have a couple of suggestions. First, I know that some dentists make toothguards, something like the mouth protectors used by boxers, so you don't grind your teeth down.

Second, loudly-grinding usually denotes some irritation or tension that prevents you from relaxing. Pinworms are one known cause. A visit to the doctor with that in mind might help, but a dentist should check your teeth.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would like my husband to take a psyche pill supplement. He has arthritis. Will this be harmful?—Mrs. H.B.

It won't be harmful—but why do you want him to take it? I don't see anything to be gained, unless for some reason his regular diet is deficient in protein.

For Release Saturday, August 19, 1973

Contract Bridge — B. Jay Becker

Decision

East reizes a diamond and South must go down whether he leaves the Ace in hand as he chooses. West wins and returns the eight of hearts. Curtain—down one.

The outcome is no different if the heart four is played on the opening lead. East signals with the same two pips and if the play follows essentially the same course.

Only by rising with the queen at trick one can South achieve his goal. But trust me with the secr; otherwise South has the sun deeply stripped. But East is not in position to return a heart at trick two because if dummy's ten, and any other lead he simply permits declarer to build up nine tricks capable of four diamonds, four clubs and a heart.

Why should declarer put up the queen? Because there is good reason to think that West's nine is a top of sequence and that East has the Ad. By covering the nine with the queen declarer immediately ties up the suit and forces East to shift his attack to less dangerous territory.

Once the heart pressure is relieved, South has nothing to fear. He is certain to make nine tricks against any return, and he is well rewarded for his accurate analysis at trick one. ♠

The bidding:

South	West	North	East

Opening lead—nine of hearts.

Let's say you're in three notrump and West leads the nine of hearts. Of course, you don't see the missing cards and the question is how to play the hand so as to have the best chance for the contract.

The first and most important decision is which heart to play from dummy. Note that if you pass if the nine is covered with the ten. East plays the jack, won by South with the king. Declarer presumably leads a spade to the jack, which East wins with the ace.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X E is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Hospital Union Head Is Assailed

TORONTO (CP) — Union leaders who head independent unions outside the mainstream of organized labor are "egomaniacs looking to build their own little kingdoms," Terry Meagher, secretary-treasurer of the Ontario Federation of Labor, said Thursday.

Mr. Meagher was speaking on a Metropolitan Toronto Labor Council resolution urging Toronto Western Hospital to change its "vindictive" attitude and reinstate 350 employees fired July 27 for participating in an unlawful strike.

Mr. Meagher and other council delegates were critical of Patric Murphy, president of the Canadian Union of General Employees, which went on strike against the hospital July 12.

The resolution expressed "grave doubts" that CUGE "is capable of acting in the best interests" of the employees it represented at Western.

Mr. Murphy has repeatedly criticized organized labor, and especially the Ontario and Metro labor groups, for not coming to the aid of the union during the strike.

Eskimos Are Urged To Organize

PANGNIRTUNG, N.W.T. (CP) — Eskimo representatives from across northern Canada were told they must unite to organize and fight to preserve their language, culture and heritage.

The warning was given by Tagak B. C. Curley, president of Inuit Tapirisat of Canada, the Eskimo equivalent of Canada, when he spoke at the first ITC conference, being held at this Baffin Island settlement.

"We have to be organized today to survive," he said when he spent in development that preceded delegates attending the 10-day meeting.

"Billions of dollars must not be spent in developments that humiliates our young people because they have failed in the system. Let's change the system."

'Parakeet' Flu

CHICAGO (AP) — A Canadian physician reports that he has treated a number of patients who have developed flu-like allergic reactions after contact with pet parakeets.

Writing in the August issue of Chest, journal of the American College of Chest Physicians, Dr. W. P. Warren of Toronto discussed the cases of nine patients who developed acute reactions to budgerigars — nebra parakeets.

The reaction is not a new illness, he said in a telephone interview, but he added that the cause is not often recognized by physicians treating such patients.

Bridge Tourney

TORONTO (CP) — Jeannine Follows and Marylu Buczynski, both of Mississauga, Ont., won the women's doubles event Friday at the opening of the Ontario sectional bridge tournament.

Mrs. Gary Hodgson and Sheila Forbes, both of Toronto, took second place in the event.

The men's pairs event resulted in a tie between Harry Creed and Robert McPhee and J. S. MacFarlane and John Gowdy, all of Toronto.

The tournament continues today and Sunday.

Heads Police

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Sydney Brown, a member of the Metropolitan Toronto police department, was elected Friday to his fifth term as president of the Police Association of Ontario during the closing session of its annual convention.

He was elected by acclamation.

Accept Contract

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) — Members of Local 25 Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterers International Union, accepted a new three-year contract Friday with Algoma Steel Corp.

Floor Falls

SARNIA (CP) — The second floor of an apartment building under construction here collapsed Friday, leaving the rest of the building a tangle of cement, plywood and reinforcing iron bars.

Six men were on the roof of the building, but they were not injured. No one was under the floor that collapsed.

Ford Remanded

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Prostitution charges laid against the Ford Motor Co. of Canada Ltd. in May, 1971, were remanded again in provincial court Friday to Jan. 17.

Provincial Judge Lloyd Hendrickson said there was no point moving on the charges until the Supreme Court of Ontario has ruled on a similar charge in Hamilton, Ont.

Mariner III

PLYMOUTH, England (AP) — Britain's veteran navigator Sir Francis Chichester, was readmitted to the Royal Naval Hospital Friday night for further treatment, a hospital spokesman said.

Pleads Guilty

HAMILTON (CP) — Gordon Joseph McCall, 24, of no fixed address, was sentenced to two years in penitentiary Friday after pleading guilty to arson.

Cameron Gage, assistant Crown attorney, told court McCall and his landlord, Paul Timm, argued while drinking in a hotel Wednesday and Mr. Timm took the house key away from McCall.

Late that night McCall broke into the house and set fire to it, causing $1,000 damage.

Not Affected

KINGSTON (CP) — Queen's University is not affected by the diminishing enrolment figures mentioned Thursday by the Canadian Association of University Teachers, R. J. Kennedy, acting principal, said Friday.

Mr. Kennedy said Queen's actually has experienced "a surplus of applicants" with only a few places left in the faculty of engineering and about 40 openings at the post-graduate level.

Skeletons Found

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — Three skeletons, possibly more than 100 years old, were unearthed Thursday by a front-end loader clearing land for a driveway behind an Electrohome Canada Ltd. plant here.

Turf Recovered

TORONTO (CP) — Police have recovered a 150-yard section of artificial turf taken from the Canadian National Exhibition Coliseum earlier in the week. The turf was in the garage of a Bowmanville, Ont., sod farmer who found it in a field 40 miles east of Toronto and thought it was carpeting.

Uganda Could Face Disaster

LONDON (CP) — Uganda is facing a possible economic disaster, with President Idi Amin's deportation order against about 50,000 Asians enhancing the threat of national bankruptcy, sources here say.

Most say Amin, since taking office in a coup detat in January, 1971, has brought Uganda to the brink of financial chaos with unprecedented military spending.

Officials in both the treasury and foreign office were asked to comment on a recent report by the World Bank and International Monetary Fund which concluded that Uganda's financial position is "approaching a crisis."

They would not make a formal statement, but virtually everyone interviewed expressed substantial agreement with the study's findings.

A summary of the report, circulated privately to governments of about 120 countries, has appeared in publications here with direct quotes from the original text.

The study said there is no doubt that Uganda faces an economic crisis but it was difficult to predict when this would take place.

Treasury sources say many of the Asians now facing expulsion have held key economic and commercial positions in Uganda. Their loss would add a severe strain to the overburdened economy.

It was primarily income from the sale of new coffee and cotton crops which had kept Uganda coasting in the past. But these inflows would not be nearly enough in the longer run.

Foreign exchange also has been supplemented by $11.25 million in annual aid from Britain. But all aid now may be suspended if Britain has to absorb the deported Asians.

Start Wrecking Building

HULL, Que. (CP) — The walls of a partially-completed apartment building project began tumbling down Friday morning, climaxing a two year fight by a local citizens' group.

Wrecking balls attacked the upper storeys of the twin-tower Dasken apartment project just 15 minutes after Quebec Superior Court Judge Jacques Bouchet rejected an application for a court order to prevent the Tache Gardens Property Owners Association from carrying out the demolition.

The decision gave the go-ahead the group of homeowners needed to have the site restored to its original state—a grassy field.

Ronald Selec, lawyer for the association, and Mrs. Renee Joyal Brossard, former president of the association who won a Supreme Court of Canada decision ordering the demolition, visited the site soon after demolition began.

"After all we've been through, I feel very, very happy," said Mr. Belec as he stood with spectators near the demolition site.

The court decision followed by two days a referendum called by the city of Hull to decide if the land on which the project stands, zoned for single family dwellings, should be rezoned for apartments.

The move to rezone was defeated 176 to 79 by property owners in the neighborhood of the buildings.

Melrose Personals

MELROSE — The services held at the Melrose and Devereux appointments for the month of August while Rev. William Hendry, minister on the Quinte Pastoral Charge is holidaying, are under the leadership of various organizations of each church. The past two Sundays have been taken by the UCW and the Session respectively, officers from Melrose exchanging with those from Desoronto.

Miss Gloria McFarlane returned home from Belleville General Hospital, on Thursday.

Potter Gives View

Medicine No Way To Combat Drugs

HAMILTON (CP) — Crisis intervention and medical treatment are dramatic ways of dealing with drug and alcohol problems, but not too effective as a cure over the long term, Dr. Carlos Health Minister Richard Potter said Friday.

Dr. Potter told the 13th annual meeting of the Institute on Addiction Studies at McMaster University that there is a lack of understanding and commitment to a comprehensive, long-range strategy for prevention.

Many of society's responses to helping drug addicts and alcoholics have tended to focus on expedient, short-range initiatives, he said.

"Up until now, our approach has been directed toward crisis intervention and treatment. This, of course, is far more dramatic than a prevention-oriented program, but in the long run it is practically ineffective."

He said it was regretable that some groups have abandoned their "traditional role" in order to respond to the public demand for immediate action in the drug field. "It was understandable "but ill advised."

Dr. Potter, a psychologist, or other youth program, where learning, social and personal growth take place, will do more to prevent problems than a second crisis-intervention centre.

"It takes courage and competence to stick to your guns in the face of passing fads and crises, but it has to be done."

He said there is a need to develop a partnership between professional, volunteer, government and private agencies.

"We must . . . become partners in prevention rather than crusaders for cures."

Jobless Offices Shaken Up

OTTAWA (CP) — A shakeup of unemployment insurance offices is under way, with new Unemployment Insurance Commission head committed to end administrative delays in issuing payments.

A government source said Friday that commission chairman Guy Cousineau, who assumed his position three weeks ago, has started a housecleaning operation to remove or transfer senior officials responsible for frustration of insurance claimants who have experienced long delays.

Also, Mr. Cousineau and his appointee Minister Bryce Mackasey are planning a major expansion of UIC services by posting commission officials in all Manpower offices where they can give direct help to persons filling in the complicated forms designed for computer processing. Insurance services may also be offered at post offices.

The major cause of delay in issuing the first claim cheques has been computer rejection of improperly-completed forms.

Mr. Cousineau objected, said the source, is to "humanize" UIC operations by increasing the amount of personal contacts with claimants.

It is hoped that fun sharks who charge exorbitant interest rates to car dealers' borrowers will lose their clientele once the cheques are mailed on time—in third week of unemployment.

Plan Report

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Treasury Darcy McKeough announced Friday that he will review the province's analysis of the Georgian Bay region's development prospects at a meeting in Barrie Sept. 8.

The report is the first step in planning the economic growth and social development of Parry Sound, Muskoka, Simcoe, Muskoka and Parry Sound.

Mayors to Stomp

New Terrorism Ordered by IRA

BELFAST (AP) — Chieftans of the Irish Republican Army's diehard Provisional wing have ordered a new wave of terrorism to prevent Roman Catholics cooperating with the British Army.

Provo units were told to intensify intimidation to their fellow Catholics to stop any cooperation with the troops who occupied Catholic districts in Belfast and Londonderry three weeks ago.

Fraternizers are to be dealt with "harshly," the order said, and informers are to be shot.

The Provos announced that they were responsible for the murder Saturday night of a Protestant factory owner, James Neill. The guerrillas said they picked him up in a Catholic bar on a spying mission.

Another man was found beaten and shot through the head on the outskirts of Belfast. He was the 518th confirmed death in the three years of religious warfare in Northern Ireland.

British troops reported they hit three gunmen in clashes in Belfast and across the border with the Irish republic but the army did not know if they were killed.

The army said its men discovered an IRA bomb factory in a house in Armagh and seized three gallons of nitroglycerine. It was enough to blow up more than a dozen buildings, an officer said.

Three metal beer barrels stuffed with more than 100 pounds of explosives were found in a car parked alongside a Catholic church in Belfast. But only five pounds exploded and army experts defused the rest. It was believed the attempted bombing was the work of militant Protestants of the Ulster Defence Association.

Couple Get 11-month Son Back After Mixup Over Passport

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A young couple showered kisses on their baby son on his return Sunday from Turkey,—where he had been stranded since July 28 in a passport mixup.

The 11-month-old child of Lana and Sefik Odunkesenler was brought back by an airline ticket agent, Stella Rizzuk, 33, who volunteered to fly to Istanbul to get the child.

The child received his Turkish passport Wednesday. He had been taken to Turkey on his mother's passport, but was detained when the family tried to leave for lack of his own Turkish passport.

Because his father is a Turkish citizen and his mother American, the child has dual citizenship and the Turkish government ruled he needed his own passport to leave the country.

Mrs. Odunkesenler returned to the U.S. to get the birth certificate and her husband returned a week later because his ticket was about to expire.

The U.S. consulate in Izmir has taken care of the child's special diet, required because of his nutritional problems. The infant stayed with an aunt in the city.

Cambodian Terrorists Thwarted

PHNOM PENH (Reuter) — Cambodian First Minister Son Ngoc Thanh escaped unhurt today from an attempt on his life by terrorists who tried to blow up his car.

The first minister was on his way to the foreign ministry when a parked car exploded at the roadside, wounding three of his bodyguards, a security officer said.

The officer said that as the minister's car, with escort jeeps in front and behind, was approaching the ministry, he saw a bicycle rickshaw rider pull a detonator cord.

An old car at the roadside blew up and the blast struck the first jeep, wounding three occupants, the officer said.

Saigon Troops Counter-attack

SAIGON (AP) — Three thousand South Vietnamese troops launched a drive today aimed at blocking a North Vietnamese division from storming beyond the captured Que Son Valley into South Vietnam's populous coastal lowlands south of Da Nang.

The North Vietnamese pushed through the valley during the weekend, inflicting heavy troop and equipment losses on the South Vietnamese. It was the biggest Communist gain since Quang Tri fell last May 1 and posed an immediate threat to Da Nang, the country's second largest city, and a heavily populated 50-mile strip of Highway One to the South.

Field reports said the South Vietnamese counter-advance westward from Fire Base Baldy was slowed by moderate North Vietnamese resistance and long-range 130-millimeter artillery guns firing for the first time in the region. Que Son is about 30 miles south of Da Nang.

By noon, the South Vietnamese were about five miles from the fallen strongpoints of Fire Base Ross and the Que Son district headquarters.

One South Vietnamese regiment which had been defending Fire Base Ross was declared combat ineffective with at least 22 men killed, 130 wounded and scores of others scattered and missing.

For the third successive day, U.S. B-52 heavy-bombers swept over the valley to attack North Vietnamese troop concentrations and staging areas.

Field reports said hundreds of refugees were fleeing to the coast, including many wounded in the crossfire.

It was the first time the Communists had taken the valley despite a major push in the region every year since 1964.

Republican Convention Is Ho-hum

MIAMI BEACH (CP) — Delegates to the Republican national convention commence today the three-day ritual leading to the formal renomination of President Richard Nixon, their enthusiasm for him considerably more unanimous and vocal than when they set him on the road to the White House four years ago.

There is even attitude toward this cut-and-dried convention as such, indeed, that the Miami Herald, a leading Florida newspaper, devoted the dead front-page lions of its convention-eve edition to speculation on who would be the Republican presidential nominee four years hence, when Nixon would be prevented by law from another term should he win in November.

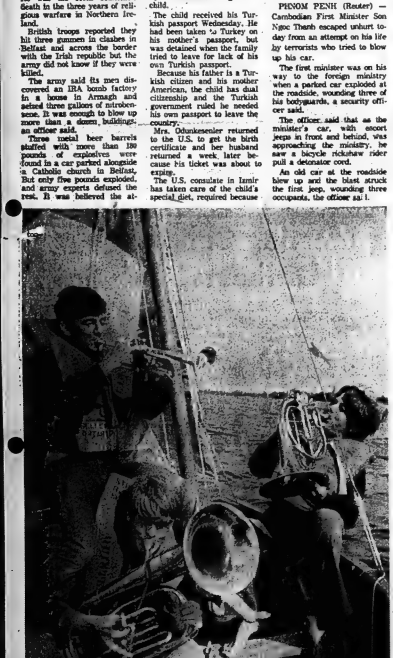
An afternoon meeting of welcoming speeches and a filmed tribute to the late president Eisenhower was to open the 1972 affair, followed by a night session featuring three keynote speeches to hail accomplishments of the Nixon administration.

With everything programmed, down to Nixon's renomination Tuesday night, Agnew's selection Wednesday night and final adjournment at 10:30 p.m. EDT Wednesday, the Republican convention loomed as a sharp contrast to the all-night sessions and bruising floor fights that marked last month's Democratic convention here.

Aside from the foregone conclusion that the Nixon-Agnew team will be renominated, the convention has before it for approval a massive Republican party platform that reflects Nixon's stance on every major issue, takes a few swipes at the Democrats and offers a glowing prospectus of progress for the future.

Burlington Blast Rips Auto Wash



BURLINGTON, Ont. (CP) — An explosion ripped apart the Billy Beaver car wash early today, but no one was injured, police said.

Machinery was ripped apart, the roof lifted and concrete walls were shattered by what police believe was a deliberate plot to destroy the car wash owned by a Mr. Skrebunas of Toronto, who rents the premises from Joe Barone of Barone 1600 Ltd., police said. Mr. Skrebunas was not immediately available for comment and Mr. Barone declined to comment.

The building also houses Sportsworld, a sports equipment centre owned by Leon Hudecki of Hamilton, and a marketing services office run by Cliff Alderson. Damage from the 2:58 a.m. explosion was confined to the car wash.

It is the second time this summer a Burlington business has been damaged by deliberate explosions. The Paletta Brothers meat packing plant had its power transformer destroyed by dynamite in June.

Britons Look Forward to Normal Food

LONDON (Reuter) — Britons looked forward to normal food supplies and a resumption of overseas trade as 42,000 longshoremen returned to their jobs today after a three-week strike.

The economy was badly hurt by the strike which made idle more than 500 ships, sent food prices soaring and piled up yet-paid export worth £500 million ($1.2 billion).

A National Association of Port Employers spokesman estimated the stoppage cost the country £1 billion ($2.4 billion).

One of the first effects of the longshoremen's return will be a sharp drop in the prices of meat, fruit and vegetables, which have soared as much as 150 per cent in the last few weeks.

As the men turned up to work for the first time since July 26, a few militants who tried to prolong the walkout last week were severely censured by their union leader and threatened with disciplinary action.

Jack Jones, leader of the Transport and General Workers Union, said Sunday night those dockers who attacked delegates and union officials at the meeting last Wednesday which signalled an end of the strike "will be dealt with through the machinery of our union."

The incident took place after the longshore delegates voted 53 to 30 to end the crippling walkout. After the meeting some of the delegates were harassed, kicked and punched by militants who wanted the strike to continue.

"Such people are not entitled to be members of a trade union," Jones said. "Some of them will live with their cowardice for the rest of their lives."

The last British port to vote in favor of resuming work was Liverpool, where a meeting of 6,000 longshoremen decided overwhelmingly Sunday that they had had enough of striking.

LA PAZ (Reuter) — A Bolivian government spokesman says that German - born Bolivian businessman Klaus Altman has admitted he is former Gestapo chief Klaus Barbie but adds that he will not be extradited to France, where he has been sentenced to die for war crimes.

Barbie is a naturalized Bolivian and is entitled to the protection of Bolivian laws, the spokesman said Sunday night.

Edinburgh Band Wins

Talks Break Off

QUEBEC (CP) — Public service contract talks broke off late Sunday night to give government negotiators a chance to consult with the Quebec cabinet.

Rejean Larouche, chief government negotiator said "at the point where we are now, it is important to meet our partners and the cabinet and discuss the issue."

Costly to Taxpayer

TORONTO (CP) — A dispute over a one-cent package of matches in January, 1971, has cost the Ontario taxpayer $367.

Nicholas Poilhronis, a restaurant employee in St. Catharines, told customer David Hammond the package of matches he picked up would cost him one cent. Hammond didn't like that so he punched Mr. Poilhronis. The Criminal Injuries Compensation Board awarded Poilhronis $367 for lost earnings, pain, suffering and legal and medical expenses.

UN Enters Olympics Squabble

UNITED NATIONS (Reuter) — Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim, acting on instructions of Security Council members, advised West Germany today that the participation of a Rhodesian team in the Munich Olympic Games might conflict with Council-ordered sanctions against Rhodesia.

He asked the West German government to remind the International Olympic Committee that the provisions of Security Council resolutions on Rhodesia "include the activities of individuals, private organizations and governments."

Waldheim also asked the government to inform the Security Council's committee on sanctions as soon as possible "of any actions taken by the government in response to this note."

Today's Chuckle

Political candidates are well enough informed on the questions of the day. It's the answers that stump them.

Accident Kills Legion Officer

TRENTON (Staff) — Earle J. Brant, 46 - year - old Quinte Mohawk, believed the first Indian to hold senior office in the Canadian Legion is dead — fatally injured in a Highway 401 crash near here Sunday night.

Mr. Brant, prominent and popular community personality in the Belleville area, was killed when his car veered across the freeway following a mishap in a one-lane construction detour near the Wooler Road interchange, six miles west of here.

A Canadian Legion district commander, he was returning to his home on the Tyendinaga Mohawk Reserve from a Legion meeting at Hastings, when the mishap occurred about 9 p.m.

His sudden, death shocked the Mohawk community where he also was a leading figure and senior lay reader for many years at the reserve's Anglican Christ Church.

Chief Earl Hill said the Quinte Mohawks were proud of Mr. Brant and his achievements, as a representative of his people.

"He'll be sorely missed here and by the surrounding community," said the chief.

Harold Vaughan, Belleville Legion branch president, said Mr. Brant was the first native personality elected to a senior Legion post.

"His death will be a loss to the Legion and to this community," said Mr. Vaughan. "He was extremely interested in veterans, the young people of this country and his own people.

"And he did a lot of quiet community work nobody knew anything about."

Born at Tyendinaga, son of Helen and the late Joseph Brant, he married Evelyn Moses. Mr. Brant served overseas with the Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineers in World War II.

His active participation in veterans' affairs, which was to bring his rise to higher Legion offices, began after the war ended and he returned home.

He joined the Legion's Deseronto branch and eventually became its president.

In 1967, his active involvement saw him appointed Legion zone commander in an area covering Hastings and Prince Edward counties. To mark the event, Mohawk members of the Deseronto Legion presented him with his chain of office — worked in wampum beads.

The same year, — Canada's centennial — his daughter Carol Anne, now married and living in Los Angeles, was chosen Centennial Queen for Belleville and area.

He served on the legion's provincial council and some time ago was named a district councillor — involving work with 56 branches in an area from Alnwick to Deseronto and north to Whitney.

Mr. Brant was serving his second term as district commander at the time of his death.

Provincial police at Brighton said Mr. Brant's car struck the rear of another automobile in the single-lane detour then crashed through construction barriers into the path of the third car.

Driver of the oncoming car, Lloyd Kirven, and a passenger, Rosalie Gauthier, both of Toronto, sustained minor injuries and were transferred to hospital at Scarborough for observation.

A defence department employee, Mr. Brant worked a number of years on inspection projects at Canadian Forces Base, Trenton.

He was a member of Deseronto Masonic Lodge.

Mr. Brant is survived by his wife, his daughter and mother.

Also surviving are four brothers and two sisters — Joseph, Gloversville, N. Y.; Elgin, Fullerton, N.Y.; Clifford, Picton; Glen, RR 1 Deseronto; Edith Brant, Fullerton, and Mrs. Nina Brewer, RR 1 Deseronto.

Resting at the White and Morris Funeral Home Deseronto until Tuesday and then to Christ Church.

The funeral service will be conducted by reserve chaplain Rev. Cyril Betts, at 11 a.m. Wednesday.

Boy, Age 4, Is Found In Bush

RAWDON, Que. (CP) — A four-year-old boy missing from his parents' country home since Saturday was found safe and sleeping in a heavily-wooded area near this community 30 miles north of Montreal.

Dozens of a volunteer search party who found Frederick Pagacz said he was hungry and tired but unharmed.

The Pagacz family noticed the boy was missing Saturday afternoon as they were preparing to return to their home in St. Lambert, across the St. Lawrence River from Montreal. Frederick had gone outside to play earlier in the day.

The search was carried out by Quebec Provincial Police, tracking dogs and volunteers. At one point, there were more than 200 people combing the Rawdon area.

Tent City for Cadet Musicians

These tents mean home for nearly 20 sea cadets for the past two weeks, while attending Band on the Bay '72. The concept was to teach cadets to play instruments faster than they have ever been taught before. Here, Brian Coughlin of Belleville works on his home away from home. Cadets came from Toronto, Trenton and Port Osborne to participate. The course ended Saturday afternoon with plans already being made for next summer.

Band Eperiment Works

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

In two weeks, Barry Bevan, commanding officer of RCSCC Quinte trained — from scratch — an entire band of the calibre to perform for the ceremonial inspection of the Hastings Prince Edward militia unit. With joint financial assistance from the senior staff officer cadets' office in Canadian Forces Base Trenton and the Belleville branch of the Navy League of Canada, the Belleville cadets invited cadets from Trenton, Port Colborne and Toronto to come and learn music.

During two weeks of total immersion in cadet life and music, the result was a band that could play anywhere.

"The would-be musicians — when they first walked into the south Front Street barracks — had never before touched their new instrument.

"They were all in the same boat, learning from scratch," said Captain Bevan.

Some of the cadets had played in their own corps bands but were starting an entirely different instrument.

Sub-Lt. P. M. Rollinson Lerner, second senior instructor for the two-week course said, "there are courses available at cadet summer camps for the experienced bandsman but nothing for the beginner, so we pitched in to launch Bands On the Bay '72."

While the cadets were in town, they were billeted in tents on the lawn of the barracks and ate from mess kit stores furnished by CFB Trenton.

Eighteen cadets took part on the course.

Meals were served in the main hall of the barracks, which by opening day of the camp looked more like a huge dining area and washroom than a parade square for winter cadets.

The entire course wasn't music. Bicycle polo was sport sailing and travelling for an overnight camp at Big Island, the seven miles from the city across the bay from Point Anne.

The course was designed to fill a number of needs for the cadets," said Cap. Bevan. "We wanted to provide a vacation, some sailing instruction and to prove that bandsmen can be trained quickly in the correct environment."

The course was originally authorized to handle 40 cadets.

Though only half the prescribed number were present, Cap. Bevan considers the correct environment."

Each day, cadets played and attended theory classes for about five hours. the remainder of the day went to drill, sailing and eating.

After the entire band had torn the panselling apart to retrieve the cats, the music resumed and the feline family was stowed in a flat locker.

There was no precedent for this course, no map to follow," said Captain Bevan. "We know what went wrong and what went right and next year it will be bigger and better if finances are good."

The training doesn't stop at the camp. Eagh cadet is expected to return to his home with the idea of passing along the experience.

Captain Bevan sees future winter workshops to refresh summer campers' people and more than one summer course.

Oktoberfest in August A Smash Hit in Tweed

TWEED (Staff) — August was the month but spirits were like October.

And sprinkled all around was the December flavor of Christmas.

Tweed's first beerfest was an occasion for all seasons — and all people.

Dubbed Augustfest, the brew bash attracted thousands to the town's community gardens Saturday for a lively day of German-Canadian entertainment.

Those who stayed the entire 11 hours — from 1 p.m. to 1 a.m. — could dance to the Munich sound of an oompah band or the sway to the tunes of fiddlers.

Nearby at all times were 400 cases of Oktoberfest beer, appropriate for Tweed's first celebration of the annual German holiday.

The festival had a distinctly local atmosphere.

"As far as I know, there never has been one with country and western music, square dancing and a fiddling contest," said chairman Dick Simon, of Tweed.

The down-home activities took place in the afternoon before things went totally German. Wieving the fiddling contest was Jim Connors of Toledo, Ont., and Teddy Rivers of Tweed took a square dance competition.

Then, while everyone munched on beer sausages and sauerkraut, the tubas and brasses came out as a traditional beerhall band, imported from Toronto, played through the evening.

The festival was a distinctly local endeavour.

JUST WHAT IS A SLIPPED DISC?

It is really a ruptured disk. The spinal cord is secure, this disc isn't. The softer material oozes brae. Between each pair of vertebrae is a soft spongy disk to allow the spine to bend and curve. It acts as a shock absorber. If sufficient strain occurs, this disk forces the softer material ooze pet into the spinal canal and presses against the spinal cord, causing severe pain.

A ruptured disk more often occurs after age 25. As one ages, the sturdy, elastic tissue, that gives the disk its support to sustain the vertebrae weakens. Usually bed rest, traction, or a support will help. A physician should be consulted.

Planning Meeting Called To Discuss Dropouts

TRENTON (Staff) — Final arrangements have been made for talks to begin Aug. 29 between the heads of Quinte Region municipalities and high ranking officials of the ministry of treasury, economics and intergovernmental affairs, it was learned today.

Trenton Mayor Duncan McDonald indicated solutions to the received from the provincial government department this morning that a meeting to discuss the future of Quinte Planning Board will be held at the Sidney township offices.

After Trenton, Brighton, Murray and Brighton relationships announced their intention of withdrawing from the Quinte Planning Board, provincial treasurer Darcy McKeough offered the meeting.

Fire Damages House Basement

A fire in the home of George Mills, 17 Symington Drive, gutted a bedroom and caused extensive heat and smoke damage to the rest of the basement Saturday afternoon.

Belleville Fire Department investigators were unable to pinpoint the cause although they suspect the fire began in cardboard boxes stored beside a baseboard heater.

Firemen were called at 2:13 p.m. after Mrs. Mills heard a window in the bedroom blow out. She opened the door to the basement and met a wall of smoke.

Men from BFD's No. 1 Station quickly extinguished the blaze but not before two other bedrooms, recreation room and laundry room had been inundated with smoke.

Investigator Paul Stephenson ruled out the possibility of heater malfunction. Either something was dropped into the boxes, thereby igniting them, or morning coolness neutralized the heater, set for 60 degrees, causing the boxes to smoulder, he said.

No damage estimate is available.

services of department officials to the Quinte municipalities. The meeting later this month marks acceptance by the municipalities of the McKeough offer.

Mayor McDonald said today he feels solutions to the current impasse can be found.

He emphasizes the Trenton position that the town has adequate water and sewer treatment potential to cope with growth in adjacent townships without participating in more expensive regional servicing.

He indicates he will tell the ministry officials Trenton is ready to cope with growth in the greater Trenton area. The mayor says he will also field the question what will Trenton gain from spending $300,000 in the next 10 years for participation in Quinte Planning Board?

"We want value for our tax dollars," he concludes.

Resort Landmark Coming Down

The two-storey, 35-room rambling hotel on Presqu'ile Point south of Brighton being torn down, was headquarters for many federal and provincial Liberal conferences. Former Prime Minister Lester Pearson and Premier Mitchell Hepburn were among the famous political figures who attended high-level meetings there. It was operated as a summer hotel from 1903 continuously until last year by the late Grant Quick of Brighton. The all-wood building brought $250 at an auction sale earlier this year and was to be removed from the site within 90 days to comply with the estate administrator's request.

Forked Tongues

Things are more open in the world of the seventies, as we suggested the other day. Customs, morals, language are all in the grip of our latter-day instant communications. It is as one fashion writer in Montreal noted recently, the same fads and fashion are trans Canadian.

Said Wini Rider, "as one editor so aptly put it, today's fashion is not a look. It is the common feeling that it is a free world and everybody is entitled to wear exactly what he or she pleases."

And what about those customs and morals and the sort of language we use? Perhaps there is less conformity here, less of a slavish adherence to the fad of the so-called peer group which is simply another way of saying the mob. This is all to the good, for we need more individuality beginning with young people in the schools and at the young adult stage.

In the realm of language there may be an unpleasant quality, given the experience of one adult at least who went back to high school in Quebec to study art. Writing in Weekend Magazine recently, Margaret Garrett said there were no conversational taboos at Canterbury high school and the students had "an honesty of approach that I feel is wholesome and not all self-conscious . . ."

Then, after noting that she found herself envying their ability to be so open and direct, she added: "But not the language in which they express themselves. Four-letter words are used so frequently by many of the teenagers I met as well as boys, that they have lost their shock value. I've blamed them for taking the fun out of profanity by ruining the last of the cuss words through overwork. What do they do for an encore?"

Mrs. Garrett's last look at the encore will be to realize they were not trying to be foulmouthed. "It was just a manner of speech that they had come to take for granted . . ." And there perhaps lies the tragedy, for it means the kids can no longer discriminate in their speech. It is as if they have adopted the basic Anglo-Saxon cuss terms and made them their own. The result: instant vulgarity, whether they mean it or not.

The ultimate irony lies in the news from Camp Shilo in Manitoba. An officer is reported to have reprimanded an instructor for swearing in front of some girl cadets training alongside the boys but confined when day is done to separate quarters. Yes, the girls are now in barrack room residents . . . but please, no barrack room language!

She Stays

Sometimes it is necessary to bend the rules, to exercise not only compassion but common sense. If the Department of Immigration in Ottawa had rejected the plea of 18-year-old Lina Di Carlo of Toronto for landed immigrant status and sent her home to Italy because she has been handicapped by polio since childhood it would have been compounding the error it made recently in ordering a Polish - born woman deported, resulting in her committing suicide.

The girl has been here since 1966, on a temporary permit, and we understand that members of her family also live in Toronto. Both these factors are ample reason for permitting her to stay.

The Immigration Minister Bryce Mackasey has taken this step is commendable, but really he had no choice if Canadian Immigration policy, shot full of loopholes and inconsistencies as it is, were not to be made to look like an ogre as well.

Liberated?

Why are so many women smoking these days — more than ever before? We were presented with one reason at The Mail the other day. There were these two delightful young blondes in identical dresses representing, it seems, a tobacco company. They were offering cigarettes to shoppers as they passed by. For our part we declined, pointing out our three-year abstinence. We expressed the view that more women are smoking nowadays and were interested to learn from this particular young woman that she does not smoke herself. As for her companion farther along the Mall we do not know, but here is our blonde's laughing answer to the observation about increasing addiction on the distaff side: "It must be Women's Lib."

"Through-the-Back-Door" Immigration

Mackasey Reported Aiming at Population of 50 Million

By RICHARD JACKSON
from The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — It was a little on the sneaky side, but perhaps you could not really blame the Manpower and Immigration Department for . . . well, if not quite, actually, to conceal it then at least not to advertise it.

So there it was, a footnote to the department's annual statistical report on immigration last year, sort of tossed in at the last moment almost as an afterthought.

And it said that nearly one-third of all the immigrants who came to Canada had entered through the "back door", improperly, if not altogether illegally.

The note reads:

"The total of 121,900 (of immigrants last year) includes 94,823 who entered Canada as non-immigrants and who subsequently were granted landed immigrant status."

Most of the "non-immigrants" came in as "visitors" and have, having arrived, decided to remain.

A good many of them, immigration officials have reason to believe, made up their minds before ever arriving here on a "visit", a "tour", or a "holiday" that it would be as big a deliberate step, hopefully for life.

It makes something of a joke of the immigration regulations the officers trying to enforce them.

Manpower Minister Bryce Mackasey who is heading the new regulations has threatened dismissals of officers insisting on proper enforcement.

What is not so funny is that the report neglects mentioning how many other thousands of illegal "non-immigrants" beat the regulations in the three years before this 1971 accounting.

But even more funny has been Mr. Mackasey's own admission that currently 23,000 "visitors" are in Canada fighting to stay through "back-door" immigrations hearings and appeals against deportation.

And what is altogether unfunny is that report by Joseph Sedgewick leading member of the Canadian bar, who headed a government commission of enquiry four years ago. But wide-open immigration regulations had become such a mockery of a laugh around the world as Canadian passports used to be when they were standard equipment for any self-respecting spy in good international espionage standing.

Mr. Mackasey, unmindful if not uncaring of the farce, has said he is opening the door even wider, especially to those coming in from the underdeveloped countries of the world.

He makes Canada the only industrial nation where a "visitor" can enter, then apply for immigrant status, and if denied it, fight the resulting deportation proceedings as matter how long a series of appeals may take.

The result has been that — forget the 94,823 who came in the "back door" last year — there are, at last count, 13,000 more "visitors" waiting immigration hearings on applications to remain here permanently, and another 10,000 waiting on appeals against deportation.

The figures?

Mr. Mackasey's own.

The backlog is a political embarrassment, especially as a new election is in the wind

Rock Jock N.B. Bound Then on to Hawaii

The "heavy boogie" style of Daryl Daniels has gone from Belleville's CJBQ, except for the occasional taped messages he leaves behind.

Daryin who arrived at the station in the summer of 1970, soon found a place for himself on the plate of the younger set during top 40 programming. His particular style, which he brought from radio CFPC Saint John, N.B., was soon a familiar sound.

A stylish dresser, and appreciator of racy cars . . . he arrived in a blue Corvette. treaded several times, and depparts in a brand-new green Camaro . . . left for his parent's home in Sussex, New Brunswick, Saturday night.

When he was asked about his future plans, he replied he hadn't made any firm decisions. However, he will work with his father in the family trailer sales business for a while, at the same time letting at radio prospects in the Maritimes.

And sometime in the near futurem he'll be off for a three-week vacation in Hawaii, to bask in the sun and keep an eye on the scenery.

Programming during his regular time-slot at CJBQ will be handled by regular disc jockeys.

Daryl 'Heavy Boogie' Daniels Priest Takes Over

On Sunday, August 13, Father G. Van der Heyden of the Mill Hill Missionaries officially took over as pastor of St. Vincent de Paul Parish in Deseronto. The new pastor, who spent 39 years as a missionary among the Hindu population of India, arrived in Canada July 25 from his home country, the Netherlands, where he just celebrated 40 years as a priest.

He succeeds Father C. Sooreen, MHM, who has been pastor of St. Vincent de Paul for the past three years. After a holiday in his native country in September, Father Sooreen will return to Deseronto and work there on his new assignment, the spreading of missionary awareness and action among the Catholics of Ontario.

Father Sooreen, who was ordained in Mill Hill London, England in 1952 taught in seminaries in England, Ireland and Holland. For nearly seven years he worked as a missionary among the Maoris, the original inhabitants of New Zealand. Later he was counsellor to students in Holland and England prior to his arrival in Canada in July 1969. An original temporary assignment of two months, developed into a three-year ministry.

Besides being pastor of St. Vincent de Paul Parish he was part-time chaplain to the Quinte Correctional Centre at Napanee.

City Has Top Dogs

Belleville dogs ranked high on the winners' list at the Thousand Islands dog show held at Brockville this weekend. Mrs. Paul Squire and Mr. and Mrs. John Burkett-reigned with the boons for their dogs.

Mrs. Squire's six - month - old long - coat Chihuahua, Squiredon's Wee Baton was best of breed, best Canadian bred and best Canadian puppy. She also received best Canadian bred puppy in group five in Saturday's show. She was handled by Ron Johnson of Foxboro.

Judi's Stardust, a long coat Chihuahua, also owned by Mrs. Squire, received best of opposite sex on Saturday.

Kirkella's Hingbi, a Pekingese owned by the Burketts, won best Canadian - bred and best Canadian - bred puppy on Saturday, in the Sunday show he won best of opposite sex.

Kirkella's Lucifa, a Pekingese also owned by the Burketts, took best of opposite sex on Saturday, in the Sunday show it received best of breed, best Canadian-bred and best Canadian-bred puppy. It also won best Canadian-bred puppy in group five.

Student Killed Near Havelock

HAVELOCK (Staff) — A Carleton University student and Saskatchewan native Ronald Carl Nelson, 23, died Sunday morning when the car he was driving left Highway 7, a half-mile west of Havelock and struck a tree.

A spokesman for the Campbellford detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police speculated that the driver probably fell asleep at the wheel about 8:05 a.m. on a straight stretch of road. He was dead on arrival at Campbellford Memorial Hospital. The student's parents live in Wilson Fox, Sask. Constable Eugene Dewey investigated.

Srinagar Becomes Smuggling Centre

SRINAGAR, India (CP) — This picturesque city high in the Himalaya Mountains is emerging as one of the principal Asian centres for the smuggling of narcotics to Western countries.

Hashish, the main narcotic plant of the Himalaya area, grows naturally in many parts of Kashmir. With a little effort it can be cultivated on a large scale.

The Kashmir provincial government has banned its cultivation and export but officials admit that it is difficult to enforce the ban. Pakistani hashish are first smuggled into Srinagar, the capital, and then flown out or sent by road to New Delhi, Bombay, Calcutta and other cities from where they are transported to Western centres.

There are many secret hashish farms in the valley of Kashmir, popularly known as the "earthly paradise." Some of them are tucked away in the mountains where it is difficult to detect them.

Hashish is also grown by peasants on their farms in innumerable lakes.

Kashmir hashish is said to be of the best quality in all Asia. In the old days it used to be sent to Europe over the 19,000 foot mountains to the north of Chinese empire.

Today, one pound of Kashmiri hashish will fetch anything from $15,000 to $25,000 in London, Paris or New York. Its actual cost in the underground Srinagar drug bazaar is not more than $150.

So far, the police have recruited up a dozen gangs engaged in smuggling narcotics to Western countries. Some of people are in prison awaiting investigation.

The world-famous wood carvings and papier mache articles which Kashmiri artisans turn out in their cottages have become convenient channels for the drug smugglers.

When a beautiful papier mache table lamp was opened by the customs authorities at an Indian airport, it revealed several thousand dollars worth of hashish hidden in it.

The New Delhi Hindustan Times reports that smugglers in Kashmir are also sending narcotics in fruit tins. Kashmir grow some of the finest apples and peaches in the world.

The Times's correspondent in Srinagar says that the postal service is also being used by the smugglers. "Hashish is packed in envelope in paper-thin slabs covered with polythene sheets to avoid detection," he wrote.

"In some cases they were able to mail hashish worth several thousand rupees in one envelope."

"Opium is a growing business," said a Kashmiri whom this reporter met near Srinagar one sunny afternoon.

The self-proclaimed smuggler who preferred to call himself Mr. Mustafa, a common Kashmiri name, pointed to a distant shikara (water taxi) which was being rowed towards Srinagar and said: "There goes at least a dozen pounds of hashish meant for the West."

A police official later said that the man was not just boasting. "We know it has become a big business and are anxious to smash it," he said.

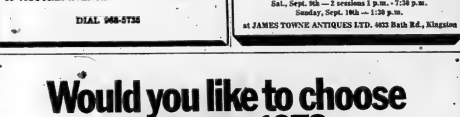
The easy availability of hashish is drawing Western hippies by the hundreds to Kashmir. Police estimate there are at least 1,500 American, Canadian, British and French hippies in and around Srinagar.

Many of the hippies live in boat houses on the Jhelum and on the Dal Lake which is ringed by snow-clad mountains. The boatmen regularly supply them with hashish.

The police say they think some of the hippies may be smuggling narcotics out. They are investigating a report that a four-member hippie group recently left Srinagar by road for Bombay carrying nearly 20 pounds of hashish with them.

Moslem mountain shepherds are also believed to be transporting hashish to Pakistani areas across the United Kashmir-supervised ceasefire line. From Pakistan the narcotic is then carried on their way to Iran, Turkey and other Moslem countries.

Historic Shrewsbury, England



This is English Bridge, one of the two bridges which cross the River Severn at the ancient city of Shrewsbury. Contained within a horseshoe bend of the river, it is one of the finest Tudor towns in England and has many narrow streets and superb gabled buildings. Henry VII stayed here before the Battle of Bosworth, and Shrewsbury has associations with Peppy Dr. Johnson and Dickens, as well as being Darwin's birthplace.

The introduction of MULTI-YEAR automobile licence plates next year will now give every owner of a passenger car or station wagon the opportunity of choosing his or her own combination of three letters and three numbers on the payment of an extra fee of $25.00.

All these licence plates will remain in use for at least three years.

They will be issued in the series from AAA 001 to ZZZ 999.

However, some letters and combinations will not be available.

The letters G, I, and O are excluded because of possible confusion with other letters or numbers. Objectionable letter combinations are excluded.

Letter groups reserved for government use include ONT for Ontario Cabinet Ministers, MPP for Members of the Provincial Parliament, while the series MDA to MDZ is reserved for doctors. Other groups are reserved for various other uses.

Re-issue of plates during the multi-year period

"Own Choice" plates when lost or damaged may be replaced with plates bearing the same number or they may be re-issued to another vehicle owned by the holder of Own Choice plates, for a service fee of $3.00 in addition to any other registration fee payable.

Annual registration fee

All owners will continue to pay the annual registration fee for their vehicles when they obtain their new plates.

Additional Fee for Own Choice Plates

Owners who choose their own licence plates are required to pay the registration fee and a separate fee of $25.00 for each set. The fee covers the period during which the plates will be issued (a minimum of three years).

HOW TO GET YOUR "OWN CHOICE" PLATES

The additional fee of $25.00 for each set of plates requested must accompany your application.

You may apply by letter or send an application form to:

Special Plate Office
Ministry of Transportation and Communications
Macdonald Block

Realism for Children His Aim

STRATFORD, Ont. (CP) — John Wood doesn't like the label, "children's theatre."

The Montreal-born director and writer said he prefers "theatre the children can go to."

His production of Pinocchio, presented as part of the Stratford Festival's 20th season this summer, is that kind of theatre.

It's in the theatrical tradition of Europe, "where when children's classics are put on, the entire family comes to see them," he said.

"We're lacking that whole European experience of going to the theatre. Theatres in America don't try to attract an audience from childhood like theatres in Europe do."

By doing Pinocchio, Mr. Wood said Stratford "is investing" in its future.

The festival is a natural setting for such theatre, he maintained, "because children's classics are as much a part of literature as Shakespeare."

Mr. Wood, who originally staged Pinocchio for the Manitoba Theatre Centre in 1970, said that in North America there is a tendency to be "patronizing" when doing a show aimed at young audiences.

His approach to Pinocchio was "simply to do something that can be understood by children as well as adults," while sticking "closer to the original than any other adaptation I've ever come across."

He recalled that when the book was read to him at the age of three "it terrified me, but at the same time fascinated me."

"I have tried to convey that same feeling."

In relating the story of the wayward, lying puppet whose desire to become a real boy often is frustrated by his own stupid and selfish actions, Mr. Wood used a Brechtian kind of staging in which stage hands change scenes in full view of the audience.

Stage hands keep seeing into the wings, seeing the stage hands," said Mr. Wood.

"Adults very often haven't the imagination to go with you, but kids really follow you if you're honest with them."

So, when a pigeon flies Pinocchio to the seashore, an actor in street attire stands near the top of an elongated step-ladder flapping his arms while Pinocchio straddles him as two stage hands push and pull the ladder over the floor.

Again, when Pinocchio swims to save his father, stage hands flutter long pieces of blue cloth around and over the actor who mimes the swimming motions on the floor.

A musical score by Canadian composer Alan Laing punctuates the action through out the play, and such unusual instrumentation as a slide whistle and a typewriter represent Pinocchio's conscience.

The key to writing for children, said Mr. Wood, is "not to impose limitations on yourself; let your imagination run.

"Think of how you looked at things when you were a kid. Do kind of pictures you had in your mind."

He said that while children today "don't retain their innocence as long as when I was a kid, they basically haven't changed" when it comes to using their imagination.

"If you sat them down and talked about a man in the moon, even though they may have watched the astronauts walking on it, they still will believe it."

He understood and appreciated their honesty and lack of inhibition.

"I haven't attuned to the social traditions of the theatre. For example, kids don't applaud in the middle. They applaud, but it's not a natural action, so we don't have a curtain call."

The performance before an audience by the MTC cast was taped by the CBC and will be televised "around the Christmas season."

"I had a lot to say in the shooting of it and imagination has to be used, even in television," said Mr. Wood.

Marital Opposition

NATAL, Brazil (AP) — Miguel Brito de Melo is running for mayor on the government Arena party ticket. His wife Maria is running against him for the opposition Brazilian Democratic Movement. "Political debate may divide ideas, but once the elections are over we're husband and wife again," De Melo said.

MR. AND MRS. GERARD CANTIN

Cantin – Charlton

College Hill United Church was the setting recently when Judith Ann Charlton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. K. Charlton of Dorchester, Ontario was united in marriage to Donald Gerard Cantin, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Cantin of Belleville. Rev. Roy Vesey officiated at the ceremony and appropriate nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. Karen McConnell.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full-length seersucker gown trimmed with pastel shades of satin ribbon with the bodice in basket weave effect of satin ribbons. She carried a bouquet of white 'mums intermingled with baby's breath, while daisies encircled her hair.

Mrs. Diana Rodrigues as matron of honor wore a floor length gown of pink crepe in A-line style and she carried a basket of pink and white daisies. Little Renee Montagne as flower girl wore a long white seersucker gown similar to the bride's and accented at the waistline with pink ribbon. She carried a tiny basket of daisies.

A reception was held at the Four Seasons Hotel where the bride's mother received the guests wearing a turquoise chiffon dress with a corsage of pink carnations. Assisting, the bridegroom's mother chose a turquoise print chiffon complemented with a corsage of white carnations.

For the wedding trip to New Brunswick, the bride donned a plaid seersucker ensemble consisting of classic blazer and skirt to match with white accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Cantin will reside in Ottawa.

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Morris of Shannonville are pleased to announce the engagement of their daughter, Susan Jane to Stephen George Thorne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Thorne of Belleville. The wedding will take place September 30, 1972 at 3 p.m. in St. Joseph's Church, Belleville.

Party on 25th Anniversary

ROSLIN — On Saturday evening Aug. 12, approximately 120 relatives and friends were in attendance to welcome Mr. and Mrs. Earl Gray at a surprise 25th wedding anniversary party held in St. Paul's Anglican Hall which was appropriately decorated for the occasion. The head table was centred with a wedding cake, flanked by candelabra and floral arrangements on either side. A tasty buffet dinner was enjoyed.

Chairman for the evening, Dan Sills, who had performed the duties at best man 25 years ago, when Marjorie and Earl were married in Cannifton United Church on August 2, 1947.

Rev. Earle and several relatives spoke briefly and wished the couple many more years of happiness.

Most of the wedding party were in attendance, best man, maid of honor, bridesmaids, flower girl, ring bearer and servers.

The program for the evening was under the direction of Mrs. Wilma Smith which included musical numbers. These were by the Blakely's of Foxboro; solos by little Jeffrey Smith and Jennifer Jenkins and readings by Mrs. Wilma Smith and Janet Carleton. A humorous mock wedding brought an enjoyable evening to a close.

Many lovely gifts and a money tree were presented to the guests of honor.

Out of town guests present were from Ottawa, Toronto, Whitby, Belleville, Oshawa, Wellington and Burlington.

Mr. and Mrs. Gray had just returned from a three-week vacation to Texas, U.S.A.

Money Saved When Tots Left Home

By JEAN SHARP
CP Women's Editor

TORONTO (CP) — If you'd like to save money food shopping, leave the children at home and eat before you go.

Judy Stang offers the suggestions, as short - term ways to help you resist expensive impulse buys.

All the things that appeal to children are at their eye level, and it's hard to tell a little fellow he can't have some cereal he wants."

On a longer-range basis, she suggests looking at your shopping habits. Miss Stang is director of consumer interests for the Ontario Food Council, a marketing arm of the provincial department of agriculture.

For instance one store may offer steaks at a lower price than another, but the lower-priced ones may not match the others in aging or good trimming.

"Fruits and vegetables can be expensive at certain times of the year, we're all tempted by out-of-season, imported produce. Again, it's very important that you get quality for the money. Sometimes a local store or a roadside stand can give you better quality than a supermarket.

"Be familiar with when local produce comes on the market."

There are times when canned or frozen fruits and vegetables can be a better buy than fresh produce.

"People sometimes make price comparisons that really aren't accurate.

"For instance, people look at the price per pound of food. A roast might have a ten-cents-a-pound difference between bone in and bone out, but the bone out could be less expensive per serving because you use more of it.

"If you buy frozen fillets of fish, you get four servings to the pound because there is no waste."

Miss Stang says it pays to know prices so that you know when a special really is a special, and even then, buy them carefully.

"Buy what you need. If you don't store food properly or eat it fast enough, a special might not be special for you."

Learn enough about meats and produce to know what you're buying and how to use it, and consider how it's presented to you.

"Look at potatoes wrapped in a plastic bag or you might find when you get them home that you have green potatoes. Plastic bags let the light in, you may be better with a paper bag.

"When you buy foil-wrapped potatoes, you're paying 10 times as much as you pay when you buy a bag of baking potatoes. And foil is a bad thing to store potatoes in, you can get black rot inside because of the moisture.

"It's not always true that the larger the size the cheaper something is per unit. It depends partly on what is the most popular unit. Sometimes it's cheaper to buy the smaller size of instant coffee, because more people do.

Most people don't really read instructions or labels unless something goes wrong. Read the labels on frozen dinners, for instance, because they list ingredients in order of quantity. You can get a fair idea of how much meat is in it and how much you're paying for it."

But she says some cake mixes make a cheaper cake than you can make starting from scratch, and frozen french fries can be cheaper than home-made when you consider the cost of cooking oil.

"To be a good shopper today, you have to take it seriously because there are so many products available and so many sizes. It takes ability and some skill as a cook."

Pre-School Program

SHELBURNE, N.S. (CP) — A head-start program, designed to stimulate and develop four- and five - year - olds, is being carried out in this small Nova Scotia town. Adaire Townsend of Halifax, a recent university graduate, and Les Underwood of Dartmouth, a recent high school graduate, are co-ordinating the program. The preschoolers are being encouraged in motor co-ordination, speaking and listening skills, while stimulating curiosity and developing confidence in mental, physical and creative abilities.

'Father Figure' Important Factor

By DORIS CLARK

We have heard a lot about the need of the fatherless boy for a "father figure".

The important person need not be someone who is around the house all the time or who is even seen frequently. An uncle whom a boy admires as a man, and whom he cherishes for his warmth, can be a symbolic figure. So he will try to pattern himself after the uncle.

We are all familiar with the impact a famous person has, someone we perhaps have never met and only caught sight of in movies or photographs, and yet because of the symbolic effect that this person has we admire and did every bit of the cooking. Hated having anybody else "under her feet" in the kitchen.

Lacking an uncle, a boy may find in his teacher or scoutmaster, or even the man next door, the personality he sees as' destinable to emulate. Then there is legendary figures such as famous athletes and heroes. A mother should encourage such identifications because they will be the foundation stones upon which a boy will build his future personality as a man. — from an address given by My Psychiatric Consultant.

Dear Doris: After 30 years of office work as a career girl I suddenly find myself in the position of family cook. You see, my mother d'ed and she

Now my father, uncle and young nephew look to me to keep things going. They help with dishwashing, cleaning. But, cooking? - I can hardly boil water.

I don't blame my mother; she always thought of me as being too tired to tackle home chores as well as my job. — Panicking

Dear Panicking: Anybody who can read a cookbook can cook. Otherwise 'man' marriages would go on the rocks the first year.

For a start, write for "Let's Cook It Right!", a complete basic cookbook, publication 514, to Information Branch, Ontario Department of Agriculture and Food, Parliament Buildings, Toronto, Ontario. Single copies free.

For "Thirty-eight Economical Ways to Cook Beef," write to Canada Packers Limited, 95 St. Clair Avenue West, Toronto 7, Ontario. Single copies free.

Then there's publication No. 1106, "Skim Milk Powder" from the Information Division, Canada Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, Canada. Single copies free.

Dear Doris: Can someone love you one minute and not the next? — Unsure of Love

Dear Unsure: You mean because your girl friend loses her temper and shouts, "I hate you!", you start wondering?

We all have our moods, even the steadiest of us. A doting mother can declare, at times, that she can't see why she trapped herself into full time care of her rebellious offspring.

And when two married, loving adults — hungry, perhaps and tired at the end of a day — start throwing insults at each other it sounds strangely like hate, doesn't it?

Yet it may be they w e l l know what is wrong — and will both ease up until a little relaxation, rest, restores their expression of regard for each other.

Complicated beings, us humans! A good reason why it takes "maturity and understanding to make love grow and not wind up mistaking it for anything else.

When writing in, allow Doris four weeks for private reply, which will be sent in a self-addressed, stamped envelope is enclosed.

When will kids accept responsibility?

THAT generally depends on the parents. Mothers and fathers who do not accept responsibility themselves naturally do not provide good example for their children. Nor will a child be shamed into accepting responsibility if parents implore him with: "Don't you think it is about time you're beginning to act your age?" When a child, however, learns to enjoy acting more mature, he is then about ready to accept responsibility.

Is it depressing to admit faults?

NO; but it won't pull someone out of a bad mood, either, if he just ticks off all the faults he has. Take an individual who can't get along with people. He says he hates to admit he's antisocial because it depresses him. That's ridiculous. The thing that is really getting him down is that he is afraid to admit he is the sort of person who is either too lazy or too indifferent to correct an acknowledged fault.

Does nagging kill ambition?

YES—the ambition to make a success of one's married life can be smothered and left lifeless by nagging. It does happen quite often, though, that a husband will drive himself to achieve a career or business goal to compensate for the continual nagging he gets at home. All this, of course, makes it not too hard to believe a recent survey which found that more marriages are wrecked by nagging than by any other single cause.

Ann Landers

Letter on Shopping Irks Mother

Dear Ann Landers: "Fort Lauderdale's" remarks hit a sensitive spot. I am a mother who takes her two pre-school children shopping because I have no choice. Millions of other mothers are in the same spot. To suggest that this is a great way to "kill time" is ridiculous. I can think of 200 other things I'd rather do.

Few mothers can afford a daytime sitter every time there is shopping to do. Dad isn't the answer, either. He seldom gets home before the stores close. Most Saturdays he works. When he is free, he is entitled to a day of recreation.

I resent being called a "slob" because I must take my children with me. I am trying to teach them shopping manners, not so much for the sake of the storekeepers, but for my own sanity. Do you think the merchants would prefer that mothers with small children stay out of their stores? If not, here are some suggestions for them:

1. Don't put tempting objects within the reach of young children.

2. Set up a child-sized card table with inexpensive coloring books and simple but sturdy toys. This would give the youngsters something to do besides terrorize Mom and the clerks.

3. Larger stores might consider a playroom with sitters who would be paid by the store or "tipped" by the mothers. I'd be happy to give someone 50 cents to take my child off my hands for half an hour or 45 minutes.

I'll bet "Fort Lauderdale" never had children to take shopping—or she had a beautiful arrangement with someone. If it was the latter, I envy her. If it was the former, I feel sorry for her. — Shoppers In Nebraska.

Dear Neb: Apparently "Fort Lauderdale's" letter struck many a raw nerve around the country. The mail was heavy, and 100-to-1 with you. Here's another:

Dear Ann: I live in Fort Lauderdale, too. If that lady wants to sit with my kids while I go shopping I'd be glad to drop them off at her house. What's her address?—Beth

Dear Beth: Sorry, no can do, but thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: Our son will be coming home in a few weeks. He went four years to Stanford and after graduation took a job in Palo Alto for the summer. We paid his tuition for four years, but he lived up to his responsibilities by making good grades and staying out of trouble.

During his senior year he shared an apartment with a girl. We let him know we did not approve, but we didn't forbid it. We reasoned that a 21-year-old boy has the right to live as he pleases away from home.

Yesterday we received a letter requesting that we take the twin beds out of his room and replace them with one large bed which he is willing to pay for. He is bringing his girl home in September and is sure we will get along fine (no mention of marriage). I cannot agree to this arrangement and have told my husband so. He says the world is changing and I should go with it. True, I know our son and this girl were sleeping together in California, but somehow I can't bring myself to permit it in our house. What do you say, Ann? — Greenwich Mother

Dear Mother: I'm with you. To provide a single bed for the comfort and convenience of your son and his girl friend is tacit approval, if not encouragement of their premarital sexual activity. Stick to your principles and tell him nothing doing.

New Travel Fashions Shown at CNE

TORONTO — The smart woman traveller can step off the plane and go right to dinner, A canvas tote bag and wool knits make it possible.

Visitors to this year's Canadian National Exhibition will see the latest fashions, including travel fashions.

A fashionable tote bag is the greatest invention for the women traveller, said Pearl Corcoran, co-ordinator for CNE fashion shows.

Latest tote styles come in a variety of colors in easy-care canvas. Pack a tote bag with a pair of shoes, a nightgown, toothbrush, make - up and a woman can step off a plane and go for dinner. The tote bag eliminates hand luggage and a purse."

Wool Knits are also great news for travelling: they never crease and are lightweight.

Fashions from include long, simple dresses to meet this season's fashion dictum: classic, feminine and elegant.

"After 6 p.m. a long dress or skirt is essential," explained Mrs. Corcoran. "Skirts and sweaters are back in a big way and a traveller can package one long and one short skirt with several tops to co-ordinate outfits for any occasion."

Colors for fall are dark— black, brown, grey and dark tones of green and blue. Women who find it difficult to wear solid blacks can still be fashionable by choosing an outfit with the collar and cuffs of contrasting colors.

John Hagerty of Dublin designed a long hostess gown for the show in classic black and white with the stamp of elegance this fall — the hood.

STOLEN FROM THE BOYS — This tailored three-piece trouser suit in brown pin-stripe wool has pointed revers and pockets and a short waistcoat, by Peter Shires, it was shown during the recent London Fashion Week. (CP Photo)

District Family Reunions

TANNER CLAN

The Tanner reunion was held at Zwick's Island Park, Belleville, on Sunday, August 13 when a fair number was in attendance.

After a time of getting reacquainted, the president, John Courtney, extended greetings to everyone. A special welcome was given to Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson, Saskatoon, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wickens, Nipawin, Saskatchewan. They had travelled the longest distance to attend the reunion.

A moment's silence was observed in memory of the recently departed — Molly Chidlow, Bill West, Basil Howe, Lillie Henley and Russell Marleette.

Miss Joyce Parks read the minutes of the 1971 meeting, and Mrs. Lindsay Tanner reported for the treasurer Myrtle Tanner who was unable to be present. Morley Tanner was elected president. Re-elected were Myrtle Tanner as treasurer and Betty Parks as secretary.

The picnic will be held at Campbellford Ferris Memorial Park, on the second Sunday in August, 1976.

The Tanner family history book was available and everyone was pleased with the results. Mrs. Lindsay Tanner thanked Sara Morgan and Bess West for information they made available for the book; also to Annie Courtney for typing it and to Dora Elridge and Betty Parks for their help. The original book from which much of the information was gleaned is now at St. Thomas Anglican Church, Hastad. Anyone wishing further information (re deaths, births, etc.) may see it there.

New president gave a short talk on what the "Tanner" name has meant to him over the years. He was enthusiastic about next year, and it is hoped each one will work a little harder in urging other members of the family to attend. Sons remained to enjoy supper together.

STORRING CLAN

MADOC — The 16th annual Storring reunion of the descendants of William and Christina Storring was held recently at Cooper Community Centre, with over 160 members attending.

President Grace Hennings started the day with the reunion prayer led by Joe Ash. Lunch was followed with a minute of silence in remembrance of the late deceased ents. Everyone then enjoyed a dinner.

The afternoon's activities began with the children's races, for which everyone taking part received a prize. Many other games were played and arrangements were made for the horseshoe and archery contests. Prizes were also awarded for newlyweds, the youngest baby, the couple wed the longest, the largest family present and a gate prize.

The reunion came to a close for another year, with the hope of seeing everyone back again next year.

Majority of Waffle Group Form Group Outside NDP

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The Waffle wing of the Ontario New Democratic Party, faced with an order to disband as a separate group or leave the party, decided Saturday to do both.

At a meeting in nearby Delaware, a majority of Waffle delegates headed by Mel Watkins, a University of Toronto economist, and James Laxer, a York University professor, voted 89-69 in favor of setting up a movement to be called Independent Socialist Canada.

Mr. Watkins told a news conference that the NDP establishes the well-established Waffle policies, but would not be a political party. Members were free to retain NDP membership.

"We are no longer an internal caucus within the NDP," he said.

Both Mr. Watkins and Mr. Laxer said they hoped to carry on as NDP members, but agreed it was unlikely they would stand as NDP candidates in the next federal election.

Mr. Watkins, Mr. Laxer and Eldon Woolliams of Toronto already have been nominated as NDP federal candidates.

A meeting supporters called to decide whether the trio should carry on as candidates arrived at no decision Sunday.

The candidates will consult

Seals in Peril

GUELPH (CP) — Steadily-increasing tourist traffic poses a serious threat to a number of species of seals throughout the world, a Canadian geographical general have reached a low level.

These were conclusions reached during the weekend at a meeting of international seal biologists at the University of Guelph.

Dracula Sought

LYNDHURST, England (AP) — Police combed forests near this southern English town Sunday for a man with Dracula-like fang teeth who raped a middle-aged woman.

The man leaped out of some bushes naked and attacked the woman as she was deer-spotting, police reported

Troops on Alert

MANILA (Reuter) — Philippine police chief Fidel Ramos ordered troops to be placed on full alert Saturday after claiming that Communist guerrilla firepower could equal that of the military. The order followed an ambush of a police team by seven heavy-armed men in Marikana village, 10 miles east of here.

Plans Visit

TEL AVIV (Reuter) — Israeli Defence Minister Moshe Dayan will visit Canada next month on a fund-raising mission, a ministry spokesman said here Sunday. Gen. Dayan will stay for only one day to attend a function and will return to Israel immediately, the spokesman said.

TV Stolen

PORT STANLEY, Ont., (CP) — A Port Stanley man fell asleep watching television Saturday night, and woke hours later to discover someone had stolen his color television set.

Honor Bethune

TOKYO (AP) — Mitchell Sharp, Canada's external affairs minister, travelled 173 miles Sunday to lay a floral wreath before the tomb of Dr. Norman Bethune, the Canadian doctor died while serving in the Communist Chinese army, Peking reported Sunday.

Beaten to Death

WINNIPEG (CP) — A youth has been turned over to juvenile authorities following the beating death of 55-year-old Samuel Cooper.

Cooper's body was found about 9 a.m. Tuesday on the second floor of a house on downtown Alexander Avenue. Lawrence Cochrane, 17, an occupant of the Alexander Avenue house was found there a short time later of the rear of the house. Cochrane was treated in hospital for injuries.

Three Brothers Asleep in Tent Perish in Fire

BURROWS BAY, Ont. (CP) — Three young brothers perished early Sunday when the tent in which they and four other people were sleeping caught fire.

Police identified the children as Freddie, 6, Sean, 5, and Dylan, 2, the children of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Pratt of the Cowboy reserve in northwestern Ontario.

The boys' grandmother and mother were taken to hospital in Fort Frances suffering from burns they received while attempting to save the children. The two other people escaped injury.

Police said the family was camping in the Burrows Bay area, 200 miles west of Thunder Bay, while picking wild rice, and that apparently a candle in or near the tent started the fire.

Another Draw

REYKJAVIK (AP) — Bobby Fischer and Boris Spassky played to their third consecutive draw in the world chess championships Sunday, bringing the American-Soviet challenge only three points from capturing Spassky's crown.

Fischer has boosted 8½ after the 16th game and needs 12½ points to take the title held by Russians ever since 1948.

Opposes Change

SARNIA, Ont. (CP) — The vice-president of the St. Clair development council expressed opposition Saturday to a provincial plan to reduce the number of economic regions in Ontario from 10 to five.

Stanley Campbell said in an interview there is some overlapping of industrial regions, but not enough to create any major problems. He said the five proposed regions would be so large that municipalities would not be properly represented.

Admiral Dies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Admiral Harold Stark, chief of U.S. naval operations when the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor Dec. 7, 1971, died of a heart attack Sunday at the age of 81.

Stark was credited with pushing the United States into an accelerated shipbuilding program before the country en-

Policy Welcomed

OTTAWA (CP) — A statement by U.S. presidential candidate George McGovern criticizing Canadian Prime Minister Nixon's policies towards Canada has been welcomed by groups actively supporting the senator in Canada.

John Demaskeas, coordinator in Canada for McGovern for-President, said the statement could help his group in efforts to register qualified U.S. citizens to vote by absentee ballot.

Officer Slain

MONTEVIDEO (AP) — A Tupamaro guerrilla shot to death a 25-year-old army lieutenant in Uruguay's interior, authorities reported. The officer was the 56th person killed since the police and armed forces began joint operations against the leftist guerrillas last April.

Toll High

JAKARTA (Reuter) — A total of 344 persons died of cholera in the Indonesian province of south Sulawesi in the first six months of this year, Antara news agency reported Saturday.

Legal Prostitution Studied for Arctic

YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T. (CP) — The Northwest Territories' government has begun a study of the implications of legalizing prostitution.

A government official said Sunday that letters seeking information have been sent to counties in the state of Nevada where prostitution is not a crime.

The spokesman also said that the churches in the N.W.T. are being polled for their opinions on the idea.

The study was ordered by the territorial council in June. Council approved a motion saying that because of the high rate of venereal disease in the North, the government should study the moral, medical, legal and social implications of legalizing prostitution.

However, there is little the N.W.T. government can do even if the council wants to take action on the report. Prostitution is an offence against the Criminal Code and any change would have to be made by the federal government.

Astronomical Observatory Placed in Orbit

CAPE KENNEDY (AP) — A huge astronomical observatory, heaviest and costliest scientific satellite ever orbited by the United States, vaulted into space today to study the evolution of stars and to seek a powerful new energy source in puzzling deep-space x-rays.

The satellite, named Copernicus after a 15th-century Polish astronomer, carries six telescopes to analyze the birth and behavior of stars and to possibly provide clues to the origin and future course of the universe.

Wind Not Much Help

Dr. Les McDonald threw his fortunes to the wind — or rather to the lack of it — in winning the sixth annual Around-the - County Sailing Race over the weekend.

The Belleville resident and Bay of Quinte Yacht Club member sailed his Viking 28 class Kittiwake to a 29-hour, 38-minute win over 12 other competitors in a race that saw none of the problems faced last year nor any of the winds.

"I guess we were just at the right place at the right time," he offered the victor in only 1th second acceptance in the 105-mile sail. "It was a flukey wind."

Other than the flukey winds it was beautiful sailing for all involved without the gusting winds of last years race which saw only eight of 20 finish the course 13th circles Prince Edward County.

"There were no problems except for the flat wind early this morning. We caught quite a good wind last night which lasted from midnight until this morning. The lake was as calm as it could get, very little roll."

Mr. McDonald had little Double in navigating the narrows and channels, paths well sailed by the veteran of many years in the waters of the Bay of Quinte. The win must be shared with his crew of seven years, sons Donald, Sandy and Bill plus friend Dan Goheen who crewed his improve on the Doctor's third place finish of two years ago.

"It was a glorious race this year; great competition and a good weather."

Great competition might be somewhat of an understatement if he was referring to another Belleville sailor, Dr. Douglas McDonald and Douglas virtually crossed the Government dock finish line together mid-Sunday afternoon and when the handicaps for weight were tabulated Mr. Donald emerged the winner by no more than 10-15 seconds.

"We won today by about 15 seconds because of the handicap but we lost second spot two years ago because of the same thing so I guess it all evens out."

McDonald and Douglas exchanged the lead four or five times during the race before yesterday afternoon's wrap up.

George Quinn of Trenton brought in his Alburg 29 Pegasus LeFay to a third place finish while R. Renshaw took fourth in his Chinno 31 and Freeman Burrows fifth in Temeraire.

To Shelf

The Belleville lifter totalled 876 pounds to walk away with his division.

Art was the only winner from Belleville but his Apollo Barbell Club was well represented in four other weight divisions.

Thurlow Cops Two Crowns

Thurlow was crowned twice in Eastern Ontario Baseball Association play this weekend.

The Thurlow Yardmen batsmans ripped Orono 9-2 Saturday to win the "C" crown in two straight games, while Plane's Concrete tykes were completing a similar sweep by slugging Orono 25-5.

Terry Holgate turned in a two-hitter for the Thurlow batsmen, striking out 11 batters and issuing one walk. Bruce Douglas McDonald and Douglas virtually crossed the Government dock finish line together mid-Sunday afternoon and when the handicaps for weight were tabulated Mc-Donald emerged the winner by no more than 10-15 seconds.

"We won today by about 15 seconds because of the handicap but we lost second spot two years ago because of the same thing so I guess it all evens out."

Two Crowns

Thurlow was crowned twice in Eastern Ontario Baseball Association play this weekend.

The Thurlow Yardmen batsmans ripped Orono 9-2 Saturday to win the "C" crown in two straight games, while Plane's Concrete tykes were completing a similar sweep by slugging Orono 25-5.

Terry Holgate turned in a two-hitter for the Thurlow batsmen, striking out 11 batters and issuing one walk. Bruce McDonnell accounted for half of the winners' hit total with a triple and two singles. Dave Andrews added a double and single for Thurlow and Terry Pascoe a single.

Tom Masterson and David Blakely combined for an eight-hitter to give Plane's tykes their win. They struck out six and walked two.

Easy Two Points

The best plan of action for the Independents Sunday turned out to be no action at all. The Industrial Softball league entry earned a 9-0 victory in their quarter-final playoff series when Foley's failed to field a team for their weekend meeting.

Pinder Makes Self at Home'

There's a new addition to the Bay of Quinte Club Championship and from the first round looks of him, it will be an impressive one.

Frank Pinder stormed to an almost insurmountable lead after the first 36 holes of the Club Championships Saturday and Sunday with rounds of 72 and 73 for a 145 low gross score.

The first year member, newly arrived from St. Catharines, holds an eight stroke bulge over his nearest competitors Bill Hurley and two-time winner Dave Jones.

Hurley had rounds of 79 and 76 for his 153 total while Jones fired 77 and 78 to total the same.

The starting field of 76 players were cut to the low 18 and ties after the weekend play and the remaining group will tackle the Quinte course August 26 and 27 in the final 36 holes.

The remaining 18 will be Al Mott at 157, Bill Philp (162) Ron Hutchinson (163), Phil Hayward, Frank Monaghan, and Don Treacey at 164, Fred Fisher and Brian MacKenzie (166), Phil Doherty (167), Don Moore (168), Max Haggarty and George Shapcott at 169, and Jim Bibby, Lloyd Gundeson and Spence Wonnacott at 172.

Bob Bunton failed to make the cutoff had he didn't walk away empty - handed as his 178 net gave him the Tip Top Trophy far the low score of the field minus the 18 finalists.

Jim Ingram was runner-up with a 142 net, Dan Cowley third with a 146 and Ron Cass fourth with 148.

Pioneers Discover Holes

The Northern Electric Pioneers were discovering the Belleville Golf and Country Club over the weekend with Bob Wallbridge and Mildred McConkey uncovering the best paths.

Bob and Mildred combined for an 81 to win the low gross honors at the first annual mixed best-ball tournament for the Pioneer Club. The pair survived over 56 holer playoff.

Devolin's Take Second

Devolin Motors didn't mind coming out second best in Commercial Softball League action Sunday.

The motormen assured themselves of second place in the Commercial standings by virtue of a 4-0 win over Howard and Robert Printing. The regular season winds up tonight.

Don Holoway limited the Printers to just four hits in earning the shutout. He struck out four and walked three to take the decision from Bob Ethier. The losing lefty allowed eight safeties and four walks, while whiffing eight.

Doug Olsen slammed 2 triple and single for the winners with Bruce Sickie adding three singles. Foe Howard and Robert, Fug Kellar topped the offence with two singles.

The Ellis Juniors made their second win of the season an impressive one by blanking Globe Steel 4-0.

Dave Horwood checked the Hotelmen on six hits to win his first Commercial decision. He struck out three batters and issued one walk. The loss was pinned on Bill Harrison who yielded only five hits to the Juniors. He fanned five and did not walk a batter.

Second - inning - singles by Glenn Carleton, Terry Pope and Rick Graham provided the winners with three of their four runs.

Graham had two of the Juniors' five hits with the others going to Carleton, Pope and Brian Garleyy. For Globe it was Bob McLeod with a triple and Gary Johnson with a pair of singles.

Oshawa Squirts Spoil Meads Tourney Record

Belleville's Mead Johnson squirts may have found their match Saturday afternoon after being bumped from the Barrie Squirt Tournament by Oshawa, spoiling their bid for their fifth trophy in five tournament appearances.

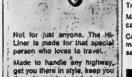
The Belleville side staged a six-run last-inning rally but it fell just short as Oshawa prevailed 14-13 knocking them from the tournament. The locals had opened the day-long competition with a 6-1 win over Downview.

Oshawa jumped off to a 7-0 lead after two innings and stretched it to 14-5 after six before Meads got unwound, but it was too much for the Belleville team to overcome.

Andy Rosati started for Belleville, giving way to Tim Soule in the first frame. Rosati gave up three runs on two hits while Soule was tagged with 11 runs and 10 hits. Soule fanned 11 and walked two. Bob Hegge had a homer and single with Ron Begley, Rosati and Paul Soule adding a double and single each to Belleville's 12-hit output.

Brian Wiggins was Belleville's biggest stumbling block smashing three home runs and a single to drive in seven runs for Oshawa. Jerry Rumbeaux and Jay Chappell saw mound duty for the Motor City boys who had the teams first meeting 6-5.

Oshawa and Belleville meet in the OASA zone finals beginning Saturday. Belleville has swept their first three series in straight games.



Meads gained a measure of revenge in their opening game when they stopped Downview 6-1. Downview beat Meads at the two teams that had beaten Meads before Saturday's tournament.

Tim Soule hurled the win, allowing eight hits and adding eight. Bob Hege had a homer and single, Ron Begley a homer and Paul Soule three singles to lead the winners at the plate.

Smith, the No. 1 college draft, scored once and slid and bulled his way for 96 yards on 18 running plays to bolster the Als' running game that was beset by the lost through injuries of Moses Denson and Bruce Van Ness.

Smith also caught three passes for 23 yards and when Hamilton tried a short kickoff in the final minute of play with Montreal holding a 24-23 lead, it was the 12-year-old rookie who came up with the ball and almost broke loose for another score.

His late efforts set up placoy Wade's 30-yard punt single on the final play of the game.

"It was a team effort," said Smith, a 6-foot, 190-pounder who runs 40 yards in 4.6 seconds clocked in football gear. "The way they blocked for me it was easy."

Monzon Keeps Record Intact

COPENHAGEN (AP) — Carlos Monzon of Argentina defended his middleweight championship Saturday night, knocking out Tom Bogs of Denmark with a smashing right in the fifth round of their scheduled 15-round fight.

The end came after Monzon had floored Bogs for the third time in the fifth round. After each of the first two knockdowns, Bogs got up and took the count standing up.

But after he went down for the third time, English referee Harry Gibbs stopped the fight and ruled a knockout.

The victory was Monzon's 78th—and 55th knockout—in his 91 fight career. He has lost only three, and has nine draws and one no-decision.

It was the fifth successful defence of the 160-pound title for Monzon since he won the championship on a 12th round knockout over Italy's Nino Benvenuti Nov. 7, 1970. He has stopped every opponent in his title defences—and now has a string of 11 consecutive knockouts.

Unser Shares Spotlight

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Al Unser won his second race in 34 hours Sunday at the Illinois state fairgrounds, but he had to share some of the spotlight with runner-up A. J. Foyt.

Foyt, the three-time Indianapolis 500 winner from Houston, finished second in Sunday's U.S. Auto Club 100-mile championship race for dirt cars—his first time behind the wheel of a race car in almost three months.

Foyt suffered a broken ankle and serious burns in a crash at DuQuoin, Ill., in May. Although still walking with a limp, he qualified sixth for Sunday's race, held the lead for 17 laps and finished six seconds back of Unser.

Canadian blew a putt on the 18th hole Saturday that would have given him the $20,000 regular Ladies Professional Golf Association Open.

Instead, she wound up in a tie with Kathy Whitworth after 72 holes, and in the sudden death playoff Sunday lost to the American on the fifth extra hole.

Miss Bourassa missed a four-foot putt on the 18th Saturday, giving her a total of 216.

Miss Bourassa earned $2,200 for the second-place finish in the Southgate to add to the $11,734 she already had earned. The total moved her within the top 20 money-winners on the LPGA tour.

It was Miss Whitworth's fourth victory of the current campaign and was worth $3,000.

Canadians Boot States

ST. JOHN'S Nfld. (CP) — Canada's national soccer team won the first of a series of World Cup elimination matches here Sunday by defeating the United States 3-2.

The game, first World Cup soccer play ever held in this Newfoundland capital, was the opener in a round-robin home-and-home series among Canada, the U.S. and Mexico.

The victor in the series will advance to playoffs against winning teams from other countries in North and Central America and the Caribbean.

Panasiuk Winner All Way

HULL, Que. (CP) — A number and a chat with his golfing father and a cautious final round Sunday clinched the 72-hole Canadian Professional Golfers' Association championship for Bob Panasiuk, leader from the first tee.

Bronzed and robust, the Tecumseh, Ont., pro said over a soft drink following a final round one-over-par 73 at Deerwood Golf Club near here that he was looking forward to World Cup play later this year in Australia.

Winner of the CPGA, along with the Labatt Cup and $5,000, he is invited to be one of Canada's representatives at that match.

Panasiuk, 30, led the meet from the first day Thursday when he tied a course record with an eight-under-par 64 at the 6,280-yard golf course. Friday, he tightened his grip on the title with a five under-par 67.

But he fired a three over 75 on the third round Saturday and put in a call to his father, Nick. His father said he was "swinging too fast." So the Polish exile eased up and came home with a 73 for a 72-hole total of 279—nine under par.

"Why take any chances," he said later, describing Sunday's round. He played it carefully, aiming from off course and aiming a par.

In second place, four strokes behind, was lanky Phil Giroux of Montreal, who took home $1,500 for his finish. John Morgan and Bill Wakeham, both of Victoria, and Gary Maas of Kitchener, Ont., tied for third with 282 and we $1,733 each.

Giroux, 26, a cigar chewer, came into the final round five strokes behind Panasiuk after a fourth place.

"I did it the hard way," he said after shooting a one-under-par 71 Sunday. "I never thought I had a chance for second."

He played with Panasiuk, but said he shot "my own game. I just went out there and played golf. I didn't worry about him."

Maue, who inched within two strokes of Panasiuk in the final round, said he "blew it" late in the game with a number of problem shots.

"We didn't make him work," the 28-year-old pro said of the winner. "We had our chances."

Last year's CPGA winner, Wilf Homeniuk, hovered consistently around par throughout the match and finished with a healthy three-under-par 69. But his 284 total was good only for a fourth place tie with Wayne Vollmer of Vancouver and Bob Rose of Copetown, Ont.

Brundage Bowing Out Today

MUNICH (Reuter) — Avery Brundage, the 84-year-old controversial millionaire who has ruled the Olympic movement with an iron hand, presides over his last session of the International Olympic Committee today.

After a 20-year undisputed reign, the former American athlete is retiring and nominations for his successor will be presented today. Voting for the post probably will come Tuesday or Wednesday. Brundage will continue his duties until the end of Munich Games, which open Saturday.

So far there are no dark-red candidates, but it is expected to be a two-man r...

Irish peer Lord Killanin and French cobleman Comte Jean de Beaumont.

Honorary Title Proposed

MUNICH (AP) — Avery Brundage, preparing to step down as president of the International Olympic Committee, was proposed Sunday for the lifetime title of honorary president of that body.

The proposal came in a unanimous resolution adopted by the national Olympic committees from 90 countries meeting in joint session with the IOC's executive committee. The proposal will be acted upon at a plenary session of the IOC, which also will elect Brundage's successor. That session opens today.

Brundage, who will be 85 on Sept. 28, has headed the IOC for 20 years.

Rare Congress Examines Games

MUNICH (AP) — The International Olympic Committee announced plans Sunday for a congress—only the second in its history—to be held in 1973 to study the Olympics.

It will be held at Varna, Bulgaria, from Sept. 30 to Oct. 4 next year. The IOC will confer with national Olympic committees and international federations representing every Olympic sport.

The only previous congress of this kind was held in Berlin in 1930.

"About 1,000 people will take part," an IOC spokesman said. "The future pattern of the Olympics will be discussed."

GARY BOWERMAN

Devlin Quits On Top

SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — Bruce Devlin picked up the cheque for $40,000, signed a bit, smiled and commented in his usual soft tones: "That's it. I'm about through playing golf for a while. Now I've got to go to work."

He had just scored a three-stroke victory in the $200,000 USI Classic, notched his second triumph of the season, pushed his official money winnings to a near-record total of $119,000 for the year and, just as he said he would, was packing it in for the year.

The 34-year-old Devlin had a final-round 69 over the 7,215-yard Pleasant Valley Country Club course and posted a 13-under-par 275.

It was his eighth victory in 11 seasons on the American tour, which he now plays only on a part-time basis. Most of his time now is devoted to his golf course architecture business in Florida.

Like Elder had a 70 and was alone in second at 278. John Mahaffey had a 71 for third and was tied for third with veteran Jimmy Aaron, who closed with a 69.

Toronto's Gary Bowerman had a closing 73 for a 72-hole total of 285 worth $286.

British Open champ Lee Trevino was never a factor. He had a strong 68 final round, however, for 286, well back. Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and Canada's African Gary Player did not compete in the event.

Romanian's Appetite Extends to Canadian Tennis Title

But the only thing that was growling was the ravenous Romanian's stomach as he gobbled up unseeded Andrew Pattison, 6-4, 6-3 Sunday to win the men's singles title at the $72,800 Canadian Open tourney.

Nastase broke out in a rash the night before and was given pills by a doctor who examined him a few hours before the final.

"Something I ate earlier this week bothered me and I broke out in a rash," he said while picking at a roast beef sandwich after his 57-minute victory.

"I was given pills by the doctor and was told to take two of them but I was scared to take more than one. I was also scared to eat anything."

Pattison, who pocketed $9,-800—his biggest cheque of his career—led 5-0 in the first set against Nastase when the Chilean caught fire to even the match. The Rhodesian needed three match points to put him away.

Nastase, who picked up $11,-000 for his singles victory, split $1,500 with his Davis Cup teammate Ion Tiriac as they downed the Czech combination of Jan Kodes and Jan Kukal 7-6, 6-4.

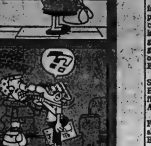
Nastase and Tiriac reached the final with a 2-6, 6-1, 6-3 victory over Geert Masters and Ross Case of Australia, while the Czechs tripped the Wimbledon champion South African duo of Bob Hewitt and Fred McMillan 6-2, 7-5.

The women's singles title went to smooth-stroking Evonne Goolagong of Australia who let loose every element of volleys and lob-and passing shots Saturday to oust third seeded Virginia Wade 6-4, 6-1.

Miss Goolagong, who lost the final of the Canadian Open last year to Francoise Durr of France, picked up $4,000 while Miss Wade got a cheque for $2,-200 after the 47-minute match.

Miss Goolagong and Mrs. Court teamed on Sunday to win the women's doubles title with a 3-6, 6-3, 7-5 win over Brenda Kirk and Pat Pretorius of South Africa.

The victory was worth $1,100 to the winners and the losers split $700.



Panthers Advance

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

On the strength of a four-hit effort by 18-year-old Bruce Klahn, Kitchener-Waterloo Panthers advanced to the semi-finals of the Senior Inter-County Baseball League playoffs by defeating Stratford, seven Knits 5-1 Sunday night.

In other games Sunday, Toronto Maple Leafs edged London Lyons 4-3 to take a 3-1 lead in their best-of-seven semi-final series and Brantford Red Sox stopped Sir Luns to send Guelph C-IOYs 14-1 for a 3-1 lead in the best-of-five quarter finals.

In games Saturday, Brantford edged Guelph 2-1 and Kitchener downed Stratford 9-5.

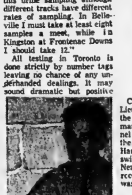
Keech Patiently Waits for Winners



By RANDY DERRY
Sports Staff

There is one place in Belleville where you don't have to curb your pet when they get the sudden "call to nature", and in fact if it's Saturday night and you get in a hurry, there is a man that actually urges them to do their thing.

Edgar Keech is the man that sees harness racing from a different vantage point than most — from underneath. Keech is the department of agriculture employee who takes the urine samples from each winner at the Quinte Exhibition and Raceway Saturday night card and though it may sound like an ingenious job, it is a necessary one.

"All samples are sent to the lab at the Department of Health in Toronto the next day after a race," commented Keech, opening a special container whose poisonous film preserves the urine sample. "Naturally they're looking for drugs. Each track must do its urine sampling although different tracks have different rates of sampling. In Belleville I must take at least eight samples a race, while I in Kingston at Frontenac Downs I should take 12."

All testing in Toronto is done strictly by number tags leaving no chance of any underhanded dealings. It may sound dramatic but positive tests can result in suspensions or fines so the government leaves little opportunity for sleights of hand to disrupt the sampling process. Least of their worries would be the samplers themselves, who, including Keech are retired pensioners from the Mounted Police.

EDGAR KEECH

I suppose we're good for the job from a security aspect and because we know something about horses from our previous careers," stated the relative rookie who has been running the sampling stations at Belleville for only one year.

Winners rush tired horses to his special stall and gets immediate results.

"We keep records of every horse we test so we can develop a pretty good idea of how it operates — if it's a slow one or gives a sample pretty quickly. We have to keep a horse for at least an hour before abandoning it. There is an injection the vet can give a horse to make it urinate rather quickly but we try to avoid that as much as possible."

The retired status nor the barricade book work detract from Keech's reflexes however because only after a year he has learned that when the horse is ready, you'd better be ready. There aren't many second chances.

Belleville's Al Vance had a second and third chance in the actual racing part of the night card driving to three wins. He won the first race on Brian Wark, the third on Clip Dreamy Chief in the seventh.

Brian Wann in the first and Nantric Lee in the second event need for a $130.70 daily double to send some of the $18 fans home happy. A total of $25,172. was wagered through the pari-mutuel booths.

Lino's Rout Raiders

Belleville's Lino's Pizza Rovers were routed Saturday afternoon as it was their Kingston visitors who left on the run.

Lino's kept within a point of first place in the Kingston and District Soccer League with a 4-1 home field win over Paulo's Raiders Saturday. The Belleville squad trails the Greek Olympics by a single point but the locals have one game in hand.

Joe Romano and Andy Pipe scored 13 minutes apart to vault Lino's into a half-time lead. Fred Levitt scored for the Raiders 15 minutes into the second half but quick markers from Fergick Zdravk and Kevin Gaynor gave the win to the Pizzamen.

Next action for Lino's will be tonight when they battle the Bay of Quinte League's Parsons Cleaners at O.S.S. Third-place Italo Canadians will supply the next Kingston and District League opposition Thursday evening in Kingston.

Henry Rapid As His Name

The six - year - old pacer owned by Ralph Marlon, paced the last half - mile in 59.8 to overtake Mary Bing for the win. His winning time was 2:05.2.

The day's biggest payoff came in the seventh race when Bedford Hall and Maple Leafshod 1-2 to return an exactor of $389.50.

Other race winners were Cavalcade Smitty in the first, Fancy Lu in the second, Island Jimmy in the third, Rick's Sadie Boy in the fourth, Dreamy Chief in the fifth, Warnette in the sixth, Tip Toe Chief in the eighth, and Canal View Patsy in the tenth.

Sports on All Fronts

CALAIS, France (AP) — Lieut. Richard Davis Hart of the United States forces in Germany swam the English Channel Sunday, but failed to beat the record by three minutes. Hart took exactly 10 hours to swim from Dover to Cap Gris Nez, about 23 miles apart. The record of nine hours 37 minutes was set this year by Lynne Cox of Los Alamitos, Calif.

CANADA MISSES BERTH

AUGSBURG, West Germany (CP) — Spain and Poland earned the two remaining places in the Olympic basketball tournament in Munich when they finished in the two top spots Saturday in the qualifying competition here. Twelve countries took part in the qualifying games here. Canada swamped Britain 91-53 Saturday to finish in sixth place in the series.

BILLIE JEAN LOSES

DENVER (AP) — Nancy Richey Gunter of San Angelo, Tex., shrugged off a leg injury to rally past Billie Jean King of Palm-Aire, Fla., 1-6, 6-4, 6-3 Sunday and win the $25,000 Virginia Slims of Denver International tennis tournament. Mrs. Gunter's victory was worth $4,000.

WINS REGATTA

CAMBRIDGE, Ohio (AP) — Canada won its first North American Canoe and Kayak Regatta in more than 10 years Sunday as the Canadians out distanced the United States. The Canadians won a total of 12 events and swept the top three finished in five other contests.

Melrose Win from Final

Melrose have been climbing the South Hastings Baseball League semi-final play-off ladder the last few weeks and now find themselves only one rung away from eliminating Shannonville.

The regular season runner-ups tripped Shannonville 3 - 1 Saturday night to take a commanding three games to one lead in the best - of - seven series. Action resumes tonight in Melrose.

Terry McTaggart fired a three-hitter for the win, fanning four and walking the same. Larry Pascoe, Bruce Pascoe and Scott McLaren had hits for Melrose.

R. Barberstock took the loss for Shannonville with relief help from B. Reid in the sixth. Glen Barberstock had a homer for the losers with Bul Barberstock and D. Dafoe adding singles.

In the other league semi-final, Read dropped a 6-4 decision to pennant winning Plane's Concrete, but still had the series 2-1 with one tie. No game results were available at press time.

Arsenal Full of Goals

LONDON (CP) — London club Arsenal, whose manager Bertie Mee promised a new attacking brand of soccer this season, is at the top of the English League First Division after scoring eight goals in three matches.

Arsenal, out in the cold last season after winning the league title and Football Association Cup in 1970-71, beat Stoke 2-0 Saturday to become the only First Division club to gather a maximum six points from its opening three encounters.

Liverpool and Tottenham with Arsenal before Saturday's play, both fell behind by drop points in away games. Liverpool drew 1-1 with Crystal Palace and Tottenham went down 3-2 against Wolverhampton Wanderers.

Wolverhampton built up a 3-0 lead over Tottenham in the first 36 minutes with two goals from John Richards and another from Ken Hibbitt. Tottenham's England international Martin Peters grabbed his fourth goal of the season to make it 3-1 at half-time but the Wolverhampton defense conceded only one more goal in the second-half.

West Ham went to town with a 5-2 win over Leicester City. The London sides crushing victory featured Dudley Tyler's first league goal since he moved to West Ham from Hereford United for £55,000.

Chelsea shattered league champions Derby County's hopes of their first win of the season with a 2-1 win. Goals by Ron Harris and Young Chris Garland were enough to sink Derby.

Leeds United, the FA Cup holders, carried too many guns for West Bromwich Albion. Allan Clarke scored in the first-half and then Johnny Giles hit home a penalty as Leeds cruised to a 2-0 victory.

Salvage Pride

SOUTH MARCH, Ont. (CP) — Canada salvaged some additional pride Saturday at the end of the Dominion of Canada Rifles Association matches Sunday, defeating the United States in the Palma team match.

The match, for 20-man international teams, saw Canada score 4,248 out of a possible 4,500 against the U.S. total of 4,233.

Canada had a poor weekend up to the start of the Palma Match. The British rifle team Saturday swept the top three places in the Governor - General's Prize, as well as the first honors in the Commonwealth and Canada matches.

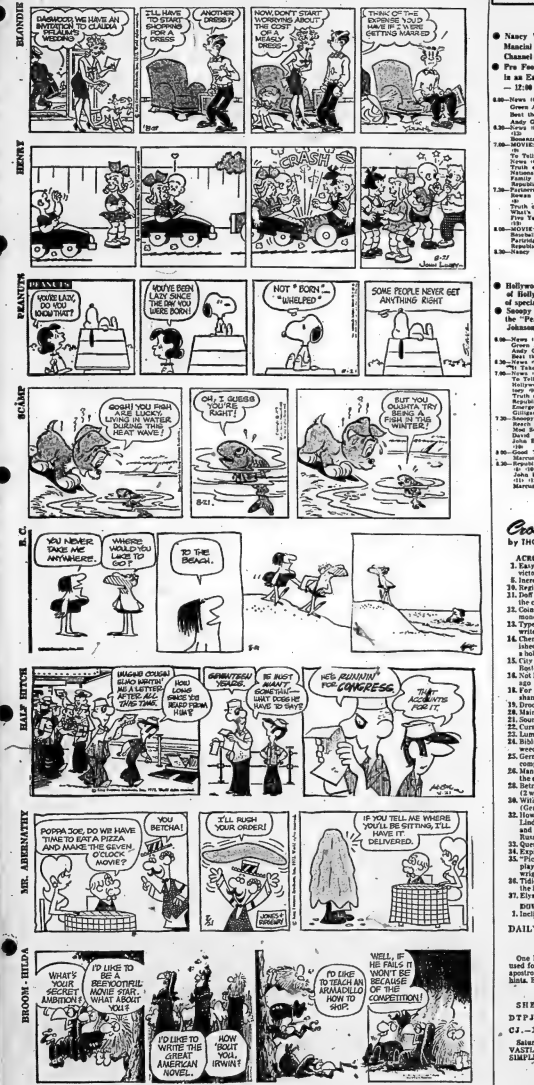
The Vietnamese City Ground to Rubble

QUANG TRI, Vietnam (AP) — As efficiently as a bee! grinds out a smouldering cigarette, so have the South Vietnamese, their American allies and the North Vietnamese crushed the life from Quang Tri City.

Both sides are systematically destroying the once-pleasant riverside community of palm-shaded streets and historical sites where 30,000 Vietnamese lived. It is an orgy of destruction that has no parallel in the Vietnam war.

But while Quang Tri is the first Vietnamese city to be methodically levelled, it will probably not be the last if the war continues.

The subtleties that once made the Vietnam War different—the "limited" approach by the United States to the Viet Cong "insurgency," the "counter-insurgency" programs aimed at winning back "the hearts and minds" of the people—have been swept aside.



When the South Vietnamese counter-offensive moved into gear late in June, the North Vietnamese rolled out their 130-millimeter guns. The South Vietnamese wheeled in their heavy weapons.

The United States held off its planes for a few weeks but now uses them when the South Vietnamese ask for them. One levelled the province chief's headquarters and his garden full of ancient Cham statues with a 2,000-pound "smart" bomb 10 days ago. Others smashed a wider gap in the northwest corner of the old Citadel with seven smart bombs last week.

Today Quang Tri settles into the earth, flattened like a matchbox under the wheels of a locomotive.

Not a church or a pagoda stands in a region noted for its piety; farms — working the salty Quang Tri soil had to believe in something to live in so desolate a place.

Hormones Cut Off Five Days A Month

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: After a hysterectomy I was given hormones but instructed to omit them five days each month.

However, I was completely miserable for those five days and for several more days after resuming medication. I urged my doctor to allow me to take them even on those five days. He is reluctant to do so but does not say why.—Mrs. M.L.P.

The reason you are given the hormones is that, obviously, your ovaries were removed along with the hysterectomy. With the ovaries no longer present, and therefore no longer furnishing you with their accustomed supply of hormones, you began experiencing the anxiety and jitters that so often accompany menopause.

So your doctor gave you hormones or replace those the ovaries no longer were producing.

It's the usual practice each month to give those hormones for five days (or for a week) because that most closely approaches the natural pattern of release of hormones, and thus avoids the risk of giving you more than your body requires.

You may not be physically in need of the hormones for those few days, any more than you were before the operation. But it is possible that you have become psychologically dependent on the hormones, which may be the real reason for being miserable.

Perhaps a mild tranquilizer and jitters that so often accompany menopause.

If you and your doctor feel that hormones or tranquilizers no longer were producing.

enough to make you comfortable. Please try that. In other instances, a reduced dose of hormones (say half) may suffice on the "off" days and still more or less follow the natural cyclic hormone pattern. You might discuss those two possibilities with your physician.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been having a vaginal discharge and am worried about the possibility of venereal disease. I am not able to go to the family physician because then my parents would find out. Are there any clinics in my area?—N.S.

Two answers to this question —which is an increasingly frequent one.

1. Quite a few states now have special laws allowing physicians to treat young people for venereal disease without getting the permission of parents, so maybe you can go to your family doctor after all.

2. I can't possibly keep track of just where all the V.D. clinics are located in the various communities in which this column appears, but you can find out for yourself very easily. Just telephone the department of health and ask.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: With so much information going around about breast cancer, I fail to understand how to differentiate between a lump and ordinary tissue or muscle in the breast. It is hard like a marble, and can you tell by looking at the surface of the skin or do you have to press pretty hard to find it?—Mrs. J.T.

You don't have to press very hard to feel a lump. Probably the most important part of the process is to inspect yourself say once a month. You soon learn exactly how the normal tissues feel under your palms. Then if a lump begins to develop, you are aware of it as something different.

Occasionally a lump will be visible just by looking at it, but it is important, if possible, to detect a lump before that. Keep in mind that not every lump is cancer. It may be something else. A cyst, for example. But there is no way for you to tell. When you find a lump, have your doctor make an examination to see what it is, and what if anything should be done about it.

Opening lead—king of clubs.

Here is an interesting hand played in a match between France and Belgium. It illustrates how a careful declarer — by paying close attention to tiny clues — can reap a gratifying reward for his efforts.

West led the king of clubs and continued with the ace, a thereupon declarer (Georges Theron of France) made the key play of ruffing with the seven (instead of the four). Theron then cashed the A K of hearts and led a low heart, planning to ruff low in dummy and play the queen of diamonds though East's king.

But West ruffed the third round of hearts with the eight, forcing dummy to overruff with the queen. However, it turned out that the farseeing Theron was able to take this development in stride. He simply led the six of diamonds from dummy, playing the four from his hand after East had followed low, then played another trump from dummy to trap East's king.

So the outcome was that Theron made five doubled, doubled by virtue of his ruff with the seven at trick two.

Had he ruffed with the four, he would have gone down one against proper defense because he would have found himself unable to lead trumps twice from dummy to smother East's king.

With dummy holding the 6-3 opposite Theron's A-J-10-9-7, East's king would have been immune to successful attack and he would have scored it eventually by the contract-down one.

It takes unusually rare foresight for a declarer to realize the importance of trumping with the seven instead of the four in a hand of this type, but it is little things like that that make bridge the wonderful game it is.

Tomorrow: Perfect technique.

Popular Diplomat

Community Health Care Centres Urged

OTTAWA (CP) — Provincial governments should, as a first step in developing a totally integrated, non-profit health care system, begin to set up community health care centres, advises a special report for health ministers released today.

"The community health centre is one way of controlling costs, introducing new patterns of care and providing a communications network to put people in touch with services when they need help," said the report of the 26-member committee of specialists under Dr. John E. F. Hastings, professor of health administration at the University of Toronto.

"But our investigations have led us to the conclusion that real economies in using resources to meet the needs of people can be achieved only if the community health centre is part of a health services system which is fully integrated administratively and financially."

The committee was set up in June, 1971, after a federal-provincial health ministers' meeting. The report was given in July to National Health Minister John Munro, as chairman of the health ministers' conference, and has been sent to provincial ministers for study.

It will likely form a major topic of discussion at this year's meeting in Ottawa in November.

The 54-page main report is in two parts, the first on community health centres and the second on a total health system approach. There are several appendices and, still to come, two supplementary reports on economics and organization.

The three major recommendations are:

—Development by the provinces, in mutual agreement with public and professional groups, of a significant number of community health centres, as non-profit corporate bodies in a fully-integrated health services system.

—Immediate and purposeful reorganization and integration of all health services into a health services system to ensure basic health service standards for all Canadians and to ensure a more economic and effective use of all health care resources.

Immediate institution provincial governments of dialogue with the health professions and new and existing by health service bodies to plan, budget, implement, coordinate and evaluate this system; the federal government providing consultation services, funding and country-wide evaluation.

Lewis Maintains Tax System Unfair

TIMMINS, Ont. (CP) — David Lewis, federal New Democratic Party leader, has attacked as "unfair" Canada's taxation system, charging that in 1969 it allowed the 30.9 per cent of Canada's 268 metal, mining companies to pay no income tax.

Mr. Lewis, addressing about 90 members of an NDP riding association garden party, charged that by 1973, individuals would be paying 49.9 per cent of all tax revenue and corporations 12.3 per cent.

He said metal mining corporations "were allowed to make net deductions of $496,946,000 from their book profits for income tax purposes, in 1969, the last year for which government statistics are available".

"This was an average of $1,-254,259 per company.

"But in manufacturing where 36.7 per cent of the corporations fail to pay any income tax, the 29,955 companies were allowed $733,319,000 in net deductions for income tax purposes," Mr. Lewis said. "That is an average of $35,000 per firm."

He named Cominco Inc. as one corporation whose income tax rates should be higher.

Cominco, "basically a Canadian Pacific Railway subsidiary," paid income taxes of $147.8-million on net earnings of $712.2-million between 1962 and 1971, he said.

"That is an average rate of only 20.6 per cent A married man with two children under 16 years of age pays the same rate of taxation if he earns a mere $12,000.

The NDP leader said fewer jobs are created, at more expense in resource industries than in manufacturing.

"Between 1961 and 1970, new investment by the oil and mining industry amounted to $7,394,000,000," while total employment was 121,000.

"In other words, $60,000 was needed to create or sustain each job in this sector.

"New investment in manufacturing amounted to $20,943,000,000 in the same period and employment in 1970 stood at 1,507,000. This means that only $13,900 was needed to create and sustain each job in manufacturing."

Weeklies Set Example

MONTREAL (CP) — Daily newspapers should take a tip from the weeklies in providing a more personalized product instead of coast-to-coast monotony, Jean-Paul L'Allier, Quebec communications minister, said Saturday.

The weekly newspaper, which takes into account the local and regional personalities of its readers, is the ideal spokesman for a public mindful of its rights, he told the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association annual meeting.

Concentration of other media has led to uniform news reports aimed at a stereotyped reader in dailies across the country and the same wire service stories in the radio and television newscasts, he said.

Speak with One Voice, Christians Are Urged

BT. THOMAS, Ont. (CP) — Archbishop E. W. Scott of the Anglican Church of Canada called on all Christians, regardless of denomination, to speak with one voice to the world's leaders on major issues.

Addressing the Canadian convention of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) Saturday, Archbishop Scott said an ecumenical church is needed "to help clarify some of the basic issues which threaten the dignity of man and the preservice of the created world."

"The church should be attempting to influence both individual and corporate decision," he said.

One of three guest speakers to address the convention on the subject of church union, the archbishop said that "if we take our faith seriously, we have no right to ignore the larger questions and fight over things that don't really matter."

Another speaker, Rev. Dr. Eoin S. Mackay, association secretary of the Canadian Council of Churches said "there were times in the past when division in the church was necessary for truth to survive."

"But we're not elaborating our individual traditions and histories by working together in this present age.

"It's absolutely futile for all of the different denominations to keep rushing to Ottawa with separate statements on public issues."

Dr. Mackay said it was God "that makes man's ministry valid; all else is symbolic."

"If we could get all of this straight in our minds then we could get together and get down to the real job of serving the world."

Rev. Canon Ralph R. Latimer, executive commissioner of the general commission on church union, said that "until the church is ecumenical it cannot serve our age in a very adequate way."

Present union negotiations in Canada involve only the Anglican, United and Christian (Disciples of Christ) churches, but Canon Latimer said that at least five other denominations were watching the current talks with interest.

United Church Dilemma

Democracy Prevents Unanimity

EASKATOON (CP) — The United Church of Canada is having difficulty expressing an official viewpoint on issues troubling to the times because of what some of its commissioners call "the infusion of democracy."

This is the view of many of the 650 delegates to the church's general council meeting, which by today had gone through six of its 7½ allotted days. It has been unable to work through even half of the proposed resolutions or half of the two most controversial reports—on abortion and French-English relations—up for discussion.

Debate on most of the issues since the meeting opened Tuesday has been heated and lengthy and everyone has had an equal chance to speak.

Delegates say this is a change from previous meetings of the general council, the "final court" of the church.

In the past, they said, the council has been the parliament of the church in makeup and procedure and the "backbenchers" or lay delegates from small congregations had little opportunity to speak.

There were rumblings of discontent at the council meeting in Niagara Falls, Ont., last year, and the council has sought to loosen seeming restraints to permit free and open discussion of church policy.

Despite the delays, few delegates have lodged any complaints about the new system.

The longest battle was fought over the church's stand on abortion. Amendment followed amendment during the weekend as some delegates tried to change the content of a church position paper which stated that prior to 12 weeks of pregnancy "abortion should be a personal matter between a woman and her doctor."

It said that after that time, abortion should only be performed after consultation with another doctor.

The church went on record in 1971 as stating that abortion is permissable in certain medical, social and economic circumstances.

Rev. K. Harriet Christie of Toronto, deputy-secretary of the church's division of mission in Canada, said the time has come to trust women to make "responsible decisions."

Rev. Winifred Bridges of Haileybury, Ont. argued that while a woman should have self-determination over her own body, "if contraception failing she must face the fact that it is not just her body, but two living bodies that are involved."

Sun Exhibiting Unusual Activity

OTTAWA (CP) — Sunbathers have seen little of the sun this year, but solar astronomers have had their hands full with what they describe as "highly unusual solar activity."

"The unusual activity this year, particularly during August, occurred during a period when the sun was supposed to be quiet.

One violent solar storm earlier this month "will go down in history as the great flare of Aug. 7," said Dr. Victor Gaizauskas of the astrophysics branch of the National Research Council.

Solar activity has varied in regular 11-year cycles, but recent activity has been unpredictable.

Since observations of sunspot activity began to be carefully recorded during the 1700s, 20 of the 11-year cycles have been observed, Dr. Gaizauskas explained. The last peak period for solar activity was 1968 and the surface of the sun was expected to become progressively quieter until 1976.

Dr. Avery calculated it would take Niagara Falls power stations 10 billion years to produce that amount of energy.

"Or you might say the energy output was equal to just from two billion hydrogen bombs, the 10-megaton variety, being exploded all at the same time or to the energy produced by 10-million-billion lightning bolts." That's 10 followed by 15 zeros.

Scots View Old Feud

TORONTO (CP) — The Campbells and the Macdonalds, centuries of feuding behind them, got together in harmony Saturday night to view a re-creation of one of the bloodiest episodes in their ancestral history.

The occasion was the world premiere of the film, Massacre of Glencoe, held as a fund-raising event for the Clan Donald International Appeal, a world-wide campaign to preserve Scottish history and heritage on the famed Isle of Skye and to create an international centre for education and research.

Canada was chosen as host for the world-premiere showing to coincide with the Scottish World Festival attracting thousands of clansmen from around the world to this year's Canadian National Exhibition.

Borrowing In Germany Criticized

TORONTO (CP) — Donald C. MacDonald, New Democratic Party member for York South and NDP financial critic in the Ontario legislature, said Friday the Ontario government's plan to borrow $30 million in Germany will make it harder for the province's industries to sell their goods abroad.

He disputed the claim of Provincial Treasurer Darcy McKeough that the loan would save $1.5 million for the Ontario taxpayers. Instead, it was "a lottery in—which he might lose a million or two if the German mark appreciates," he said.

Canada's China Fair Sets Record

PEKING (Reuter) — External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp opened today the largest trade fair Canada has ever staged and described it as the most important development in Sino-Canadian relations so far.

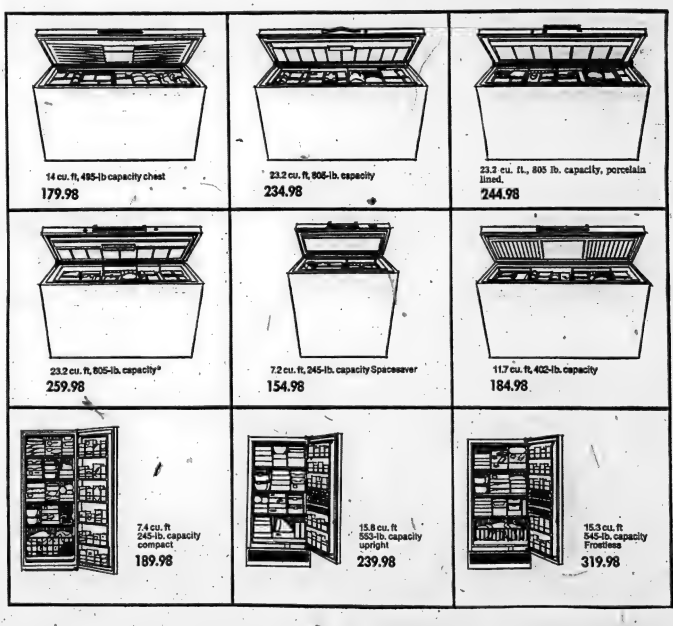
The fair, at Peking's industrial exhibition centre, has cost more than $2.5 million to stage.

It will run until Sept. 2. More than 250 Canadian firms are exhibiting at the fair and more than 500 businessmen have arrived from Canada by charter flights to attend.

Speaking to reporters, Sharp said Canada was China's third largest trading partner. The aim of the exhibition was to show the full range of Canadian manufactured goods and develop sales to China over a wider range.

Chinese Tour Ottawa Farm

OTTAWA (CP) — China's trade minister toured a Canadian government farm Saturday, kicking through corn fields like a farm boy.



Pai Hsiang-kuo and a coterie of Chinese officials were led through the experimental farm here by Agriculture Minister H. A. Olson.

Mr. Pai, wearing a light-gray Chinese tunic, appeared to enjoy both the manicured fields of the large farm and his translated conversations with agriculture department officials. The minister laughed often and asked several questions about the farm operations, particularly the chicken ranch.

China has imported Canadian breeder chickens since 1963. At an informal boardroom meeting after the tour, he said his country's poultry stocks have been significantly improved by the introduction of Canadian birds.

Safeguard your food in PORCELAIN

*Porcelain-on-steel interiors are odour-free, stain-resistant. Easy to clean. And because porcelain is also scratch and rust-proof, it adds years of sturdy life to your freezer.

Freezer living is economical. You can save money by buying foods at the peak of the season, when prices are at their lowest. Save money too by stocking up on supermarket meat 'specials'. Buy in volume and store in your freezer until the next big sale! You won't shop so often therefore, be less exposed to costly 'impulse' buying.

Freezer living gives you more time out of the kitchen. Next time you cook your specialty—a stew, casserole or paste—instead of fixing enough for dinner cook enough for four meals. It'll take only minutes extra. Then serve one and freeze the other three. When you don't have time to fix dinner, just reach into your freezer and heat and serve!

ISOBEL MAKES FACES

by ISOBEL CHANNING
SHOPPERS DRUG MART COSMETIC CO-ORDINATOR AND CONSULTANT

It's back to school; back to work, back to the stimulating fall season and goodby to summer! Beauty-wise, hello to the feminine, ladylike look of the autumn.

The first problem most of us face after the long, hot summer, is how to repair damaged skin and hair. And, believe me, it can be damaged, even if you haven't spent hours on the beach. Hair...for example, is likely to be more straw-like than silken, if it's been exposed to the sun. What can be done about it? Start with a conditioner. Brush with a good natural bristle brush, and massage the scalp – your own natural oils are the best conditioner available. A soft tint will give hair new life replacing the worn out bleached look. Try a deeper tone this fall. And for that special occasion, or just because you feel like giving yourself a boost, try one of the new coloured sprays. They'll give your hair beautiful silver or gold streaks! As for hair styles, soft and feminine is the word. The page boy look will enjoy a great comeback.

Skin suffers too in the summer – particularly the sensitive skin of your face, eyes, and throat. A good body lotion is a must; use it regularly. The sun tanned face soon turns into a patchwork of uneven skin tones at summer's end, so be sure to change your makeup to blend the tones together. Try adding a glow to offset the faded suntan – rosy beige, perhaps. A good matte finish will complete the feminine "indoor look".

Fragrances in the fall and winter tend to be heavier – musky and woodsy. Perfume oils are a good bet and the fragrance lingers on . . .

And makeup? Just think colour, colour, colour. Deeper and deeper. From plum to green, blue and purple – eyes, lips and fingernails will radiate a sexy look.

EXCLUSIVE! How the Russians plan to beat Canada

The sports event of the decade for Canadians will be the long-awaited hockey series to prove who are the best in the world—our pros or Russia's "amateurs." The Russians have been preparing for this battle of giants for years under coach Anatoli Tarasov, who has analyzed the skills and tactics of the NHL super-stars and (he believes) prepared a special plan to beat them.

The Fitness Institute's Lloyd Percival, a keen student of Eastern European hockey since he predicted in 1955 that the Russians would eventually challenge the professionals, has uncovered many details of their "secret" program. In an exclusive article in the September issue of the Sports and Fitness Instructor, he describes what he knows about that plan—and what the Canadian team must do to neutralize it—as he evaluates the strengths and weaknesses of the two teams.

This is just one of the many penetrating and valuable articles in this exciting new publication, which is waiting for you now at your neighborhood Shoppers Drug Mart store, free! It's the only paper of its kind in Canada and perhaps in the world, with authoritative sports and fitness information for the whole family. Contained on these two pages are samples of the kind of material it presents.

Some well-known sports and fitness authorities write for it — champion golfer George Knudson, top lacrosse coach Jim Bishop, Toronto Metros ex-soccer coach Graham Leggat, world famous sports psychologist Dr. Thomas A. Tutko and sports and fitness medicine expert Dr. William Kerr, to mention a few. It's edited by Lloyd Percival, director of the internationally renowned Fitness Institute and Canada's foremost physical fitness expert and coach, and it comes out every month.

You can get it now. Just take the coupon on the next page to your nearest Shoppers Drug Mart store and ask for it. It's free—another way in which Shoppers is taking care of Canadians.

Feeding the family athlete—Make sure you provide your son, daughter—or husband—with all the right foods

2. Fixing figure faults—For women of all ages.

3. Building a hockey body—Especially for the young hockey player.

4. PLUS . . . regular features on developing family fitness . . . treating and preventing athletic injuries . . . psychology of coaching . . . golf . . . tennis . . . soccer . . . lacrosse . . . strength . . . and many, many more.

A waist 'trimmer' that really works

by Dorothy Macdonell

Regardless of her age, every woman wants to keep a slim waistline. A trim abdominal area with the muscles well toned and strong not only makes you look better but the exercise used to slim the waist will help you feel better.

Research conducted at the Fitness Institute indicates that not all abdominal exercises produce the same results—some are much more effective than others. The method of performing them also plays a big role.

One of the most effective types of abdominal exercise draws together the upper and lower parts of the body in a jackknife action. This throws a direct load on the key muscles.

Illustrated is the Single Leg Jackknife. This is one which can be started at an easy level, in case you are badly out of shape, and can gradually be made as vigorous and as effective as you desire.

Note: Though this is a great exercise for the ladies, it will work for everyone. So, if the male segment of your family is beginning to sag at the beltline, get them doing it, too!

Method

Start by lying on your back, arms stretched out behind you. Then, sit up and at the same time lift one leg, keeping it locked at the knee. Touch the arch of your foot with your fingers, return to the starting point and repeat, this time raising the other leg.

If you have difficulty at first, start by just touching your knees and gradually reach higher and higher up the leg as your ability improves.

Do as many as you can the first time, then decrease the number by 50 per cent and do as many sets of that number as you can, with 15 seconds rest between each set.

Once every 10 days see how many times you can do the exercise without stopping. Then reduce by 50 per cent and do it sets again. This is the way to maximize results and test your progress regularly.

SCIENCE CORNER

Alpine skiers (even the girls) have stronger legs than NHL hockey players. This has been demonstrated in tests at the Fitness Institute. The average NHL player can leg pull 970 lbs while skiers average better than 1300 lbs!

* * *

When pre-puberty age boys and girls are given endurance training their ability to utilize oxygen during effort improves. This can increase their prospects of being fitter generally and more capable endurance athletes when they get older, reports Dr. Per-Olof Astrand of Sweden, the world's greatest exercise physiologist.

lloyd percival

Keep your promise

ONE of the most effective ways a coach can build up effective influence and control over his athletes is to define clearly the rules (training practice promptness, behavior, etc.) he wants observed and then stick to them.

The coach often sets down a number of rules and regulations, but for one reason or another he does not follow through if they are broken. Often he enforces some but not others.

His reasons for this vary. For instance, he may have created rules which turn out to be impractical or too harsh; he may be too soft-hearted, or he may be afraid to discipline in case he loses the affection of his athletes. There are many reasons.

The thing to remember is that when rules are not enforced there is an unfortunate psychological effect on the athletes. They tend to become lax in their attitude, not only about the rules that have been given them but in their attention to instructions. Though it may be an unconscious reaction, it might be said that an athlete in such a situation loses respect for his coach.

A position of weakness

The coach is in a very poor position to do a good coaching job when an athlete can say: "Oh, he's always making rules but he never makes them stick."

Promises, pleasant or unpleasant in their implications, should always be kept, except on the odd occasion when extenuating circumstances exist.

Therefore, before a coach creates a set of rules or a rule to cover a current situation or problem, he should be certain that:

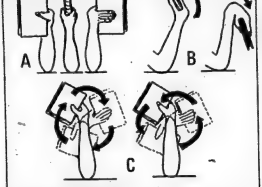
1. It is a just rule;
2. It is understood;
3. He intends to keep it.

The same general principle applies to the athlete and the promises he makes to himself about his attitude toward training, general behavior, effort, promptness, etc. He should be realistic and not set down and publicize a set of rules he cannot possibly adhere to or does not feel he has the character or energy to enforce. Failure will mean lower morale and loss of face and perhaps alibis and equivocation to explain this failure to himself or his coach and teammates.

Self-discipline is something every athlete must strive his hardest to develop. But it does not come by drawing up a set of rules that are beyond the athlete's present ability to observe. Self-discipline is like a muscle: it grows with use. It reacts best when the load is gradually increased and never set at such a weight that it will be dropped.

HOCKEY

Develop your hockey 'shooting muscles'



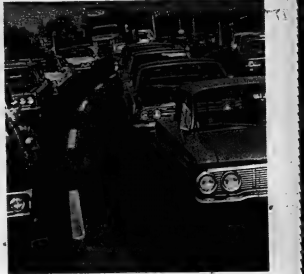
Bobby Hull, hardest shooter in the history of hockey, blazes the puck at the goalkeepers of the major leagues at speeds as high as 118 m.p.h. One of the chief reasons Hull can shoot a puck so hard is that his wrists and forearm muscles are tremendously strong.

Some people are born with very strong and muscular wrists while others are not. But if the right kind of exercise is done, the key muscles used in shooting can be greatly strengthened and increased in size. If you want to develop the power to shoot hard (the faster you shoot, the greater chance you have to score), all you have to do is start building those shooting muscles.

One of the best single exercises you can do is the "hook drill" as illustrated here. This is a drill we give to the professional hockey stars who condition at the Fitness Institute. Now, before the season starts, is the time to start increasing your strength—so get started today.

Do these exercises several times a day, remembering to snap and rotate as hard and as fast as you can. Increase load as able by using a heavier book or a weight plate from a set of barbells.

This is just a sample of the many "big league" hints on how to build a hockey body that are featured in the current edition of the Sports & Fitness Instructor, available free when you present the coupon on this page at your nearest Shoppers Drug Mart. If you are a young hockey player, make sure you read it.



THE EXERCISES

A. Grasp the heaviest book you can handle as shown and snap it from side to side, keeping your elbow on a table. Keep snapping the book back and forth laterally as fast and hard as you can until your muscles tire. Then do it with the other hand. Do six times (three sets with each hand).

B. Snap the book up and down as shown and repeat as in A.

C. Rotate the book in large circles. Go clockwise five times, then counter-clockwise, changing direction every five repetitions. Keep going until tired, then switch hands and carry on as in A and B.

● Get rid of the traffic jam tension

How to beat the traffic blues —stay 'loose'

by Joe Taylor

Driving in traffic, especially after a hard day's work, is a stress-creating problem.

It can be irritating, frustrating and actually hazardous to health and efficiency because it creates residual muscle tension, especially in the neck and shoulders. When tension accumulates in these key areas, you tend to develop headaches, feel harrassed and hectic and tend to develop stomach upset when you eventually get home to eat dinner.

Since most of us cannot live without regular exposure to this problem, the only answer is to learn to live with it. There are several tricks to prevent the tension buildup, and keep you loose and easy the wheel.

● When stopped at a light or in a traffic jam, take a deep breath, shrug your shoulders up to your ears, hold for a second or two and then exhale and let your shoulders drop loosely. Do this as often as you can. You can even do this drill when driving.

● Move your head well back, then let it drop forward loosely, chin on your chest, jaw hanging open. Sigh as you drop your head forward to aid the relaxation process. Naturally, you do this only when the car is stopped.

● Lift your chest as high as you can, hold for several seconds and then let the chest sag loosely downward. This eases the cramped chest problem, a great tension developer. Incidentally, breathing slowly and fairly deeply when driving or when stopped in traffic helps keep you calm and less irritated. Get the habit.

Never forget that tense, harrassed drivers are accident prone, so learn to keep loose at the wheel, starting now, and get in the office or arrive home in better shape for work and relaxation.

the question box

ARE RUSSIAN hockey players generally stronger than NHL players?

Yes. They do a great deal of weight training and special strength work for all parts of their bodies. This will be one advantage they will have in the coming Canada—Russia hockey series.

Note: A full comparative analysis of the Canadian and Russian players is featured in the current edition of the Sports & Fitness Instructor.

IF YOU don't like milk, what is the best way to get calcium? Is calcium important?

Yes, calcium is very important for both health and fitness. Cheese is an ideal source. If you don't like cheese, take it as a medicine—you may get to like it.

If this doesn't work, see your physician as he can prescribe a calcium supplement.

WHAT IS the "hot pack" treatment for sore muscles?

A hot pack consists of an analgesic balm (available at drug stores and Shoppers Drug Mart, of course) spread about one quarter of an inch thick over a sore muscle (such as a charley horse, for example). It is then covered with cotton batten held on with an elastic tensor bandage.

This treatment is used primarily at night (during sleep) to keep a mild heat over an injury site. This stimulates circulation and hastens healing. Rub a thin layer of vaseline over the area before applying the analgesic, which is a "hot" ointment.

RESEARCH REPORT

Over-eating is just a bad habit

Dr. Albert J. Spunkard of the University of Pennsylvania recently completed a research project designed to find out why many people tend to eat too much and what they can do to cut down.

According to this famous medical expert, people "do not become addicted to food as is popularly thought—they merely develop an over-eating habit and this behaviour pattern must be broken." Dr. Spunkard did agree that some people eat for comfort when things go wrong, but he added:

"This is not a major problem. It is the eating habit pattern which does the damage and which must be changed if there is to be an eating control that will last."

Dr. Spunkard says that people who eat too much can help themselves by following these three rules:

1. Keep a record of everything you eat, including when and where you eat it. It will amaze you how many times you pop things into your mouth. Keeping such a record makes you conscious of your eating habits which is the first step in control.

2. Do not keep food all over the house (peanuts, candy, fruit, etc.). Keep it in the kitchen—not in the living room or recreation room as a general pattern. If it is there, you will eat it!

3. Slow down your eating! According to Dr. Spunkard, this is the major problem. People who overeat tend to eat too fast and gulp their food without chewing it thoroughly," he says. Take smaller bites, chew each mouthful thoroughly before swallowing. This will cut your volume down—and you will probably enjoy your food a lot more.

According to this medical researcher, modifying your eating behaviour pattern—especially your rate of eating and your chewing habits—will do a great deal to help you control the problem. It certainly seems worth a try.

Six Convicts Escape From Montreal 'Pen'

Conservatives Win Republicans Fight Over '76

MIAMI BEACH (CP) — Conservatives and liberals, split over the shape of their convention four years hence, threatened a floor fight as the Republican national convention prepared to renominate President Nixon tonight.

The fight on the convention floor, if it takes place, could expose a deep split between small-state conservatives and large-state moderates who are looking to the man who will succeed Nixon in 1976, should the president win another four-year term in November.

Conservatives are solidly for Vice-President Spiro Agnew, who will again tie Nixon's running mate this year. But the liberals in 1976 would like to see someone who would appeal to moderate and independent voters.

The issue over which the two sides are fighting is the formula which would be used to increase the number of delegates to the 1976 convention to achieve a broader base for women, blacks and youth.

The battle has been going on in committees for the last two weeks in Miami Beach, but reached a climatic vote in a Miami Beach hotel room just before midnight Monday night.

The conservatives won hands down and left a dispirited band of liberals to wonder if they should risk a bitter battle today on the convention floor with millions of voters watching on television.

As the rules committee battled for almost nine hours the rest of the convention on opening day Monday was marked by a unity springing from confidence that a November win over George McGovern, the Democratic presidential candidate.

The open-collar tuxedos were studded with old-fashioned, pre-Cecil B. speech making and some rather shameless flattery with the enchanted Democrats.

Nixon will fly today to nearby Key Biscayne, where he has a home, but will not appear before the convention until Wednesday night to give his acceptance speech.

His name will be placed in nomination some time near 10 p.m. EDT tonight by New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, once his rival for the leadership of the Republican party.

Organizers of the convention have guaranteed there will be no opposition to Nixon's renomination by adopting a rule requiring anyone's name being placed in nomination under the rule to have the support of at least three state delegations.

Tanker Collision Kills 48

CAPE TOWN (AP) — Forty-eight sailors are reported dead or missing after the collision of two supertankers in thick fog Monday off the southern tip of Africa.

The 54,000-ton Texanita exploded and sank four minutes after the collision with the 48,320-ton Oswego Guardian.

Four survivors and 10 bodies have been found, but the South African air force called off a search planned for today after concluding there was little hope of finding more survivors.

Forty-seven of the victims and three of the survivors were from the Texanita. One seaman from the Oswego Guardian was believed missing.

The survivors included the Texanita's captain, Jurrens Salmaraad.

Angry Goyer Orders Probe

MONTREAL (CP) — Solicitor - General Jean-Pierre Goyer said Monday night an investigation will begin as soon as possible into an escape earlier in the day from the maximum security correctional unit at St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary.

One of the men was captured shortly after six prisoners described as extremely dangerous—cut their way through a 10-foot barbed wire fence, undetected.

Prison officials said it was the biggest escape ever from the penitentiary.

Police from Laval, Montreal and regional detachments of the Quebec Provincial Police suspended their search over night but resumed it early today. Checking telephone tips and reported sightings of suspicious looking men.

Mr. Goyer said the men to conduct the inquiry would be picked before the end of the week and would start without delay.

"It's about time we looked at the jobs done by the men inside the correctional system instead of supply more and more security gadgets," he said.

Mr. Goyer added that escapes this year have doubled over the previous year.

"I'm sick and tired of hearing authorities say it's because they haven't got enough security gadgets."

Mr. Goyer visited the centre early Monday evening. He told reporters he was "astonished" that six men could escape from a place like this."

He criticized the guards for not using their weapons to prevent the escape.

"The public should know that the guards are equipped with their weapons so they can be used during an escape," he said. "Today, the guards should have fired several warning shots when they spotted movements in the bush and failed to stop."

The centre, built four years ago, employs 65 guards to look after the 62 prisoners all described as dangerous, by Warden Pierre Goulet.

"These guys have nothing to do but think of how to escape."

He said the guard in the northeast corner of the yard spotted what he thought to be movement in the bushes near the fence at 10:30 a.m. and sounded the alarm.

The 24 prisoners in the yard at the time were ordered back to their cells, and a head count made. There were no more missing.

They were later identified as Michel Lafleur, 22; Andre Ouellette, 22; Jean-Paul Mercier, 27; Robert Beaudoin, 28; Jacques Mercure, 35; and Pierre Vincent, 27—all serving sentences of between 10 and 25 years for armed robbery.

The men crawled through a hole measuring one foot high and eight inches across in each of the institution's two 10 foot high fences.

Where it was recaptured shortly after the escape driving a stolen car to the Lake Louise mountain.

Two of the escaped prisoners, Lafleur and Ouellette, were named in a list of so-called political prisoners whose release was demanded by the Front de Libération du Québec during the kidnap crisis in October, 1970.

Fischer Threatens to Default

REYKAVIK (AP) — Bobby Fischer threatened to forfeit the 17th game of the world chess championship today, and perhaps the match, unless something is done about the audience noise in the auditorium, a source close to the American challenger said.

Referee Lothar Schmid said he received a letter of protest from Fischer today. He declined to disclose the contents, but said it "was not in the rules and would have to be considered very carefully."

Schmid added that the game would be played tonight unless one of the players was ill.

After a drawn game Sunday, Fischer leads the Russian champion 9½ to 6½ and needs only three more points to take the crown.

Fischer asked referee Lothar Schmid twice on Sunday to transfer play to a private room because of the noise but Schmid refused.

Keep Auto Licences Pure

323 Words Banned

TORONTO (CP) — Expecting the worst, the Ontario government has prepared a list of 323 words residents cannot have on their new licence plates.

With the introduction of multi-year plates, the government is allowing car drivers to pick a combination of three letters and three numbers for an additional $25 payment.

However, motorists will not be allowed to choose a plate with that other word for donkey, for instance.

That's under the ban.

The Ontario government also has banned SEX and a number of three-letter epithets for racial- and national-groups. Also on the provincial ban are NDP and CCF.

The ministry of transportation and communications sent for and received the blacklists of every jurisdiction in North America that uses letters in licence numbers.

The list of three-letter no-no words stretches on and on and covers seven languages.

It comes down hard on the drug culture.

P-O-T and L-S-D are O-U-T.

However MDA, the chemical known as the "love drug," will begin a series of licence plates for medical doctors.

Transport Minister Gordon Carton said the province expects to sell between 15,000 and 20,000 of the specially-ordered plates. There are about 3,500,000 licensed vehicles in the province.

Britain Will Admit 15,000 Asians Soon

KAMPALA, Uganda (Reuter) — Britain will fly out the first 15,000 of its Asian passport holders being expelled from Uganda within a few weeks, British High Commissioner Richard Slater said today.

He told a news conference:

"We have authority from London to grant entry certificates with immediate effect to some 3,000 heads of families whose applications for vouchers had already been processed.

"This means a movement inside the next few weeks of about 15,000 Asians with United Kingdom passports."

Slater said all British Asians in Uganda who already had applied to enter Britain have been given permission to do so.

They would have to pay their own fares and he believed "scheduled air services out of Uganda would need to be augmented by charter flights to ferry the migrants.

There may be 50,000 or more British passport holders among some 50,000 Asians in Uganda given until Nov. 7 to get out of the country.

Oppose Bombing of Dikes

TORONTO (CP) — Thirteen Canadian church leaders issued a plea Monday to Prime Minister Trudeau to use his influence to stop any United States bombing which may threaten the North Vietnamese dike system.

Shooting Deaths Probed

GRAVENHURST, Ont. (CP) — Provincial Police are investigating the shooting deaths Monday of a woman and her 85 year-old step-father in, Gravenhurst, about 25 miles north of Orillia.

Police said Harold L. Burford and Bernice Alford, about 65, were shot by a small calibre pistol.

The woman was found dead in her home and the man died in hospital in nearby Bracebridge.

Want Raises Donated

SASKATOON (CP) — The United Church of Canada has asked all Canadians to practise self-denial by increasing their support for charities by at least the amount of their salary increases next year. Delegates to the 25th general council of the church, Monday expressed a strong concern about the escalation of salaries in Canada and suggested the self-denial remedy. Ministers were urged to set an example by restraining their own pay.

Two Musicians Seek Asylum

MEXICO CITY (Reuter) — Mexico has granted political asylum to two Soviet musicians who left their hotel last Saturday to go to a movie show and never returned, the foreign ministry said Monday night.

The two-Alexander Ivanov, 32, and Yuri Grodetzki, 32—came to Mexico a week ago with the 100-member Music Hall of Leningrad company which is touring Latin America.

Trillium Awards Coming

Gardening, to many in the city, means making a patch of lawn into a piece of art. Each year, with the coming of milder spring weather, horticulturists unload their basements and windows of potted plants - saved from the snow and cold - and replace them in their sightful plots. In recognition of the floral displays, it is becoming a tradition to honor certain gardens with Trillium Awards. If you know a garden that is just a little nicer than the rest, call the Belleville Horticultural Society and make a nomination before the end of the month.

PM Still Undecided About Election

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau said Monday he is undecided about a federal election date but leaders of his Liberal party exuded campaign-like confidence.

The prime minister met with the national campaign committee of the party in a downtown hotel discussing the election he is expected by many to call in the fall.

Afterwards he would only tell reporters that he is an "optimistic guy" and he must get discuss the matter with some of his ministers.

A reporter asked him if "we are going to be in suspense much longer" and the prime minister replied: "I think you will, yes."

He said it was a secret meeting with the party but that "feelings were good."

The good feeling was exuded by Consumer Affairs Minister Robert Andras and Regional Expansion Minister Jean Marchand, co-chairman of the campaign committee, at a later news conference.

They said that possible dates for the election were discussed, including the options of having it in the fall or spring or even next June — the latest possible date under the constitution.

Mr. Andras said he is impressed with the state of readiness of the party across the country.

"All of our people have indicated that they're prepared to go whenever he (Mr. Trudeau) is ready to decide it is necessary . . ."

Mr. Marchand said the general situation across the country is good "so now we are waiting for the prime minister to make up his mind."

They said election matters probably will be discussed at a full cabinet meeting Wednesday.

Meanwhile, both acknowledged that support for the party in Ontario had shown some weakness earlier this year, but that had since been recouped.

Merchants Protest Plan

City hall assurances that the dawn of a new era in downtown traffic won't come overnight didn't seemed to comfort some concerned assembly of businessmen yesterday.

They were the merchant and professional groups of Pinnacle Street who feel their business welfare threatened by an ambitious plan to totally alter north-south downtown traffic patterns.

The project, flowing traffic along Front and Church streets, includes a new Moira River bridge linking North Front St. to Pinnacle which would then become a two-way route.

The proposed change — Pinnacle now is one - way — brought a protest petition before city council signed by businessmen along the street who fear abolition of curbside parking will upset business patterns.

But, said city engineer Wilbur Purcell, such changes would only be wrought gradually. The new traffic project might not even be completed until 1990. Changes — such as abolition or control of parking — would only occur when "they emerged as problems."

Several councillors stressed what the council or hall administration had committed itself to — including the new bridge — might not be felt an obligation by future councils.

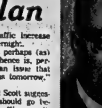
Already, a basic complication might affect the improvements for a start on the scheme, the petitioners were told. The city must try to dissuade the provincial government from making Pinnacle a combined link for highways 14 and 37. Such a move would cost the highways-link subsidy now being enjoyed by Coleman St., classified as the Highway 14 city route.

Traffic committee chairman Alderman Arthur Keegan said the "only alternative to the proposed Pinnacle pattern was the narrower Church St.. where cost of land acquisitions—including much church property — would be "prohibitive".

Alderman Donald Soutter didn't feel council should show so reassuring to Pinnacle businessmen "that they somehow have a breathing spell that might approach 1996".

An increase in traffic volumes in the decade ahead comparable to that of the past 10 years could spurt the entire development — bridge and all — well ahead of any such suggested deadline.

Despite what future councils might wish, the city already had approved the new bridge proposal, thus virtually committing the community to the whole pattern of traffic change.



William Millington, spokesman for the businessmen, did not readily resolution to suggestions that the entire undertaking was well in the future, if not indefinite.

The 1990 date was a considerable time projection and many felt a traffic increase could come overnight.

Also look at it perhaps (as) 18 or 20 years hence, perhaps, evading an issue that could be dealt with tomorrow," he said.

Mayor Russell Scott suggested the group should go before city hall's traffic committee when the entire project is again discussed.

Alderman Vern Corke also proposed the protesting brief should be forwarded to Transport and Communications Minister Gordon Carton and Health Minister Richard Potter, MPP Quinte.

JUDGE J. C. ANDERSON

Judge Anderson to Retire For Arbitration Position

Judge J. C. Anderson will retire as Hastings County judge next month when it is expected he will become head of arbitration involving civil service bargaining in nearly all Ontario's public services.

His expected retirement — and new appointment — would end 25 years' service as county judge.

However he will not be leaving Belleville. The judge will continue to preside over the county's surrogate court, which deals with estate matters.

At present, Judge Anderson — who achieved high reputation across Canada as conciliator and arbitrator in various labor disputes — is chairman of Ontario's Arbitrations Tribunal, a post he holds under the public service act.

That act is now being replaced by the Crown Employees Collective Bargaining Act, under which the tribunal presently will be expanded throughout the province's public services with the formal proclamation of the new act, it is expected Judge Anderson will be appointed as continuing chairman of its arbitrating machinery to settle all collective bargaining disputes with Crown employees.

The new act will include teachers and staffs of the province's community colleges employees of the Liquor Control Board, the Niagara Parks Commission, Workmen's Compensation Board and the Ontario Housing Corporation.

Formal announcement of his appointment is expected later this week after the Cabinet meets.

As yet, it is not known who his successor as county judge will be. Such appointments are made by the federal government.

As yet, Judge Anderson has declined comment until his new appointment is formally endorsed by order-in-council from the Cabinet while a further order-in-council will be awaited approving his continuance as surrogate court judge.

A former mayor of Oshawa, Judge Anderson was appointed to the Hastings County bench in 1946.

Besides his service on the bench his talents as mediator in labor disputes have been increasingly recognized during the years and involved him in various disputes right across Canada.

Among issues he helped resolve was the postal strike of the late 1960s. Another earlier labor dispute was that in declination of Canadian National Railways and the Brotherhood of firemen on the new locomotives. His findings in that dispute — that there be no taken off the locomotives providing the proper safety devices — set a precedent now being followed by railroads across North America.

A dispute in Ontario Hospitals also was settled by a round the principle of equal work among men and women.

Judge Anderson's hospitals also saw him pro the principle of equal work among men and women.

He has been involved with numerous conciliation and arbitration processes for the past eight years.

As a local citizen, Judge Anderson has been involved in various community activities.

He was a founding member which launched both the Belleville area Layaltown and Peterborough's for Sandford Farming community colleges. He later became chairman of the Loyalist board.

Serviced Land Squeeze Looms in Quinte

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Value of residential construction in Belleville continues to build — and so does pressure for more land.

Statistics given city council yesterday showed residential building permits issued during the first six months of 1972 were up about 26 per cent — $2,813,500 compared to $2,037,000 for the same period last year.

For the first half of 1970 the total was $2,172,000.

The steady statistical spiral also indicates a more sobering situation: shrinkage of serviceable land available for further building.

Gerald Joynes, city councillor and president of the Belleville and District Real Estate Board, says such property is now in short supply — a situation paced by a booming demand for housing.

Some time soon, he believes Belleville and its neighboring townships — increasingly urban — will be dormitories for the city's work force — must expand to meet the situation. The city may have to become a supplier of services to its municipal neighbors.

Mike DeMark, contractor and Quinte Home Builders Association vice - president, agrees.

Shortage of serviced land has pushed builders beyond city limits in the past year, he has produced a boom demand for housing, he describes like this:

"We just can't build houses fast enough. We just seem to dig a hole — and the house is sold and they're pushing for a closing date.

"Where the people are coming from I can't answer. But they're coming from some place."

Earlier this year, a spontaneous census among major and smaller contractors who make up the QHBA showed only about 60-100 lots would have all the needed official approvals for development.

While more subdivisions were in the planning, such a total is "a pretty small percentage for a city this size," said Mr. DeMark.

Within the city, depletion of serviceable land also has inflated property prices for what's left.

"People are asking such a great, big dollar for acreage by the time you'd service it, your just couldn't sell a lot," he said.

For realtors, this also is "an unprecedented summer from the demand point of view," Mr. Joynes agreed.

While this may reduce consumer choice "in no way have we reached the saturation point in demand" for homes.

"But we are fast running out of serviced land for new construction. Land that can be serviced is in very short supply.

"The shortage — and attraction of country living — has also seen mounting migration to surrounding townships like Ameliasburg, Sidney and Thurlow.

The ultimate result of such expansion may be that Belleville may have to become supple centre for residential services, like sewage disposal and water.

Such a solution believed Alderman Keegan was "as good as annexation."

The point has now been reached where the city and neighboring local governments should meet to discuss possibilities with provincial authorities.

Mr. DeMark agrees some local government — union of some kind" is needed to meet the mounting demand. This especially applies to Sidney township where Belleville and Trenton where's home building has developed at a "fantastic" rate.

The report of building inspector Gerald Stickle to city council showed permits were issued during the first half of the year for 172 single family dwellings, two six-unit apartments and a 10-unit apartment, a 54 unit townhouse complex and a 12 unit condominium project.

Apartment construction was down — single family dwellings up. Total value of all permits issued for the first year is down from 1971 — $3,327,800 compared to $7,286,000. The gap was caused by commercial buildings — which in 1971 saw construction of the northerd Quinte Mall. The city's biggest — ever single business development.

City May Face Suit Over Snow Dumping

A volunteer environmentalist wanted city council last night that Belleville will face a lawsuit next year if snow containing street salt or chemicals is dumped near the Bay of Quinte.

The caution came from Clarence Young, member of the Federation of Canadian Contaminated Environment, who persistently has been seeking out municipal Bay pollution situations in the past year.

Mr. Young told council it was "ludicrous" a city the size of Belleville uses salt for winter street control. Snow cleared from city streets is usually also dumped "debris laden" snow into Belleville harbor.

If such practices continue next year, said Mr. Young, it would his "bounden duty" to launch legal action.

In such a move he would have the assistance of the FACE group and the Environmental Law Association, which provides legal support to anti-pollution groups.

Mr. Young noted the Farley Ave. dumping site has been deemed satisfactory after inspection by the then Ontario Water Resources Commission. However, the same OWRC report advised the city it should help protect Bay water quality by using sand on residential streets.

Mayor Russell Scott said disposing of salted snow was a problem common to all Ontario communities, one now being researched by provincial authorities seeking a substitute chemical. The problem was not primarily one of dumping, since runoff eventually filters into water courses.

City engineer Wilbur Purcell is a member of the task force.

"If they can come up with some answers it will be a wonderful thing," said the mayor.

Later, a letter read council from Mr. Young enquiring $500 granted a council committee to assist his anti-pollution efforts. Council a request for a provincial water analysis in the Bay.

Alderman Jean Smith, chairman of the committee, said she had no instructions from council that money was to be spent on Mr. Young's analysis proposals.

Council approved a recommendation from the aldermen that the department of environment "as certain a total analysis" of Bay water. If any industries were involved in such tests both their representatives and Mr. Young should be invited to attend at test sites.

Cadets Learn to Find Themselves on Course

"You remember I said I wasn't going to run," panted Roger Hearn of 173 Squadron Trenton. "well, I ran." Roger had just arrived at the final checkpoint on a three mile trek through the bush. It was hot outside the tent and although tired and sweating he was eager to find out how long the trip had taken.

Roger's excursion is part of an orienteering course given to air cadets from summer camp at Canadian Forces Base Trenton. Cadets spend two days in the bush learning the basics of using a compass

"One day they may need to find their way by compass," says Captain George Nelson, orienteering officer, "orienteering teaches them how by making it into a game."

The timed trip through the bush is the highlight of the course. Cadets are given a compass reading and a number of paces to walk — at a point along this route they find instructions giving a new compass reading and number of paces. Obstacles like swamps and thickets are deliberately placed in the way. Those have to be navigated successfully in order to arrive back at camp on time.

A good time for a three-mile hike is about 35 minutes.

"At first they don't like it but they find it's a lot of fun after they've tried it," says Eric Wilson of 704 Squadron Trenton, who helped set up the orienteering courses.

On arrival at orienteering camp, cadets are issued with a hat, poncho, water bottle, arctic sleeping bag, mess tin containing cooking utensils and one survival pack. The pack contains enough food to last the entire stay. Cadets sleep on the ground, live on the survival rations and cook their own meals. The camp is located on an old artillery range in the middle of the bush just one half mile south of Lake Ontario near Point Petrie.

The cadets get into an atmosphere that is almost alien to them. Many are from the cities. They like this gung-ho military life, cooking over an open fire and eating rations," adds Capt. Nelson.

Orienteering is two days of tough outdoor living, but when the time comes to go home, most cadets don't want to leave.

Use of Parks Increasing

Use of provincial parks is climbing steadily year after year, but two in this area Presqu'ile and Sandbanks have shown a decline in attendance.

Number of visitors at Presqu'ile declined by 23 per cent in 1971 from 1970. Attendance at Sandbanks declined by 34 percent over the same period.

But the 1971 statistical report on provincial parks shows an over-all increase of 12 per cent in the number of visitors to the five parks in the Tweed district. No figures are available on the sixth, Lake on the Mountain, Lake St. Peter, with only 60 developed campsites, reported a phenomenal 119 per cent increase in visitors.

Average length of stay of campers in Tweed district parks is slightly more than three days. But at Presqu'ile in the Lindsay district, average length of stay is two days.

Groups camping in the parks average about four people each.

More Americans camp at Presqu'ile than at Tweed district parks. In 1971, 22 per cent of visitors were American, 10 per cent were from other provinces and 68 per cent were from Ontario.

In contrast, only 5 per cent of the campers at the main Tweed district parks were Americans. Another five per cent came from other Canadian provinces.

Transient campers were numerous at Presqu'ile. Forty-one per cent said they were stopping over at the park, and 58 per cent said it was their destination. Even fewer made Lake St. Peter's campsites their destination. For 58 per cent it was a stop-over.

But 70 to 81 per cent gave Black Lake, Bon Echo or Outlet as their destination. with Sandbanks unreported.

On the average, campers in the Tweed district showed an equal preference for tents (43 per cent) and trailers (42 per cent). However, at Presqu'ile the trailers, averaging 44 per cent were ahead of tents (per use period, 27 per cent).

At Presqu'ile, 50 per cent of campers who brought boats preferred canoes, and at Bon Echo the figure increased to 52 per cent.

But at Outlet, campers with boats divided their preference equally between canoes, boats under 10 horse power and boats over 10 horse power, at 28 per cent each.

Of the parks in this area, Bon Echo is the largest, with 16,417 acres. Presqu'ile is next with 2,170 acres, followed by Sandbanks with 1,802. Outlet beach has 675 acres, Lake on the Mountain has 256, North Beach 221, Lake St. Peter 62 and Black Lake 99.

Two City Crews Sail in Quebec

Two two-man crews from RCSCC Quinte will travel to Quebec this weekend to compete in the Navy League of Canada's National Regatta.

Twenty crews from across the country will take part in the competitions on Lake Memphramagog, sailing the Petrel class boat.

Leading members from the Belleville Sea Cadets are PO1 Alec Dawson and PO2 Frank Driscoll, and LC Barry Mason and AC Perry Tracey.

Mr. Dawson placed first across Ontario in a previous competition and when the competitions moved to British Columbia, he placed fifth nationally.

The cadets will leave the city this Friday evening with transportation supplied through the Ministry of National Defence.

Accommodations for the cadets will be financed by the Navy League of Canada.

When crews arrive at the gog, Friday evening, they will be able to sail for a while getting the feel of the boats.

Competitive sailing begins Saturday morning and continues Sunday.

Presentations of awards will be made Sunday evening and cadets will return on Monday.

Educational Spending Subject of P.E. Study

BLOOMFIELD (Staff) — The Prince Edward County board of education possibly will be chosen among several others to join in a pilot project for educational resources allocation budgeting.

Donald Lawless, appointed by the provincial government as director of an educational resources allocation task force, will attend a trustees meeting here Thursday night to discuss resources allocation in detail.

A press release issued by the board yesterday declared "If the board's efforts toward implementing program budgeting are successful, the result should provide not only better use of the educational tax dollar but a better education for students within Prince Edward County."

Education resources allocation budgeting or "program budgeting" is a system that distributes all educational funds and other resources in support of "definite educational aims and objectives".

The success or failure of program budgeting, and the accompanying development of a continuous educational progress pattern for students, according to the board's release hinges almost completely on the ability of teachers to produce sound educational aims for each teaching subject and the best method for reaching them.

Present budgeting in Prince Edward County schools is on the basis of supporting educational programs developed by and for each school.

In program budgeting, all teachers involved with a particular subject would be given an opportunity to co-operate in producing consolidated aims and objectives for that subject for the entire county school system.

"Under program budgeting, standard aims and objectives are developed for each educational subject on a county rather than school basis and then supported by financial and other resources available again on a county-wide basis," stated the release.

It was noted in Prince Edward County, with a limited central educational staff, it is difficult to embark on "ambitious programs such as educational resources allocation budgeting without hiring additional staff and becoming involved in the expenditure of more funds."

The county board of education, at no additional cost, has arranged for Carl Reid, present principal of Queen Elizabeth school in Picton, to transfer to the board offices in Bloomfield to study program budgeting.

Mr. Reid will spend the 1972-73 school year assisting director of education John McNeil in "working with the teaching staff to compile the basic information needed to allow implementation of program budgeting.

The Prince Edward County board of education has examined the concept of educational resources allocation budgeting during the past two years and has grown increasingly interested in the program.

Pedestrian Walkway Over Tracks Planned

Canadian National may install a pedestrian walkway as a safety precaution on its right-of-way across Frank St. in northwest Belleville some time this year, says Mayor Russell Scott.

East bound trains entering the city often halt in the area. It has been a safety worry spot for the railroad, concerned that children may attempt to cross the tracks despite the trains.

Mayor Scott told city council last week he had met with CN officials and learned a safe by installation — either a pedestrian overpass or underpass — has been approved by the Canadian Transport Commission. This will allow the right-of-way to be fenced.

Indications are "it will be constructed this year".

Today, the mayor said total cost of the project will be about $150,000 — with the city paying around $19,000.

Rabbits Missing

Two rabbits, valued at $4 apiece were stolen overnight from the residence of Mrs. Frank Maikawa of 8 High Crescent.

Mrs. Maikawa discovered the rabbit's cage in the back yard had been emptied when she went to feed the animals this morning.

Retired Teacher's Views

In the midst of an ever-administered educational system a retired Brockville math teacher, Reginald A. Cousins, believes that principals, themselves involved in "an awful set of unproductive work," should teach at least one period a day while students, for their part, should be subjected to examinations.

These were among a number of interesting recommendations made recently by Mr. Cousins who began teaching career in Hancroft 46 years ago. On exams, Mr. Cousins had this to say; "How one can be considered truly educated when he has never had a chance to fail is hard for me to understand . . . educators seem to be set against examinations of any kind. But I think they have a place, especially at the end of the year, when students, in preparation for them, have the opportunity of reviewing the important topics taken up during the year, with emphasis on making the whole year's exercise a more meaningful effort." Moreover, instead of just the under 60 per cent students trying the June exams he thinks that all students should try them.

Mr. Cousins talks of fourth year math students having difficulty with fractions and urges greater emphasis on the teaching of basic skills. These are the unexposed students can interpret more and can put their time to better use.

Another suggestion of Mr. Cousins has "to do with school combined with work. "There are many boys and girls, particularly boys, attending secondary schools today who have no idea why they are going to school. They miss classes, are late for school and are generally wasting their own time and that of the teachers, administrators and parents. Instead of creating new courses in an endeavor to get these people interested in school, why not create a new way for them to get an education — by providing a scheme whereby they would work so many hours of the day and then take evening courses."

In this way he sees a chance for such students to obtain a few credits and become useful citizens while achieving a big saving in tax dollars. He goes on to tell of students at university who say, "Are we ever glad you made us work at this or that, or else that you didn't make us work hard enough."

Acknowledging the long hours conscientious teachers put in, Mr. Cousins says the profession is trying to do a good job "but there are many things going on to undo what they are trying to do." As for principals taking at least one class a day he sees this as a means of understanding better what is going on in the classroom, establishing rapport with students and affording a basis for talking with teachers.

There is food for thought in these ideas of Mr. Cousins, especially now with a new school term not far distant. He says the system of education has made the most sense to him was the Robarts Plan of the 60s, adding, "If they could just have found a better way to evaluate students and improve the promotion system."

UN's Role

If, as rumors suggest, a settlement of the Vietnam war is accomplished before too long, it would be an opportune time for "Great Power" diplomacy to be reduced, in the jargon of the times, to "low profile" status and for the United Nations — going on — wallowing in impotence — to be respected as the proper arbiter of international disputes.

This is what Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim would like to see happen. While welcoming the recent thaw in big power relations, he says "the idea of maintaining peace and security in the world through a concert of great powers is not going to belong to the 10th rather than to the 20th century, where the process of technological advance and democratization is producing a new form of world society."

In this regard, Mr. Waldheim insists on the need of a UN role in Vietnam and we believe this is a desirable goal too. However, the negotiations, secret and otherwise, including the hours of U.S. presidential adviser Henry Kissinger, appear to be at a delicate stage. This is where the ball game is being played, rather then in the UN. However, if an end to this appalling conflict does come about, the United States as well as the Communist powers would be acting in a responsible manner if they turned over the continuing preservation of peace in Southeast Asia to the United Nations.

Bilingualism Scares Many

Government May Lose Ground in Ontario Says Marchand

By RICHARD JACKSON
from The Intelligencer's
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — "We have to have a warm feeling for Regional Economic Expansion Minister Jean Marchand, bouncy little man from Quebec City.

And no, you do not have to be an industrialist collecting one of his thousands of incentive grants to feel that way about him.

Sure, he hands out hundreds of millions of dollars in cash industrial enterprise into underdeveloped parts of the country to provide jobs, but it is more than playing the federal Santa Claus that makes him so easy to like.

He is a member of the Trudeau cabinet the nose other.

For starters, he is Number Two in terms of actual political power if not in cabinet precedence, as the beat friend and right arm of Number One.

And while or may be full of political guile, as Conservatives, New Democrats and Social Creditors insist he is in selectively handing out all those millions where he thinks they might do the most Liberal good, he is as full, too, of charm.

Ask him the most outrageous question and sit-down in his tha shabbiest of political mottoes — as the opposition frequently does, whether Trudeau's sitting or in recess — and he will respond with a laugh.

Or ask to speak to him privately, and he will take you by the arm into his office and say "Sit down, please, and we will talk," he on one chesterfield and you on another with a coffee table — steaming um. sugar, cream and cups on it — between you and proceed to listen. Attentively.

Marchand has a special flair, like what-the-hell easy way of the fortunate few, among political-icians, who call things as they see them, even if they do not like what they are seeing.

Like the other day, when against all the accepted rules which traditionally compel a politician to be super bullish even when things are hopelessbearish, Marchand conceded that the Liberals could be hurt in the economic downturn.

He did not say how badly, but he did, astoundingly, admit they might be damaged in Ontario, the key province in the voting this time, and Quebec even worse, in Quebec, historically the Liberal heartland and power base.

And those seats the Liberals could lose in Ontario — he did not particularize just where or how many — would be won, he believed, by the Conservatives.

"It is normal," he said to the horror of Liberal backers still busy in their offices here during the recess, "it is because of our bilingualism and regional development policies which help everyone except in Ontario."

Many Ontario Liberal MPs are saying the same thing, but not publicly so Marchand is probably was a jolt, confirming their private fears.

In Ontario, went on Marchand he had the "impression that people are saying 'that damn government is exploiting us,' and the question of bilingualism bores them."

Ontario MPs have been telling him — some of them publicly in the Commons and now on the platform — that bilingualism is more than merely boring people in Ontario, it is scaring them.

Getting around to Quebec, Marchand predicted that with luck the Conservatives could take "four or five" seats, with the Liberals dropping "two or three," and Social Credit the rest.

Loss of anything in Quebec would be a stunning reverse for the Liberals because politically, they have to come out of French Canada with a "full MP

Politics, Property Ownership

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

Conflict of interest issues seem to be dogging the footsteps of politicians at all levels of government these days.

Perhaps the rules of the game should be changed to require all elected candidates to declare their status with regard to property ownership and interest in companies etc. at the time of their election with a proviso they declare all subsequent acquisitions subject to penalty of being unseated.

The miserable and plausible excuses being offered by some of those challenged in this respect are ludicrous and unacceptable by the electorate. Any charge of conflict of interest raised by an elected member ought not to be allowed to go unanswered. It is beholden upon any person so challenged to answer any charges immediately in order that public faith be maintained in our system of government.

From one end of the Dominion to the other we read almost daily of conflict of interest charges being 'aid. In some cases they prove to be fruitless — in all too many they do not be dated and public trust takes another blow.

Our own Belleville issue is a classic case in point. An issue has been raised in council chambers, properly moved and seconded, we'll enough argument being submitted to require an answer. Instead of a straight-forward approach to the question if an answer to have been subjected to a disgraceful run around of pompous rhetoric couched in self-effacing cant calculated to turn the stomach of the most hardened political observer.

There has to be something radically wrong with the rules when they allow the prime target of the allegations to record his own vote denying a public enquiry.

There have been vague mutterings from the Mayor that he intends to make a statement some time in the future. If so everything is open and above board it ought not to be necessary for any delay whatever. A straight forward charge was laid and all that was required to satisfy the public conscience was an immediate and straight forward reply. Delay only heightens public suspicion that the pack is being reshuffled or that a new hand can be played.

A Battle Against Time

William French in The Globe and Mail

Every year I have this problem of what to read on vacation. I'm torn between giving myself every a rest — impossible — and attacking the hug mound of seductive items that I haven't had time to read during the year (a depressingly large number.) What usually happens is that in the last minute rush of packing, I cast the whole stack I've carefully put aside for the trip and make a quick lunge at the nearest shelves.

One of these years, I suppose, all I'm going to read is a road map. Vacations, after all, should be a break from intellectual effort. Does a DC-8 pilot hire a Piper Cub for his holidays? Does Bobby Hull play street hockey in the summer? Does a Newfoundland fisherman go fishing on his vacation?

But vacations are traditionally a time for reading, even for those who rarely read anything the rest of the year. The first rule in preparing a summer library, of course, is that only paperbacks should be taken. Hardcover books are too heavy and take up too much space. And if a book turns out to be dull, there somehow isn't the same obligation to keep on reading if it's a paperback. Besides, if a hardcover book is borrowed it's too likely to end up the scars of sand and sea water when returned.

Vacation books shouldn't be too demanding. It's not a particularly good time to become an expert on economic nationalism or Jungian psychology, for reasons which have something to do with the high oxygen content in the summer air.

Another rule — for me, anyway — is not to take too many books. There's a variation on Parkinson's Law at work here: reading expands to fill the time available. So I ration myself: otherwise there wouldn't be time for all the other things to do on holidays, like . . . like m., well, staring at the herbivora.

Traffic Safety Is an Uphill Battle

Galt Reporter

Close examination into the feasibility of more stringent legislation in the uphill battle towards the goal of traffic safety is being made by the Ontario Ministry of Transportation and Communications, the minister, Gordon Carton, declared recently at an Ontario Safety League luncheon.

The minister noted that his department is looking at such things as compulsory automobile inspection; compulsory use of seatbelts; licensing of driving schools; 12 months probationary periods for new drivers; psychological testing of licence applicants and re-examination of all drivers.

"Any responsible driver, in our opinion, will put a great big stamp of approval on all these proposed safety measures.

The occasion was also the award citation presentations to 31 Ontario communities with fatality - free records during 1971.

Latest figures available show that fatalities were up 5 per cent, personal injuries rose 13 per cent and collisions were up 12 per cent in 1971 over 1970.

The minister noted, with reference to the majority of users are not safety conscious despite the fact Ontario has highly advanced accident prevention legislation and safety promotion, police enforcement and courts that are the envy of many jurisdictions and the co-operation of other organizations such as the Ontario Safety League.

There are approximately 3.5 million vehicles registered in Ontario, and this number is growing at the rate of about 80,000 a year. During 1970, Ontario motorists drove more than 30 billion vehicle miles and by 1980 it is predicted the vehicle travel in Ontario will reach the 42 billion mile mark.

The appraising and improving traffic control and safety promotion programs to build more safety design into the highway network as well as the ongoing process is part of the plan to reduce the carnage of death, injuries and destruction on the highways.

Safety features such as impact crash barriers, box - beam guide rails on Highway 400, and three-wire guide rails are recent innovations. Safety innovations in design include sight distance alignment, grades, barriers and more gradual slants to side slopes.

In addition increased emphasis has been placed on the promotion of pedestrian and bicycle safety, especially in elementary schools. The ministry also supports high school driver instruction courses, and last year 543 out of the 575 high schools in Ontario participated in the program, graduating more than 30,000 students. MTC also assists in the preparation of special instructor courses for the driver instructors teachers.

The minister agreed, however that we come back to the hard facts that government and safety organizations can not by themselves eliminate the evils of driving. We must stimulate and persuade the driving public to drive with common sense and within regulations of the Highway Traffic Act.

Campaign Committee's Deliberations

Election Almost Certain by End of the Year

By FARMER TISSINGTON
From The Intelligencer's
Ottawa Bureau

The federal election will not be held prior to Oct. 23. If it is not held on Oct. 23 or Oct. 30, then don't expect it until Nov. 20 or even Nov. 27. That's the latest word from a source high in the Liberal party's election planning.

The decision on the date will be made in Ottawa, possibly has been made. On Monday the party's national campaign committee met to hear final reports on the state of the government's popularity across the country.

The co-chairman of the committee, Consumer and Corporate Affairs Minister Bob Andras, and Regional Economic Expansion Minister Jean Marchand, summoned the 50-member committee to Ottawa just a few days after Prime Minister Trudeau returned to the capital from his western holiday. The committee has met four or five times since last fall to assess the party's chances and to debate the decision about E-Day. Earlier there was fairly unanimous opinion in favor of a June election. But the prime minister was convinced by one or two hold-outs that there was no real excuse for calling the vote then except the government was nearing its fourth year in office.

After the committee meeting, its advice will go to an inner group of half a dozen advisers who, in turn, will confer with the prime minister who has the final nod.

The reasons for not calling the election earlier is the problem of enumerating voters in August. There is strong opposition to a summer holiday enumeration on the ground that the numbers who would be left off the lists and the consequent foul-ups would turn many against the government. Unemployment is real standard for the Canada Labor Day it could be finished and the election machinery in readiness for Oct. 23. The following Monday, Oct. 30, is also a possibility.

Failing that, the thinking is that there should not be direct conflict with the presidential election in the United States. As his is to be held on Tuesday, Nov. 7, the government would want to wait at least one, and possibly more, weeks before Canadians voted.

But a fall election is just about a certainty and there will not be any waiting until next spring. Waiting for spring would greatly narrow the government's options. And winter unemployment is still fresh in people's minds, while April is income tax payment time.

Party sources say they are more optimistic now about their chances than they have been for several months. While they admit unemployment will be a factor they largely discount its effect on the ground people are becoming increasingly sceptical about the accuracy of the figures. They note that relatively high unemployment is a fact of life when the economy is booming, as it is now, is a phenomenon in modern countries that nobody else has managed to resolve the anomaly.

Liberal strategists believe the party is in better shape in British Columbia than it was, although they concede the possibility of dropping two or three seats. They believe the Prairie situation has strengthened in their favor in the past year.

While they may lose the odd seat in Ontario they think they can hold most of their big 1968 gains. In Quebec they hope to win as many new seats as they lose present seats to the Social Creditors or to a struggling Conservative party — with or without Claude Wagner. They do not have much hope of picking up strength in the Maritimes, but then, they don't have much to lose there either.

And many contend the big plus in Ont- favor is still Prime Minister Trudeau and the choice of whether voters would like to have Trudeau, Stanfield, Lewis or Caouette at the head of the government.

Admittedly, this is a one-sided, partisan assessment. A lot can happen to change the picture between now and Oct. 23, or Oct. 30, or Nov. 20 or Nov. 27. Take your pick.

Garbage Gets Rough Treatment

Complying with demands of the waste management branch of the ministry of the environment, Quinte Sanitation has put into motion the wheels of a 58-compactor. John Graham, speaking for the sanitation company that services Belleville said, "before the site (dump) looked terrible. The bulldozers were not doing an adequate job. Now, because of the new machine's performance, we can put more garbage into the same area and have it look better." The machine, a fully air conditioned for the driver, compacts garbage at a rate of 1,700 pounds a square inch, 300 tons a day.

Nightmare Voyage Finally Ends

HAMILTON (CP) — His eyes red-rimmed from lack of sleep, Hamilton yachtsman Jim McEvoy recounted "one of the most harassing experiences I've ever had."

It began when his 62-foot, two-masted schooner Jolly Roger was struck by a passing freighter and ended with Mr. McEvoy, 48, leaping for his life after a soaring mainmast came crashing down after clipping a lift bridge as he was being towed into the harbor at Port Dover.

And the Jolly Roger, Mr. McElroy's pride and joy, suffered damage estimated at between $5,000 and $6,000.

Still, it's just the latest chapter in the vessel's 67-year history which includes careers as an America's Cup racer, a rum and gun runner and a people smuggler, Mr. McEvoy said.

The latest drama began about 6 a.m. Sunday when the freighter scraped the yacht as she lay at anchor off Long Point.

Then the Jolly Roger drifted into the shipping lanes.

"The radio cut out. . . I lost the engine . . . I had freighters coming at me right, left and centre," the sailor said.

The coast guard was notified of Mr. McEvoy's plight by one of the freighters and arrived on the scene that evening to tow him the 32 miles to Port Dover.

As the vessel was towed up the estuary the mast clipped one of two lift bridges and eventually toppled forward, causing Mr. McEvoy to leap for his life.

"I broke every record in the book long jump and high jump," Mr. McEvoy said.

He said he obtained the Jolly Roger in Detroit where it had been lying unused for five or six years. "I put 4½ years and $17,000 in getting her back in shape."

The schooner, one of the last built by the Bristol, Rhode Island designer Herreshoff, would cost $140,000 to build today, Mr. McEvoy estimated.

He referred to his boat as "one of the few ladies left on the Great Lakes—a classic you don't see—a museum piece really."

She's 67 years old now and she'll outlive me and another man half my age," the former Royal Navy man said.

Tourist Traffic Keeps on Rolling

TORONTO (CP) — Despite poor weather during the last couple of months, tourist operators, especially around Toronto, report business as usual. Some have even reported increases.

Anthea Thorp, publicity manager for the Metro Toronto Convention and Tourist Bureau estimated the increase in business in her area has been "about 15 per cent."

In the Huntsville district, tourism director Don Goodwin said most resort lodges and cottages had reservations well in advance and business was as good as most seasons.

"It was cold and wet but there were still streams of cars on the roads," Mr. Goodwin said.

In Niagara Falls, tourists dropped slightly in June, but in July and the first two weeks of this month figures were back to normal and at times surpassed last year's figures.

Algonquin Park visitors, however, dropped 10 per cent and park director John Kusack blames it on the worst weather he remembers during his 15 years at the park.

"It didn't just drizzle," Mr. Kusack said, "it was solid rain."

Tourism director for the St. Catharines region, said if there had not been a slight decrease of tourists in May "I think we would have set a record for the season."

"In fact," he added, "we might still do."

Farmers were another group who suffered severely because of bad weather.

Milk production is down 20 to 30 per cent and corn and spring grain five per cent.

Losses on hay alone are estimated at $8 million.

Chinese On Town

WINNIPEG (CP) — The visit to Canada of China's foreign trade minister, Pai Hsiang-Kuo, and his delegation, is primarily designed to acquaint the Chinese with market possibilities for their goods in Canada, Supply and Services Minister James Richardson said Monday.

"It is important for the Chinese to find out what we want," Mr. Richardson said following a dinner attended by more than 40 members of Winnipeg's business, financial and communications community and the 20 people accompanying Mr. Pai.

The Chinese delegation arrived in Winnipeg Monday morning and immediately toured Pioneer Electric (Manitoba) Ltd. The plant manufactures heavy industrial electrical equipment.

Several hours of closed-door meetings followed with officials of the Canadian wheat board. G. N. Vogel, chief board commissioner, said the commissioners "had a most interesting exploratory talk with" Mr. Pai, and "a good exchange of ideas."

The Clans Gathered

Pipe Major Thomas Chalmers of the Brighton Legion Branch 100 Pipe and Drum band warms up with his sister Sally, centre, and Glenn Forbes, right prior to the start of the Scottish World Festival Parade through downtown Toronto last Thursday. The Brighton band was among 125 that competed in the festival at the Canadian National Exhibition.

Marriage Service Available

TORONTO (CP) — A former clergyman who works with disturbed children in St. Catharines has gone into the business of marrying people in Toronto on the weekends.

Bev Leslie said business is "all right, I guess," but added his company is "200 in the red."

Mr. Leslie spent 5½ years as a minister in the Church of Christ (Disciples) in the Orangeville and Niagara areas and now works during the week with the children and family services section of the regional municipality of Niagara.

He said he "cleared it with everybody" before setting up his company, Marriage Services, last February.

Ontario law forbids ministers from charging for their services and Marriage Services customers pay whatever they like. Most couples give him from $25 to $35.

"I find it is a service that is needed," he said, adding that an elaborate church ceremony can cost from $200 to $500.

Mr. Leslie said he has a "basic marriage ceremony worked out" and couples can add what they want to the service.

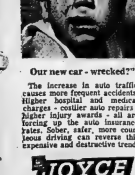
Venice's Film Fest Under Way

VENICE, Italy (AP) — The 32rd Venice international film festival opened Monday night, still without its Lions awards but with a rival "anti-festival" planned by leftist dissidents.

An American film, Cabaret, directed by Bob Fosse, and a German entry, Studenten Aufs Schafott of Gustav Ehnck, led the first of 14 days of screenings of 28 movies from around the world.

None, however, will be given any official prize. The festival's customary awards were discontinued two years ago after charges by leftists that the Lions were always bestowed on "establishment" directors.

This time, dissidents plan a "democratic" film festival of their own. The films in the rival festival, scheduled to begin next Monday, have yet to be announced.



MIAMI BEACH (Reuter) — Sammy Davis Jr. will be appearing among the "Celebrities for Nixon" at the Republican convention here, and is regarded by the party as its prize catch among show business stars.

His value as a Nixon supporter is that he is a Democrat Jewish and black. But his agreement to appear at the convention has caused the Republicans some problems, says Washington Post columnist Maxine Cheshire.

She quotes an unnamed party official as saying: "Sammy wanted the best presidential suite in town. . . . We're now on our third hotel trying to find one he likes. . . . He's gotta have a penthouse."

He also insisted on a private jet to fly him from California at a charter cost of $4,000, the columnist adds.

But all ended well. The Republicans found Davis a penthouse and a receiving company supplied the jet plane. And Monday, Davis headed for Miami Beach.

Our new car - wrecked?

The increase in auto traffic causes more frequent accidents. Higher hospital and medical charges - costlier auto repairs - higher injury awards - all are forcing up the auto insurance rates. Sober, safer, more courteous driving can reverse this expensive and destructive trend.

Mr. and Mrs. Willis Hicks of Shannonville. The marriage will take place on Saturday, September 23 at 1.30 p.m. in St. Joseph's Church, Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. E. D. (Pete) Lott of Belleville are pleased to announce the engagement of their eldest daughter, Carol Darlene to Richard John Dennis, son of Mr. John Dennis of Belleville, and the late Mrs. Jacqueline Dantic. The marriage will take place on September 22, 1972 at 2 p.m. in College Hill United Church, Belleville.

WEDDINGS

GENEREAUX — JONES

TWEED — The summer wedding took place in St. John's United Church, Tweed, recently, when Brenda Yvonne Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Heath Jones, Tweed, was united in marriage to Joseph Larry Genereaux, son of Mr. Joseph Genereaux of Tweed and the late Mrs. Genereaux. Rev. Ian Munro and Father Peter Carty both officiated at the ceremony. The wedding music was played by Fred Fowler.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of nylon sheer over taffeta. The Empire bodice was edged with Alencon lace daisies around the waistline, the wedding band collar, complimented the wide ruffled cuffs of the bell sleeves. The demibelled skirt was accented with a wide ruffle around the hemline. A border of daisies encircled it. Her headpiece, a pillbox was trimmed all around with lace and a band of lace daisies to match the gown. Attached was a cathedral veil of silk illusion edged all around with tiny lace daisies.

Maid of honor, Miss Sharon Jones, sister of the bride, was attired in a floral print gown in greens and yellows. The bodice was accented with ruffles down the front and featured long bishop sleeves. She carried a nosegay of white and yellow daisies.

Bridesmaids, Miss Janet Price and Miss Carol Ann Genereaux, wore gowns identical to that worn by the maid of honor. They also carried nosegays of white and yellow daisies.

Dennis Genereaux of Tweed, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Brian Jones, brother of the bride, and David Holmes, both of Tweed.

A reception was held at Price's Log Cabin Restaurant, where the mother of the bride received the guests wearing an Aquamarine polyester crepe dress, with several sculptured lace on the bodice and the long bishop sleeves. She wore a full-length sleeveless coat of matching polyester crepe.

The bride's travelling costume was a pale blue lace dress and matching coat. Following a wedding trip to Niagara Falls and the United States, the couple took up residence at RR 3, Tweed.

PROCTER — WHALEN

TWEED — The recent wedding ceremony took place in St. Cecilia's Church, Toronto, when Maureen Elizabeth Whalen of Toronto, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Whalen of Sioco, became the bride of William Francis Procter, Toronto, son of Mr. Norman Procter of Montreal and the late Mrs. Procter. The ceremony was performed by the Reverend Lawrence Petitpaw.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a simple a-line dress of peau de soie, bordered swiss cotton over peau de soie. The sleeves, neckline and hemline featured bands of peau de soie complemented by tiny buttons. She carried a cascade of gardenias and stephanotis.

Maid of honor, Miss Dolores Quinn, was attired in a gown featuring a tangerine bodice of swiss cotton and skirt of yellow tangerine and white floral print, complemented by a matching belt. She carried a cascade of yellow and bronze daisies.

Bridesmaids, Mrs. Veronica Michie and Miss Eleanor Shannon wore gowns identical to the one chosen by the maid of honor, and also carried cascades of yellow and bronze daisies.

The groomsman was Mr. Ian Brooker and the ushers were ushered by Mr. William White and Mr. Collin Brown.

After the ceremony a dinner was held at Sutton Place where the bride and bridegroom received guests wearing a long sleeve Aquamarine polyester knit with an inset of seed pearls at the waist, with white accessories and a corsage of pink rosebuds.

Pork Main Item For Special Meal

GUELPH — The choice of pork and pork products for the wrap up banquet of the meeting of Meat Research Workers next week at the University here, has been announced by planners of the event.

The meeting, co-ordinator, Dr. Ronald Usborne, said that this 17th international meeting has attracted over 250 scientists from 18 countries including Finland, Sweden, Germany, Italy, Switzerland, Japan, Australia, United States, United Kingdom, Denmark, Greece and Turkey. It is the first time the conference has been held outside Europe. He anticipates that the traditional Ontario pork banquet will be the highlight meal of the conference which will, during each of its four days, feature beef and other meats.

The preparation of the pork banquet will be supervised by members of the team which has been selected to represent Canada at the Culinary Olympics at Frankfurt, West Germany in October. The team will be professor Anthony H. Marston, of the University of Guelph's School of Hotel and Food Administration, himself a representative of the Olympic team. Professor Marston revealed that in addition to the special stuffed loin of pork being planned for the main course of the banquet, Ontario cheese, cantaloupe, tomatoes, pecans and other fruit and vegetables would be included in the menu.

Family Reunion

SPRACKETT—POUND CLAN

Relatives of the Sprackett and Pound families held their 11th annual reunion on Sunday, August 20. Mr. and Mrs. James H. Sprackett hosted the gathering of the clan at their cottage at Wadsworth Lake, near Gilmour.

Sixty-five persons sat down to an outdoor potluck picnic dinner. They came from Gilmour, Belleville, Peterborough, Cardiff, Napanee, Oshawa, Trenton, Hamilton, Kingston, Tweed, Little Current, Ont. and Buffalo, N.Y.

While the oldsters renewed acquaintances there were races, a candy-throw and a scavenger hunt for the young fry.

The following were winners in the children's races: Under five: Kelly Sprackett, Richard and Jamie King. Six and seven: Darren McKenzie and Jenifer Hogan; eight and nine: Danny McKenzie and Teresa Jenkins; 10 and over: Phillip Henry, Steven Sprackett and Tim Jenkins.

Danny McKenzie won a prize for nearest guess as to the number of stones in a glass jar.

The scavenger hunt was won by Jennifer Hogan followed by Tim Jenkins. There were numerous other prizes as well.

Pat and Sharon Hogan were elected chairman and games organizer for the 12th reunion, to be held on the third Sunday in August 1973 at the same location.

James Sprackett welcomed all those present, and expressed the hope that more would be able to attend the event next year. Mr. Sprackett celebrated his 85th birthday this year. He remains active and is in relatively good health. He still maintains his interest in community affairs. He sat on Hastings County Council longer than anyone, representing Tudor and Cashel Townships for 32 years, and was Hastings County Warden before retiring from municipal politics. His son Ross is currently Reeve of Tudor and Cashel Township.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM BOOMHOUER

Boomhouer — McWilliams

The Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville was the setting for the recent marriage of Irene Mary McWilliams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry McWilliams, Belleville and William Michael Boomhouer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Paul of Wilberforce, Ontario. Rev. Father D. Stitt officiated and wedding music was rendered by Miss. Dorothy Grant at the organ, who also accompanied the soloist Mrs. Beth Pfeiffer.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of white chiffon with the fitted bodice featuring a dainty frill down the centre front and finished with a row of Swiss lace. The long sleeves were also accented with frill and adorned with lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow roses and white carnations and wore a head band of matching material to the gown. From this extended a pure silk cathedral veil edged with Swiss lace.

Miss Shirley Anne McWilliams, sister of the bride as maid of honor wore a yellow floral gown highlighted with frills on the long fitted cuff sleeves and two rows of frills down the front of the bodice and around the neckline. The printed chiffon skirt in colours of green, orange and blue on yellow background was accented with green velvet waist band.

The bridesmaids Miss Loretta McWilliams, Belleville, Miss Linda Paul Wilberforce, Mrs. Theresa Dearon, Oshawa and Mrs. Ruthanne Seymour, Belleville were dressed identically to the maid of honour. Miss Alicia Herrington as flower girl wore a floor length gown of white lace over yellow chiffon styled identically to the bride's. All attendants carried baskets of white and yellow roses, gerdenias and carnations.

Garry Fox of Belleville attended the bridegroom, while the ushers were Phone McWilliams of Richmond Hill, Gerald McWilliams of Bouctouville, Robert Boomhower of Shannonville and Vern Boomhower of Belleville. Ring bearer was a Jimmy McWilliams of Bowmanville, nephew of the bride.

For the reception at the Royal Canadian Legion Hall in Belleville, the bride's mother greeted the guests wearing a floor length gown of shrimp shade Alencon lace over chiffon with matching accessories and a corsage of white and shrimp shade sweetheart roses. The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a pink English crimplene dress with matching accessories and a corsage of pink and white sweetheart roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Boomhower will reside at 61 Donald Street, Apt. 2 in Belleville.

Fall Campaign For Fashion/ Canada 1972

OTTAWA — One hundred and twenty-five Canadian manufacturers of women's wear, shoes, men's wear, children's wear and footwear are participating in FASHION/CANADA'S 1972 campaign to promote fall and winter fashions designed and made by Canadians for Canadians.

Of the more than 350 fashion items submitted by these firms, 180 have been selected for full, nation-wide promotion. Another 176 have been chosen as worthy to carry the FASHION/CANADA tag signifying excellence of design and quality.

FASHION/CANADA is using a variety of techniques to promote these products and encourage both retail and consumer recognition of them.

The promotion swings into high gear in the fall with a FASHION/CANADA week in Vancouver, Edmonton, Calgary, Winnipeg, Toronto, Ottawa, Montreal, Quebec City and Halifax. The major event of the week will be a fashion presentation of all FASHION/CANADA items selected for full promotion.

The presentation will use audio-visual aids and live modelling to highlight good design and workmanship in Canadian fashion. The show will be called "It's a Great Life" and its theme will reflect the relationship between Canadian design and the lifestyle of Canadians.

Participating manufacturers and news media representatives will be invited to a preview of the show in Montreal on August 31. It will then be air-lifted by Air Canada to Vancouver for the start of its nine-city tour.

All fashion items selected for full promotion have been photographed by Bob Fisher of Montreal in a "life-style" setting, a pictorial program of the fashion show, featuring these photographs, will be given away at each performance.

In the meantime, meetings have been held with retailers in the nine cities to alert them to the promotion and urge them to participate in it. The retailers will use FASHION/CANADA logos, mats and point-of-purchase material, which are being made available to them at no cost. Strategically placed billboards in each city will announce the upcoming FASHION/CANADA week.

The fashion show is being presented in each city in cooperation with local members of the Hadassah-Wizo Organization of Canada, who will generate public interest in the show and sell tickets under the direction of their local president. Hadassah will donate the proceeds of all ticket sales to one of its charities.

Successful Living

Would Divide Working Life Into Three Parts

By DORIS CLARK

A certain philosopher and educationist I know would like to divide man's working life into three parts, each of 15 years, and each one to provide a variation to his career, i.e. which he may bring new ideas and knowledge.

For the first 15 he says the worker is busy becoming productive and making a life for himself. The next 15 he should be functioning at a fairly high money, raising a family. This adds up to 30 — and the figures are approximate.

The last 15 he counts as review, some elderly patients and their relatives, you understand and appreciate the fine work you are doing.

Dear Doris: Remember me? The girl with the correspondence course in creative writing?

Do you think you could insert in your columns that it is still possible to enrol at the introductory offer — $25 f o r six and $50 for 12 lessons, if the first fee with application is mailed before September 15?

After that date the rate is doubled. I have no Postage, reproduction rates, and time make this a hobby — not a business — at present rate.

Dear Marjorie: Notice is hereby inserted! I am sure our readers who are also potential writers will be inditing their notes off to you pronto.

For anyone who has not kept the address handy, it is Mrs. Marjorie Major, 21 Dutch Village Road, Armdale, Nova Scotia. I highly recommend this teacher and this low-cost course.

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids and relieve pain and itching

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves pain and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported very striking improvement. Pain was promptly and gently relieved — actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered to ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorroids, Preparation H relieves itching and other discomfort in less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorroids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment (with a special applicator).

Satisfaction or your money refunded.

Mirror of Your Mind

by JOHN CONNELL

Do teeners worry about loud music?

NO, not the ones who have escaped permanent damage to their hearing because of prolonged exposure to loud rock 'n' roll. Naturally, too, many teeners think the warnings against loud music are just another means of trying to "put down" the young people. Yet the teeners pay no heed to youngsters who do have damaged hearing; such as the one boy who said he has constant ringing in his ears, and has to keep busy to take his mind off of it.

Is fear 'catching'?

NOT in the physical sense, like a cold, the flu, etc., but it certainly can spread like wildfire. A person can catch fear by watching someone else's behavior, or even sensing fear unconsciously. If an individual is afraid yet dare not show it lest he cause a panic, he actually must dismiss his fear. Not only must he make everyone believe he has confidence that everything will turn out all right in a given situation, he must believe it himself.

Can change of locale encourage love?

IT seems that way at times. A man and a woman, say, can work side-by-side for years and hardly exchange more than a "good morning" or "good night." Suddenly after their company moves to a new locale taking them with it, they "discover" each other. They might have felt that way all along without realizing it, however, and needed only the radical change they experienced together to provide the spark to make them see each other in their new "love light."

Ann Landers

Reader Displeased With Article on Sex

Dear Ann Landers: My husband just handed me the newspaper and said: "Read this." I thought it would be your usual column saying something about how women should let their husbands run themselves bowlegged while the wife looks the other way. (This is what I call the Ann Landers Forgive-and-Forget Syndrome.) But it was even worse than that.

It quoted a New York doctor as saying: "Sex is not only here to stay but it will help you stay here longer." The nut then went on to praise sex as wonderful exercise for the heart, "also a fine tranquilizer." He said: "If a man is in good health, sex will help him stay well." The author didn't say what it would do for the woman who has done a big laundry, ironed nine shirts and chased after three kids all day.

In spite of all this gibberish about liberation, women are still enslaved and will remain so for biological reasons. It's a dirty trick, played on them by the Creator and nothing can change that. Sign me—Fooled in Philadelphia

Dear Fooled in Philly: If you consider sex a "dirty trick" around women, I feel sorry for your husband and sorrier for you.

Dear Ann Landers: In a recent issue of the Proceedings of the Royal Society of Medicine (Great Britain) the following tabulation appeared. I hope you will print it because you reach millions of people who read your column when they can't find time to read anything else.

WHAT LIQUOR COSTS

1. America has 9 million chronic alcoholics.

2. About 200,000 new cases of alcoholism occur every year.

3. Of the 50,000 Americans killed in traffic accidents annually, 28,600 have alcohol in their blood at the time of the accident.

4. More than one-half-million disabling injuries were sustained last year in crashes involving problem drinkers.

5. There are 2,000,000 arrests annually for public drunkenness.

6. Americans spent more than $21 billion for alcohol last year.

7. The time lost from work, the damage to property by drunks, and the cost in welfare was over $15 billion in 1971.

8. More than half the states report that alcoholism is the most frequent diagnosis for first-time admissions to state hospitals.

9. One-third of all suicides are alcohol related.

10. Insurance statistics reveal a 10 to 12 year decrease in life expectancy among alcoholics.

11. Nearly one-third of all cases handled in child guidance centres show one or both parents are involved with chronic alcoholism.

How long will it take before the public wakes up to the menace of alcohol? Is drinking liquor worth what it costs?—A Reader Who Learned The Hard Way

Dear Reader: I don't know how long it will take, but I am not optimistic about the chances for getting nine million boozers off the sauce. What we must do is find out why so many people turn to it as anesthetics themselves against the pain of daily living. Alcoholism is a symptom of other problems.

PALM SHOWS THOUGHTS

MONTREAL (CP) — Most of the nerves from the brain are in the hand; so the person's thinking and feelings change so does his palm. So says Rani Khanna who reads palms at the Maharaja restaurant which she and her husband started after arriving from India in 1958. Rani can tell you about your life, brain or love line and something of your ability to relate to people. "But I don't tell people the bad things," she says. "People never like to hear the truth."

Postal Workers Protest New Job

OTTAWA (CP) — Demonstrations by postal workers across Canada Monday supported the tough stand by union negotiators against a government move to establish a new class of mail-sorting employees.

Workers in 14 Canadian centres marched outside post office buildings picketing the hiring of new workers to run automated sorting machines.

In Ottawa, James McCall, president of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers, said no collective agreement will be signed until federal negotiators agree to discuss the mail-sorting problem.

Treasury board—the government bargaining agent—refused its negotiating position by bringing a move to bring in a regional pay system which had been described as "totally unacceptable" by Mr. McCall.

Under the regional pay plan, postal workers' wages would have been tied to pay received by persons in similar jobs outside the public service in various regions.

The postal unions are opposed to hiring of new employees to operate the automated sorting machines at an hourly rate of $2.94 compared to $3.09 per hour paid to mail-sorters.

Mr. McCall said creation of new classes of employees should be negotiated. The government said it only has to consult the unions. New jobs were not subject to negotiation.

The mail-sorting machines were to begin operating in Ottawa today after technical difficulties prevented a Monday start.

The postal workers have sought a public service staff relations board ruling on whether the new classification should be negotiated. But Mr. McCall said the government is introducing tie new plan before the board decision.

He said the union will attempt to defeat Postmaster-General Jean-Pierre Coté and Treasury Board President C. M. Drury in their ridings in the next federal election. He said Mr. Coté is a "bad postmaster-general."

Latest treasury board offer to the Council of Postal Unions includes a 13-per-cent wage increase spread over a three year term. The council includes the Canadian Union of Postal Workers and the Letter Carriers Union of Canada, about 23,000 postal employees.

This wage increase would mean a boost in basic pay to a maximum of $8,337 annually for letter carriers. That is about $1,000 above the present maximum. Negotiating started in February. The last collective agreement expired March 26.

Prophets of Doom Could Prove Right

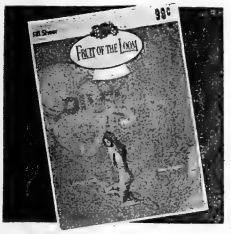
MONTREAL (CP) — Geologists from 107 countries were warned Monday that if scientists fail to become more involved in the environmental crisis facing mankind the most drastic forecasts of "prophets of doom" may come true.

Maurice Strong, Canadian secretary-general of the United Nations conference on the human environment, told delegates to the 24th International Geological Congress that scientists must become more involved in social and political issues.

"If they don't do this, then some of the worst prognoses of the prophets of doom have a much greater chance of happening. I don't believe doomsday is inevitable, but I believe it is possible."

Scientists must shed political innocence and take responsible action in keeping with their role as producers of power, Mr. Strong said.

With the state, business and industry installed as the patrons of science, it was not surprising that weaponry, space and consumer goods occupy scientists more than the basic value judgments required by a society facing possible environmental disaster, he said.



"Can one blame the public for associating scientists with some of the evils that science has helped produce—nuclear weapons, napalm and environmental degradation—if scientists themselves maintain this aloof detachment from the very issues and concerns which their own efforts are demonstrably producing?"

Ticats Greatest Going... If Games Lasted 3½ Quarters

TORONTO (CP) — If football games were played in 2½ quarters, Hamilton Tiger-Cats would be practically the greatest thing in the game since the first pig was skinned.

Although the Ticats have the leading rusher in the Canadian Football League and the Eastern Conference leaders in passing, pass-receiving, interceptions and kickoff returns, they have snatched defeat from the jaws of victory in the dying minutes of three of their four CFL starts.

High on the list of frustrated Ticats is Dave Buchanan, who has carried the ball 351 yards in 87 attempts, 39 yards farther than George Reed of Saskatchewan Roughriders who his nearest competitor.

While Western Conference quarterbacks have been throwing more passes than their EFC counterparts, Hamilton has three of the top five receivers in the East, topped by Tony Gabriel who has caught 11 for 194 yards. The CFL leader is Bob Pearce of Saskatchewan with 17 for 258.

The Riders, who match Hamilton's 1-3 won-lost record, have

Blue Bombers picked off four passes in his club's 30-7 conquest of British Columbia Lions for a league-leading total of seven interceptions. Al Brenner of Hamilton topped the East with four.

Monroe Eley of the Lions had 75 yards, on 10 kickoff returns; Peter Ribbins of Winnipeg with Lewis Porter of Hamilton the best in the East with 236 on six.

Friday Bolts to WHA Camp

TORONTO (CP) — Ian Morrison, referee-in-chief of the National Hockey League, confirmed Monday earlier rumours that referee Bill Friday is leaving his staff to join the World Hockey Association.

"Bill called me at 10 p.m. Sunday to let me know he's going to the WHA," Morrison said. "I've read he was offered $50,000 a year and I assume he must have got it."

Friday, the No. 2 man on Morrison's refereeing staff in seniority behind Art Skov, made $25,000 a year in the NHL, plus bonuses for playoff and exhibition games.

Morrison said a statement attributed to Friday last week that more than half the NHL officiating staff is unsigned and considering the WHA was not true. "

"For the record, every linesman but one has been signed, and many of them to two-year contracts. And I have no doubt about the one unsigned linesman, Matt Pavelich, will have plans for his future."

Referees Skov, Bruce Hood, Wally Harris, Dave Newell, John McCauley and Lloyd Gilmour have signed contracts.

CFL FINES THREE

TORONTO (CP) — Commissioner Jake Gaudaur of the Canadian Football League announced Monday that three players have been fined $50 apiece for misconduct in CFL games Aug. 16. They were Doug Collins of Ottawa Rough Riders, ejected for rough play in a game against Toronto Argonauts, and Clyde Brock of Saskatchewan Roughriders and Bobby Taylor of Edmonton Eskimos, involved in an incident in a game at Regina which resulted in Brock's expulsion.

CUBS FOR COUGARS

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago Cougars of the World Hockey Association announced Monday they have signed an exclusive working agreement with Providence Eagles of the Eastern Hockey League. "This is the beginning of the Cougars' minor league system," said general manager Ed Short. "The farm club will enable us to backstop our team in case of injuries and the development program will insure a continuing flow of good, young hockey talent."

SHAVES CHANNEL MARK

DOVER, England (Reuter) — A U.S. Army officer has set a record for swimming the English Channel from England to France. Lieut. Richard Davis Hart made the 21-mile crossing in 10 hours 44 minutes, clipping 13 minutes off the mark set by 15-year-old American schoolgirl Lynne Cox last month.

ONE IN, ONE OUT

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Francisco Giants will send first baseman Ed Goodson to hospital this week for knee surgery , when pitcher Sam McDowell returns to the baseball club from the disabled list.

Precast Tykes Topple Cyclists

Jerry's Motorcycle Sales went for a tumble in the opening round of the Thurlow Minor Baseball playoffs by dropping a 15-11 decision to A and B Precast tykes.

Shannonville Stretches Series

Shannonville extended its South Hastings baseball semifinal against Melrose last night with a resounding 8-4 victory.

The win was a family affair Shannonville as Glen Barberstock allowed five hits in five innings while Bill Barberstock cracked a home run and two singles to pace the 12-hit attack.

Losing pitcher was John Pepper who gave up six hits before being relieved by Terry McTaggart in the fifth inning. Ted Ahrens collected a pair of singles for the losers.

Melrose now leads the best-of-seven series 3-2 with the sixth game set for Wednesday in Shannonville.

Flyers Force Definite Score

The CFB and Quinte Transport couldn't decide anything in their first meeting in the Trenton Canada Cup, but the Flyers came to some definite conclusions last night.

The Flyers jumped to a 5-0 half time lead and coasted to a 7-3 win over the Transport to advance against Batawa in the second round of the Cup. The two teams had tied 2-2 in their first meeting.

John Cooper had the hat trick for the winners with Earl Jones adding two, and Chuck Eddy and Stan Wilson notching singles.

Cup to Greece

PARIS (Reuter) — The European Cup Winners Cup final will be played in Greece next year and not in Paris as originally planned, it was decided here Monday. The executive committee of the European Football Union decided to hold the contest at Salonika because of a conflict with the French Football Federation over the right to sell advertising space in the stadium during the match. The French federation had arranged to let contracts for advertising, but UEFA said it alone had the right to such revenues.

McKenzie Stands Pat

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — John McKenzie, lured from Boston Bruins to become heavy-scoring of Philadelphia Blazers in the World Hockey Association, vowed Monday to play for no team but the Blazers. McKenzie called a news conference to quash any attempts by the National Hockey League Philadelphia Flyers to sign him. The Flyers obtained negotiating rights to McKenzie from Boston after he jumped leagues. "If the courts rule that I can't play in the WHA, then I will retire as a player and be strictly a coach with the Blazers," McKenzie said.

Uniroyal Rolls On

Uniroyal Centre short-circuited Cablevue tadpoles for the second straight time Monday to advance into the next round of city minor baseball playoff action.

Uniroyal used no less than five pitchers — David Meagher, Stephen Taylor, Stewart Emerson, Al Thompkins and Nicko Petchiny — in their 7-3 win, which earned them the right to advance against Crawford Meats. The quintet recorded 15 strikeouts and walked seven.

Taylor helped his own cause with a home run, with hitting support from doubles by Craig Reeves, Stewart Emerson and John Gosson, and singles by Gosson and Al Thompkins.

Cablevue pitchers Steven Thompson, Michael Lawson, and Scott Lawson totalled 17 strikeouts and eight walks, but were not supported much in the hitting department.

Allan Maikawa's pair of singles paced the losers.

Mall Novices City Champs

The Quinte Mall weren't about to waste any time in the Belleville Minor Lacrosse novice final series as they wrapped up the city championship last night with a 3-1 verdict over the Dairy Queen.

Hugh Northey, Dan Prewer and Scott Edwards paced the Mall to their second consecutive victory in the best-of-three championship series. Greg Horwood replied for the Queens.

In a peewee contest the Pickle starved off elimination by tripping the Dairy Queen 4-3.

Gerry Healey, Dan Duffy, Howard Graham and Hugh Graham tallied for the Police whose win forced a third and deciding game. Steve Riddell, Robert Taylor and Scott Sumner answered for the Dairy Queen.

Rhodesian Participation Forces Final Olympic Showdown

MUNICH (Reuter) — The final showdown is expected today on African threats to withdraw from the Munich Olympic Games if white-ruled Rhodesia is allowed to compete.

After day-long talks Monday, representatives of the 27 African countries and their 400 competitors will be withdrawn from the Games unless Rho desia is excluded.

This followed the International Olympic Committee's decision to submit a final recommendation on the Rhodesian question to today's full IOC session. The recommendation, hammered out by the IOC's nine-man executive board, will remain a closely guarded secret until the start of today's session.

Monday night's statement by the African National Olympic Committees of their intention to withdraw from the Games if Rhodesia is allowed to compete was the first time they have made such a threat with one voice.

Previously, individual African Olympic committees had threatened to boycott, Gambia while some others, including Nigeria, had said they intended to compete.

Now the whole of Africa is on the brink of an Olympic pullout. Said Abraham Ordia, president of the Supreme African Sports Council, said: "We face a very grave situation."

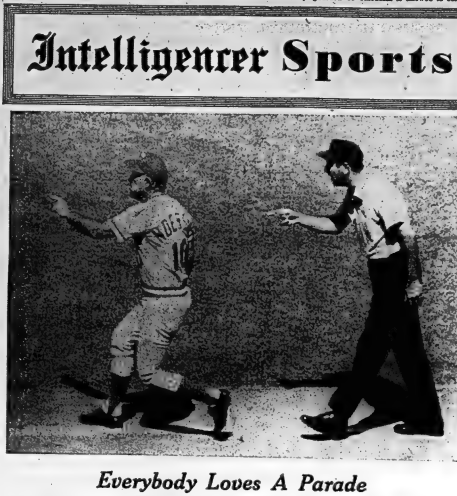
Ordia said the African nations had trained for the Games and come to Munich only with the idea of competing—"But it looks as if developments may not make it possible."

The African statement accused the Rhodesians of exploiting their presence at the Games for political advantage.

Despite the hardening African attitude, there was no sign of any weakening by the IOC with president Avery Brundage showing the implacable front which has epitomized his 29-year reign as ruler of the Olympic movement.

Brundage, whose successor as president will be announced Wednesday, said the IOC was "astonished, shocked and surprised" that the problem should have arisen only a few days before the start of the Games after repeated agreements on the terms of Rhodesian participation had been reached at last year's Luxembourg IOC congress.

With Britain having confirmed that it regarded members of the Rhodesian Olympic team as British subjects, the main condition of IOC acceptance of Rhodesia's Games entry appeared to have been satisfied. This would make it difficult for the IOC to exclude the Rhodesians, despite the rising clamor of the Africans.



A dramatic intervention in the crisis came Monday from the United Nations secretary-general, Kurt Waldheim, who has advised the West German government that Rhodesian participation in the Games might conflict with sanctions ordered by the UN Security Council against Rhodesia.

Waldheim added that the Security Council's committee on sanctions considered that the entry of the Rhodesian team into West Germany might conflict with the UN resolution on sanctions passed in 1968 which "include the activities of individuals, private organizations and governments."

The UN called attention to the possibility that issuance of Olympic identify cards to the Rhodesians violates Security Council sanctions.

The Rhodesians entered West Germany wearing Olympic identity cards inscribed "Rhodesia (British subject)." They agreed to compete using the British flag and the national anthem.

Errant Curve Costs Carlton

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"It was a curve ba'l that got me in trouble," sighed a disconsolate Steve Carlton.

Philadelphia Phillies' phenomenal left-hander who had won 15 consecutive games, finally lost his seventh of the baseball season - his first since May 30 and it took Atlanta Braves 11 innings to do it.

"Sometimes you just get bested," he said after dusty Baker doubled and Rico Carty singled to give the Braves a 5-4 victory Monday night.

Jim Beauchamp, New York Mets' reserve first baseman, celebrated his 32rd birthday in high fashion against Houston, clubbing his first two home runs of the year, the latter a two-run shot with two out in the bottom of the ninth inning that propelled the Mets to a 4-2 triumph over the Astros.

Elsewhere in the National League, Cincinnati Reds beat Montreal Expos 4-1, St. Louis Cardinals shut out Los Angeles Dodgers 4-0 and San Diego Padres stunned Chicago Cubs 6-5. Phil Niekro, the Braves' knuckleballer, gave up nine hits to Carlton's seven with each pitcher striking out 10 batters and walking three.

Carlton insisted at first that I really hadn't thought that much" about the winning streak. Then he shrugged and acknowledged: "I wish it had continued. It's a shame. I really wish I could have won it for the fans—the record and the streak."

There were 52,622 fans on hand and they cheered as if their Phillies were in the seventh game of the World Series, rather than the team with the worst record in the majors.

Joe Morgan hit his 13th homer of the season and backup catcher Bill Plummer smacked a two-run single to lead the attack that enabled the Reds to open a 7½-game lead over the second-place Astros in the West. Jim McGlothlin scattered eight Montreal hits, including Mike Jorgensen's homer that wrecked his shutout bid in the ninth inning.

Houston starter Jerry Reuss served up Beauchamp's first home run in the seventh inning giving the Mets a 2-1 lead.

But Cesar Cedeno, whose 10th homer of the season had produced the Astros' first run, tied it in the eighth off reliever Jon Matlack.

Jim Ray was on the mound for Houston in the ninth and issued a two-out walk to John Milner, bringing up Beauchamp again who promptly parked it deeper into the New York bullpen.

Bob Gibson, recording his 16th victory and fourth shutout of the season, stymied Los Angeles on seven hits, struck out six batters and chipped in with a run-producing double. Bernie Carbo homered for the Cards.

Win Column Crucial

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The all-important loss column of seasons past has been replaced in the current American League baseball pennant race by the all-important win column.

The theory had been that you can't recover a lost game. Games that haven't been played yet can always be won, but games lost are gone.

The early season major league baseball players strike has changed that formula in 1972 because a loss decision not to make up games cancelled during the walkout.

Since not all teams will be playing the same number of games, the all-important column on which a pennant could be determined this year is the games won.

In the East Division, for example, Detroit Tigers will play 156 games this season, one more than both New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox and two more than Baltimore Orioles. That's extra opportunities to win games and ultimately the pennant.

The unimportant loss column is all even among the first three teams today after Detroit lost 5-1 to Oakland Athletics Monday night and Baltimore topped California Angels 3-1. That cut the Tigers' lead to a one-half game over the Orioles and 1½ over idle New York. The margin is all in the games won column. Detroit has one more victory than Baltimore and three more than New York. Boston, also idle Tuesday, moved within 3½ games of the leaders.

Oakland's victory moved them one-half game ahead of idle Chicago White Sox in the West race. The Athletics have the ultimate games-played edge with 135 to 134.

Marcotte Wins Fast

Marcotte knocked Romano out with a left right combination after only 64 seconds.

He had already knocked his opponent down for a count of eight just after the start of the fight.

It was Marcotte's 21st victory in 23 fights as a professional and his 12th by a knockout.

About 6,000 fans watched the fight in the Quebec oliseum.

Orr May Make It to Moscow

TORONTO (CP) — Stan Mikita of Chicago Black Hawks is not expected to play tonight when Reds meet Whites in the first of three inter-squad games planned by Team Canada in its preparations for the forthcoming eight-game exhibition hockey series against Russia.

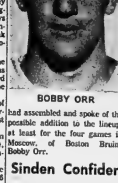
The National Hockey League centre sustained a groin muscle on Monday's workout.

"It's not too bad," Mikita said after the practice. "I'll take it in the morning to see how it feels."

Coach Harry Sinden, however, is not about to take any chances that Mikita might aggravate the injury if he plays his regular shift between Montreal Canadien wingers Frank Mahovlich and Yvon Cournoyer.

The second intra-squad game is set for Maple Leaf Gardens Saturday night and the third the following Tuesday on the same ice.

Team Canada, made up of NHL players, meets the powerful Russian club in the first game at Montreal on Sept. 2.



The other three Canadian games are at Toronto Sept. 4), Winnipeg (Sept. 6) and Vancouver (Sept. 8).

The Russian portion of the series is set for Sept. 22, 24, 26 and 28 with all games being played in Moscow.

Sinden, meanwhile, made a quick trip to New York Monday night to help promote the series with the U.S. firm that bought the television rights for that country.

Sloan Broadcasting of Boston, an independent sports network that paid $200,000 for the venture, has had trouble selling the series.

Sinden expressed a great deal of confidence in the team he has assembled and spoke of the possible addition to the lineup at least for the four games in Moscow, of Boston Bruins Bobby Orr.

BOBBY ORR

Sinden Confident as Series Nears

NEW YORK (CP) — Harry Sinden, coach of Team Canada, says he expects his team to win the hockey series against the Soviet Union and "I am aiming at winning every game."

The teams will play under international rules which means that fighting will bring automatic ejection from the game and a 10-minute penalty during which the penalized team will play shorthanded.

"My men will not go headhunting with this rule," said Sinden. "But I expect a game under hitting than the average NHL contest, but without any chippy intimidation fac-

The young defenceman, who underwent surgery to his left knee early in June, disclosed Monday he would start skating with the team Wednesday but was reticent about when he could start scrimmaging.

"Never coud Bobby out if he makes up his mind to do something." Sinden told his American audience.

Alan Eagleson, executive-director of the NHL Players' Association who accompanied Sinden to New York, said: "It will be the most exciting hockey series ever. The interest in Canada makes the Stanley Cup look like peanuts."

Hockey Canada expects to earn more than $1 million from the television rights which are owned jointly by Bobby Orr's proprietors and Harold Ballard, president of Maple Leaf Gardens.

But the money seems secondary to the nationalistic interest the series has stirred in Canada, says Eagleson, who suggested to Sinden that the Canadians had to win all eight games.

Sinden smiled.

"Eagleson has never stood behind a bench," he noted.

Riva Ridge Doped to Fourth ?

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP) — The FBI is investigating charges by the owner of Riva Ridge, crowded by many to be the best three-year-old race horse in the United States that the colt was drugged when he finished fourth in the $100,000 Monmouth Invitational Handicap on Aug. 5.

Mrs. John Tweedy made public her charges involving the winner of the Kentucky Derby, the Belmont Stakes and the Hollywood Derby, here Monday. She directed the operation of the Meadow Stable for her ailing father, C. T. Chenery, in whose silks Riva Ridge runs.

Mrs. Tweedy said that a blood test and an urine sample, taken after the return of Riva Ridge to Saratoga from Monmouth Park at Oceanport, N.J., both showed traces of phenylazine "or what amounted to a tranquilizer."

Tony's Tout Of 2 Leagues

The Oshawa Tony's are the best of two leagues at the moment but the Commercial League All-Stars are hoping to show they're on the best of three.

The Tony's will be in town Thursday night to meet 25 of the best players from the local Commercial League in a pair of benefit fastball contests. Proceeds from the double-header will go to the newly-formed McIntyre - Haines Construction bandana, a new Ontario Minor Hockey representative for Belleville.

The Belleville line-up will be facing one of the top softball teams in Ontario this year and for many years in the past. At the moment the Oshawa crew is leading in both the Ontario-Michigan Fastball League and the Toronto and District Major Fastball League.

Another indication of the Tony's strength is their three wins in four starts against Detroit. 1971 United States fastball champs and the five - of - six 1972 wins against the World champion Richmond Hill Dynes, finalists for the title in the Toronto and District League.

Although the exhibition games are for a worthy cause it will be serious ball and as organizer Jack McBride put it, "They're going to try and beat them. Most of the players will see action but if someone is going good we'll leave him in."

Coaches Doug Murray of Howard and Roberts and Harold Reid of Quinte have chosen 25 players that they qualify can be going good when the Tony's come to town. Eight of the 25 starters in the league will be seeing playing time Thursday and three of the top five pitchers will have the chance to test their skills against the Oshawa batters.

Mary Stacey of Devolin Movers who captured the Commercial League batting crown with a .466 average will team with Quinte's Larry Mavety, at .318 hitter, to form the bottom half of the locals batting order. Rollie's Ken Demille with a 0.17 ERA for 11 games and Scott Reid with 183 strikouts in 133 innings will form the starting duo of the pitching staff.

First base duties will be shared by Howard and Roberts Gary Goyer, a .320 batter, Globe's Gary Johnston the top defensive player in the league, and Quinte's Hugh Brennan.

Steve Ligg, Bruce Sikkie and Brian Gariepy cover second base for the locals with Wayne McTaggart, Paul Mercure and Moe Hunter guarding third. Paul Goodfellow leads the defense of short-stop ahead of Rick Rosebush and Terry Meagher.

Ralph Plane and Carl Boomhower bring the pennant winning Rollins team contribution to the benefit game to six in their outfield of Pete Glenn Carleton, Jim Horwood, Warren Ostrander, John Campbell, and Pete Stalkovich round out the deep backup men.

Starting time for the first of the two seven-inning contests will be 7 p.m. at the Alemite. Tickets are available at Ed Thomas Cigar Store, members of the Belleville Umpires Association and at the gate for $1.

Giant Problems

It's not really another meeting of David and Goliath but rather a meeting of Scott (Reid) and Brian (Gariepy). A quirk of photography fate gives Scott his giant appearance. However both Scott and Brian will be facing giant problems come Sunday evening when the Oshawa Tony's will be in town for a pair of exhibition softball games. Scott will be seeing pitching duty while the Rollins Juniors' Gariepy will see action at second base. This action was in an exhibition Commercial League game after the Juniors had won a benefit match from the Quinte Hotel.

Hawks Claw Waite Tykes

Kinsmen Hawks showed their claws to Gib Waite Motors in the opening game of the Belleville Minor Softball Association tyke finals.

The Hawks flew to a 13-1 win over the motor team in the first game of a best-of-three series. Sean Monaghan hurled a two-hitter for the winners with Bruce Shugg shotgunning a homer and Steven Hannah two triples. Brad Gray added three singles for the winners while Peter Wood and Kevin Dever hit safely for Gib Waite.

Rollins' Turn Sour

Rollins Construction went sour and the Ellis Juniors were revelling in the sweetness of it all as the Commercial Softball League wound up its regular season schedule Tuesday night.

A pair of late inning misues cost the pennant-winning Constructionmen in their bid for 23 victories this season as Howard and Roberts came up with a 4-2 win. In the first half of the night's doubleheader a lack of players forced

RICK GRAHAM

Quinte Hotel to forfeit their final game to the Ellis Juniors. The win gave the Juniors three victories for the season, one more than Quinte's record losing season last year.

Ted Waite wrapped it with his second loss of the season for Rollins after coming on in relief of Ken Demille in the fifth. A pair of singles and two errors allowed the Printers to score the winning runs in the sixth inning.

The Printers had held 1-0 and 2-1 leads against Rollins and Demille before Ralph Plane's triple in the sixth and an error tied the score.

Moe Hunter had a double and single for the winners with Rusty Garvin punching a pair of singles and Dwight Bathwell and Larry Potter adding singles. Bob Swan went the distance for the Printers, giving up seven hits and fanning three.

Plane added a single to his three-bagger while Paul Goodfellow and Dave Lott had a pair of singles each. Demille allowed two runs on four hits in his four innings of work for Rollins. The runs scored against the Rollins pitching duo didn't alter their 0.17 ERA for Demille or Waite's 0.34, tops in the league.

The Juniors' shortstop Rick Graham earned the Labatt's Player of the Week award by batting two - for - three with two rbi's as the two runs scored as the Juniors won their final two games of the season to avoid the ignominy of the infamous record of last year.

Lenders Rebound From 8-0

The Belleville Lenders continued to have an interest in the Industrial Softball League quarter - finals by staging a 10-9 comeback over Brooke Bond.

The Lenders rallied from an 8-6 deficit to tie the game in the sixth inning and force ahead in 8 - 8 in the seventh. They then withstood a single Brooke Bond tally in the final at bat.

Wayne Casselman gave up 12 hits in outlasting the winners less than losing hurler Dennis Crowder who struck out two and walked one batter.

Paul Curle clubbed two singles and a double for the Lenders with Dennis Tetlock adding a pair of singles. Al Colden and Don Goodfellow each collected a homer and single for Brooke Bond.

In the 10 - series it was Post Office knocking off Public Utilities by a 5-1 count.

Norper Lockhart turned in a three-hitter with 14 strikeouts for the Posties while Wilson Bulpit gave up five in taking the loss.

Lockhart and Ron Marriott homered for the winners while Bob Heard had two safeties for Public Utilities.

Farmers Rebound

Junior Farmers finally bounced into playoff contention in the North Shore Softball league by bouncing Concsecon 8-3 for their first win in four playoff encounters.

Clayton Alexander came through with a two-hit pitching effort and a three-run homer to spark the Junior Farmers. He struck out 12 batters and walked but one.

Art Keller gave up 16 hits in a losing cause.

Paul Bathgate added a homer and single for the winners with Bill Kristafor and Denis Gale adding two hits each. For the losers 16 was Dale Mawhinney and S. Clarke getting the only safeties.

Simonds Can Hold His Own

Dave Simonds of the Belleville Kinsmen Track club managed to hold his win with the country boy junior middles on the mat at the Canadian Track and Field Championships in Montreal Sunday.

Simonds turned in a 50.3 clocking in the 400 metres, good for fifth place in the event. He finished seventh in the 800 with a time of 1:55.6 for the metric half-mile.

Of course, you'll find it rides a lot better. But that's only the beginning. When you invest 9.95 you can actually save a good deal more.
Because if your wheels are out of alignment and balance, your tires will notice it a lot sooner than you will. Maybe it's a lot sooner than you will. Maybe you won't even know you've got a problem until you see tell you about it. By wearing out too soon. By wearing out in uneven patches. Or by wearing out on just one side of the tread. That's a sad waste.

FRASER & O'NEIL

BE YOUR OWN LANDLORD — and a small down payment will do the trick! We have just listed a three apartment dwelling in excellent condition too. Aluminum siding, lovely back yard, close to down town, shopping and schools. Two apartments have one bedroom each and one apartment has two bedrooms. This all older home and has large, spacious rooms throughout. Call us at 962-9154 for a preview — it's a really good investment.

THIS HOME HAS ITS' OWN PARK — The lot is nearly 900 feet deep and offers you a lovely deep water creek bordering out to the Bay of Quinte. A wonderful playground for your children. The three bedroom bungalow was built according to VLA specifications and is sturdy, solid, clean and very attractive. There are many extras such as stove, fridge, washer-dryer, and for the kids there are swings, a small boat and oars, all sorts of trees, flowers and lawn garden art. Selling for only $25,900.

GROCERY AND VARIETY STORE — on one of the main streets of Belleville, and a real going concern. The present owner has more than doubled the profits since January and you will step into a really profitable business. As well, there is a two bedroom apartment upstairs which brings in $120.00 per month. Call for details — we have permission to show it any time.

MEN'S CLOTHING STORE — near Belleville — a store of dignity and charm — selling only the best merchandise. An old, established family business, which offers the owner an excellent income. The stock and services a large area. The store is a two storey, solid brick building, to excellent condition, and all utilities your offers will be considered.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

WEDNESDAY, AUG. 23

Aries (March 21-April 19): Let everybody see the bright side of your personality as you push through the routines of the day. Where you can make an introduction, do so.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): It's time to get to work on your career plans; select a course of action, decide how you are going to do the essential moves.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Distant places and people intrigue you, people nearby are general concerns. Exercise bright as you work for a full day's achievement.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Formulate your questions clearly, get an opinion from somebody who has been through the experience you are about. Celebrate.

Leo (July 23 - Aug. 22): Open conflicts can now be resolved by resolute action. Co-ordinating your program is fun with some sound decisions established.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Invert more of your energy to young people. There's a good surprise coming with steady diligence on your regular round of work.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Your feelings become an important factor in what happens now. Questions concerning the affairs of older people need your attention.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Indirect benefits arise from your family connections. Your patience with the comments of older people is greatly appreciated.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You are expected to be willing and able to move quickly, change routines, switch to new positions with no great upset.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Investments made today bear long-range rewards. Check to make sure that nothing of importance is neglected or misplaced.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Settle back, make less noise than usual, see whether you can be helpful to children, either yours or related.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Say little of what you plan to do until the time comes, then just do what is necessary. Explanations are much simpler later.

Need Time to Heal Bad Bone Bruise

By G.C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I jumped from a ladder and hit my heel hard on the ground. I could hardly put any weight on it but cause of the pain.

It is now two weeks later and it is still touchy. I put heat on it and liniment but it is slow healing.

It was told I had bruised the bone. Just what happens when the bone is bumped hard like that?—T.F.W.

A bone bruise can result from a solid blunt blow or an unprotected bone, such as the shin. There is bleeding below the surface of the bone — just as a bruise that you can see is the result of bleeding below the surface of the skin.

In time the blood in a bone bruise will absorb, but not necessarily in two weeks.

From the type of your injury, I would suspect that you may have damaged a bursa in the heel—a bursa being a fluid-filled sac over a bone. Just guesswork on my part, of course, but an inflamed bursa (bursitis, in other words) would remain painful because of any pressure on it.

You could, of course, have bruised the heel. Who told you it was a bone bruise? Your doctor, or just somebody who volunteered his medical opinion?

In either case, continue the heat, which helps, but try to keep pressure off the sore heel. A soft heel pad (rubber or other material) to shift your weight may help and is distinctly worth trying.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My sister has shingles, a real bad case on her stomach. The doctor gave her several shots and pain pills and lotion. The blisters are gradually bursting and she itches and burns something awful. We've heard shingles will come back time and again. Is this so?—Mrs. F.V.

Both pain and itching can be extreme with shingles, which is a particular type of virus disease. The duration of the disease varies greatly, depending largely on the patient's general health and age to begin with.

There can be some risk and fall in the intensity of an attack, too, which has been the origin of the basic error that shingles can "come back time and again."

Actually, this is not true. Once the attack is ended, there is no reason to fear the ailment will return. Seldom if ever does a patient get a second attack.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it true that unwanted facial hair will grow back coarser and heavier if removed by a depilatory?—C.W.

No, not true.

Sharp Ends Visit To Peking

PEKING (Reuter) — External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp left Peking today for Shanghai after five days in the Chinese capital during which he held comprehensive talks with Chinese leaders.

Sharp and his party will tour Shanghai this afternoon and late tonight will fly to Hangchow.

They will spend Tuesday in Hangchow, a popular resort city famed for the beauty of its West Lake, before going to Canton.

Sharp will leave Canton by rail for Hong Kong Thursday morning and is due back in Canada the next day.

Sharp opened a two-week Canadian trade exhibition Monday in Peking.

During his talks with Premier Chou En-lai and Foreign Minister Chi Peng-fei, he received assurance that China will remain a long - term customer for Canadian wheat. He also arranged a program of exchange visits between the two countries.

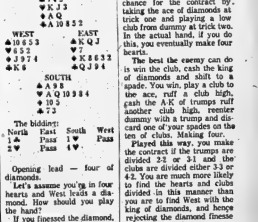
Opening lead — four of diamonds.

Let's assume you're in four hearts and West leads a diamond. How should you play the hand?

If you finessed the diamond, a perfectly natural thing to do, East would win and shift to a spade, forcing out your ace. You would then be in and shape and eventually lose two spades, a diamond and a club to go down one.

You could dismiss the hand by attributing the outcome to bad luck — after all, West could have had the king of diamonds — but if you study the matter more closely you find that finessing the diamond is a bad guess.



You have a much better chance for the contract by taking the ace of diamonds at trick one and playing a low club from dummy at trick two. In the actual hand, if you do this, you eventually make four hearts.

The best the enemy can do is win the club, cash the king of diamonds and shift to a spade. You win, play a club to the ace, ruff a club high, cash the A-K of trumps ruff another club high, reenter dummy with a trump and discard one of your spades on the ten of clubs. Making four.

Played this way, you make the contract if the trumps are divided 2-3 or 3-1 and the clubs are divided either 3-3 or 4-2. You are much more likely to find the hearts and clubs divided in this manner than you are to find West with the king of diamonds, and hence rejecting the diamond finesse is the proper play.

Note also that you must lead a low club from dummy at trick two, not the ace. If you were to lead the ace first, you would eventually go down one. If you don't believe it, try it and see what happens.

Tomorrow: Strange obsession.

Consumers Urged To File Law Suits

TORONTO (CP) — Two steps governments may take in overcoming problems in the enforcement of consumer legislation were suggested Monday by a Toronto law professor.

The steps—class action suits and an office of consumer advocacy—were recommended by Prof. Jacob Ziegel of Osgoode Hall Law School at York University during a talk to a consumer studies seminar.

"It seems to me that class action deserves an honest try in Canada and those who urge greater self-reliance on the part of the consumer should be quick to applaud its introduction," Prof. Ziegel told the seminar, sponsored by the Ontario ministry of education.

A class action suit is one in which all the consumers, known or unknown, affected by a particular violation, join as plaintiffs in a single action.

The office of consumer advocacy would be an independent office that would represent the consumer interest before all independent government agencies, such as the Canadian transportation commission and the Canadian Radio-Television Commission.

These agencies "are substantially free of government control, at least on a day-to-day basis," Prof. Ziegel said, "and the ability of a minister of consumer affairs to influence their decisions is even less than in the case of his ministerial colleagues."

"Yet it is precisely these agencies before whom the consumer's voice needs to be heard most because long experience here and in the United States, has shown how frequently they fall victim to the intensive lobbying and advocacy of powerful business interests."

Both class action suits and an office of consumer advocacy are being sought in the United States and Prof. Ziegel said while there are important differences in traditions and techniques between the governments of Canada and the United States, "in the case of the independent agencies the similarities are more important than the differences."

McGovern To Confer With LBJ

AUSTIN, Tex. (Reuter) — Senator George McGovern, the anti-war Democrat, meets today with former president Lyndon Johnson in hopes of patching party differences for a united fight against President Nixon's November re-election bid.

McGovern, the Democratic presidential nominee, flies to the former president's ranch southwest of here at mid-morning to confer with the man who left the presidency largely because of opposition to his pro-war policy.

Johnson has announced he will support the South Dakota senator, but simply as part of his blanket endorsement of the entire Democratic ticket.

McGovern arrived here late Monday night with praise for the former president's record on education and conservation legislation and said that although they had disagreed over Vietnam, there was strength in the Democratic party's diversity.

Nearly 10,000 high vocal supporters, most of them young people, greeted the Democratic candidate's arrival. Also there was his vice-presidential running mate, Sargent Shriver.

McGovern attempted to play down the Vietnam split at his airport rally, and emphasized what he labelled Johnson's extraordinary records in other areas.

Black Power Leader Is Sentenced to Hang

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (Reuter) — Abdul Malik, former London-based Black Power leader known as Michael X, was sentenced Monday night to death by hanging for murder.

Malik, born Michael de Freitas in Trinidad 39 years ago, was found guilty of murdering Joseph Skerritt, a 25-year-old Port of Spain barber, between Feb. 7 and 22 this year.

The barber's body was unearthed in the backyard of Malik's burnt-out home at Christina Gardens, Arima, 20 miles from Port of Spain, late in February. Malik was arrested in a coal mine on a Guyana plantation after dodging police for several days and brought back to Trinidad for trial.

Malik denied in court that he killed or participated in the killing of Skerritt. "There was no animosity of any sort between us over anything at all," he said.

Stanley Abbott, a 35-year-old Trinidadian and former British Army dispatch rider, was found guilty of manslaughter and sentenced to 29 years' hard labor for seizing Skerritt and bringing him to Malik's house. Police said Skerritt may have been buried alive.

Malik, Abbott and two others, Edward Chadee and Marvin Deane, a United States citizen, have also been charged with the murder of a white English woman, Gail Ann Benson, whose body was found buried near Malik's house two days after Skerritt's body was found. Mrs. Benson, daughter of a member of the British Parliament, had been stabbed 19 times.

The preliminary inquiry into this case has been opened but adjourned.

The Trinidad police have still not located Deane, who is believed to be in the United States.

A Tight Squeeze

Singapore Appears to Be Thriving

SINGAPORE (Reuter) — The small island republic of Singapore embarks on its eighth year of independence with prospects of continued prosperity and political stability.

Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew and his governing People's Action Party stand virtually unchallenged before a scattering of disunited opposition parties.

Through vigorous and pragmatical government, as well as aggressive salesmanship of its investment potential, Singapore appears on the road to achieving Lee's ideal of "the rugged society."

Foreign capital flows in to aid expansion of vital industrialisation on an island which has virtually no natural resources other than its population of 2.2 million. Banking is booming and Singapore is becoming one of Southeast Asia's top financial centres.

Trade, tourism and port activity—Singapore is the world's fourth largest port—are all on the increase.

Lee and his party hold all 58 seats in the elected Parliament. General elections must be held by April and could be earlier, but the opposition is divided on important issues.

Lee vept seven years ago when he announced that Singapore was "splitting from the Malaysian federation which it had joined in 1963. When the independence anniversary was marked recently he could smile broadly in the knowledge that the island state now is one of the most prosperous in Asia with a standard of living second only to Japan.

The people of Singapore, mainly Chinese with strong mixtures of Malays and Indians as well as other races, are well dressed, well fed and more fashion conscious. Shops are packed with luxury goods—many of them duty free—and there are many good restaurants and nightclubs.

Average per-capital income for 1971 was put at $1,075—up 16 per cent from the 1970 level, almost double that of 1965 and second only to Japan in Asia.

The government has made development of manufacturing — prime target, and foreign investment, encouraged by tax concessions, has expanded steadily in this sector in the last seven years. Last year it reached about 3660 million.

Sick Boy Dies

LOVELL, Wyo. (AP) — Danny Blackburn, who drew national attention two weeks ago when he was temporarily refused passage on an airplane flight home, has died of cancer.

"Danny was a fighter all the way through," his father said after the 10-year old boy died Monday.

Two weeks ago, Western Airlines stuck it its interpretation of a Federal Aviation Administration regulation and refused to fly the ailing boy and his oxygen bottle home from Denver, where Danny had undergone a series of brain operations.

The boy flew home via Frontier Airlines, which agreed to heed the rule about oxygen because Danny was accompanied by a nurse.

Food Prices Rise 3.5 Pct. Since June

TORONTO (CP) — Food prices in Toronto have risen an estimated 3.5 per cent since mid-June, a Toronto investment firm study says, and food industry spokesmen predict higher prices for Ontario and the rest of Canada before the end of the year.

• Donald Tigert of Burns Bros. and Denton Ltd., Toronto, said 120 bread items surveyed increased in price by seven per cent. The actual increase of 7,000 items was about 3.5 per cent, he said.

Jack Levine, executive vice-president of retailing, Steinberg's Ltd., said food costs will rise "to disturbingly high levels in September." He pointed to recent increases in coffee, cereals and tomato products as the beginning of the pattern.

David Laub, Toronto division manager of Canada Safeway Ltd., said there is no room left for the industry to absorb any increases. It will mean food prices will rise as manufacturers increase prices, he said.

The study pointed out that even with the recent advances in prices, food costs are still below the levels of two years ago when supermarket chains started slashing prices.

Another survey by Canadian Grocers magazine found rising prices for come baby foods, canned vegetables, cake mixes, breakfast cereals, honey and pet foods.

Other predictions are that food prices may climb 30 per cent.

Sam Crystal, a spokesman for Oshawa Group Ltd. which owns Food Town and supplies IGA supermarkets, said "prices are going up and there's no use not being completely open about it."

"Everything is against us this year," he added. "Bad weather, poor crop yield and spiralling labor costs."

E. D. Harvison, spokesman for Dominion Stores Ltd., said there have been no "unusual" price increases yet but added "we have to expect food increases across the board."

One major buyer predicted an increase of five cents a box on powdered detergents, five per cent on baby foods, seven to eight per cent on all tinned vegetables, 14 per cent on jams, 10 per cent on cigarette and pipe tobaccos and up to 30 per cent on corn.

Barney Wilson, secretary of the Ontario Fruit and Vegetable Growers' Association, said the shortage of fruits and vegetables is general.

Keith Maddle, spokesman for the Ontario Tender Fruit Marketing Board, also said fruits will be "considerably higher" than last year.

Lee Murray, office supervisor for St. Lawrence Sugar, said the price of his product would likely climb 14 to 15 cents a pound.

And still another product expected to increase in price is dog foods with fresh and frozen salmon expected to rise about 20 per cent.

Hull Wells Face Tests

HULL, Que. (CP) — Quebec Environment Minister Victor Goldbloom said Monday his department is testing all wells in the Hull region for pollution problems.

He told reporters that teams of technicians are testing wells in the Hull area counties of Hull, Gatineau, Pontiac and Papineau.

The tests should have a complete report on the situation by the end of the summer," he said.

The study will be followed with steps next summer to save West Quebec's tourist Industry before tourists go elsewhere, he said.

Dr. Goldbloom said pollution of the Ottawa River by pulp mills at Hull, Gatineau and Thurso, Que., is on the decrease, and with federal financial aid, Ontario and Quebec could clean up the Ottawa River as a first step to ending pollution of the Ottawa river.

Last Moon Trip Starts Dec. 6

WASHINGTON (AP) — American astronauts are scheduled to make their last lunar landing in the Apollo series of space flight operation on Dec. 6, the space agency says.

It will be the sixth moon visit by man and also will represent the longest stay yet on the moon's surface. And it will be the first night launching of a manned spacecraft.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Monday the evening launch hour was scheduled to make possible a lunar landing at the desired sun angle just south of the moon's Taurus mountains and Littrow crater.

Taurus-Littrow, a combination of mountain-dotted highlands and valley-strewn lowlands, is about 400 miles northeast of the place where astronaut Neil Armstrong became the first man ever to set foot on the lunar surface.

The Saturn C rocket is scheduled to blast off from Cape Kennedy, Fla., at 9:53 p.m. EST Dec. 6. The lunar landing is scheduled for 2:55 p.m. EST, Dec. 11.

Mission commander will be navy Capt. Eugene Cernan, 38, a veteran of 264½ hours in space. His two companions—civilian geologist Dr. Harrison Schmitt, 37, the lunar module pilot, and navy Cmdr. Ronald Evans, 38, command module pilot—will be making their first space flight.

NASA said the mission will last 12 days 11 hours 51 minutes.

Three Shot

NEW YORK (AP) — The bodies of three men, two shot in the head and one shot in the chest, were found on the shore of Jamaica Bay in Queens late Monday night, police said.

Detectives said the three victims of the gangland-style killings were in their early 20s.

It was not immediately known if the slayings were related to the recent underworld gang violence in the city that has claimed at least 15 lives in the last 14 months.

Guns Near Dikes

SAIGON (Reuter) — The U.S. command published Monday five photographs taken by air force pilots over South Vietnam apparently showing gun positions and storage areas on or beside dikes.

One unusually low-level photograph reportedly showed two heavy gun emplacements sunk into the top of a dike.

Requests Jail

HAMILTON (CP) — A grandmother addicted to heroin asked provincial court Monday to jail her and help her break the habit.

Margaret Scarles, 39, made the request through defence counsel Joseph Dubeck, who called it "a classic case of a woman who has been caught in the web of heroin addiction."

Mrs. Scarles, who had pleaded guilty last Monday to possession of $100 worth of heroin, was jailed for six months by Judge Edwin Fairbanks.

See Settlement

VANCOUVER (CP) — Grain handlers here will be asked to accept a federal conciliation board report if some minor items are clarified by the board.

Chief negotiator for the Grain Workers Union, Henry Bates said Monday the decision to recommend acceptance of the report was made after a weekend meeting of the union's negotiating and policy committees.

Must Serve All

LION'S HEAD, Ont. (CP) — Provincial Treasurer Darcy McKeough told Bruce Peninsula planning board and municipal officials here Monday that the interests of the province as a whole would be the prime consideration in government policy for the peninsula.

The minister met local officials in the community 43 miles northwest of Owen Sound after taking a three - hour helicopter tour of the area.

"What may seem good for local people is not necessarily good for the province as a whole," Mr. McKeough said.

Ship Damaged

HALIFAX (CP) — A board of inquiry has been ordered to determine the circumstances surrounding extensive weather damage found in the propulsion system of the destroyer-escort Restigouche, the Canadian Forces said here Monday.

Purchases Made

TORONTO (CP) — The province has purchased about 2,500 of the 25,000 acres it requires for the planned city of North Pickering, about 25 miles east of Toronto, a government spokesman said Monday.

Harry Mitchell, who is heading the land purchases, said the province has agreed to pay about $10 million for the property.

Less Pity, More Respect Is Said Need of Retarded

TORONTO (CP) — A psychologist specializing in mental retardation said Monday there should be more respect and less pity for the mentally handicapped.

Dr. Wolf Wolfensberger told an audience of teachers, nurses and social workers they must do more for the retarded than merely keep them happy.

"Let's make them happy, they say," Dr. Wolfensberger told the group. "I keep running across that word happiness and it makes me sick . . . Nothing for the retarded but arts and crafts and fun and games and picnics."

Dr. Wolfensberger, a staff member of the National Institute on Mental Retardation, was the opening speaker at a course being attended by workers in the field from across Canada.

He said opportunities for the retarded cannot be based on pity, which he described as "usually benevolent and often devoid of respect."

Dr. Wolfensberger also was critical of the so-called poster child.

"You get the most lovable little creature and you put him on a poster," he said, adding that this is "how to destroy your image and yet how to raise a lot of money."

"We're really destroying ourselves when we do this sort of thing."

He Markets Inventions

Couple Found Dead

TORONTO (CP) — A man and woman were found dead in an apartment Monday and police believe the incident may have been a murder-suicide.

Found dead were Lawrence Aronson, 40, of Mississauga and Dianne Rizzo, 29, of Toronto. Police said it appeared the pair had been shot.

Detective Sergeant James Majury said in an interview that they were possibly victims of a murder suicide, but no notes were found.

Autopsies on the two bodies were to be performed today.

Bryon Alexandroff, 24-year-old Toronto regional manager of a company that appraises new inventions, sits in his office surrounded by inventions. If an idea is considered marketable the company patents it for the inventor; if not, Mr. Alexandroff will probably advise the inventor not to go to the trouble of patenting it, a process that could cost over $1,000. Deficit Seen

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says in an Ottawa dispatch that there are indications of a severe run on unemployment benefits that will push the Unemployment Insurance Commission into a $500-million deficit.

Crash Found

TORONTO (CP) — A man and his wife were killed and their two children injured when their car crashed into the rear of a transport truck on Highway 401 near Cobourg early Monday, police said.

Dead are Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Hall, 30, of Toronto. Their children, Ronald, 4, and Lisa, 2, were in hospital in Cobourg.

Accept Contract

SUDBURY (CP) — Members of Local 598, Mines, Mill and Smelter Workers, voted Wednesday 78 per cent in favor of accepting a new three - year agreement with Falconbridge Nickel mines that calls for a total 75-cents - an - hour across-the-board wage increase.

Rescue Planned

EDMONTON (CP) — Wardair-Canada Ltd., the largest pure-charter airline in the country, has asked the federal government for permission to go to the rescue of Canadians stranded in Europe while on charter trips.

Maxwell Ward, president of Wardair, made the request in a telegram Monday to the secretary of the air transport committee of Canadian transport commission in Ottawa.

Ban Remains

TORONTO (CP) — North York borough council voted Monday against a by-law change which would permit tenants and unrelated persons to live in areas zoned for single-family dwellings.

At issue is the definition of "family" under the borough's bylaw 7625.

The proposed change, defeated 7-4, would have permitted four unrelated women to stay in their rented house in a single-family area in the borough.

Girl Sought

CALEDON, Ont. (CP) — The search for a 14 - year - old girl missing since last Wednesday widened Monday to include gravel pits, lovers' lanes and country roads in the area of this community, 35 miles northwest of Toronto.

Missing is Ingrid Bauer, who was last seen when she set out to hitch-hike the five miles from her parents' home to the home of her boy-friend.

Seek Convict

KINGSTON (CP) — Penitentiary officials and police are looking for a prisoner from Collins Bay prison who failed to return to the prison Sunday.

Ernest Lester George, 21, was given a temporary leave of absence to attend his stepfather's funeral in Windsor.

Consider Aid

OTTAWA (CP) — Agriculture Minister H. A. Olson met his counterparts from Quebec and Ontario Monday to devise an aid plan for farmers who have suffered serious crop losses due to heavy summer rains.

Neither Mr. Olson nor the provincial ministers—Normand Toupin of Quebec and William Stewart of Ontario—would give details of the discussions.

Parole Official To Meet Convicts Who Held Hostage

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., (CP) — A national parole board official was to meet today with two convicts who held a woman prison worker hostage at knifepoint for more than 10 hours Monday.

Kyle Stevenson was scheduled to fly to Vancouver from Ottawa and meet the two prisoners inside the British Columbia Penitentiary at 1 p.m. PDT.

The meeting was the price police and prison officials paid for the release of the hostage, Joan Young, a classification officer. She was released about 8 p.m., nearly 11 hours after she was seized.

The prisoners, identified by Prison Director F. R. Graves as Glen Dubois, 26, and Paul Petit, 23, seized two hostages but released one, identified as Deputy Director Hugh Grest, a short time later in exchange for a third convict who was allowed to act as a mediator. The third prisoner was not identified.

Petit was serving 12 years and Dubois, 15, both for robbery.

They entered with their first exchange with officials that an RCMP officer be sent to the prison negotiations, that they be granted complete and total pardons, and that their criminal records be erased.

One of the prisoners remained beside Mrs. Young with his stamp blade. The second talked with officials. The woman was kept inside a record vault structure, part of the classification building.

The squat, one-storey building sits on a large lawn separating the administration building from the main prison buildings. All are inside a high grey concrete wall.

After the prisoners made their initial demands, which were later scaled down, there was a long period of nerve-wracking waiting as prison officials dealt with their superiors in Ottawa and negotiated with the prisoners.

The long wait—with the woman held at the point of a knife-need on until officials agreed to today's meeting and agreed to have a statement to this effect broadcast by radio station in the area.

The statement was broadcast just after 7:30 p.m. by seven radio stations. It was read by Vancouver Sun columnist Jack Wasserman, who had been present at the meetings at the request of the prisoners.

Then officials, reporters, and photographers jammed against the bars on the windows of the administration building and waited for the woman to be released from the building, as agreed, after the statement was heard on radio.

They waited almost five minutes. Then three prisoners, two officials and a uniformed RCMP officer emerged from the building and headed for the main cell blocks.

Another wait, this time about two minutes, and then Mrs. Young, smiling and unharmed, walked with two officials toward the administration building.

All-nude Theatre Refused Licence

PETERBOROUGH, (CP) — City council decided Monday night not to issue a music hall licence to the owners of Aunt Bee's, a proposed new all-nude theatre.

Robert Marchand and Len Herbert, both of Kingston, owners of the theatre, already have started renovations to the building they plan to use. The two plan to hire entertainers through a Toronto agency.

Mayor Douglas Galvin said council decided after the council meeting the decision not to issue a licence was based on various confidential reports, but he would not elaborate.

At an earlier council meeting Ald. John Doris said he had received several telephone calls about the proposed theatre, adding that "I believe some of the people are rightly concerned."

Council is to consider the application again in two weeks.

United Church Members Urged To Boycott Goods from France

SASKATOON (CP) — The 2.2 million members and adherents of the United Church of Canada have been urged to give one-tenth of their income to charity and to refrain from buying goods manufactured in France.

The urging came Monday night as the church's 126th general council speedily passed a sheaf of what officials called "private member's bills."

The council rejected, by a three-to-one vote, a motion by Rev. G. B. Anderson of Rexdale, Que., who had asked the church to protest "the excessive salaries now being offered to many professional hockey players and the blatant commercialism of some owners."

Mr. Johnston said this presents an obscene image of Canada "in a hurting world."

Some delegates argued that the motion unfairly singled out hockey.

Ivan Sparks, a lay delegate from Ottawa, said the same criticism might be applied to anyone in Canada making more than $100,000 a year.

Another resolution said United Church members gave only about one per cent of their income for religious and charitable purposes. Delegates agreed the church should encourage members to donate one-tenth of their income as a "goal for minimum giving."

A second resolution said members should be encouraged to refrain from buying goods manufactured in France until their country stops nuclear testing in the atmosphere.

A motion from some of the younger commissioners asked for a study of human sexuality. It said this is needed because a variety of common social problems are often the result of a confused understanding of sexuality.

Human sexuality was "a beautiful gift of God, intended to be used for creative and expressive purposes within the context of responsible human relationships."

Rev. Rupert Ewens, a married commissioner from Rexdale, Ont., suggested that the words "in marriage" be added to the end of that sentence but was shouted down by the others.

Other approved motions said the church should:

—Urge the government to make further representations to the United States to indicate the danger of a proposed oil tankers route down the Canadian west coast to Washington state.

—Study how it could provide a more effective ministry for the high-density population centres of Canada, including the involvement of persons who have no religious or denominational attachment.

Earlier Monday, the meeting approved the two most controversial reports—an abortion and French-English relations—to come before its eight-day session, and defeated an attempt to suspend church union discussions with the Anglican Church of Canada.

A strong majority approved a special report, saying abortion may be the lesser of two evils in some medical, social and economic situations.

The report on French-English relations that was approved said "the right should be clearly accepted for either of Canada's two major racial or linguistic groups to disassociate from the other."

Toxic Metals Found In Fertilizer Sludge

TORONTO (CP) — An environmental magazine says high levels of toxic heavy metals have been found in sewage sludge used to make commercial fertilizers.

According to Water and Pollution Control, the toxic metals—considered dangerous to humans—could be passed on to the plants and vegetables and ultimately to the consumer.

It urges caution in the use of sludge-based fertilizers on vegetable gardens because of possible surface contamination.

John Van Loon, a University of Toronto geologist and chemist has researched the subject and prepared a report.

"Metals may not be picked up by plant life now," but we don't know what happens when they sit on soils for a number of years," he said.

Three Ontario municipalities—Oshawa, Aurora and Kitchener—were given as examples where levels of metals in sewage sludge were "astronomical."

At Aurora, chromium was found in the sludge, possibly explained by the presence of a tanning industry in the area. The town disposes about 60,000 gallons of the material every week on farming land.

In Kitchener, where there are metal finishing industries, chromium also was found and Oshawa's sludge contained lead and zinc.

Seventy per cent of Oshawa's sludge is disposed on land. The remainder is made available to the public as fertilizer.

GO TO TORONTO

QUEBEC (CP) — Maurice Tessier, Quebec municipal affairs minister, has confirmed that the provincial government and two Quebec municipalities will comprise the Quebec delegation at the first national federal-provincial-municipal conference on municipal affairs in Toronto in November.

Seven Die By Bomb In Newry

NEWRY, Northern Ireland (CP) — Guerrilla bombers blew up a British customs post near the Irish Republic border here today, killed seven persons and critically injuring two others.

The estimated 180 pound bomb went off seconds after it was carried into the building by two men who were believed to have been blown to pieces by the blast.

"It looks like another Irish Republican Army attack that went wrong," said a police spokesman. "The bomb obviously exploded prematurely and there was no time to clear the staff."

Four of the dead were customs officers, one was a truck driver and the other two were believed to be the guerrillas who planted the bomb.

Police searching the wreckage found a number of weapons, including a sub-machine-gun.

The seven dead raised to 523 the confirmed death toll in Northern Ireland's three years of violence.

It was the biggest terrorist toll in Ulster since July 31 when three bomb's killed nine persons in the village of Claudy, near Londonderry.

Odessa Girl Wins Dairy Princess Round

TORONTO (CP) — Heather Rogers' father would not let her work on the family dairy farm this summer because he thought the work would be too hard for her.

Although she lost the job she won the argument Monday night at the Canadian National Exhibition in the first regional final for the title of Ontario Dairy Princess.

Doing the same things her father thought would be too hard on the farm at Odessa near Kingston, the pretty 18-year-old beat four other girls at milking a milking machine together, milking cows and sterilizing equipment.

As the representative for Lennox Addington county, Heather will compete with other regional winners for the provincial title Aug. 31.

Hang the Critics!

Republicans Are Having Fun

MIAMI BEACH (CP) — Hang the critics. The Republicans are here to have a ball and they don't intend to let politics cloud their fun in the sun.

No smoke-filled rooms for them.

They've had that scene in the past and will again, but for now they sense they have a winner in Richard Nixon, that all's right with the world and their party.

They intend to savor the luxury of it all, while it lasts.

While the Democrats in convention here six weeks ago spent most of their time in sweaty caucus meetings and highly-charged floor fights, many Republicans are finding plenty of time for yachting, tennis and similar diversions. They've brought their shirt-jackets and their diamonds. They're eating limousines and they intend to live it up.

They're aware of the critics' slings and arrows about the depth of their political involvement, but they figure the party is in such good shape they can relax and enjoy themselves this time. It might be a while before they have the luxury of such a "fun" convention again.

Party lieutenants are touchy about accusations that the proceedings have been so well orchestrated that all the delegates have to do is rubber-stamp Nixon's renomination and his platform. They say it's simply a case of a united party working efficiently, but the fact remains that the well-disciplined convention sessions leave plenty of time for play.

Surveys indicate the delegates to both conventions are better off financially than the Americans they represent, and the Republicans generally are better-heeled that the Democratic crowd. And they're as the mood to splash a bit of it around.

Rows of private planes are parked at the nearby airport. A fleet of yachts that brought their owners to the convention is in place along Miami Beach's palm-fringed lagoon, serving as luxurious pleasure spots for parties and dinner for the "in" crowd far from the maddening throngs at the packed hotels.

Beauty shops report the Republican ladies are out-spending their Democratic sisters and this assessment is echoed by businessmen all along the Miami Beach trip of hotels, bars, night spots and boutiques.

Ironically, it's the time of year when most fashionable Americans wouldn't be caught dead in Miami Beach.

Rhodesians Barred At Olympic Games

His Team Is Barred

Peter Hodder, right, manager of the Rhodesian team at the Munich Olympic Games speaks to newsmen on one of the training tracks in Munich Tuesday prior to the International Olympic Committee voting to exclude Rhodesia from the Games. (AP Photo)

Nixon Chosen By GOP

"I see an election...sometime"

MIAMI BEACH (CP) — To the surprise of absolutely no one, the Republicans have selected Richard Nixon as their presidential nominee for the third time, leaving the party's national convention with a final routine chore — naming Spiro Agnew once more as his running mate tonight.

The Republican convention Tuesday night was just one more shy of unanimously picking President Nixon for another four-year term in the White House. The vote for Vice-President Agnew is expected to be unanimous in contrast with a fierce fight four years ago.

The convention adjourns tonight after Nixon and Agnew give their acceptance speeches and set forth to do battle with the Democratic team of George McGovern and Sargent Shriver in the campaign leading to the November general election.

The president planned no major announcements in his acceptance speech, the White House said, but rather would review his first four years in office and set out his hopes for a second term. In his first bid for the White House in 1960, Nixon lost to John F. Kennedy.

Within minutes of his renomination, Nixon was on the campaign trail making a pitch for the youth vote.

Going to a rock musical concert at Mid Broadway Bay from Miami Nixon told cheering, young Republicans who will be voting for the first time in November: "I don't think the youth vote is an anybody's pocket."

Under a new law, the voting age has been lowered to 18 from 21 years and many pollsters and surveys suggest the Democratic party could get the lion's share of the young vote.

"We've got just as good a shot at it as the other side but we're going to get it," Nixon said in reflecting a strong theme of the three-day convention that the Republican party hasn't got a receiving generation gap.

The 1,347 to 1 vote for Nixon's renomination reflected the absolute power he has exercised over the party, with the exception of some victory in November—a ruling to put aside relatively minor party differences in the name of a united front.

New Mexico, with a hint of politics, explained last at the 11 state delegation support Nixon it was required under law to cast one first vote for its native Peter McCloskey of California, offering the representative the vote he won in the state primary election.

McCloskey, a foe of Nixon's Vietnam war policy, had mounted a campaign for the Republican presidential nomination but fell by the wayside months ago in the outpouring of party support for Nixon.

Although demonstrations generally were orderly, despite high tension at times would marchers confronted police blocked their way, several delegates have officially complained of police laxity.

Necessary British Passports Lacking

MUNICH (AP) — The Rhodesian team, some of its members weeping over the decision, was barred Tuesday from participation in the 1972 Summer Olympic Games scheduled to open Saturday.

The decision by the International Olympic Committee to withdraw Rhodesia's invitation to compete was made in the face of growing pressure from a threatened boycott by African nations and others, including possibly black members of the American team.

The International Olympic Committee voted 36 to 31, with three abstentions, to bar the Rhodesians because they were unable to produce passports showing they are British subjects as stated on their Olympic identity cards.

The decision was announced by Avery Brundage, the militant 84-year-old outgoing president of the IOC who had declared earlier: "The African demand is political blackmail—we will not allow the Olympic principles to be destroyed."

"I can't say I didn't expect this," Bruce Kennedy, a member of the Rhodesian team, said, adding he says, "It's a disturbing situation."

The IOC met 11 hours Tuesday on the boiling issue and then called the leaders of the Rhodesian team to tell them the decision.

The Supreme Council for Sport in Africa had sent a resolution to the IOC Monday night saying the member countries would withdraw if the Rhodesians competed. Cuba later said it would support the Africans, and there were indications that black members of the U.S. teams also would join a boycott.

The Africans maintained that Olympic identity cards had been issued to the Rhodesians without adequate steps being taken to establish their nationality.

News Briefs

Montreal Seeks Loan

MONTREAL (CP) — The city of Montreal is negotiating a loan of about $30 million on the West German bond market and Gerard Niding, executive committee chairman, said Tuesday he expects the city will get a favorable interest rate.

Traffic Resumes

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — CP Rail traffic began moving out of Windsor Tuesday night after being stalled for more than 30 hours by a massive freight train derailment just east of the city Monday. No one was injured.

The crash sent 20 loaded boxcars of the 100-car train careening off the tracks.

Patent Medicines Opposed

QUEBEC (CP) — The Quebec College of Pharmacists said Tuesday that all patent medicines should be withdrawn from the market and that the federal Patent Medicine Act is obsolete.

In a brief presented to a national assembly committee studying proposed legislation on professional groups and medical services, the college said all patent medicines should be scientifically examined for their therapeutic value.

Fight in Valley

SAIGON (CP) — Heavy fighting was reported at the mouth of the Que Son Valley Tuesday.

Officers in the field said South Vietnamese infantry advancing into the valley ran into three North Vietnamese battalions numbering as many as 500 troops.

Blames Auto Pact

OAKVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Provincial Treasurer Darcy McKeough said Tuesday the United States-Canada Auto Pact stands in the way of Canada developing its own auto industry. Mr. McKeough said the pact has been "demonstrably beneficial to Canada's short run interests." But he said it also has the effect of "perpetuation in Canada of domination of the industry by U.S.-owned companies."

15 Slain In Prison Escape

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — An uproar of criticism from demonstrating students and the powerful Peronist party boiled up against Argentina's military government today over the killing of 15 guerrilla prisoners accused of staging their second jailbreak in a week.

The Supreme Council of the Peronists, Argentina's largest political party, called the killings Tuesday "a new violation of human rights" and said it would send its own investigators to the Trelew marine base prison, 700 miles southwest of Buenos Aires.

Other politicians and lawyers for the slain guerrillas referred to the killings as executions and as a massacre.

The Peronist party also said it was sending doctors to care for four wounded survivors and lawyers "to assist other persons in the area deprived of their liberty."

FBI Kills One Robber, Nabs Second at Airport

NEW YORK (AP) — FBI agents shot and killed one alleged bank robber and captured his accomplice today at Kennedy International Airport as the pair prepared to board a private jet for a flight out of the country. Seven hostages they had held for more than 14 hours were unharmed.

The gunmen, one a self-admitted homosexual demanding the release of his male "wife" from a mental ward, had robbed a Brooklyn branch of the Chase Manhattan Bank of $29,000 Tuesday afternoon and then held employees hostage when they were surprised by police while trying to escape.

Police tentatively identified the dead man as Salvatore Naturelle.

In a bizarre drama that stretched through the night, the gunmen negotiated with FBI agents and police on their demands for the plane and a car to take them to the airport. A two-engined Hansa jet was brought to the airport about 2:30 a.m.

At 3:40 a.m., a limousine pulled up in front of the monetary bank and the homosexual, John Wojtowicz, came out of the building with a rifle slung over his shoulder to search the car.

Wojtowicz, who had earlier demanded the release of his male "wife" from a hospital psychiatric ward, surveyed the street, apparently looking for the hidden police sharpshooter.

Satisfied, he got into the car with his accomplice, the hostages and an FBI agent for the driver. With one car in the lead and 10 following, they drove off for the airport, arriving there at 4:45 a.m.

John F. Malone, special agent in charge of the FBI's New York office, told a news conference that his assistant, Richard Baker, walked to the limousine as it reached the plane and talked to the man in it.

While he was talking, the agent driver pulled his gun and fired one shot, fatally wounding one man in the chest. The shooting took place at a remote runway near darkness at the southern end of the main airport.

Malone said the agents recovered from the limousine the $29,000 taken from the bank and three guns, a 22-calibre sawed-off pistol, a shotgun and a 30.06 rifle.

The gunmen originally seized nine hostages but released five bank guard, Calvin Hunt, three hours after the hold up, and left one woman hostage when they drove off with six other women and the bank manager.

Wojtowicz had asked that his homosexual "wife" Ernest Aron, 28, accompany them. Aron was brought to the scene and talked to Wojtowicz but told police he was afraid of him and would not go. "He doesn't love me anymore," he said.

The 13-hour drama at the bank was punctuated by several bizarre incidents. Hysterical friends of Wojtowicz came to visit him at the bank and kissed him as he stood in the doorway while a crowd of hundreds of onlookers cheered.

About 11 p.m., the gunmen got hungry and asked FBI agents to go for pizzas and soda. When they returned, the agents sampled the food before leaving it in the doorway, apparently at the gunmen's directions.

Wojtowicz walked in and out of the bank several times during the drama to confer with police and FBI agents. At one point he sat on the fender of a parked convertible while carrying on negotiations for the car to the airport.

He warned repeatedly that he would shoot the hostages if police stormed the bank.

"The Supreme Court won't let me get away with this. There's no death penalty. It's ridiculous. I can shoot everyone here, then throw my gun down and walk out and they can't get me in the electric chair. You have to have a death penalty. Otherwise this can happen every day."

Hull Sues Chi-hawks

CHICAGO (AP) — Bobby Hull, forger star of Chicago Black Hawks who jumped to higher pay sets of the new World Hockey Association, filed a counter suit Wednesday in Federal Court against the Black Hawks and the National Hockey League.

Hull, defendant in a suit filed Friday by the Black Hawks alleging he violated his Hawk contract with the Chicago club, charged the Black Hawks and the NHL with monopolizing professional hockey.

The counter suit by the high-scoring hockey star charged that the reserve clause of the NHL contracts violates the Sherman Anti-Trust Act.

Turner Defends Grants to Firm

TORONTO (CP) — Finance Minister John Turner Tuesday night defended government grants and tax incentives to business, which have been under attack from NDP leader David Lewis on the charge they are used to fatten corporate profits.

Mr. Turner, speaking at a Liberal nomination meeting in Toronto Parkdale, said the concessions are needed to provide jobs for Canada a growing work force.

Terror Stalks Ireland by Night

BELFAST (AP) — The shadowy gunmen that prowl the Ulster night brought terror to three victims today.

Police reported two men were wounded when they opened their doors to the 7:2 a.m. knock" and a third was crippled as he took a pre-dawn stroll.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Weather systems in eastern North America have shown little movement during the past day and...this sluggish behavior is expected to continue into Thursday. Shower and thunderstorm activity will be general later today over southern Ontario. Only the extreme north will have sunshine today and Thursday.

Headquarters said one casualty was Protestant, another believed Protestant and the third a Roman Catholic.

All were targets for the deadly prowlers who, police say, have murdered more than 80 persons in the last five months.

The first man to answer the rap at his door during the night was a 60-year old Protestant in Belfast's Crumlin area, police said. When the door was opened a bullet was fired into his leg.

Next it was the turn of a 24-year-old Catholic bartender who had returned from work to his home in the Old Park district. A man who knocked at his door pumped four bullets into him. The bartender was said to be in critical condition.

Just after 3 a.m., gunfire from a speeding car hit both legs of a man in the country town of Lurgen.

A police spokesman said: "He told us he was out for a walk. It's an unusual time to go strolling—but there you are."

If You Get Half Shot in Manitoba You Don't Do It on Full Shots

WINNIPEG (CP) — When you order a drink in licensed premises you can't be sure if you are getting the full shot, and according to J. Frank Syms, chairman of the Manitoba liquor commission, the consumer is being short-changed.

Laboratory testing of shot glasses taken from the General Supply Company in Manitoba showed the actual volumes of the one-ounce level ranged from a low of .91 to a high of .94 ounces, Mr. Syms said Tuesday.

He said the Montreal manufacturer, Dominion Glass, is sending a new shipment of shot glasses to Manitoba.

Mr. Syms said he could think of no advantage to glass companies in having the actual volumes of the glasses less than that marked, and he also hesitated to fault licencees in the province.

"I think they have been accepting the glasses as accurate".

Mr. Syms said he did not know when the glasses were last tested in Manitoba, but they will be inspected more often from now on.

After Oct. 1, all shot glasses in Manitoba must have the inscription: "MLCC approved '73."

Trestle-hopping Swimmers

There's no better way to fight a hot and humid day than a cool dip. From a high place, it's even better. Tuesday afternoon, Danny Parent, of 56 Bentinck Street, Trenton, David Thompson, of 169 Queen Street, Trenton, Larry Scott of Arden, and Richard Hatton of 52 Gould Street, Trenton, displayed their diving skills from the old railway bridge which crosses the Trent River next to the new D. James MacDonald bridge.

Coverage Questioned

PICTON (Staff) — Brockville industrial commissioner Peter Lynn yesterday criticized the news media at an industrial convention here for negative reporting in issues such as the Sandbanks controversy.

Although he confessed he heard or read nothing of environmentalists' protests against quarrying at the Sandbanks by the Lake Ontario Cement Co. Ltd., he rapped the only the negative views expressed.

Mr. Lyons, when told a government study had supported continued quarrying at least for two years, said newspapers would be unlikely to print a report such as this that is "all for it".

Kenneth Mesure, an industrial development officer, asked why the minority protesting the quarrying in Prince Edward received news coverage while the majority supporting it did not make headlines.

County warden Ross Benway suggested protest-rs seemed more vocal than the supporters of the cement plant's operations.

Prince Edward director of economic development William Deggan said supporters of the quarry operations earned action through a delegation of county councillors to Toronto, last spring.

"We didn't want a new industry but we saved one with a job," said Mr. Deggan.

Mr. Lyon expressed doubt that newspapers would lend much coverage to such a positive action.

Blaring Radio Costs Him $50

Anthony Kennedy of Williams St. was fined $50 in court this morning after three neighbors complained about noise from his radio.

In enforcing the rarely used city bylaw 8371 — the nuisance bylaw — Justice of the Peace Arthur Jones ordered Mr. Kennedy about the disturbance a blaring radio can cause.

Girder Balancing

While Michael Powers of 5 Pindall Street, Trenton, balances atop a ladder, working to loosen a piece of bridge girder, fellow workmen below, keep ropes taut on the warped piece of metal. Tuesday, the swing bridge at the entrance to Trenton's downtown district seems to be coming in for an undue amount of the wrong kind of attention.

It all started during the winter.

Trenton Bridge Has Its Troubles

TRENTON (Staff) — The swing bridge at the entrance to Trenton's downtown district seems to be coming in for an undue amount of the wrong kind of attention.

It all started during the winter.

A dump truck laden with snow from street cleaning operations crossed the Dundas Street bridge and unloaded its snowy load.

On the way back over the swing bridge, the truck began to rise. Although the driver was proceeding at a fairly slow speed, the impact of the rising box on the overhead steel crossbeams was enough to seriously damage the truck.

As repair foreman Cliff Simmons of Trenton Machine Tool, Ltd., recalls, "It was fairly well written off." The twisted girders were removed.

This week, workers hired by the town began to replace beams damaged by the dump truck plus several damaged earlier mishaps.

Shortly before noon Tuesday, workmen closed off the bridge, erecting detour signs at both entrances.

Fred Davis, who operates the swing bridge, had just released the wedges which hold the bridge firmly in place for traffic movement, when an unidentified truck driver hastened the detour signs and drove onto the swing portion.

Fred jumped rather hurriedly.

"He nearly lost his hand because of that crazy fool." the foreman said during a break in removal operations.

"You'd think we just put those signs there for fun, the way some people behave."

And then shortly after 2:30 p.m., a worker was climbing a ladder to help knock out several old bolts on the new work, when he struck his head on a jagged piece of metal. The workman, obviously bleeding from a gash on the top of his head, hastily applied a soft hat on his head, and continued working.

He sought first aid shortly after.

Arie Hoofweg, Trenton acting commissioner of works, told The Intelligencer the work of installing new girders is expected to be completed late Wednesday.

Until that time, traffic is being rerouted over the D. James MacDonald bridge. The bridge is left open to traffic during rush hours and at the end of the working day.

Bata Plans Sell-back

BATAWA (Staff) — Batawa is up for sale.

Not all of it, mind you, but much of residential Batawa will be sold once subdivision plans for the township are approved by the ministry of treasury, economics and intergovernmental affairs.

In a meeting of ratepayers scheduled for the community centre here at 7:30 tonight, explanation of a new zoning bylaw for residential section of Batawa will be the priority item and interested parties will have an opportunity to register their views.

The zoning session marks the first of several planned by Grantham township as it moves toward development of a new official plan. Reeve Jack Buch indicates other zoning meetings will follow shortly for the Monitor Road area and Quinte View Heights

Bata Industries, which built about 70 homes as temporary quarters in the 1940s, has decided to tear down many of these older residences and put the lots up for sale. These lots will be consolidated into 42 sites for new homes.

Tonight, these properties will be dealt with and, according to the Sidney report, Bata has made agreements of sale for most, if not all, these.

In many instances two lots will be combined to provide one large single building lot.

Selling these homes here and rebuilding from the ground up marks one of the largest re-development schemes ever launched in the Quinte area.

Jack Bush indicates the zoning of new Batawa will be based largely on existing land uses — where a home stands or stood the ground will be zoned for residential land use.

The reeve adds that the chopping area of Batawa will be permitted to expand with the addition of increased commercial land use. There is no zoning in the community now but it is required as part of the planning process.

Similarly, the subdivision plans now awaiting government approval are prerequisites for sale of lots here as the company divests itself of ownership of a large portion of the township.

Sidney's committee of adjustment has been active, processing land transactions for New Batawa.

Quinte Planning Board staff working on the new official plan for the township, hope all the zoning ground work that begins with consideration of New Batawa this evening can be finished within the next few months as the township can have an official plan in 1973.

LORDC Dead Sept. 30

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

The Lake Ontario Regional Development Council — only 11 years a loyal - provincial exchange — development trends, including the Quinte area — is almost abruptly going out of service.

The shutdown decision — taken last night by LORDC directors in Peterborough — is linked to an Ontario government trend to larger development areas, rather than to councils with fewer, but big agencies.

The move came with a warning from LORDC president Donald W. Rodgers of Stirling, former Hastings County warden, that the new - more agencies indicated by provincial Treasurer Darcy McKeough may be self-defeating.

Instead of the regional councils, made up of local government and public spokesmen, the new creations will be "strongly bureaucratic, mainly comprised of provincial civil servants, with little local information they consider desirable.

This would defeat the spirit of public involvement in development planning for the future desired by the minister, Mr. Rodgers said.

"I firmly believe that decisions today are not reached from local government — by the private sector or — by provincial government - members, but are manufactured by the senior civil servants," claimed Mr. Rodgers.

"And I say this is a most dangerous trend in practice to greater extremes."

LORDC directors decided to date the closeout as close as possible to the end of September.

The move follows recent indications the province would replace the 10 regional development councils across Ontario with five agencies and monitoring larger areas, explained Mr. Rodgers.

Under such a pattern the present LORDC area would be divided. It now covers eight counties: Hastings, Prince Edward, Lennox and Addington, Northumberland, Durham, Victoria, Haliburton and Peterborough. Its local government memberships also include such urban centres as Trenton and Belleville

Mr. Rodgers believed the present LORDC eastern sector would be regrouped into an area reaching to the Quebec border and administered from Ottawa.

Indication of the expansion came from Mr. McKeough this summer at the fourth of Ottawa convention of the Association of Ontario Municipalities.

Just a few weeks before the minister had presented the first phase of a design for development of the LORDC region in memory of the coal oil in Peterborough.

Mr. Rodgers said he couldn't understand how Mr. McKeough could have presented such a report and then "a few weeks later" indicate in Ottawa that the region would be split.

"This appears to me to have been a terrible waste of time and money."

The LORDC president said he agreed with much of what Mr. McKeough had said in his Ottawa speech about redefining the role of regional development councils and the need for more public involvement in decision-making.

Through its membership of both elected municipal politicians and local public spokesmen, the LORDC provided a forum for grassroots discussion on development, which aided evolving government programs.

He denied the role of regional councils tended to duplicate municipal government pro grams.

For Chief Culhane: A Sign of the Times?

Beautiful, Bilingual Belleville

Fire Chief Leo Culhane has a head start if ever bilingualism should become policy on the local government level.

It happened when city watchmaker Andre Mercier, a native of Montreal, made a business call on the chief at the West Moira fire hall.

Mr. Mercier had difficulty finding the entrance from the hall's second floor. He suggested the chief should have it marked with an exit sign.

During a second visit this week, he noted no sign had been posted.

Mr. Mercier went to his brother, Paul, who runs PAI Industries in the city, which, among other items, produces signs.

Within a day he was back at the fire hall with a sign. It spelled out exit — in both French and English. Chief Culhane had it posted immediately.

Grant Ceiling Under Protest

Belleville city council is objecting to new baselines for provincial Community Centres grants.

The issue involves population.

Allocation of such grants in future will be to communities with a maximum 25,000 citizens, council was told Monday in a report from its Recreation - Arena Committee.

The issue was a controversial topic at last week's Ontario Parks Association convention in Belleville. Grants for swimming pools would be based on the new population classification.

Council last night approved a protest resolution to be sent to Ministry of Community and Social Services. Health Minister R. D. Potter, MPP Quinte and other municipalities.

Delegates Debate Committee Makeup

PICTON (Staff) — Prince Edward County's industrial committee possibly should include interested businessmen and industrialists as well as members of county council.

At a three-day industrial seminar which opened here yesterday at Inn On The Bay, Prince Edward county warden Ross Benway suggested the committee could widen its outlook by broadening its membership.

Mr. Benway said county councillors belonging to the industrial committee theoretically support both their constituents and director of economic development, William Duggan.

To win votes, councillors sometimes must veto an industry opposed by their constituents.

If the industrial committee were to include several councillors and businessmen, its strength might be increased.

"Who could be better salesmen?" asked Mr. Benway as he referred to successful industrialists who could serve on the committee with councillors.

One delegate to the convention stressed the merit in naming elected officials to industrial committees since financial expenditures for services frequently are required from municipalities.

Peter Lyon, Brockville industrial commissioner, who conducted one of yesterday's discussions, "The Role of the Community, said in his city "a real hodge-podge" of citizens serve on the industrial committee.

The mayor is Brockville's

35,000 Eligible For New Benefits

Windsor (CP) — About 50,000 persons have applied for benefits under Ontario's new nursing home legislation.

Health Minister Dr. Richard Potter said in a speech Tuesday, that of these, 35,000 were ruled eligible for care in either nursing homes or homes for the aged.

"Ontario now has 476 fully-approved and licensed nursing homes which provide accommodation for 22,402 residents," the minister said in a speech prepared for the convention of the United Senior Citizens of Ontario. This compares with 304 private nursing homes providing 1966 which accommodated only 8,003 Ontario residents, mostly senior citizens.

Dr. Potter's speech was read in his absence by Dr. F. H. Elvingham, head of the health ministry's chronic care service.

Dr. Potter said the new legislation has meant the end of the small boarding house style of nursing homes.

Critics of the plan overlook the fact that nursing homes don't just serve the elderly infirm, but look after the needs of all ages, he said.

"We now have 16 homes in Ontario catering to children and adolescents."

'Stick to Your Guns' County Councillors Told

By MARGARET HAYLOCK

PICTON — The reluctance of planning consultants to incorporate suggested amendments in the official county plan has prompted strong protest from several members of Prince Edward county council.

Councillors voiced disapproval during last night's meeting attended by George Hees, MP Prince Edward - Hastings and James Taylor, MPP Prince Edward - Lennox.

North Marysburg reeve Harold Harrison opened the discussion when he stated councillors consistently are told what cannot be done in examinations of the official plan.

"It looks like the minister is going to rule the roost," he predicted in reference to planning consultants' resistance to councillors' ideas.

"Not only should you have something to say, it is your duty to say it," emphasized James Taylor, who urged councillors to defend their proposals.

He said council is paying the planners for their work and should "call the tune."

Picton reeve Albert Pirolh reinforced remarks concerning problems with planning consultants and observed representatives present at planning board meetings continually quote representatives who are absent.

A member of the county planning board, reeve Pirolh observed councillors' objections to parts of the official plan prompt planning consultants to insist Queen's Park would not approve the suggested changes.

He added other planners may later confer with council and offer "a different story."

Reeve Pirolh said there is dissatisfaction with the presentation of the official plan by planning consultants Marshall, Macklin and Monahagn and with their resistance to proposed amendments.

Mr. Taylor advised councillors to stress what they want to the planners then emphasize it is their job to sell the suggestions.

"If you want the right type of development in Prince Edward, you had better provide for it in your official plan," he said.

Ameliasburg reeve Russell Thompson commented planners convey an impression of "tell us what you want and we'll tell you what you should have."

He also expressed concern for the possibility of an overall plan for Prince Edward existing with LORDC (Lake Ontario Region Development Commission).

Mr. Taylor asserted that such a plan is "like fighting cobwebs," and said he has discussed this rumor with the minister and has been told there is no such plan.

He urged council to create its own design and said he believed in "a strong and viable economy and social fabric within Prince Edward County."

The importance of maintaining a voice in plans for the county also was underlined by George Hees, who remarked councillors know what they want and should receive it, unless there is good reason otherwise.

Mr. Hees observed civil servants "have one thing in common" and suggested it is their desire to run the government. The Prince Edward-Hastings MP noted, "You have to be tough with them." He told council "nothing is as strong as a delegation to a minister, "especially with both the federal and provincial members joining it. With a good pitch like that you can get what you want," he predicted.

Ameliasburg deputy reeve Norman Post said his council had been told any amendments to the township's plan would be "a waste of time" unless they were drawn up by official planners.

James Taylor emphasized because "it's home - made doesn't mean it cannot be submitted or approved."

He told Mr. Post the amendments apparently were not made because "somebody tells you that you can't do it, so you don't do it."

Taylor Pledges Plan's Support

PICTON (Staff) — Prince Edward County's most important considerations involve its official plan and a form of government that will direct the future plan of the county.

James Taylor, MPP Prince Edward - Lennox, last night underlined this statement to county council and suggested "the social, economical and political integrity of Prince Edward as a geographical unit should be maintained".

He said he would advance the county's views at Queen's Park and added it is his job to promote these views as vigorously as possible "in the right places" and to see they are implemented.

Mr. Taylor reminded council when evolving a plan it is important to examine the county's official plan which should emerge from "the the grass roots level".

More Municipal Autonomy Is Goal of Whitby's Mayor

By FARMER TISSINGTON
From The Intelligencer's
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Desmond G. Newman is a tall, soft-spoken businessman from Whitby, Ont., where he is in his seventh term as mayor and his first as president of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities.

Mr. Newman does not look, talk nor act like the popular conception of a revolutionist, but if his fondest dream is realized he will surely qualify for that description. He is the main driving force behind an effort of the 4,600 municipal governments in Canada to have a greater say in their own development. Traditionally and constitutionally, Canada's towns and cities are the creatures of the provincial governments, dependent for much of their financial support and restricted by a myriad of provincial boards and regulations. If Mayor Newman and his colleagues have their way, this concept will gradually change and the municipalities will become, in his words, "an important third voice in government."

The first important step in this transition is to take place late in November when representatives of the federal and provincial governments and the municipalities meet in Toronto. The meeting will be historic because it is the first time all three levels will sit down together for serious discussions of urban problems.

What makes the meeting even more significant is that much of the initial impetus came from the federal government, through Robert Andras when he was the minister of state for urban affairs. The municipalities, through their federation, were more than willing to go along. The road block might have been expected to come from provincial governments which are naturally jealous of the long established master-servant relationship with the municipalities.

But the provinces have been surprisingly co-operative. At the recent provincial premiers' meeting in Halifax the final communique included a statement that the co-operation of all three governments, as illustrated in the forthcoming Toronto conference, was important to orderly urban development and that substantial resources of all three levels were required to meet urban needs.

The premiers' statement was worded cautiously but they may have underestimated the drive and enthusiasm for a totally new relationship as expressed by Mayor Newman. He agrees this first meeting will not produce much in the way of concrete changes. But he is determined that ultimately the municipalities will be allowed a greater voice and more freedom of action in planning their future and solving their problems. In short, he wants to start cutting the provincial-municipal apron strings.

Canadian municipalities now spend 30 per cent of the money spent by all levels of government. Many towns and cities are in deep financial trouble and find they cannot respond adequately to the needs of their citizens, despite constantly higher property taxes. Ten years ago the municipalities raised $6 per cent of the money they spent. Today, despite those tax increases, they raise only 55 per cent and, as a result, their financial independence has been eroded.

The areas of responsibility between the levels of government have become blurred. Some of the major urban problems of pollution, transportation and housing closely involve the provincial and federal governments. Mayor Newman hopes the responsibility for action in each field can be clearly defined and the available financial resources distributed on a more rational basis to achieve agreed-upon priorities.

While it is not yet the official policy of the government, municipalities are looking wistfully at the rising personal and corporate income tax as a possible figure source of new revenue. Whether the federal and provincial governments will allow any portion of those taxes to go as dividends to the municipalities is questionable. But Mayor Newman is getting ready to make a serious try.

An Encouraging Step

One aspect of a liberalized immigration policy that is long in the right direction is Ottawa's decision to allow previously-banned classes of people — those with some handicap or other — to become landed immigrants.

There was the case recently of Italian-born Lirida Di Carlo, 18, a polio victim who now has been granted immigrant status. Hitherto she was allowed to reside in Canada only by reason of a Minister's permit renewable annually. The same applies to epileptics for instance but sometime next year they too, or at least those who are able to function normally with the aid of drugs, will be eligible to become landed immigrants. In addition, other types of physically-handicapped persons will also no longer be barred automatically.

Admittance to Canada will still necessarily depend in these cases on medical reports, but it is encouraging to note that the way is being opened up to a more humane and reasonable policy where these people are concerned.

Earle J. Brant

The death in a highway accident of Earle J. Brant of Deseronto removes from the scene a distinguished member of the Mohawk Indian community and of the Indian people across Canada.

The 46-year-old Mr. Brant was a familiar figure in the Quinte area. He served in the last war with the Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineers and although he had the bearing of a military man his strength lay as much in his quiet yet persuasive demeanour. His work in the Canadian Legion was well known. He was a district commissioner and he was returning from a legion meeting in Hastings when the fatality occurred.

Mr. Brant was admired and respected by a wide circle of friends and associates and as Chief Earl Hill has said, he will be sorely missed.

Handy Seals

"Shooting" or "Hunting" sticks are "old hat" in Britain, for years they have been one means of taking the weight off your feet as they are in Ireland when they are not killing each other. And particularly at the races and outdoor events of all kinds. There is this "stick" with a spike which goes into the ground and you sit on the other end consisting of two semi-circular areas of leather which open out to make a seat of sorts. Here they are rare enough to inspire a Canadian Press photographer of a Scotsman sitting on one at the World Scottish Festival at the CNE and studying his program. The gimmick for Canadians of course is that viewed from the front the bonnie Scot appears to be sitting on thin air.

Living It Up

Tweed's Augustfest seems to have been quite a blast what with a glamorous young lady promotion co-ordinator from a brewery, the beer of course and food and music German-style ,not to mention country and western thrown in. Too bad a lot of us did not know about it; true there was some prior publicity, but only some. It has been a success though at that and we can see that Tweed is onto a good thing.

Soviet Tour

Recently a group of Hamilton high school students visited China. That is a pretty good effort in view of the fact China has been such a closed society for the past couple of decades or so. Now we see that the Wentworth County board of education in that region has approved a three-week tour of the Soviet Union next March. Fifty history students are making the trip and paying the $450 all-inclusive fare themselves. By next summer there will not be any more widely - travelled students in Canada than those of the Hamilton area.

Litter Problem

We have mentioned the clean-up operations being carried out in the weed area where Great St. James Street joins with Stokes Street which in turn runs off Station Street. We hope some attention will be directed towards the slopes near the Church Street end. Driving past the stairways that provide a short-cut to the area around the water lower last week we observed a considerable amount of litter. Let's keep areas like this clean; it is the responsibility of everyone.

Image of 'The Ugly Canadian'

Peterborough Examiner

There's a bitter irony in the fact that the year Americans comprised the biggest group of summertrips to Canada and Americanroism reached thetruth get progressive.

Statistics Canada announced that during the centenary year, the Confederation, 9,966,895 immigrants came to Canada. In 1971, 11,746,000 new Canadians were admitted — 17.5 per cent less than during the previous year, and the 16.5 per cent below the 10-year average.

Of the 121,000 who came to settle here in 1971, 21,366 or 29 per cent were from Britain, a reason which means that, for the first time, more Americans chose to become Canadians than sons and daughters of any other nation.

In 1971, 15,431 people (12.76 per cent) came from Britain, 14,000 people (12.51 per cent) from Portugal, 5,359 people (4.75 per cent) from Italy, 5,225 (4.63 per cent) from India and a surprisingly high number, 3,809 or 4.11 per cent from China.

It's worth noting that 32.26 per cent of the new arrivals were classed as professionals, 16.36 per cent in the manufacturing, mechanical or construction trades, 20.23 per cent in clerical commercial and industrial fields, 10.42 per cent in service trades and only 2.16 per cent were classified as labour.

Today's immigrants are a far cry from those of, say, 50 years ago. . . The crop of 1921 was hardly considered a boon even on the Canadian taxpayer. They sound like people who have been dumped on and unwanted in our society.

Yet, the most hysterical in Calgary a few days ago because of the appointment of an American as city manager. That shows that the American in Canada is becoming the target for a lot of angry Canadians.

But let's not be surprised. The extremist among us only a short time ago painted the United States as a modern hell. They made heroes out of the draft dodgers and deserters who fled to Canada.

They've lately been conducted on a vicious anti-American campaign. This, and the intolerable hostilities resulted in scores of people in this country had not been incriminated. This blanket everything-that-moves attitude could only lead to the type of mass hysteria that exists in Calgary.

Under the steady pressure of propaganda, the anti-Yank mind used to be known for its tolerance and welcome to newcomers, an opportunity to every one regardless of race, creed or colour. It was known as a land of hippies. Or, at least, we are fast developing the Ugly Canadian.

Uganda Flag at Racism

...Ottawa Le Droit: Whether it is whites against blacks . . . groups, racism is still racism.

The solid President Idi Amin of Uganda intends to practise happily have nothing in common with that under-th- his regime.

The vexatious practices are against Asians who were in the wrong to be born in Mexico where their fathers were attracted or driven 70 years ago by a dominant British Empire which needed men to build a railway between Uganda and Kenya.

All that is in the past of course but our acts follow us. British have an obligation towards the descendance of those workers. . . .

This obligation was in creased still more by the Ugandan decision to assign seven ship to Indian-and Pakistanis in Uganda at the time of independence. . . .

Today, authorized by a 1968 law, Britain . . . is asking her associates in the Commonwealth to assume her obligations and honor her engage ments. . . .

Morally the ideal solution would be for the Asians to stay in Uganda. If protected Amin expels them today, it is not because of economic, was-

It Costs More to Barbecue

By DON O'HEARN
From The Intelligencer's
Queen's Park Bureau

The hand that lights the barbecue gets burned at the cash register.

You have undoubtedly heard from your friends in the backyard and patio set that they have been changing their outdoor eating habits this year.

Beef is no longer king of the barbecue. Perhaps it is, but if it is it is a modest distant monarch. Only making an appearance on state occasions such as birthdays, mother-in-law visits and when the master gets boiled at the golf course and rests expansive in the butcher-shop on the way home.

Unusual things have been finding their way to the countr's barbecues. Spare-ribs, of course, ham steaks, chickens, even fish.

Filet mignon in Toronto has been selling for $1.20 a pound and more this season.

Beef generally has gone up 18 per cent on the average for U.S. figure, but ours is is line.) And with this there has been more groping probable than any other factor in our rising cost of living.

The man in the house, or even the lady in the house, will go out and buy a couple of bottles of liquor and not complain.

But let him go up and the complaints are shrill. W have heard them. You may heard them.

You will continue to hear them. For nobody can see one chance of a thousand that the price is going to do any thing but keep going up.

Government is concerned. (Ministers have wives too, and barbecues.) But admits there is little it can do about it.

The first push on beef as far as we are concerned started a few years ago when western farmers got smart.

They had been normal practice for them to breed feeder cattle and sell them to the east for feeding.

But they realized they had the grain to finish them in the west. And they started doing this with the result our eastern beef growers couldn't get feeders.

The government bribe has started various programs to try to encourage breeding of beef cattle at home. But even though they have had some success they can never hope to meet our market.

Even if they did it wouldn't show in the price.

For our price of beef is really being set in the U.S.

When a grower can ship beef to the U.S. he isn't going to sell it cheaper at home.

And the U.S. love affair of beef is so intense and growing so steadily that authorities can't see a happy market through to the year 2000, even though production is increasing.

And imports won't help. For other countries, with affluence are in turn falling to the lure of beef, in Japan, for example, steak is becoming number one face.

With other countries following along the shortage is really world-wide.

They say fish is pretty good barbecued—if you like fish.

Soviet Navy Now The Most Powerful

By JOHN D. HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

The navy which can snap its fingers at all the maritime countries is not the United States Navy and no longer Britain's Royal Navy. It is the Soviet Navy.

This is the judgment of each of the editors of the Seventh issue Jane's All the World's Fighting Ships, that of every major naval power.

Since the Soviet Navy submarine building and modernization programs are aimed to make the Soviet Navy a force of marines and other kinds of naval craft, the world's largest fleet.

The Soviet Navy already has a very considerable degree of dominance over the U.S. Navy. According to the editors, the U.S. navy has about peace-fleet submarines and 213 conventional craft in its fleet. The Soviet Union has 350 nuclear subs in the U.S. Navy and about 435 conventional sub marines.

The gap in the super destroyer-type is overwhelming as well and in favor of the Soviet Union. The U.S. Navy has, presumably in aircraft carriers and appropriations for a 51 billion nuclear powered carrier are expected to be approved by Congress. The Soviet Union is not building aircraft carriers. But her two helicopter carriers are built on a design developed from Western experience with the sale of this kind of vessel to the U.S.S.R.

The Russians, no we surmise had watched the amphibious operations of the U.S. and France at Suez in 1956, and the United States in the Lebanon landings' and came to the conclusion, a carrier so assist soviet troops landings on any coast, and to them than big deep sea carriers.

The Soviet Navy also has a clear superiority in coastal patrol boats, mine sweepers and small destroyers. A sizable number of these have been seen by Western navies because they have been assigned to the navies of the Communist countries which have used them in combat.

These countries include North Korea, North Vietnam and the United Arab Republic for years ago, a radar equipped small destroyer of a type then used, developed in the West, sank an israeli destroyer in the Sinai prior warning. The missaly was launched from a Soviet built motor torpedo boat. Since then there might be more hundreds at sea under the Soviet naval flag.

Soviet naval business, however, is not just a matter of growth for the sake of growing, it is planning to be dominant to meet existing and future naval requirements of the Russian naval strategists see them.

The Soviet heavy, guided missile cruisers have no parallel afloat. They could, if such a terrifying possibility ever came about, fire deadly missiles on pinpoint targets against Israeli cities, from a position 350 miles away in the Mediterranean Sea.

The nuclear missiles of a single American or Russian nuclear-powered submarine is the greatest concentrated firepower on earth. Advanced American and Soviet seaborne nuclear missiles can travel 1,500 miles and hit a pinpointed target.

Many of these horrendous developments of the Russians as newly-arrived men of the sea, have been said before. They should be emphasized again.

Before 1980, the world's greatest navy will be guided by a naval high command in Moscow, not Washington. Soviet Admiral of the Fleet Sergei Gorshkov, author of the maxim: control Soviet seapower, has said no enemy ship is safe from the Soviet Navy.

This is no bluff. He means it and every naval chief in the West knows it.

Focus on the Drug Scene

Kitchener - Waterloo Record

Reports from Ottawa indicate that convictions on drug charges across Canada, were 29 per cent heavier in the first six months of this year than in the same period of 1971. An incurable optimist might choose to see this increase as proof that the drug problem, nation-wide, is lessening.

Statistics are not answers, though. They are bits of evidence to be used in arriving at answers. The fact that convictions are fewer may mean use of several things. It may mean that fewer charges are being laid. It may mean that courts are being more lenient.

It does not, mean, necessarily that fewer people are using drugs. We learn only that fewer people are being accused of, and by, prosecuted.

There is evidence locally that the drug problem is still with us no matter what reports from Ottawa may say. Kitchener police have laid 191 drug charges this year, almost as many as the 207 laid in all of 1971. This cannot be taken as absolute that drug use is increasing in Kitchener; it is much more likely to be evidence that Kitchener police are increasingly vigilant in their efforts to combat the problem.

Two kinds of conviction need to be differentiated in rating on treatment of the drug law. Convicting someone for use or possession is far less serious than getting a conviction on a charge of sale.

Nabbing a pusher and getting him out of business may be an effective as getting 20 convictions for simple possession. Merely counting convictions does not tell us much about the success or failure of efforts to stop drug traffic.

Appreciation of this fact is shown by the policy adopted by Kitchener police when they announced of the drug task. Convicting someone for use or possession is far less serious than getting a conviction on a charge of sale.

"We just want them to help us find the pushers," says Inspector Gerald Armitager, in charge of the morality division.

That is an approach which will accomplish more than any contest to register convictions.

Overseas to Become Sailors

Maurice Smith, skipper of summer training sailing craft Pathfinder welcomes Geir Nordmo, 15-year-old Norwegian, aboard for five-day cruise to Toronto. Geir is one of six young people from Oslo joining Pathfinder at Waupoos, part of exchange program organized by Toronto youth service group.

Norwegian Lads Arrive

WAUPOOS ISLAND (Staff) —Skipper of the STV (Sail Training Vessel) Pathfinder, Maurice Smith, yesterday welcomed aboard six new crew members visiting Canada from Oslo, Norway.

The Norwegian teenagers this month are paying an exchange visit to the Big Brothers of metropolitan Toronto and following arrival at Dorval airport on Monday, their first port of call was Waupoos Island where the Pathfinder is based this summer.

The exchange group includes Per Stenshak, 14, Anstein Larsen, 15, Richard Eriksen, 15, Jan Teffelsen, 15, Geir Nordmo, 15, and John Roterud, 15.

The youths were accompanied by Oslo school teacher Terje Myrdo and chaperone for the Big Brothers, Laura Ferrier.

Ten "Little Brothers" from Canada visited Norway in June on grants from the travel and exchange branch of the department of the secretary of state, Ottawa, and the cultural and educational exchange branch of the Ontario department of education.

The six Norwegian boys traveling in Canada this month will sail to Toronto on a five-day cruise aboard the Pathfinder and will be met there by their hosts (Little Brothers) and representatives of the Nordic Society, the agency (Big Brothers of metro Toronto) and Toronto Brigantine Incorporated.

It was observed the boys are younger than most international exchange travellers and come from low income homes. They are not chosen because of any outstanding achievements but because they will benefit from such an experience and meeting people in another country.

In Toronto, the Norwegian youths will live in the homes of Little Brothers who will join them in a five-day program of activities

On Friday, September 1, the group will leave for Ottawa to tour the capital and continue to Quebec City for a two-day visit in French Canada. The boys will return to Montreal on Sept. 3 for a day of sightseeing and a visit to Man and His World before their return flight to Oslo.

Two Marmora Chiefs Meet

MARMORA (Special) — Fire Chief George Totten of Marmora, New Jersey, stopped in at the Marmora Herald Office for a brief visit last Thursday afternoon to purchase a souvenir newspaper.

Mr. and Mrs. Totten and their two children camped over the weekend at Glen Alan Park on Crowe Lake but were leaving to continue their vacation.

The population of Marmora, New Jersey, is about the same, Mr. Totten said, but is spread out over a larger area. He also noted a difference in the way Marmora is pronounced in the two places — we put the emphasis on MARM-or-a and they pronounce it Mar-MOR-a.

Like our own fire chief Cec. Neal, Mr. Totten commands a department of volunteers and the two men spent some time together comparing notes.

When leaving, Chief Totten extended an invitation to anyone in Marmora, Ontario, to look him up if they are in the neighborhood of Marmora, New Jersey.

Pilgrimage Sunday

The oldest church in this area will hold its annual commemorative service Aug. 27 at 3 p.m.

The annual pilgrimage to historic Old Hay Bay Church on Hay Bay, just north of Adolphustown, will be led by Rev. W. Joseph Price, executive secretary of the Bay of Quinte Conference of the United Church of Canada.

The old church was built in 1792 and is the oldest church belonging to the United Church of Canada. It is maintained as a historic site and is open to visitors for about 10 weeks each summer.

Rev. Glenn Lucas, archivist-historian of the United Church will be guest speaker for the pilgrimage service and Rev. William Lamb of Holloway Street United Church in Belleville will lead the music.

City Wants Donation Returned

Belleville is officially writing the RCAF Memorial Fund that it either wants some project at Canadian Forces Base Trenton or its money back.

The no-nonsense tone was struck in a letter signed by Mayor Russell Scott and approved by city council Monday, addressed to fund chairman Air Marshal C. R. Dunlap, Ottawa.

The ambitious memorial — once planned for Trenton as a dramatic architectural showcase and tribute to Canada's aviation achievements — foundered when its appeal failed to financially stir Canadians.

But among early contributors were Quinte - area local governments, including the city, Trenton, Hastings County and Sidney township.

Spokesman for these municipalities already have discussed their contributions at a meeting. Mayor Scott's letter tells Air Marshal Dunlap.

Such contributions were made with taxpayers' money on a "commitment" the memorial be built at Trenton, says the mayor's letter.

"It is my feeling, and the feeling of our council, that any deviation from an edifice built at CFB Trenton would be a public breach of confidence," it adds.

It requests "very strongly" that the cash balance in the fund be used to construct an edifice at CFB Trenton, "in keeping with the funds available." It concludes: "Alternatively, we have no other course of action than to request a return of the contributed funds to our municipality."

Helen Gagen Reports — LATE-SUMMER MEAT BUYS

Because barbecue meats are still top priority, roasts are lower-priced right now than corresponding broiling cuts, and probably less expensive than they will be during cold months to come. Consider freezing some when you see good buys.

Fresh local lamb is in season and prices should decrease between now and the end of September.

Chicken and turkey will continue to be excellent buys. Remember the particular economy of utility grade chicken, turkey and Cornish hens. They may lack a wing or drumstick, but most conform to government grade A or B standards - and they're very low priced.

Bailey – Bell

Tabernacle United Church, Belleville, was the scene of the recent double ring ceremony of Janice Ellen Bell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Bell, Belleville, and David John Bailey, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Bailey, Belleville. Rev. L. Dean officiated at the ceremony and organist was Mr. C. Templer.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a dress of nylon sheer over taffeta in an all-over embroidered applique accented with lace daisies. The empire bodice, bordered with a wide band of ribbon at the waistline featured a stand-up collar and long lily point sleeves with a fine edging of lace tatting. The same tatting in a square shape, formed a yoke effect on the front and back. The slightly A-line skirt flowing to the floor was re-embroidered lace and daisies, as the bodice, and was finished with three rows of the same tatting at the hemline and formed a demi-belle chapel train. Her headpiece was a chapel cap cut out design of tiny lace appliqued daisies centred with miniature seed pearls. The four-tier silk illusion scalloped veil was caught at the back with a white satin ribbon to match the waistline of her gown. She carried a cascade of white roses and stephanotis.

Maid of honor, Miss Wendy Bell, twin sister of the bride, wore a floor-length gown of chiffon in a soft shade of Nile green. The empire bodice was enhanced with a stand-up collar and full sheer sleeves with elasticized cuffs. A wide border of lace filligree around the collar and waistline and down both sides of the front formed a bolero effect. The softly gathered skirt was caught at the front with a matching satin bow. She wore a wide-brimmed picture hat of the same shade. Her bouquet was a colonial cluster of yellow-centred daisies and pink sweetheart roses.

The bridesmaids, Miss Valerie Bell, sister of the bride, Miss Judith Bailey, sister of the bridegroom and junior bridesmaid Miss Barbara Bell, sister of the bride, were attired identically to the maid of honor, but in a shade of soft butter-up yellow. They also wore picture hats to match their gowns. The junior bridesmaid wore a ringlet of daisies in her hair.

The best man was Ronald Mains, Belleville, ushers were Donald Grant and Michael Bell, brother of the bride.

For the wedding reception, held at Four Seasons Hotel, the bride's mother received the guests wearing an apricot tunic dress of polyester with self-embroidered bodice and softly rolled neckline over a knife-pleated skirt. Complementing the dress she wore a beige-colored orchid. The bridegroom's mother chose a coral dress of polyester crimp which featured a V-neck and a box-pleated attached skirt, complemented with a beige colored orchid corsage.

For the motor trip to points west, the bride chose an ensemble of Kelly green and white polka dot in Arnel. The dress featured no sleeves and a high collar with A-line skirt. The blousson jacket featured long sleeves with white collar and cuffs and a self-button closing down the front.

The couple will reside in Belleville.

MR. AND MRS. DAVID JOHN BAILEY

Marshall – Fleming

Trinity Anglican Church, Frankford was the scene of the recent wedding ceremony when Linda Mae Fleming, of Calgary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Fleming of RR 2 Frankford exchanged vows with William Albert Marshall of Calgary, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Marshall, RR3, Belleville. Rev. Charles Staples was the officiating clergyman. Mrs. Wayne Garrison was soloist with accompaniment by Christopher Rose, the organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, selected a sleeveless empire waisted gown of delustred satin, featuring a round neckline and stand-up collar which was trimmed with blue ribbon threaded through white lace. The veil which had one layer of tulle was trimmed similarly to the neckline of the dress and was gathered with blue satin flowers at the top. She carried a nosegay of white daisies with long blue streamers.

The maid of honor, Miss Sharon Sweet, wore a royal blue flowered crepe gown with an empire waistline. Her gown was enhanced by short bouffant sleeves and a stand-up collar. She carried a white basket of daisies and pink carnations. Bridesmaids, Miss Wendy Bulloch and Miss Jane Rose, were dressed identically to the maid of honor.

For the reception held at the Legion Hall, Frankford, the bride's mother received guests wearing a blue flowered taffeta dress with a light blue chiffon coat complemented by long bilioued sleeves with cuffs. A blue orchid corsage completed her ensemble.

The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a mauve crimplene dress trimmed with sequins and rhinestones around the stand-up collar. A matching long sleeved coat enhanced her dress.

For the wedding trip to Quebec City and Vancouver, B.C. the bride donned a white fitted dress with front pleats and anchors around the stand-up neck edge. A red rose corsage completed her outfit.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall will reside at 916 Memorial Dr. N.W., Apt. 302, Calgary, Alberta.

Family Reunion

REID CLAN

BONARLAW — The descendants of the late Theodore and Ellenore Reid held their annual reunion at Cobourg Park recently with a good attendance of family members. A potluck dinner was enjoyed by all. Guests were in attendance from Bonarlaw, Stirling, Peterborough, Marmora, Campbellford, Kingston, Sudbury, Port Hope, Toronto, Long Branch and Scarborough. It was decided to hold the next picnic at the same place in 1973.

First Cousins--Go Ahead and Marry

A prominent pediatrician says that first cousin marriages are not as hazardous as once thought. The geneticists have been doing some studying in this area.

What the expert does is take a thorough family history, as thorough as parents and grandparents will make it. (Sometimes there is a surprising reluctance to reveal details.) Anyway, they have found this out:

Although first cousins who marry share one-eighth common gene between them, abnormalities from a first cousin relationship are not as numerous as we used to think. The researcher said, "Many of us do not discourage a marriage of this sort any more."

It seems that one out of every 40 children born has a chance of having some abnormality, regardless of any possible family relationship.

Dear Doris: I read where one girl said her mother always read your column but never paid any attention to it. If it was to the mother's advantage she would make the girl read it; but never the other way around.

We have the same thing in our house, except that I am a boy and it is my father who quotes you when he cares to, and considers what you say just "a lot of rot" when it backs up some point I have been trying to make with him.

You tell us we should communicate with our parents. What do you think about this kind of communication? — Turned Off

Dear Turned Off: That it is a frustrating one-way affair. You must feel the way I do sometimes when I want to talk back to the minister in church or to the fellow on the TV who presents only one side of an argument. It leaves you helpless and wanting to throw something.

You have a right to be listened to. If Dad doesn't respect your ideas, what chance has he to make a contribution to your own independent thinking?

Dear Doris: I have written a thank you to the very kind reader who went to the bother of having the hymn "I'd Rather Have Jesus photostated for me. So now I have it as though it were in a hymn book.

Doris this is a very small world. I find that this reader has a friend, a dear old lady who is also a friend of mine—though we are all three many miles apart.

The reader was excited to hear from me and to know whether her words reached me. We both feel as if we have made a new friend.

Keep up the good work. Enclosed is my delayed dollar to help in the postage and research you do to help us all. —Maricee

Dear Maricee: You have made my day. But isn't it simply tops the way one open-hearted Canadian will go to the trouble of supplying some destined item to a perfect stranger? My constant delight.

* * *

Leaflets mentioned by Doris are available to readers for 20 cents and a large eight-cent-stamped self - addressed envelope unless otherwise specified.

Matter of Your Mind

by JOHN CONWELL

YES! and some parents would think there was something wrong with their child if he or she did not show some displeasure at having to share "center billing" with the newcomer. Concerned parents, however, make sure the 1st knows all about the new baby, and when the infant is about to come home, Mother and Father see to it that the older child feels he or she is a full functioning member of the family as they all make the new baby welcome.

Can logic satisfy disiparate anger?

YES, if a person has such control over his emotions that he can, during the "eye" of his storm of anger, remove out his position. First he must judge the value of his reaction to whatever made him angry; then he must weigh the consequences of the various courses open to him. Sometimes an irate individual might spend very much time and energy working out his problem that he feels his attempt to resolve it with logic does indeed dissipate his anger.

Do home appliances aid a marriage?

YES, if the husband and wife take advantage of time and energy saved from doing household chores. A dishwasher, for instance, isn't doing much good if the husband who used to help his wife clean up after a meal, uses the saved time to watch an extra T.V. program, alone. It can help however, if the husband and wife resolve to make their marriage work better now that they are freed from a daily chore. Let logic be one or both of them chained to the kitchen sink.

Closed Circuit TV Used At Kemptville

Thirteen Dairy Princesses from Eastern Ontario used the closed circuit television facilities in an intensive one-day course in communication and dairying at the Kemptville College of Agricultural Technology recently.

Special instructors for the workshop were T. G. Meagher and B. P. Wren of the college radio staff, as well as W. B. Derry, Regional Supervisor from the Dairy Commission

John Clark and Harold McKnight of the extension division were in charge of the video taping.

The Kiwanis Club of Manotick sponsored the workshop in preparation for the Ontario Dairy Princess Competition at the Canadian National Exhibition later this month (August).

A steak barbecue and lobster boil for the princesses, instructors and the club was held at Graham Reeves' home near Manotick following the day of intensive instruction.

Candidates attending the workshop represented 11 Eastern Ontario Counties.

Ann Landers

Poem on Recipe Substitution

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you printed a letter from a woman who was furious because her best friend had given her a recipe that called for 24 cups of ingredients and the casserole was a failure. She considered it a crummy trick and said: "If a perso doesn't want to give a recipe, she should say so and not dream up something that is sure to fail."

I ran across a verse that I like to dedicate to "Betrayed In Birmingham":

She didn't have potatoes
So she used a cup of rice.
She couldn't find paprika
So she used some other recipe.

Tomatoes weren't in season
So she used tomato paste.
The whole can, not a cup, dear—
She couldn't bear to waste.
And now she isn't speaking;
She's convinced I pulled a fast one.

So don't ask for my recipe,
That one was the last one.

Dear Friend: Women who give recipes should attach a note: "No substitution or this recipe could be injurious to our friendship."

Dear Ann Landers: For several years I worked in the immaculate and well-equipped place. I decided to change jobs (before) benefiting. On the day I was shocked by the dirt and the condition of the equipment. After a month I couldn't stand it so I returned to my original place of employment.

Two years later another opportunity opened up. I applied and was pleased with the beautiful offices where I filled out the forms. It never occurred to me to look at the shop. On the following Monday I was amazed to discover that I had signed up for Pig Pen No. 2.

I was ashamed to ask for my old job back so I stayed on. Three years later I was promoted to a satellite plant 25 miles away. Would you believe Pig Pen No. 3.

My question is this: Should a boss offer to show a prospective employee the area where he will be working or should the applicant ask to see it?—Mr. Clean.

Dear Mr. C.: If the boss does not offer to show a prospective employee the working area, the applicant should ask to see it. This isn't bad manners, it's common sense. No employer should be offended by such a request.

Dear Ann Landers: I have been married seven years to a swell guy who says he loves me more than anything in the world and I believe him. I have no evidence that he has ever cheated on me. In fact, I would never give it a thought except for one thing. I keep finding names, addresses and telephone numbers in his pockets. When I ask him what gives, he says: "Oh that." The guys at the plant keep offering to fix me up and I don't want to hurt their feelings by telling them I'm not interested." Then he throws the slips away. What do you make of it?—Iffy Soo.

Dear Iffy: Tell your husband you trust him completely, but ask that he find slips of paper in his pockets with names and numbers it upsets you and that he should be more "concerned about your feelings than the feelings of the guys at the plant.

Dear Ann Landers: Should a woman be expected to sacrifice her life for her mother-in-law? My husband's mother moved in with us last October. She has other children but no one else would take her. The entire burden fell on us.

I haven't been to a movie, a church meeting, or out for a meal in six months. I feel as if I am going stir-crazy. Sometimes I get a shortness of breath and a fear that the world is closing in on me. Being bemused in and tied down is new to me. I've always enjoyed complete freedom. I can't take much more. For God's sake help me.—Shut In With A Shut-In Is Green-wood, Miss.

Dear Shut-In: For God's sake help yourself. Phone her other children and tell them what afternoons and evenings of the week they can come and sit with their mother, take her to their homes or pay a sitter. If you haven't the courage to do it, accept the fact that you enjoy being a martyr and bwitcher beelin'.

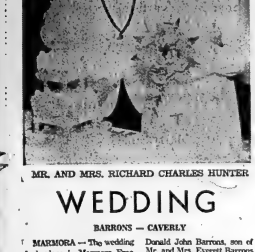
Hunter — Booth

Christ Church, Belleville was the setting for the recent marriage ceremony, when Gail Marlene Booth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Booth, Belleville was united in marriage to Richard Charles Hunter, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Hunter, Belleville and the late Mr. J. Hunter. Canon R. B. Wright officiated at the double ring ceremony and traditional organ music was rendered by church organist John Withers.



Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full length gown of white polyester crepe accented with Alencon lace. The fitted bodice adorned with ribbon effect lace featured a high neckline trimmed with matching lace as were the long full sleeves with fitted cuffs. Her four-tier elbow length veil was caught to a floral headdress studded with tiny pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink sweetheart roses mingled with baby's breath and fern.

Mrs. Barbara Booth, sister-in-law of the bride as matron of honor wore floor length gown of mauve chiffon in empire style with the waistline trimmed with white lace and mauve satin ribbon. Bridesmaid Mrs. Fran Trembley was attired identically to the matron of honor and both carried nosegays of whites and pale lilac baby blooms.

Donald Kleinsteuber attended the bridegroom and the usher was William Trembley.

A reception was held at the Sun Lack Gardens where the bride's mother greeted the guests wearing a soft blue coat and dress crimpknit ensemble with beige accessories and a corsage of yellow carnations. The bridegroom's mother chose a navy and white crimplene dress with white accessories and a corsage of red carnations.

Leaving on the honeymoon trip to Vancouver, B.C., the bride donned a two-piece ensemble consisting of flowered silk jersey top with white pleated skirt and white accessories.

WEDDING

BARRONS — CAVERLY

MARMORA — The wedding took place in Marmora Free Methodist Church on Friday evening, Aug. 11 when Rev. G. W. Kemp united in marriage Judy Rose, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rae Caverly, RR 1, Marmora, and Donald John Barrons, son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Barrons of RR 1, Marmora.

The bride wore a short white lace dress with long sleeves and shoulder-length veil. She carried a nosegay of red roses.

Her only attendant, Miss Cathy McFall wore a dress identically styled to the bride's but in powder blue, and also carried a nosegay of pink carnations.

Best man was Doug Meikle-john of Campbellford.

After a reception at the home of the bride's parents, the couple left on a trip to North Bay. On their return the couple will reside at RR 1, Marmora.

She Tracks Down Old Shares

MONTREAL (CP) — If you want to know whether those old shares your grandfather left you have any value, then Micheline Masse is the girl for your.

For a flat fee of $10, Miss Masse, president of Stock Market Information Service, will undertake to track down old shares and securities issued anywhere in the world since 1850. If she is unable to come up with anything, you get your money back.

Miss Masse explains that many people inherit old stock certificates, or years ago purchased stock they have since lost track of.

"They want to know the value of their piece of paper and there's only service in Canada that can help them find out."

Corporate mergers and name changes occurring at a rate of about 7,000 a year in Canada and the United States means that old stock could be of value under a new name.

For example, one of Miss Masse's satisfied customers had lost track of an oil stock and thought it had gone down the drain. Miss Masse found the company had become part of Dome Petroleum and the customer's stock certificate was worth $20,000.

Although many old stock certificates turn out to be worthless, Miss Masse said her company so far has recovered about $325,000 for inquirers.

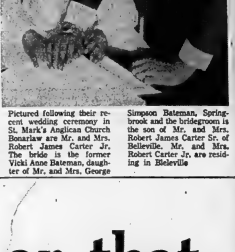
"There's no exact figure on that because people don't always tell us what they got for their certificates from the company and if they do, it's often a round figure and lower than the real value."

The business, which was started about three years ago, grew out of her husband's hobby of collecting antiques, including old stock certificates.

"As a researcher, he was keen to know whether they had any value, but the work began to occupy a lot of his time and he suggested that I take it up."

Now her husband, Joseph Boneau, a security analyst, grandson reaped the benefits of has left his job with a brokerage firm to join the family business as vice-president.

Operating out of an office in back so 1850, she once, re-Montreal, the service receives searched a stock certificate about 150 inquiries a week and dated 1838 that turned out to most of its 5,000 customers to have no value except as an heirdate have been from the United loom.



States.

The earliest stock issued traced which had any value was certificates as collectors' items, an 1888 Panama Canal Co. bond although there is a limited marissue that featured a lottery ket in the United States. drawn annually until 1971.

"However, certificates usually

"A Toronto inquirer's grand- don't bring much—25 cents to $2 father had won $1,000 in the lot- —when sold as collector's items tery. In 1948 he died without unless they are a limited or knowing of his good luck. His race issue."

Miss Masse said there is no market in Canada for old stock

Pictured following their recent wedding ceremony in St. Mark's Anglican Church Bonarlaw are Mr. and Mrs. Robert James Carter Jr. The bride is the former Vicki Anne Bateman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Simpson Bateman, Springbrook and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert James Carter Sr. of Belleville. The Experts Say

Boredom Worse Than Work Stress

MONTREAL (CP) — Relief from the strains of city living lies not in shorter working hours and more leisure time but in taking on stress with enjoyment, says Dr. Hans Selye, director of the University of Montreal's Institute of Surgery.

"People suffer as much from boredom and lack of activity as they do from emotion-training energy or something from which they drive no satisfaction," he said in an interview.

"Man is made to work, to do something that makes demands on him," Dr. Selye said. "With the decline of so many other values such as religion and nothing new to replace them, work is one of the few areas where man can find a sense of worth and enjoyment."

But too often work is a source of frustration and insecurity, just something else to put up with like traffic congestion, pollution and violence.

The root of this frustration is the depersonalization of the individual and the loss of pride in individual accomplishment.

"Sure, we're technologically more efficient but in the process we have lost personal contact," Dr. Selye said. "What's the good of the end product—efficiency—if everyone's unhappy?

"I don't know my student any more. With audio-visual aids and bigger classes today, students are only faces whereas when I started teaching I knew everyone by name."

Efficiency in industry also took its toll.

"Formerly a craftsman would make a table from beginning to end and get a great deal of satisfaction," Dr. Selye said. "Today, one person makes the legs, another the top and still another paints so that no one person has made the article and no one is gratified."

Dr. Selye said the most important thing is to avoid the dulling monotony of such jobs and to determine what you really want to do.

"Too many people blindly accept status symbols such as owning a car and put up with a job they probably don't really want to do to gain them. They may get the car but also years of pent-up tension and no real feeling of accomplishment."

Dr. Selye said people should do what is natural to them and carefully choose an outlet for whatever creative talents they have.

"There's just as much satisfaction in being a brick-layer and building walls well as there is in being a scientist," he said. "Everybody, no matter how low he may be in the scale of mental development, has something to give, something that he wants to express, some valve for letting off his steam."

The key at every level was to know your own limits not create mental obstacles for which you would only waste energy.

"You can't chest yourself by doing less than you are capable of," Dr. Selye said. "But you also can't take on more than you can handle with satisfaction because you think society or someone else expects this of you.

"Do what you think is worthwhile—that is enough."

Former City Residents Wed for 60th Years

Residents of Belleville for 40 years, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur May now living in King City, Portland, Oregon were honored at a reception in King City town hall recently on the occasion of their 60th wedding anniversary.

The Mays were married in Chicago on June 11, 1912. They resided in Aurora, Illinois before moving to Belleville.

The honored guests have four children, two sons, Arthur Jr. of Lake Oswego and Bruce of Belleville; and two daughters, Mrs. Lloyd Holloway of Kelso, Washington and Mrs. Maurice Lipton of Kelowna B.C. who had arranged the special event in honor of their parents.

For the occasion, the same guest book which had been used at the reception 60 years ago was used.

Spassky's Seconds Suggest Hall Be Checked for Devices

REYKJAVIK (AP) — One of Boris Spassky's seconds suggested Tuesday the American camp might be using electronic devices and chemical substances in the playing hall to damage the title holder's play in his title match with Bobby Fischer.

In a printed statement, Efim Geller said the champion's failure to play up to his usual standard and American visits to the playing hall at night, among other things, appeared to point to "such seemingly fantastic suppositions."

He urged match organizers to make a thorough examination of the hall with the assistance of "competent" experts.

Geller said Fischer's temperamental behavior throughout the match had been "deliberately aimed at exercising pressure on the opponent," unbalancing him and making him lose his fighting spirit.

Fred Cramer, a Fischer aide, said the Soviet accusations were "garbage" designed to justify the champion's 6½-2½ deficit.

Dieppe Disaster Said Result Of Disciplinary Night Alert

LONDON (CP) — Some of the German troops who decimated the Canadians at Dieppe had been "living it up" in the town and once a week were put on all-night alert to remind them there was a war on, says a BBC television documentary marking the 30th anniversary of the doomed raid.

That fatal night happened to be August 18-19, and the result was the massacre at Blue Beach, east of Dieppe, when the Royal Regiment of Canada assault force was mown down by machine gun fire from the cliffs.

Tony Broughton, writer and producer of the hour-long documentary, Dieppe 1942, shown here Tuesday night, told reporters that a preview of the program "exploded the myth" that the Germans were expecting an Allied assault. German war archives supported this, he said.

Broughton said the German defenders, the 302nd Division, were composed largely of "old reservists—more or less the equivalent of Britain's home guard—with only about 40 per cent having seen active service."

"It all proves how impregnable their position was," he added.

Earl Mountbatten, who appeared in the program recalling his role as chief of combined operations, said security was extra strict, all arrangements for the raid were made verbally and even Mountbatten, First Lord of the Admiralty, knew nothing of the final plans "until he saw it in the newspapers."

Mountbatten said the plan had originally been for an all-British force of Royal Marines and commandos, but "the Canadians had been champing at the bit and for political reasons I was ordered to use the Canadians instead of the Royal Marines."

The operations chief recalled what a "great shock" he had when he saw the casualty figures, particularly the small number of Canadians who returned. His first thought was that the missing men must all be dead—it was "a great relief" to learn that many had been taken prisoner.

The documentary, made partly in color with contemporary photographs of the carnage, conveyed a sense of doomed bravery on the part of the 5,000 Canadians and 1,000 British troops without apportioning blame.

Producer Broughton said the aim was to let the controversy speak for itself, and the commentary noted that Dieppe "was a failure but also a success."

Mountbatten said Dieppe helped ensure the success of the Normandy invasion two years later.

CHARING CROSS ROAD — Helene Hanff

Years of warm friendship are delightfully preserved in this correspondence between an outgoing American writer and a reserved English bookseller.

FAMILY PORTRAIT — Catherine (Drinker) Bowen

A candid, objective, yet warm appraisal of a distinguished Pennsylvania family, its prowess and its failings, by one of its gifted members.

THE HIDDEN FOREST — Sigurd F. Olson

An ecological viewpoint of nature and the seasons is revealed in exquisite color photographs and sensitive prose.

IN THIS SIGN — Joanne Greenburg

Like immigrants in a strange culture, deaf parents and their daughter struggle to find meaning in the "hearing" world.

LOOKING FOR DILMUN— Geoffrey Biby

Intriguing narrative of the 15-year quest for Dilmun, a lost, ancient civilization, rivaling the achievements of Egypt and Babylon.

MEMORIES — Sir Julian Sorell Huxley

Born into a family of exceptional scientific and literary talent, this eminent biologist has proved a worthy scion as these far - ranging reminiscences testify.

MRS. WALLOP — Peter de Vries

One relishes Mrs. Wallop's triumphs over Momism, hippies, the "arts" set, and other aspects of modern life at which the author pokes a barbed pen.

MY FATHER'S HOUSE — Philip B. Kunhardt

In this beautifully written memoir the author, who is recuperating from a heart attack, has time to think about and appreciate his memorable childhood.

A NICE PEACE TO VISIT — Hugh Garner

Murder in a small Ontario town; a seasoned reporter sets out to discover the truth, on his life's last assignment.

NO LANGUAGE BUT A CRY — Richard D'Ambrosio

The long and painful rehabilitation of a disfigured and brutalized child who, totally withdrawn, refused to speak.

Work on Data from Moon Just Starting

MONTREAL (CP) — The moon may be getting a little passe as far as astronaut space travel is concerned, but the real work on the scientific data is only just beginning, delegates to the International Geological Congress were told Tuesday.

Papers showed that earth scientists are as interested as space researchers on what is coming back from satellites, Skylabs, Mariner probes to Mars, international docking projects involving the United States and Russia and forthcoming flypasts of Venus, Mercury and the rest of the planets. Information on the secrets of the universe may help solve practical earth problems.

Dr. G. V. Latham, professor of geophysics at the University of Texas and principal investigator for the United States' Apollo seismic experiments, said Tuesday the moon landing programs now are reaching a peak in terms of scientific investigations and this will continue to provide work for at least two more years.

"I'm willing to go on to Mars and Venus, try the same experiments there and then come back and get a new perspective on the moon," Dr. Latham told newsmen.

Apollo 17, the last of the planned U.S. manned moon missions, is scheduled for December, and Dr. Rocco Petrone, Apollo program director, told a news conference he doesn't expect any more U.S. manned moon visits for at least 10 years.

Drs. Latham and Petrone were two of five panel members from National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), who described for delegates from 107 countries just what geological findings the Apollo missions have made about the moon.

Dr. Latham said seismic movements monitoring equipment on the moon has indicated there are regular monthly shocks or "moonquakes" that occur about 800 to 1,000 kilometres under the moons surface. These are apparently solid surfaces.

He also described other new data, including indications that the moon's crust extends about 60 kilometres.

Apollo astronauts Dave Scott and Tom Mattingly described their observations of the moon's geophysical features and how they had collected the rock samples that many of the scientists attending the sessions have since had opportunities to examine.

Earlier, the same section of the congress on planetology had discussed what is known about Mercury. Dr. Robert Strom of the lunar and planetary laboratory at the University of Arizona said what little information is known indicates it is composed of about 65 to 70 per cent metals.

HEALTH STUDY

QUEBEC (CP) — The Quebec government has granted $676,182 to various health institutions, hospitals and universities for 46 research programs in public health.

Will Serve People, Instead of Government

Information Canada Tiptoes Through Publicity's Barnyard

OTTAWA (CP) — Information Canada is treading a more careful path through the barnyard of government publicity, hoping to keep its boots clean from now on.

The agency wants to avoid more of the flops that have raised a stink in Parliament and the press.

Tom Ford, one of three members of the 1969 information study that recommended establishment of Information Canada and now its director of planning, said Tuesday there is a substantial change in approach under way.

"The old approach was that Ottawa is misunderstood by the people of Canada, so we better go out and tell them how great we are—basically that was the notion."

Recalling the mod posters and pamphlets that marked Information Canada's debut, he said:

"We've made mistakes, and some of the stuff we've done in the past has been a little dumb."

The agency now is cutting back on its ambitions and operations, said Mr. Ford, and trying to make itself serve the public instead of the government.

He said Information Canada is reversing the process of centralizing information services in itself and is trying to give people the information they need and want instead of handing them government publications.

Field offices are interviewing people across the country, he said, and will come back to tell the government departments what kind of information is needed and how to give it.

"Instead of installing a lot of our own programs and going out and doing our own thing, what we're doing is turning around and trying to be more useful to the departments and more useful to the public, not necessarily in that order," he said.

There are about 66 federal information officers located outside Ottawa, compared with more than 1,000 in the capital itself. Information Canada is hoping to provide a better balance, said Mr. Ford.

"We're really switching into a field operation—that is really the change in emphasis."

Self-unloader

Canada's largest self-unloading vessel, the J. W. McGiffin, unloads iron ore pellets at dock of Hamilton, Ont., steel company. It took six hours to unload 31,000-tons of pellets, one-fifth of the time it would take to unload the cargo by the conventional overhead crane method. The vessel has a conveyor system containing more than 4,000-feet of belting. It traverses the ship under the hold, picks up the ore, lifts it topside and dumps it from the end of a 252-foot boom. Full Inquiry Ordered Of Escape of Convicts

MONTREAL (CP) — The federal government has ordered a "full and complete inquiry into all circumstances" of Monday's escape by six prisoners of St. Vincent de Paul maximum security institution in nearby Laval.

Police said Tuesday their search for five of the men still at large was continuing but had produced no leads. The sixth escapee was captured shortly after the break.

"We are still checking all our sources and our files, on the prisoners but it's very quiet, there are no leads," a Quebec Provincial Police spokesman said.

Solicitor-General Jean-Pierre Goyer Tuesday ordered the inquiry, which is to begin today, to submit a report as soon as possible.

Chairman of the three-man commission will be L. P. Landry, regional director and chief prosecutor for Montreal. Also named to the commission were Inspector P. Banning of the RCMP and J. B. Maurice, acting director of St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary.

Jean-Paul Mercier, 28, Michel Lafleur, 23, Andre Ouellette, 32, Robert Imbeault, 23, Jacques Masrine, 35, and Pierre Vincent, 27, escaped Monday from the prison's special correction unit by cutting through a 10-foot barbed-wire fence.

Vincent was captured shortly after as he was driving a stolen car toward the Laurentian mountains.

The provincial police spokesman said the convicts "could be anywhere" and may have slipped into Montreal, despite surveillance on bridges leading in from Laval. A policeman said they "would be able to blow and get money and guns" once in Montreal.

The provincial police holdup squad planned to continue to conduct raids when information appeared genuine. The five "must be preparing for something" because they had no money when they escaped, squad members said.

Wooded areas and farms in Laval were secured Tuesday by police armed with shotguns and rifles and guided by trucking dogs.

The five men, all serving sentences of 10 to 25 years for armed robbery and Mercier for attempted murder, had previously escaped from prisons and are considered extremely dangerous.

When Mr. Goyer visited the jail after the escape, he said: "It's about time we took a look at the jobs being done by the crews inside the correctional units instead of supplying more and more security gadgets."

Hydro Can Run For 2 Months

TORONTO (CP) — Spokesmen for Ontario Hydro say they can keep the provincial power system running normally for two or three more months with supervisory staff despite the fact that most of its employees have been on srike for 64 days.

Union spokesman Angela Arkell said the 12,000 strikers have already lost about $20 million in wages. Those who haven't found other jobs are getting strike pay of $30 and $40 a week depending on marital status.

The union questions the management claim the commission is able to supply normal amounts of power. It points to the fact that Hydro is importing power from Quebec.

When union-management talks stopped there were 110 items still to be resolved with wages as main issue. The union is asking for an 18-per-cent pay raise over two years and Hydro has offered 12% per cent.

Society Honors Animal Lover

TORONTO (CP) — Every evening, Mary Macher is visited by 15 racoons arriving for their dinner.

Usually the 96-year-old widow feeds them bread but occasionally she has a little cake for her visitors.

Tuesday it was Mrs. Macher's turn for cake.

It was her birthday, and Ontario Humane Society officials, local businessmen and friends held a party for her at a local inn, on whose property she lives in a small cottage near the shore of Lake Ontario

Paintings Stolen

DESIO, Italy (Reuter) — Thieves broke into the home of 102-year-old Teresa Pagani of Desio, near Milan, Monday night and stole paintings, and antiques worth an estiflated $167,000, police said Tuesday.

Thumbs Ride

NICE, France (Reuter) — A monkey, apparently mimicking hitch-hikers along the main Riviera highway, sat on the edge of a highway near here and "thumbed" a lift by waving its toes at passing motorists. One man picked up the monkey and drove it to a nearby animal refuge Tuesday where authorities are trying to find out where it came from.

Giant Omelette

LUGO, Spain (AP) — The Sunn Bernardo today to have made the biggest Spanish omelette in history. The omelette, required 20 men to turn it over, a bar spokesman said. He added it weighed 853 pounds and contained 550 pounds of potatoes, 44 pounds of onions, 22 pounds of sausage, 60 quarters of olive oil and 40 dozen eggs.

Mission Ends

MOSCOW (Reuter) — Two Soviet Mars probes which reached the red planet late last year have completed their mission, Tass news agency announced Tuesday night. The craft, Mars II and III, were reported by Tass last March 1 to be "nearing completion" of their work.

Stitch in Time

MOSCOW (Reuter) — Soviet surgeons operated for two hours to save the life of a Ukrainian tailor who accidentally pierced his heart with a needle he had left on his bed. The monthly magazine Soviet Union reported that the needle was touching the walls of the tailor's left ventricle at each heartbeat.

Choose Farming

BANGKOK (Reuter) — More than 30,000 drafted soldiers armed forces in the last five years, says the under-secretary of interior, Puang Suwannarat. He reported Monday that the main reason for the desertions was the need for them to return to their families to help in the cultivation of crops.

Wintermeyer's Mother Dies

KITCHENER, Ont. - (CP) - Mrs. Alfred S. Wintermeyer, 83, mother of John Wintermeyer who was leader of the Ontario Liberal party from 1958 to 1963, died Tuesday after a lengthy illness. She is survived by her husband, son John and five daughters.

Flood Damage

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) — Damage from Sunday's heavy rains and flooding in this Lake Superior port city and the surrounding area is expected to reach $14 million, a federal official said Tuesday. T. A Vangren, deputy regional director of the U.S. office of emergency preparedness, said he believes there is a good chance the section will qualify for a federal disaster-area designation.

Laxer Won't Run

TORONTO (CP) — James Laxer, one of a group of members of the Waffle Wing of Ontario New Democratic Party who decided to form their own political movement, resigned Tuesday as a federal NDP candidate in Toronto York East.

Mr. Laxer's resignation was accepted by the York East NDP election committee without comment.

Rains Do Damage

NORTH BAY, Ont. (CP) — For the second straight night, heavy rains fell throughout the North Bay and Sudbury areas causing extensive damage and flooding.

More than one inch fell in the area overnight, adding to more than three inches dumped between Monday afternoon and Tuesday morning.

Numerous basement floods were reported in outh areas.

Probe Promised

PRT CREDIT, Ont. (CP) — Provincial Treasurer Darcy McKeough has informed town council his staff will investigate operation of municipal departments here.

Mr. McKeough told council in a letter that he has ackowledged a residents' petition, signed by 66 ratepayers, asking for a government commission of inquiry to be set, up to look into operations of town offices.

Woman Charged

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — Patricia Devine, 28, of Ottawa, was charged with attempted murder Tuesday after a hotel manager was stabbed.

Joseph Atkinson, 51, was treated and released from hospital after being stabbed in the stomach with a flashing knife. Police said the incident apparently happened after he refused to allow a woman into the beverage room.

Questions And Answers

By The Ontario Motor League

QUESTION: We are considering driving from Ottawa to Montreal through the Laurentians. We know that this area is popular for winter vacations, but what does it have to offer in summer and what would be the best route?

ANSWER: One of the world's great playgrounds, the Laurentian area invites you to glorious riverside, lakeside and mountain resorts—accommodations to meet every taste from simple to splendid and to suit every budget.

The oldest chain of mountains in the whole world, the Laurentians date from the Pre-Cambrian age. South from the Canadian Shield, their peaks, once of tremendous height, have been worn down over millions of years by wind and weather. Glaciers have carved out beds of lakes, river courses and streams, now a great source of delight to the angler. The highest of the mountain peaks now is 3,150-foot Mount Johannsen at Mont Tremblant.

The whole district provides every kind of summer sport — swimming, fishing, boating, water-skiing, hiking, riding, camping — you name it. Then in the fall there is the splendor of the color. For magnificent views at this, or at any time of the year, there are chair lifts that carry you to look-out points on the peaks of Sainte-Agathe, Saint Donat, Mont Tremblant and Mont Sainte-Marie.

Crossing over to Hull from Ottawa, take Highway 11 past Gatineau Park with its 40-odd beautiful lakes and heavily wooded areas teeming with wildlife. The highway parallels the Gatineau River through Chelsea, Wakefield and Maniwaki up to Mont-Laurier.

Heading easterly from Mont-Laurier, you come to Lac-des-Ecorces, popular as a starting point for canoe trips along the Kiamika Lakes and the Upper Lievre River. A short distance further brings you to the newly created Labelle Park, covering 450 acres of good fishing country.

Thirty miles further on is Saint-Jovite, a year - round vacation resort area, providing fishing, golf and horseback - riding. An attraction for artists is its 110-foot covered bridge over the Riviere du Diable. Close by is the principal access to Mont-Tremblant Park which covers almost 1,000 square miles of country dotted with 365 lakes, seven rivers and numerous streams and waterfalls. It is renowned for its magnificent resorts, its automobile races, its ski centres and its fish hatchery at St. Faustin.

Another popular resort centre is Ste. Agathe-des-Monts with its 16 miles of beaches on Lac des Sables. Attractions are the boutiques and art galleries, the Summer Theatre, and the Sunday water-skiing displays on the lake.

Nearby is the art colony at Val David. Due to strong glacial action, the land surface here has rocky escarpments providing challenges to the mountain climber. The Conservatoire is a formation unique in Eastern Canada. An attraction for the youngsters is Val David's Santa Claus Village, open from May to December.

Continuing on Highway 11 to Ste. Adele, another very popular resort featuring a reconstructed old - time French Canadian village, you can take to the Autoroute from there right into Montreal, a distance of about 45 miles.

The total distance from Ottawa to Montreal is about 275 miles by this route.

Rhodesia Barred Over Passport Technicality

MUNICH (CP) — The International Olympic Committee has barred white-ruled Rhodesia from the 1972 Summer Olympic Games over a passport technicality, avoiding a mass black African walkout and leaving Avery Brundage with a lessening defeat as he prepares to bow out as Olympic czar.

The committee decided Tuesday night by 36 votes to 31 to withdraw the Olympics invitation to the white-ruled breakaway British colony because team members lacked British passports.

There were three abstentions. In accordance with IOC procedure, no breakdown of the voting was announced. Members serve as individuals and do not represent their countries.

His voice shaking with emotion, Brundage said today that the Olympic movement is dead if—as in the case of the Rhodesian vote—principles continue to be sacrificed for expediency.

"It's the first time in 20 years that the committee has come out against me, I am heartsick."

Brundage insisted that the IOC decision was result of political blackmail.

"It was a blatant intrusion of politics. They had a gun to our heads. It was political blackmail—nothing but blackmail—and we gave in.

"I fought as hard as I could, but I lost."

The vote cleared the way for the greatest Olympiad in history to begin on Saturday with 12,000 competitors from 122 countries—minus the 43 Rhodesian athletes and their 13 officials.

Had Rhodesia been allowed to compete, 37 African countries and their 538 competitors would have almost certainly carried out their threat to boycott the Games.

Brundage, announcing the decision to a packed news conference, said:

"After hours of debate and questioning it was decided that Rhodesia did not comply with the terms of the invitation. They did not prove they were Rhodesians and British subjects."

Rhodesia, a self-governing British colony, illegally declared itself independent from Britain in 1965.

Irish Lord Gets Lucky

MUNICH (Reuter) — Lord Killanin of Ireland was today elected president of the International Olympic committee, succeeding Avery Brundage, the Chicago multi-millionaire who stepped down after a 20-year reign.

Killanin was elected for an eight-year term and became the sixth president of the IOC.

Killanin told reporters that Brundage had been elected honorary president of the IOC for life.

Although Killanin has generally supported Brundage in the IOC, he has shown a more liberal attitude towards the interpretation of amateurism and he has been largely instrumental in lifting the veil of secrecy which used to surround meetings of the IOC.

Chinese Stage Own Boycott

TOKYO (AP) — China said Tuesday it cannot send any observers to the Olympic Games in Munich because Taiwan is taking part. The West German Games had invited China to organizing committee for the send observers and journalists.

Centre of Activity

The 1972 Olympic competition sites: the opening and closing ceremonies, all athletic competitions, the Olympic Jumping Grand Prix, and eleven games of the Olympic soccer tournament will be held in the Olympic Stadium. There are seats for 47,000 of the 80,000 spectators.

Ferguson Not Jumping, Signs With Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs announced Tuesday night the signing of the four top selections in the 1972 amateur draft, including centre George Ferguson who had been reported headed for the rival World Hockey Association.

In addition to Ferguson, a graduate of Toronto Marlboros of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, the National Hockey League club also signed Randy Osburn of the OHA London Knights, Doni Desleuces of Shawinigan Falls in the Quebec Junior League and Brian Bowles of the Memorial Cup champion Cornwall Royals, also of the QHL.

Ferguson, a six-foot 190-pound native of Trenton, Ont., scored 36 goals and assisted on 56 others in 62 games last season, his second with the Marlboros.

The club did not disclose the terms of its contract with Ferguson but published reports said he will get $125,000 over two years—including a $30,000 bonus—to make him the highest-paid rookie in Leaf history.

The six foot 192-pound Osburn, a left winger from Colingwood, Ont., had 41 goals and 57 assists for 100 points in his final junior year.

Desleuers, Leafs' third round pick and 43rd over-all in the draft, is a six-foot-one 190-pound defenceman who amassed 257 minutes in penalties last year and was named to the second all-star team. Bowles, also a defenceman, had five goals and 22 assists. He stands five foot, 11 inches and weighs 175 pounds.

GEORGE FERGUSON

Harper Traded

MONTREAL (CP) — Terry Harper, a 10-year defenceman with Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League, has been traded to Los Angeles Kings for future draft and other considerations, the Montreal club announced Tuesday.

Little Body Contact In Team Scrimmage

TORONTO (CP) — Harry Sinden, wasn't disheartened Monday night when his Whitby 8-5 in the first of three intra-squad games Team Canada plays before meeting the Russians.

There was little robust play and defences for both sides were guilty of losing the puck in front of their respective goal crevices.

"I'll come when the opening buzzer sounds," said Sinden, general manager-coach of the collection of National Hockey League players who will face the Soviet squad in an eight-game exhibition series in September.

Team Canada is using the three intra squad games at Maple Leaf Gardens — the next two are Saturday and Tuesday nights—as a tune-up for the long awaited series bringing together Canadian professionals and Russian amateurs for the first time.

"For a first shot at a game, to get a little atmosphere, we did pretty well," Sinden declared, in a post game interview.

But what surprised the nearly 5,000 fans who sweltered through 85 G-rated periods was the almost total lack of body contact.

Not a check was thrown in anger and Boston Bruin teammates Phil Esposito and Don Awrey tried to insult some life into the workout by shoving one another in mock anger.

"Ah, we were just fooling," Esposito admitted.

Red Berenson led the Whites in the free-scoring exercise with two third period goals that sent the winners into a 2-5 lead. Peter Mahovlich scored the final into an empty net.

Red Gilbert, Ron Ellis, Jacques Guevremont, Mickey Redmond and Bobby Clarke also scored for the Whites. Phil Esposito, with two, Jean Paul Parise, Bill Goldsworthy and Yvan Cournoyer connected for the Reds.

Goaltender Tony Esposito agreed both sides looked "a little rusty, but the mind is coming."

"But the shooting is really good," said Esposito who said he was hurting from a couple of shots he handled in the half game he played.

Wayne Cashman of the Reds was the lone casualty when he stopped a shot with his right ankle. He was sent to hospital for x-rays but the Gardens' medical staff diagnosed the injury as "a severe bruise."

"It must have been 90 out there," said Ed Johnston, who replaced Esposito in the Whites' goal with the score tied 3-3. "But it was a good game, considering it was the first.

"With guys like there, though, the only way to check them is to step in their way. Let them freewheel like they did and you know what's going to happen."

Reds goaltender Ken Dryden, the NHL's rookie of the year in Buffalo, was shelled for six goals before leaving after 52 minutes in favor of rookie Michel Larocque.

"I just think it's more difficult to play defensive hockey when you're tired," he ventured by way of explaining the defensive lapses that accounted for several of the goals.

Phil Esposito had another theory on why there was such an outburst of goals.

"It's hard to keep so much power down. Look at that lineup and you don't see any checking lines."

Sinden said the apparent effort to avoid any heavy body contact took some of the "flavor" from the game but "what it proved is that we can skate and pass as the Russians now do."

Giants Lose Pivot

A separation of the collarbone has knocked New York Giants' No. 1 quarterback, Randy Johnson, out of action, although the injury is not as serious as the one which recently sidelined Dallas Cowboy's passer Roger Staubach.

Johnson suffered the separation just below the shoulder of his throwing arm, the team said Tuesday, and will miss at least three weeks of National Football League action.

Staubach may miss the entire season.

The injury occurred on the first play of the Giants' game last Sunday against New York Jets.

Injuries were also reported on Tuesday by Cleveland Browns, Philadelphia Eagles and Los Angeles Rams.

Rookie defensive end Lester Sims, the Browns' sec-od-round draft choice, suffered torn cartilage in his right knee Saturday against Detroit Lions and was to undergo surgery today.

The Eagles said middle linebacker Steve Zabel has suffered torn cartilage in his right knee in practice Tuesday.

Kermit Alexander, correct linebacker for the Rams, will be out four to six weeks with a broken elbow suffered in the exhibition game against Oakland Raiders.

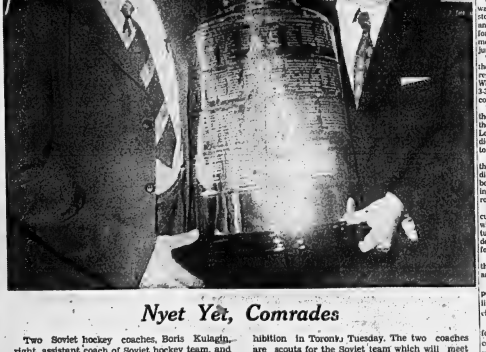
Brock Catches Cobb

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lou Brock, the St. Louis Cardinals' speedster, stepped alongside the fabled Ty Cobb Tuesday night with his 56th stolen base of the season.

When asked if it was his greatest thrill he shook his head and said: "Nah, the greatest thrill for me was the day I put on that big league uniform. I'd like to see anyone top that."

It was the eighth time Brock has stolen 50 or more bases. Cobb is the only other player to do it eight times.



Brock's achievement failed to rattle Los Angeles Dodgers' Al Downing who hurled a nine-hit 1-0 shutout victory over St. Louis Cardinals.

U.S. Doing Canada Favor By Buying Its Resources

OTTAWA (CP) — The United States does not need Canada and is doing Canada a favor by buying its resources.

That blunt message was brought to Ottawa Tuesday by Herman Kahn, director of the influential Hudson Institute, and given to Canadian officials and reporters.

After a seminar with government officials on the international economic environment, Mr. Kahn held a news conference to put forward his views on that and other topics.

The Hudson Institute is highly - rated "think tank," where analysts seek to forecast future trends. Mr. Kahn has achieved fame as a provocative theoretician of the strategy of thermonuclear warfare and as a former adviser to the U.S. government.

He told reporters that Canada should not believe it has a monopoly on the natural resources needed by heavily-industrialized countries like the United States. Australia had such resources also, while Brazil had more than Australia and Canada put together and Siberia had more than all three.

Canada's geographical closeness to the United States no longer gives it an insurmountable advantage in selling its resources, he said. U.S. money had been attracted to Canada in the past because of ideology not geography.

In the past, Canada was ideologically close to the U.S. and U.S. investors had no fears of nationalization. But the ideological closeness was disappearing.

With modern transport systems, all countries on the Pacific or Atlantic were in effect next door to the U.S. and Canada had no decisive advantage from its common border with the United States.

Mr. Kahn said it was wrong to claim that Canada is doing the U.S a favor by selling its resources. The reverse was true, since the U.S. could buy from and invest in other countries.

If Canadians realized this, he said, relations between the two countries would improve.

Theoretically, he said, the U.S. could get along without the rest of the world.

"The United States has no vital economic interests anywhere in the world in the sense that it's a life or death matter to the United States."

Hudson Institute studies, based on surveys of U.S. businesses, showed that within five to six years the U.S. would be back to normal in terms of gross national product after cutting off all foreign trade.

"The biggest thing we would lose as far as I am concerned is Japanese tape recorders. That to me would be a tragedy. Life would not be the same."

He was asked if the U.S. could get along without Canadian water.

Mr. Kahn replied that the U.S. can easily survive and grow with its own water resources, provided that a price were placed on water to induce users to use it efficiently.

He also said that Canada is rich enough to get along without depending on the U.S. The Canadian standard of living would drop, but if Canadians were willing to pay the price they could afford it.

Canadian Scene Said Used In Commercial

MINOT, N.D. (CP) — Political candidate Robert P. McCarney has charged that his opponent is using pictures of Canadian landscape in a TV commercial depicting the rigors of pioneer days in North Dakota.

McCarney, challenging Lt.-Gov. Richard Larsen for the Republican nomination for governor, says Larsen's commercial could touch off "an international incident with the friendly Canadian people."

McCarney said Tuesday two pictures in Larsen's commercial are taken from a book produced by the National Film Board of Canada for 1967 Canadian Centennial celebrations.

He said one picture shows a district of Saskatchewan and the other depicts the Brampton region of southern Ontario. One shows a partially cultivated field and the other shows horses standing behind an ice-covered fence.

Opening Remembered

This picture was taken Aug. 6, 1932 when Lord Bessborough, Governor-General of Canada, officially opened the Welland Canal, connecting Lake Erie and Lake Ontario. The ceremony was recently commemorated by the Dominion Marine Association, representing Canada's inland ship owners. (CP Photo)

Asians May Enter Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is expected to make a decision this week on whether to admit some of the thousands of Asians who are to be expelled from Uganda.

The external affairs department spokesman said Tuesday there is a strong possibility the matter will be discussed in the regular weekly cabinet meeting today.

The spokesman said admission of the Asians is being considered by the external affairs and the immigration departments and a decision will be made in a few days.

The deputy British high commissioner here met Pat Trembley, acting assistant undersecretary of state, Friday to discuss the possibility.

He was told that Canada was considering the matter.

On Thursday the department received a report from Les Smith, acting Canadian High commissioner in Nairobi, Kenya, whose office also has representation in Uganda.

The external spokesman said it is not known how many, if any, of the Uganda Asians want to come to Canada. The British high commissioner did not specifically request that Canada take a certain number of the Asians, about 80,000 of whom face eventual expulsion from the African country.

On Monday Immigration Minister Bryce Mackasey said a "few thousands" Asians, could be allowed as immigrants. But he said any such proposal would have to be approved by the cabinet.

Needles No Cure For Arthritis

TORONTO (CP) — A doctor writing in a medical publication says the ancient Chinese treatment of acupuncture likely can relieve arthritic pain but there is no evidence that it can affect the disease.

In the unsigned article, to appear in the September issue of the journal of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, the writer says that there is evidence enough "to convince" that the pain - relieving effect is real.

Acupuncture is the traditional method of Chinese medicine involving the insertion of needles at various points in the body for the treatment of specific illnesses.

The medical correspondent says it probably works on the principle of counter-irritation, such as the use of heat or old stand-bys as mustard plaster to relieve pain.

"Because of . . . its probable mode of action as a counter-irritant, there seems little cause to dispute acupuncture's ability to relieve arthritic pain," the doctor writes. "There is no evidence whatsoever that it exercises any beneficial effect on the underlying cause of the pain, or the course of the disease."

Discussing the use of acupuncture as an anaesthetic, he says the anaesthetic effect is probably closely related to the principle of counter-irritation.

B. C. Socreds, NDP Battle Over Communist Links

VANCOUVER (CP) — Premier W. A. C. Bennett says "the socialist hordes are at the gates of British Columbia" and the New Democratic Party has jumped into bed with the province's micro-scopic Moscow-oriented Communist party.

And NDP Leader Dave Barrett fires back that the premier's Social Credit party is itself sleeping with the Communists and has made a deal to undercut NDP credibility by having the Communists endorse New Democrat candidates in the Aug. 30 provincial election.

In the middle of it all is Communist leader Nigel Morgan—busier than he has been in 27 years of leading his tiny fraction of the political spectrum—gleefully denying all allegations of promiscuity.

Obviously delighted with this week's turn of events which focussed the political spotlight on the five all-but-ignored Communist candidates in the running for the 55 legislature seats, Mr. Morgan has thundered indignant outrages at both party leaders.

"The Communists, and I, have maintained their virginal purity in provincial politics and aren't sleeping with anybody.

"Sam, I know Dave Barrett," the 58-year-old Communist leader said in an interview. "I've also met W. A. C. Bennett. But that doesn't mean I've made a deal with either one of them—and I haven't."

The bizarre spectacle of a Communist leader denying that his organization had made deals with both the New Democrats and Social Credit in the same week was the latest wrinkle as the B.C. election campaign turned down the home stretch.

The party that Mr. Morgan leads amassed a total of 432 votes for four candidates in the last provincial election three years ago. This time it has five candidates, including Mr. Morgan, and there are no indications that they'll do any better.

The Communists jumped into the election fight when they inserted advertisements in lower mainland newspapers Saturday and Monday urging voters to "elect a progressive majority of NDPs and Communists."

Tipped in advance that the advertisements were being prepared, Mr. Barrett said the day before the first of them appeared that he had "every reason to believe that the Socreds and Communists have made a deal."

The 41-year-old NDP leader predicted that Premier Bennett would use the ads to club the NDP. That's just what happened in North Vancouver Monday night.

"They are in bed together and they know it," shouted the 70-year-old premier, waving a copy of the ad. "My friend Barrett is going through the province playing his violin trying to lull the people to sleep, trying to give the impression that the NDP are not socialists."

Mr. Bennett noted that Mr. Barrett knew in advance that the ads would be published: "How did he know it, my friends? Because they're in bed together, my friends."

The premier's speech also appears to have set the tone for balance of Social Credit's campaign for re-election. Labor Minister James Chabot told an audience in New Westminster the same night substantially the same thing.

Progressive Conservative Leader Derril Warren said the premier's speech linking the NDP with the Communists was predictable and added he doesn't think "socialist scare tactics" will work the time around.

The premier, said Mr. Warren, "is recognizing the impact the Conservative party is having on the election" and Social Credit will "beat up the so-called socialist scare that will descend upon the land like a famine."

21 Are Killed By Road Mine

SAIGON (AP) — A civilian bus ran over a road mine in the central highlands Tuesday, killing 21 persons and wounding two others, the Saigon command announced.

The bus was travelling from Hau Bon to Phu Tuc when it tripped the mine on a road about 200 miles northeast of Saigon.

It was the second such incident in three days. On Sunday a bus hit a mine 25 miles farther north, killing 40 civilians and wounding 30, the command said.

Helps Sea Cows

Diana Magor, holding sea-cow bones, says the creatures are an endangered species. She plans to spend part of next winter studying them in the Amazon River. Diana hopes to receive financial aid for her expedition from the Marine Science Centre at McGill University but is prepared to go it alone if no grants are forthcoming. (CP Photo)

Cote's Decision Not Surprising

OTTAWA (CP) — Jean-Pierre Cote's decision not to seek re-election to the Commons comes at a time when the postmaster-general is locked in a struggle with the postal unions.

It is ironic that the post-master-general, a quiet, gentle man, has been embroiled in labor troubles. When he first took on the post office portfolio in 1965, he also was to examine and correct poor working conditions.

But Mr. Cote's decision, revealed by a source in his office Tuesday, is not surprising. Although only 46, the postmaster-general underwent heart surgery in 1968 and was forced to reduce his work load.

First elected to the Commons in 1963 and appointed post-master-general in the Pearson cabinet in 1965, he was named revenue minister in 1968.

He became minister without portfolio in 1970, retaining then-communications minister Eric Kierans of his responsibility for the post office.

In 1971, Mr. Cote again was shifted to departmental rank, becoming postmaster-general for the second time in his career.

James McCall, president of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers, Monday criticized Mr. Cote as a "bad postmaster-general" and promised that the postal unions would work actively to defeat him in the next federal election.

Mr. McCall was attacking the government stand in current bargaining for a new contract with the postal workers.

Mr. Cote's decision to leave the federal political scene is based on personal reasons, the spokesman for the postmaster-general said Tuesday, and followed consultation with party officials in his Longueuil riding on the south shore of the St. Lawrence river opposite Montreal.

Mr. Cote, one of 10 children of a postal worker, quit school to help support the family when his father fell ill in 1939. He worked for a munitions factory during the Second World War.

He later worked in various jobs before becoming a dental technician. He sold his dental laboratory business in 1963 when he was elected to the Commons.

When Mr. Cote took over the postmaster-general's portfolio in 1965, he said one of his top priority projects would be to look into complaints of "abuses" regulations used by postmasters in dealing with their staff.

In taking up the portfolio for the second time, he said he was interested in improving efficiency of mail service. Mail sorting equipment is part of that program and it involved in current disputes with the unions.

A dedicated family man with eight children, Mr. Cote is well liked by government and opposition MPs.

Following heart surgery, he began a regime of daily exercise, skiing, skating and do-it-yourself home renovations.

Rifadin Seen Best TB Cure

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — In 1962, George Brown, then 59, discovered he had tuberculosis.

After 29½ months in the Beck Chest Diseases Unit here, the Stratford, Ont., tool and die maker was released only to suffer new flareups of the disease three more times.

In 1970 he began hemorrhaging from his left lung.

"I figured I'd had it," he said Tuesday in an interview at the Beck unit.

Mr. Brown said he had "taken enough pills to fill three wheelbarrows" but was still unable to conquer the disease.

However, at the time, the Beck unit was testing a new drug, Rifadin, as part of Canada-wide trials for the department of national health and welfare.

Tuesday, Mr. Brown said he was cured of tuberculosis. That fact was confirmed by Dr. Owen Clarke, associate professor of medicine at the University of Western Ontario and medical director of the Beck unit.

At a news conference today, Dr. Clarke said Mr. Brown was only one of many patients who had been cured of tuberculosis by Rifadin after treatment with all other methods had failed.

Also introduced at the conference was Lorwon Burley, 42, of Aylmer, Ont., who discovered he had tuberculosis after spending 20 years as a bartender in Sarnia.

After taking nearly 1,300 pills a month with no results, Mr. Burley was put under Rifadin treatment.

He was also pronounced cured by Dr. Clarke.

Dr. Clarke repeated earlier statements that Rifadin was not to be considered a "wonder" drug.

He said that improper use of the drug could lead to patients building up a resistance to the drug.

Already 18 cases have been reported in Canada where this has happened, he said.

However, proper use of the drug, which was approved in Canada last February, could be the most effective means known of combating tuberculosis, Dr. Clarke said.

Sharp Visits Bicycle Plant

HONG KONG (Reuter) — External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp, of Canada, went sightseeing and visited a bicycle factory in Shanghai Tuesday, the new China news agency reports.

Sharp, who arrived in Shanghai from Peking in a special plane, is accompanied by the Chinese assistant foreign minister, Chang Wen-chin, Canadian Ambassador F. E. Collins and members of his party.

System Bought

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian Cablesystems Ltd. of Toronto has purchased the remaining 50 per cent of Cornwall Cablevision (1961) Ltd. for total control of the company.

Cablesystems will pay Cablevision owners $350,000 for the 50 per cent, $190,000 to be paid in cash, $112,000 through 3,000 Cablesystems shares and $53,000 by a promissory note.

Bones Reburied

KITCHENER (CP) — Five skeletons unearthed in a parking lot excavation behind Electrohome Ltd. will be reburied in Mount Hope Cemetery. A front-end loader cutting into a sandy bank behind the plant exposed three graves Thursday and two more during weekend. Kitchener police sent the first three sets of bones to the provincial crime laboratory in Toronto for analysis and dating. Police were convinced the excavation uncovered an early burial site.

Grants Given

OTTAWA (CP) — Grants totalling $312,750 to 14 visual arts and film organizations were announced Tuesday by the Canada Council. Recipients included the Agnes Etherington Art Centre, Kingston, $14,000; Art Gallery of Hamilton, $12,600; London Public Library and Art Museum $12,600; Robert McLaughlin Gallery, Oshawa, $10,000; Art Gallery of Windsor, $8,000.

Pageant Vetoed

TORONTO (CP) — A proposal to give a $5,000 grant to the Miss Canada Beauty Pageant was rejected by the Metropolitan Toronto Council Tuesday. The matter had been approved earlier by council's executive committee by a two-thirds vote. However, it was pointed out later that the recommendation needed approval by three-quarters of the members.

Brakemen Keep Slate Clean

TORONTO — The Hamilton Police were after Belleville at the CNE Pewee Baseball Tournament but the locals caught a train and left their pursuers waiting at the station.

The Conductors and Brakemen scored in the top of the seventh inning Tuesday, the only run needed in a 1-0 victory over the defending CNE champs from Hamilton.

Mike Burke singled to start the Belleville half of the final frame and raced home with the winning run when Peter Hall followed up with a double.

Hall fired a three-hitter to earn his second shutout in as many starts at the Toronto tournament. Belleville has opened with a 6-0 whipping of Peterborough. He fanned six and did not walk a man. Bill Gow and Gary Stapely had singles for Belleville's other hits.

Bob Averlelli lost a five-hitter for the Hamilton nine.

Belleville's next action will be Monday afternoon, August 28 when Dundas provides the opposition in a 2 p.m. contest.

Mead Squirts Catch Sharks

The squirts captured the first game of the best-of-three Belleville Minor Softball peewee city championship 1 to 1 night with a 7-3 win over the Red Shark.

Andy Ressit fired a two-hitter for the squirts, fanning 10 and walking one. He also added a three-run, tie-breaking homer to his own cause with Tim Soule punching a triple and Paul Soule and Al Lau Brooks connecting for a pair of singles each.

Ward Morrison took the loss for the peewees, giving up 10 hits and walking five. It just smashed a homer for the losers big blast.

Cosy Girls Coast to Lead

Cosy Grill were hard pressed to win the Belleville and District Ladies Softball League regular season pennant but found they needed a press at all in their first round play off series —

The Grill took a command ing 2-0 lead in the best of seven semi-final series over Bob Bluird. Red Burn with a 9-0 forfeit victory last night.

Third game of the series will be tonight at the Alemite in an 8:15 contest.

Adams Takes Biggest Bite

The Golden Mile Olympic mosquitoes had the sting pulled Stephen Lawrence Bite Adams wound after a Belleville Minor Lacrosse opening play-off contest.

The Mile stopped the Lacrosse 12 behind the two goal output of Ian Adams, Robbie Culbertt and Gerald Vermeulen who pitched the other winners tallies.

Game Over For Two Teams

There were two games in two divisions scheduled in last night's Belleville Minor Baseball play offs and both finish ed the season for one of the teams involved.

The Kinsmen tykes outmus cled Mulroney's Sunoco 21-16 to take their quarter-final series two games to one.

Bruce McBrian had a triple and double with Brad Miller and Mike Hawkins each connecting for a double and single in support of Kevin Jones and Jeff Haywood's eight strikeout performance on the Kinsmen mound.

Mark Davey smashed a home run and two singles and Lyle Kelleher a triple and single in a losing effort.

In a preseason contest Motorland Chrysler finished their series with Gagne Masonary by tripping the Cementmen 11-5.

Greg McEachern and Terry Kingsman combined for the ten-inch batting help from Paul Dent and Paul Lang who each connected for a pair of singles.

Ron Landry had a double and single for Gagne who are regulated to a spectator role for the remainder of the playoffs.

Argos Lack Touchdowns

WINNIPEG (CP) — Head coach Lee Ball hopes Toronto Argonauts, winless in three regular-season Canadian Foot ball League games, will shoot at least one jinx when they clash tonight with Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Argos haven't scored a touch down since first string quarter back Joe Theismann limped to the sidelines three weeks ago in Toronto, leaving with him Toronto's hopes for a strong start in the Eastern football conference.

The game starts at 8 p.m. CDT (9 p.m. EDT) and will be shown on the CTV national network.

Rollins Rout Petes To Advance in OASA

"The Big Red Machine," which skipped a few beats in Monday's 8-5 loss to Howard and Robert, was hitting on all nine cylinders Tuesday night. Rollins Construction parlayed 12 hits and a sound defensive effort into an 11-1 win over Peterborough to capture the opening round of the OASA Intermediate "A" playdowns.

Ted Waite tamed the visitors on four hits to give the Belleville team a two-game sweep of the series following Saturday's 5-4 win in Peterborough. The Rollins batter struck out a dozen batters and walked only two. Meanwhile, his teammates were slamming out 13 safeties against Bud Hodson and Jim Belle. The Peterborough duo walked three batters and recorded one strikeout.

The key defensive play for the winners came in the fifth inning with Rollins holding a 2-1 lead. Rightfielder Steve Lang fielded a two-out single by Hodson and relayed the ball to catcher Dave Akey in time to prevent Bob Walsh scoring from second with the tying run. Waite allowed only three baserunners after that point.

Rollins put the game out of reach in the sixth, scoring four times to build an 8-1 lead. Akey opened the inning with a double which was followed by singles from Carl Bloemhower and Ralph Plane and Paul Goodfellow's triple.

Plane had three singles for Dale Durvall and Al Ferguson adding a triple and single each. Dan Sharpe and Frank Kelly tripled in a losing cause.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Romania's tennis stars are risking

FORFEIT

The forfeit of the Davis Cup if they refuse to play the final round in the United States, U.S. team captain Dennis Ralston said Tuesday.

"I know the Romanians thought they would get the finals in their own country, but they were wrong," Ralston said. "If the Romanians don't want to play in the United States, let them forfeit."

The United States beat Romania in the final round in Cleveland last year. Under the old rules this year's challenge round would be played in the country of the challenging team, Romania.

But Ralston said a rules change has given the defending champion the choice of site.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

THURSDAY, AUG. 24

Aries (March 21-April 19): Seeing the flaws in what is happening does not excuse jumping. Neither should you feel yourself be frustrated. Find a practical course.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Be gentle in dealing with those you love and impressed with those you don't. Unwise manoeuvres now bring few wanted results.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Resting to compare to one achievement; to be able to find discontent views while retaining relations is better. Learn more by watching than by asking.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Being perverse isn't your finest quality, and today you aren't the only one with such tendencies. Just bear with yourself.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 23): Whatever you feel is the situation, may not be the most accurate version—investigate before acting then be firm and definite.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Having too much on your mind is not good—check out the facts on the main problem, lay it aside and the answers are not available.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Impulsive moves up the ballsoon too far. Corrective moves are late. Don't expect anybody to concern himself with your problems now.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You may be very effective in getting what you think you want. Realize that some things are spoiled by strenuous insistence.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Fact is likely beyond your scope today. Caution and courtesy are needed, as your presence has a catalystic effect.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Being conservative brings results. Keep things simple by minding your own affairs, and sticking to established routines.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): What seems a sure thing today is apt to be something else tomorrow. Live up your accounts, review your resources.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Personal ventures run into a blank wall, have to wait while you sort things out. Talking won't quite do the job.

Birthmark Should Be Left 9 Years

By G.C. THORTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thorteson: Can you please give a little information on birthmarks and the best methods for removal and how soon after birth you would recommend removal.—C.H.

From yellow to black, whether level or raised, birthmarks are the results of disorganization of genetic information which make for a clustering of tiny blood vessels or pigment on the surface of or near the surface of the skin. There is nothing you can be done to prevent them.

The brighter colored ones, strawberry or port wine types, are closer to the surface of the skin, and you can prove this by pressing a finger down upon them and watching the color disappear briefly. When you are doing is pressing the blood supply from the area. Take off the finger away and the vessels are refilled and the mark returns.

Some marks such as these will fade or completely disappear with time. Others involve alterations of the actual skin tissue) will remain.

Moles, strictly speaking, are birthmarks.

Some marks appear at birth; others appear years afterward. For the most part, the marks are and remain harmless defects, unless they mar a person's face, in which case treatment may be advised.

It is rarely wise to remove them soon after birth. At any rate, it is usually wise to wait until a child is at least nine years old before seeking removal. However, if it is a raised mark and there is bleeding evident, it should be investigated. Or, if a mind mark is located in an area that subjects it to irritation, under a brassiere strap, for example, removal might be indicated.

There are several methods for removal, from chemical to surgical. Some of the skin, but this should never be attempted by anyone but a physician and any dermatologist can advise you on this.

The important thing to remember about them is that they are usually harmless things and, barring cosmetic unpleasantness or sudden change in appearance, they are best left alone.

It has always struck me as quite strange, really, that some women have affected birthmarks on prominent places to enhance their attractiveness, while others have struggled throughout a lifetime of great embarrassment because nature played such a trick on them

It is true, of course, that some birthmarks get out of hand, spreading from tiny dots to large areas of the body. In such cases, cosmetic treatment is probably the easiest way out.

Dear Dr. Thorteson: I have heard that blood is blue while circulating through a person's body, until it is exposed to oxygen outside the body. Does this account for the blue color of veins that are seen just below the skin's surface?—R.C.

That's more or less correct. Blood, as it leaves the heart to be pumped through the body, is bright red, the red cells carrying oxygen.

As the blood makes its circuit, it picks up impurities which them carbon. The oxygen becomes carbon dioxide, and the blood takes on a dusky cast, although it is not blue.

The blood, returned via the veins to the heart, then is pumped through the lungs. There the blood releases the carbon dioxide, and picks up fresh oxygen. The blood becomes bright red again—for another trip through the body.

Dear Dr. Thorteson: Is it true that you can't get pregnant the first time you have sexual intercourse?—P.A.

I'm getting tired of answering this question. NO, it is NOT true.

INSERT CUT HERE

Opening lead — Jack of hearts.

Dear Mr. Becker I have read a lot of bridge books in my day, and seldom a bridge columns too, and the one thing that impresses itself on me is that most of these writers don't know what they're talking about.

They advocate bids and plays I cant fathom. For example, they think it's best to lead from weakness to strength, but my experience tells me it's better to lead from strength to weakness.

I played this hand the other day and held the South cards. Most players would swear it is impossible to make four spades with this layout, since declarer apparently must lose two spades, a heart, two diamonds and a club, but I can tell you quite frankly that this is an obsession on their part on how to play a hand.

West led the heart jack and I went up with the ace. In line with my theory I played the four of hearts next and was not stumped to win it with the ten. Some people will say the reason East didn't play the king was because he was afraid I had the singleton five, but I personally think it was due to his unfamiliarity with my advanced style of play.

I then led the three of clubs, a play you won't find in any book, and West, confounded by my technique, let me win with the jack.

Next I again demonstrated the beauty of my methods when I led the five of spades from dummy. East unfortunately played low and my seven forced the ace.

There is no use in my going on with this recitation because, as you can see, my king of spades later caught the queen and all I had was a trump and two diamonds, thus making four spades. I hope you enjoyed it I mean, Sincerely yours, I.X. Hall.

Tomorrow: When to cover.

Seniors Reap Benefits From Survey Report

The senior citizen study released by Belleville's United Community Services in June has met considerable criticism. Only three weeks ago it was blasted as "a waste of time, effort and money" by one member of the city's Recreation-Arena Committee.

But tangible response seems to be forthcoming. Already several hundred of the city's approximately 4,000 persons over 65 are reaping benefits from the federally-sponsored report.

To begin with, 14 persons in need of eyeglasses have either received a new pair or will soon visit optometrists. The study revealed that 1, 682 of the 2,389 persons polled required glasses and although most claimed they could afford the expense, many on fixed incomes looked upon glasses as a luxury item.

Two more persons were registered with the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, thereby entitling them to CNIB's special services.

Money for glasses is being donated by the Quinte Help Fund, a local lottery inaugurated last month. All profits from the August draw are earmarked for the eyeglass program.

The study also showed there are at least 70 elderly residents in the city who do not have a doctor. In addition, 461 replied "no" when asked if they had paid their doctor a visit within the past year.

As a result, UCS has forwarded 273 names to the Hastings and Prince Edward Health Unit. These persons all have some sort of ailment and will now receive attention from unit nurses.

Another benefit sparked by the report deals with monthly payments to the Belleville Utilities Commission. No longer will senior citizens be charged late payment penalties because their old age pension cheques arrived after the due date.

A budget billing system, scheduled to begin Sept. 1, permits those presenting senior citizens' cards to pay their account at the start of every month.

Late payment penalties are one of several inequities UCS hopes to eliminate to make incomes stretch further.

Preparing name lists and notifying service organizations are Debby Warren and Rose Kite, two students hired for the summer by UCS under the provincial Volunteer '72 program.

Are Some Animals Public Nuisance?

Animals have become the pet peeves of some Bellevillians.

And with good reason, the way Alderman Arthur Keegan told it to city council Monday.

For instance: There's a man who owns a house on Cedar St. Next door is an "elderly lady" who has a cat at least 60 cats. "There are that many. And there could be more," Ald. Keegan told council.

Whatever the count, there are so many the man complains his property is depreciating.

"Nobody wants to buy it," said the councillor.

Then there's the dog in the Ritchie St. area. It keeps barking all day.

Requests from neighbors — including one on night shift who "can't get any sleep" — have failed to prompt a response from the owners.

What, asked Ald. Keegan, can be done about such things?

"Can these be considered public nuisances?" pondered Mayor Russell Scott.

"Possibly," volunteered city solicitor Miller. We'll consider it."

Frankford Dry

FRANKFORD (Staff) — Residents of this village were temporarily without water from 8 a.m. today, while workmen removed a fire hydrant.

Back in Business

The old Canadian Pacific station on South Church St. is back in the passenger business, but the form of transportation is buses, not trains. The station has been taken over temporarily for use as a bus terminal. A new bus terminal will be constructed on the site of the old Dundas St. East building after the present structure is razed.

Tools Stolen from Veneer Plant

TWEED (Staff) — Village police chief W. G. Carroll is continuing his investigation of the break and enter reported Monday morning at Hunter Veneer's plant in the southeast section of Tweed.

Police found a sliding door on the north side of the building ajar and socket wrenches and mechanics' tools valued at $50 missing. The break-in was reported by the company's owner, Robert Hunter, when he went to work Monday morning. It is believed the theft could have taken place anytime from Friday night to Monday morning.

John St. Crossing To Be Restricted

City Council Monday agreed that the John St. railroad level - crossing should be restricted to pedestrians.

Council endorsed a recommendation of the Railway Transport Committee of the Canadian Transport Commission that the crossing be closed to traffic. Approaches would be fenced and a walkway — four feet wide — installed for pedestrians.

However, council was cautious not to indicate it was committing itself to any other measures regarding level crossings in the city.

The move was only "part of a sequence" for greater protection on city railroad crossings, explained Mayor Russell Scott, as council approved the recommendation from its traffic committee.

Council Supports Hull-to-Russia

Belleville city council Monday joined the To-Russia-With-Hull movement.

Council supported a resolution being circulated to all municipalities by Woodstock city council which — among other requests — seeks to have hockey star Bobby Hull drafted on the Hockey Canada team to play Russia.

The resolution also proposes both the federal government and Hockey Canada be asked to provide insurance for all players on the team.

Each National Hockey League team and NHL president Clarence Campbell should be petitioned to permit Hull and other stars banned from the Canadian team because they have joined the new World Hockey Association, to play.

Music Lovers Strike Again

A new band seems to be forming in Belleville — the cheap way.

Thieves last night stole $2,000 worth of musical equipment from Bayside Secondary School. Taken were drums, cymbals, a guitar, amplifier and microphone.

There was no sign of forced entry and city police suspect an unlocked double window on the east side of the building may have been used.

Monday night, a microphone, mike stand and amplifier, all valued at $229, were stolen from the Zwick's Island bandshell.

Briles' Act Fools Pirates

Nelson Briles of Pittsburgh Pirates has done some acting during the off-season, but never played the role of Superman.

He looked the part Tuesday night, though, when pitching against San Francisco Giants.

"It's really a funny feeling to be happy and disappointed at the same time," said Briles after losing a perfect-game bid in the seventh inning and winding up with a one-hitter to beat the Giants 1-0.

That one hit—a line drive by Fen Henderson off first baseman Willie Stargell—gave Briles turned out to be the only baserunner off Briles, an actor and night club performer when he isn't playing baseball.

Pittsburgh stayed 11½ games in front of New York in the National League East race. The Mets also won Tuesday night, beating Houston Astros 4-2 for the second straight time.

Elsewhere, Cincinnati Reds moved to an 8½-game advantage in the West over Houston by stopping Montreal Expos 5-3, Atlanta Braves trimmed Philadelphia Phillies 11-7, Chicago Cubs defeated San Diego Padres 4-3 and Los Angeles Dodgers nipped St. Louis Cardinals 1-0.

Brides, winning his 12th game in 17 decisions this year, retired the first 20 Giants before Henderson ripped one off Stargell's glove. It extended Henderson's hitting streak to 18 games.

"It was hit real well, but in my own mind I should have caught it," said Stargell, who doubled in the game's only run in the first. "There was just no time to stick the glove up."

Second baseman Dave Cash and shortstop Jackie Hernandez earlier made some great plays to steal potential San Francisco hits.

Johnny Bench, Pete Rose and Bill Plummer slugged home runs to power Cincinnati past Montreal, sparking elation from Reds manager Sparky Anderson.

"We are in a position where we can win the National League West pennant by ourselves now," said Anderson. "We're 10 games up in the loss column and that's all I'm worried about. I'm not worried about the other column."

He is worried, however, about possible injuries.

"I don't want anyone getting hurt now," said Anderson. "If we stay healthy, we'll do all right."

Jim Brosnale hit a three-run homer with two out in the ninth inning as Atlanta rallied for seven runs after two out to beat Philadelphia.

Jim Beauchamp drove in all four Met runs Tuesday night, including two with a single in the eighth inning that decided it.

"The Mets' reserve first baseman's big night helped New York ace Tom Seaver win his 15th game.

Ferguson Jenkins fashioned a six - hitter, pitching Chicago over San Diego. The right-hander hasn't lost to the Padres in 11 lifetime decisions.

Indians Get Into Whacky AL Race

Cleveland Indians got into the whacky American League East race Tuesday night employing the old mathematical axiom that if those ahead of you lose and you win, you'll gain ground.

The Indians trimmed Minnesota Twins 3-2 while division-leading Detroit Tigers were losing 6-3 to Oakland Athletic. Baltimore Orioles bowed 2-0 to California Angels and New York Yankees dropped a 5-4 scrrot to Chicago White Sox.

Fourth-place Boston Red Sox also made up ground by outslugging Kansas City Royals 10-7. In another encounter, Texas Rangers edged Milwaukee Brewers 2-1.

The victory moved the fifth-place Indians to within 6½ fight games of Detroit. Boston is within 2½ games, New York is a game and a half out and the Orioles remained just a half game from top.

Detroit began the month of August atop the AL East and the Tigers are still there despite a woeful 8-15 record over the last three weeks. The sharp has, of course, cost the leaders.

Surging Baltimore, 1-13 this month, has chopped two games off the lead.

Oakland used homers by Angel Mangual, Blue Moon Odom and Joe Rudi to defeat Detroit and Mickey Lolich while Nolan Ryan's four-hitter pushed California past Baltimore.

The Tigers and Athletics stirred up some excitement with a seventh inning brawl that started when reliever Bill Slayback buzzed a pitch too close for Mangual's comfort. The manager Billy Martin was the culprit.

"I never fight in my life," said Mangual. "I heard Martin tell the catcher to have the pitcher knock me down.

"If he tries to hit me, what do I do. I've got to protect myself."

Mangual rushed Slayback and the brawl was on with fights breaking out all over the field.

"If Mangual was so mad," said Martin, "why didn't he fight me? I had him backed up against the wall and he said, 'No, No.' He wouldn't fight. Why not? He figured he'd get beat, that's why."

Oakland's victory kept them one-half game ahead of Chicago in the AL West. The White Sox erased a four-run New York lead and beat the Yankees with Dick Allen's 31st home run of the season deciding the game.

Boston gave Marty Pattin an early five-run cushion against the Royals with Carl Yastrzemski's third inning homer. The Red Sox made it 9-2 before the Royals retouched with two runs in the eighth and three more in the ninth.

Roughies Rally On Last-minute Boot

CALGARY (CP) — Jack Abendschan's toe and Ron Lancaster's play selection doomed Calgary Stampeders Tuesday night as Saskatchewan Roughriders rallied for a 13-10 Western Football Conference win.

Abendschan, an eight-year veteran, who also plays guard, gave the Roughriders their second win in five starts and a share of second place with a 3-2 record.

But it was Lancaster, the scrambling quarterback, who set up the play following a 16-yard field goal by Calgary's Larry Robinson which had given the Stampeders a 10-9 lead with less than two minutes remaining.

Lancaster, who used the

Alouettes Bench Van Ness

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes have placed running back Bruce Van Ness on a 30-day injured reserve list and activated Dan Yochum, rookie offensive tackle. The Canadian Football League club announced Monday. Yochum, to play his first game Thursday in Montreal against Hamilton Tiger-Cats, was the second-round draft choice of Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League. Van Ness has a sprained ankle.

screen pass with success throughout the evening, started the winning march from his Roughrider 35. Five plays later, including a 31-yard screen to Bobby Thompson, the Roughrider Abendschan had little trouble getting his 13th career field goal from directly in front of the posts.

It was the second defeat in four games for the Stampeders, tied for second with the Roughriders and Winnipeg Blue Bombers — each with four points. Undefeated Edmonton Eskimos lead the WFC with six. Lions are last with two on a win and three defeats.

The Stampeders had nothing but praise for Lancaster who completed 20 of 29 passes for 241 yards.

"He's a fantastic quarterback," said Ron Pyate, Calgary's offensive coach.

"He's probably the best in the country and will continue to be as long as his arm holds up. He worked on our weaknesses. . . . I've never seen the screen pass work that well and so often."

Gordie Barwell scored the only touchdown for the Roughriders on a 10-yard pass from Lancaster in the first quarter. Abendschan added a convert and a single on a wide field goal attempt, while punter Allan Ford booted a 55-yard single.

Quarterback Gerry Shaw got Calgary's touchdown on a four-yard pass from quarterback Jerry Keeling. It was Shaw's fifth touchdown this year and the pass he has scored since joining the Stampeders in 1966.

Robinson completed Calgary's scoring with a field goal and a convert. He also was wide on a 41-yard field goal attempt in the third quarter.

The game, devoid of a home-and-home series which concludes in Regina Sunday was anything but exciting. The Roughies led 7-0 first quarter, 8-0 at the half and 9-7 after three quarters.

A fumble by Lancaster late in the third quarter, which set up Shaw's touchdown, and an interception by Calgary's Frank Andruski on the Saskatchewan 23—which paved the way for Robinson's field goal—prevented a boring night for the 22,616 fans.

One of the best players defensively was linebacker Wayne Shaw of the Roughriders who recovered a fumble deep in his own territory in the third quarter and intercepted a Keeling pass to stop a Calgary drive in the second.

The Roughriders had 19 first downs to 15 for the Stampeders. Saskatchewan had a net offence of 294 yards, 49 more than Calgary which led in rushing—81 yards to 50.

Wydareny Won't Budge

HAMILTON (CP) — One of the most mobile players in the Canadian Football League was reluctant to move Tuesday and two others declared themselves immobile when they learned they had been involved in a trade between Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Edmonton Eskimos.

The deal completed Edmonton defensive back John Wydareny and linebacker Dan Ferguson to Hamilton for quarterback Wally Gabler, linebacker Doug Dernesh and guard Jim Popal.

Wydareny, a 10-year veteran with Toronto Argonauts and Edmonton, and Dernesh, whom the Eskimos have owned twice previously, both announced they will not report to their new clubs.

Wydareny, who has a teaching position in Edmonton, was suspended by the Tiger-Cats.

"I'm a newlyd Gabler, a scrambling quarterback who has played for Toronto, Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Hamilton, said he has not yet decided whether to report to his fourth club in eight seasons.

The trade leaves Hamilton coach Jerry Williams with rookie Chuck Ealey as his only experienced quarterback with Rick Shaw, normally a wide receiver or defensive back, for backup duty.

Later Tuesday, Williams signed Bill Van Burkleo, a former Winnipeg and Ottawa defensive back and a backup quarterback who also punts, Ian Sunter, a rookie placekicker, has been doing Hamilton's punting but has managed only a 33.5-yard average.

QUINTE MALL BELLEVILLE 962-9523

As of this moment it's merely safety features such as a restraining cable that have been erected at the Shannonville Speedway.

However, owner Dick Burrowes hopes to form a corporation that would include paved road and drag racing facilities for the Quinte area. He has approached auto groups throughout the province with his proposal for a complete speed plant.

Big-time Racing May Hit Small-scale Track

By ERIC EMERSON
Sports Staff

Small time racing on a big time scale may soon become a reality in the Quinte district.

"We're interested in providing facilities, rather than promoting big time racing. If competitors are looking for big purse -they'll have to come up with their own sponsors, the way they do at Mosport," advises Dick Burrowes who is attempting to organize International Speedway Shannonville Ltd.

The "facilities" which Burrowes hopes to provide include a 1.27-mile paved track and a half - mile drag strip, also paved. "We hope to have something for all motorized sports. You'd be able to see a road race one Sunday and then maybe motorcycles the next week and dune buggies the week after that."

Site of the proposed project would be a 188-acre tract of monolithic bedrock located just west of Marysville, where Burrowes began a dirt track stock car racing operation in 1950.

Success of the proposed speed plans will depend upon the willingness of motor sport groups to invest in the operation. However, with the help of a Belleville lawyer associated with the project hopes to incorporate the venture and offer stock to various auto and motorcycle clubs throughout Ontario.

The Canadian Auto Sports Association, licensing body for auto racing in this country, and the Canadian Road Racing motorcycle group are both reported to be interested in the venture.

"We feel that the best way for racing groups to show that they're really interested in using the facilities is to invest some money in it. That way we won't have groups promising to participate and then pulling out later," says the organizer.

Burrowes compares the type of racing he'd like to see to world attract to "Junior A hockey. We're interested in the real amateur racers who are looking for some place to compete rather than a chance to get rich. If I want to play golf, the local clubs certainly aren't going to pay me to use their facilities. We're operating along the same lines."

At present four auto groups in the province have extended verbal agreement to invest in the project, while several local drag racing groups are considering the possibilit of helping to finance a paved strip. Pavement for the road course alone would cost in excess of $50,000.

The present dirt track course has been bulldozed to a width of 70 feet in anticipation of the "go" signal for the project and a series of ramps have been constructed in the infield area for motorcycle and dune buggy racing.

Burrowes stresses the safety and visibility features of the Shannonville Speedway set up. "It's not like Mosport, where you can only see part of the course. Here you can follow the action all the way around." Steel cable has been imbedded in front of the bleacher area for spectator protection, while guard rails will be added if and when the paved circuit becomes a reality.

Competition director Bill Naylor has planned a Labor Day weekend competition for motorcycles, dune buggies and "wreck 'em" cars. "We'd like to see just how much interest there is in this sort of thing. We'll be advance any further on the plans," states Burrowes. Registration for the Labor Day events will take place this Sunday.

Fathers Happy To Tie Sons

No smart aleck little bantams were going to show up the Fathers in last night's exhibition lacrosse game, at least that was the indication after the first period. But by the end of the game the oldtimers were happy escaping with a tie.

The bantam all-star fathers exploded into a 3-0 first period lead in an exhibition lacrosse game with their sons, but needed a last minute goal to salvage a 6-6 tie.

Bill McLean netted a first-period goal and juvenile pickup Kerry Reid added two more for the Fathers in the opening frame. Sandy Waterson notched two and Rob Richardson and John Merrill one apiece for the bantams however as the youngsters rapped in four unanswered second period goals.

"See how we're letting them carry the play in us" came the description of the strategy used by the Fathers. Their strategy was wearing thin in the third, however, as Terry Thompson and Rob McBrian upped the bantam lead to 6-3. Darrell Donnelly closed the gap with two Father goals setting the stage for Gerry Boyce's dramatic end to end rush for the tying goal in the waning moments of play.

Both teams picked up a point but the bantams will have the added pleasure of listening to the moans and groans of their fathers today as last night's hard action catches up with them.

Coffey Deadlocks Coughlan

Read were looking for a strong pitching effort from Larry Coffey to wind up their South Hastings softball season Tuesday, and they got just that.

What they weren't expecting was an equally strong performance from Plane's Bernie Coughlan as the two pitchers battled to a 0-0 tie. The deadlock leaves Read with a 3.2 edge in their series with the league pennant winner.

Coffey gave up a single to Bob Robb and a triple to Warren Hay, while striking out two batters and walking one. His double and a single by Carm Milligan were the only hits off of Coughlan. The big righthander fanned nine batters and walked four.

Sixth game in the series is scheduled for Thursday in Read.

UIC Batting 1.000

The Unemployment Insurance Commission started off strong in their Industrial Softball League play-off contest with the Independents Tuesday night; started strong, finished strong and didn't play bad in between.

The UIC stopped the Independents 14-8 for their second win in two meetings between the clubs in their round-robin series among the third-place finishers.

Gary McMurray hurled the win allowing four hits and fanning five. Clint Halladay rode his torrid hitting streak a bit further last night, smashing a homer and three singles. Larry Eil and Tom Stinson had a double and single each.

Wally Hull took the loss for the Independents, giving up 14 hits. Dave Skelly had two singles for the two hitting output behind Hull.

Stewart Warner stamped out the Post Office from further Industrial SoftBall League action this season by virtue of a 7-6 comeback win.

Seventh - inning singles by Bill Lynch and Lanny Hegadorn keyed a four run explosion that gave Stewart Warner the win.

Fred Davis started for the winners, giving way to Jim Henn in the first inning. They allowed four hits and three walks, while fanning three. Norm Lockhart allowed seven hits for the losers, walking one batter and getting three strikes.

Ed Christopher led the winners with a homer and single while Hegadorn had a triple and single and Dennis Hay a double. Ron Marriott tripled for the losers with the other hits going to Ron Lee, Bill Pearce and Norm Lockhart.

Bridging the Gap

Jack Donovan (left) and Andy Tippor may be a generation apart in age but they were closing the gap last night during a Belleville Minor Lacrosse exhibition game between the Bantam All-stars and their fathers. Jack was a constant offensive threat for the Fathers who staged a final frame come-back to earn a 6-6 tie with their younger opponents.

Firemen Happy in Their Work

KINGSTON Ont. (CP) — The president of the International Association of Fire Chiefs said Tuesday firemen are one of the few groups in today's society who are really happy in their work.

"And yet we are classed as mere unskilled laborers because of the image we have given ourselves," said Curtis Volkamer, chief fire marshall for the city of Chicago.

"We are to blame for the stigmas. The fireman's wife says her husband has a great job because he sleeps all day at the fire house and gets paid and the fireman himself says 'we play with the fire hoses and dog' when asked how he fills his hours."

Mr. Volkamer told delegates to the annual convention of the Canadian Association of Fire Chiefs that a recent university list of job classifications gave firemen as unskilled labor.

Yet the fireman must know and be able to identify thousands of chemicals, understand psychology and a host of other things, he said.

"The university had put us in the category of dishwashers."

He pointed out that a recent magazine article showed that 80 per cent of people are in jobs they don't like.

"Still, fire fighters are motivated from within because they want to be fire fighters. They have an aim and a purpose in life."

He said the fire fighting business is subjected to people now who don't want to fight their way up the ladder. They want to begin at the top.

"But everyone should work toward a common goal to raise the standards of fire fighting and the image of the fire fighter."

He said this is where the IAFC comes in. By working with all segments of the fire fighting organization, the association could gain a united voice.

Women Liberated Long Ago, CNE Told

TORONTO (CP) — The gazette speaker at the Women's Day luncheon at the Canadian National Exhibition said Tuesday that women were liberated long before women's liberation movements became popular.

Cecilia Long, chairman of the Metropolitan Toronto Zoological Society, said that "the woman volunteer was liberated long before the Betty Friedans and Gloria Steinems came along—she was a woman motivated not by determination for equal rights, but my making a contribution to her fellow men—and women."

True Davidson, mayor of East York, thanked Miss Long after her address and said it is "a real honor" when women are elected to head organizations.

Miss Davidson said there has yet to be a woman president of the CNE "but we've had women open the exhibition."

Julian Porter, CNE president introduced the head table which, except for himself, was made up of women, including Isabelle Johnson and Mrs. W. A. Wood who are CNE directors, and Elsa Jenkins, chairman of the CNE women's committee.

Blacks Gather

HALIFAX (CP) — Some 700 delegates are expected to attend a three-day provincial Black youth conference here starting Saturday. Speakers include Fania Davis, Jordan, sister of black activist Angela Davis; Dr. M. B. Olatunji, director of the Centre for African Culture in New York; and Dr. Howard McCurdy, chairman of the biology department at the University of Windsor.

St. Lawrence College To Expand at Cornwall

CORNWALL, Ont. (CP) — Details of the first part of a multi-million-dollar expansion and building program for the Cornwall campus of St. Lawrence College were announced Tuesday by Louis Tremblay, principal of the school.

The project is scheduled for completion by September, 1973.

Cost of the first part, which includes a four-storey structure plus renovations to the existing building, is estimated at $3.3 million. Projected figures for the fall of 1973 indicate a 25-per-cent increase in expected full and part-time student enrolment over the total of 2,500 in 1972.

The new building will contain a cafeteria, a kitchen, a 750-seat lecture hall, offices for student services and student government, lounges, a computer and audio visual centre, library, physical plant facilities and general classroom space which will be adaptable to office space in the future.

Tweed Personals

TWEED — Mr. and Mrs. James Savage, son Steven, and friend Kathy Dudgeon of London, England, are spending a three-week holiday with Mr. Savage's sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Lambert, of Denbigh.

Mrs. Charles T. Spencer of Cloyne, is home from the Kingston General Hospital, where she recently underwent surgery.

Mrs. Carmel O'Hearn, Mrs. Jessie Langevin, Mrs. Loretta Corrigan and Mrs. Mae Cassidy all of Tweed, enjoyed a recent bus trip to St. Anne Shrine, Quebec. Cap de Oratory, Montreal, Quebec.

Bill Ingles of Tweed is on holiday from College Militaire Royal de St. Jean, St. Jean, Quebec, after finishing his third year of study.

Mrs. Keith Baldwin of Tweed, is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital after undergoing surgery.

Three Firms Try to Save Industry

MONTREAL (CP) — La Presse says negotiations are currently under way for a $50-million three-company investment project to save the province's petrochemical industry.

The project is being studied by the Quebec government, the newspaper says.

The newspaper said negotiations for the project involving Gulf Oil of Canada Ltd., Union Carbide Canada Ltd. and Hercules Society, an American company based in Wilmington, Del., will wind up in mid-September.

A spokesman for Gulf Oil said negotiations were going on but "We're still very much up in the air" on whether the project would go through.

Gulf Oil and Union Carbide already have major chemical investments in the Montreal area.

Polymer Corp., controlled by the Canada Development Corp., Dow Chemical of Canada Ltd. and Du Pont of Canada Ltd., has proposed a billion-pound-a-year ethylene plant at Sarnia, Ont.

The Quebec government has attacked the proposed $150-million Sarnia project on the grounds that it would put existing facilities in Montreal in a bad competitive position.

Ethylene is a basic "building block" from which a variety of chemical products are made.

Spassky Strong

REYKJAVIK (AP) — The 17th game of the world chess championship was adjourned for the night with champion Boris Spassky in a favorable position after daringly aggressive play. With Fischer leading 9½-6½, the champion abandoned the caution that has characterized much of his play.

Cod War Looms

LONDON (AP) — At least 80 British trawlers headed for Icelandic fishing grounds Tuesday prepared to resist Iceland's decision to bar foreign fishing vessels. A new "cod war" could result. A spokesman for the Trawlers Officers' Guild of Hull, a major British fishing port, said the ships would continue to fish within the 50-mile limit proclaimed by Iceland from Sept. 1. The guild spokesman said four British Royal Navy fisheries protection vessels would patrol Icelandic waters in pairs to defend the trawlers.

Hamilton Postal Workers Aloof from Sorting Row

HAMILTON (CP) — Postal workers here will not picket to protest the installation of mail-sorting machines in Ottawa, Jerry Murphy, president of the Hamilton local, Canadian Union of Postal Workers, said Tuesday.

"The machines won't be introduced in the Hamilton area for at least two years and their effect will be slight here," he said.

"They could cause layoff problems at the smaller post offices in the Niagara Peninsula. The smaller post offices will probably close, force some postal workers to take jobs at the Hamilton processing plant, when it's set up, and forcing others out of work altogether."

Mr. Murphy and his local didn't feel the informational picket lines suggested by the Ottawa union headquarters is a satisfactory method of combatting the machines.

"We wanted more militant action. You can hand out leaflets until the cows come home, with no concrete results."

Blackouts Said Coming If Power Corridor Denied

TORONTO (CP) — K. R. McClymont, an Ontario Hydro engineer, told a provincial inquiry Tuesday that if Hydro does not receive approval for a proposed 140-mile power corridor, the province will face major power blackouts by 1975.

He said if the line is approved, Hydro will not require another major power corridor until the late 1980s.

Hydro is seeking approval for a 610-foot wide corridor from Nanticoke generating station on Lake Erie to the Pickering generating station on Lake Ontario.

Other Hydro officials testified that they do not need all the 610 feet in the proposed right-of-way for immediate power requirements. But, they said, more land is needed for anticipated future use.

United Church Embraces Activist Role

SASKATOON (CP) — What is the role for the 1970's of the United Church of Canada, the country's largest Protestant denomination?

The definition expressed by a large majority of the church's 450 commissioners from across Canada, who completed eight days of policy making Tuesday, is to be activist, committed to man as well as God, and responsive to new needs.

The view of most commissioners, who met in the 20th general council of the church, coincided with those of the new moderator they elected.

"If we're not responsive, we're dead," said Rev. Irvine McLeod of Toronto, who at 43 is the youngest moderator in the church's history.

The church's views were expressed in a new format for general council debate and in calls for more individual freedom in making decisions on such controversial issues as abortion and French-English relations.

The church's positions, nevertheless, were criticized strongly by some delegates for "too many compromises." Some described the church as too quick to find "moral wrongs" in the actions of others.

Much of the criticism came from the two extremes of the assembly—the young and the old.

Among the elected commissioners, half try and hold clerical, there was a youthful contingent of about 50 elected delegates, a few with bare feet and carrying guitars.

Debate on many issues was prolonged because of what was called "an infusion of democracy." This forced cancellation of dozens of proposed discussions.

Under the new system, as interpreted by the new moderator, everyone had an equal chance to speak on any issue, and anyone could propose amendments to church positions, papers and resolutions.

Amendment followed amendment on most matter issues before delegates were seldom widely split in approving the positions everywhere and life in Canada.

Some had predicted that the church might reverse its stand on abortion but delegates voted by a large majority—with some abstentions—to affirm a 1971 stand. That said abortion is a woman and her doctor, permissible in certain medical social and economic circumstances.

The church agreed it should take an activist position on such concerns as the environment, liberation of peoples everywhere and life in Canada.

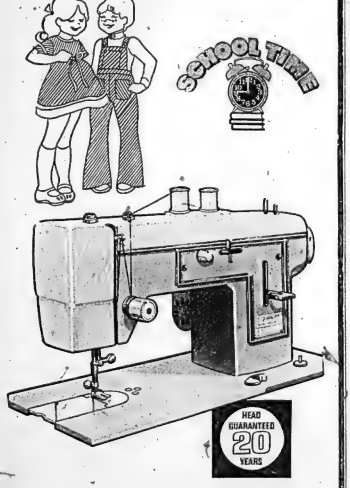
It condemned nuclear testing in the atmosphere by France, urged further Canadian protests to the United States about the proposed West Coast route for oil tankers travelling from Alaska, and said ministers should try to set an example to combat the growing trend towards "excessive personal consumerism."

Resolutions dealing with liberation called for freedom for black people in South Africa, Rhodesia and Portuguese colonies.

Croll Supports Guaranteed Annual Income

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Senator David Croll, who headed a special senate committee on poverty, said Tuesday he is becoming impatient with critics who say a guaranteed annual income is premature in Canada.

Addressing the annual convention of the United Senior Citizens of Ontario, he said: "You have no idea of the wealth of this country."



"It is not the lack of money that is holding back the guaranteed income, but it is the lack of the right priorities."

"The guaranteed income is not a luxury. We just can't afford to throw away 10 per cent of the population in a particular heap of human waste," he told the 600 delegates.

Personal Tax Aids Revenue

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal government revenues have almost doubled in the last seven years, with payers of personal income tax now carrying a far greater share of the load, treasury statistics show.

Total federal government revenue from direct and indirect taxes, and from other sources such as post office revenues and returns on investments, ran to $14.2 billion in the fiscal year ended March 31.

Of this, $6 billion or 42 per cent came from personal income taxes, and less than $2.2 billion or 15 per cent came from corporation profits taxes.

Seven years ago, total federal revenues ran to less than $7.2 billion, and less than 30 per cent of it came from personal income taxes while corporation revenues ran to less than $7.2 21 per cent.

The figures do not include the special taxes on personal incomes and corporation profits, and hidden sales taxes which are credited to the old age security fund, from which old age pensions are paid. Nor do they include contributions through the personal income tax to the Canada pension plan. These amounted to nearly $3 billion last year, 70 per cent of it from personal income taxes.

The full effect of former finance minister E. J. Benson's sweeping revision of the Income Tax Act, which came into effect Jan. 1 this year, does not yet show in the treasury statistics.

MPP Asked To Check On Case

TORONTO (CP) — The Church of Scientology has asked Health Minister Richard Potter to investigate the case of a patient allegedly kept in an Ontario mental institution since 1916 although not insane or dangerous.

Susan Morgan, a spokesman for the church's committee on institutional [illegible] said Tuesday the medical file of a B. Goldberg was sent anonymously to the committee last week. She said the man is in a Whitby institution.

Miss Morgan said in a press release:

"Staff members at Whitby on the ward where Mr. Goldberg is kept told me that he is not insane or dangerous, and they feel he would be much better off in a nursing home.

"He would need nursing attention as by now he has become severely handicapped after being under chemotherapy for the last 56 years."

The spokesman said the church's eight-man investigation team recently completed a tour of every major mental institution in Canada, and is writing a report on its findings.

Miss Morgan said in the statement:

Members claimed that the file shows periods of years when Mr. Goldberg was apparently not treated by a psychiatrist or an M.D. and that police reports stated after he was remanded by the courts in 1916 that he was not insane and had no history of insanity."

The report did not specify charges on which the man appeared in 1916, or details of subsequent legal proceedings.

A church committee spokesman said Mr. Goldberg's medical file is a "tragic biography of a man who may have been committed unjustly. The spokesman said deserving patients should be kept in nursing homes for the elderly rather than in a "drugged stupor" in an institution.

Churches To End Fund Aid

UTRECHT, Netherlands (Reuter) — The World Council of Churches overwhelmingly voted Tuesday night to withdraw its funds from companies dealing with six southern African countries and to mount an international campaign for the withdrawal of foreign capital from these countries.

The countries are South Africa, Namibia (South-West Africa), Rhodesia and the Portuguese territories of Angola, Mozambique and Guinea Bissam.

Underthe resolution, passed by the WCC's 120-man policy-making central committee, the Geneva-based organization will instruct its financial directors to sell immediately its shares in companies directly involved in investment in or trade with any of the six.

The WCC, which had investments of $3.6 million with such companies will also not deposit its funds with any banks maintaining direct banking operations in those countries.

The central committee urged its 250 Protestant and orthodox member churches, representing 250 million Christians, "to use all their influence, including stockholder action, to press corporations to withdraw investments from and cease trading with these countries."

No Trace Found of Missing Girl

KLEINBERG, Ont. (CP) — About 250 police, firemen and citizen volunteers searched rough bush country in this area just north of Toronto Tuesday looking for a missing 14-year-old girl, but failed to find any trace of her.

Ingrid Bauer has been missing since last Wednesday when she set out to hitch-hike the five miles from her parents home in Kleinberg to the home of her boy-friend. She did not arrive at her friend's home.

Her mother, Mrs. Oscar Bauer, described the search as "bad and good—bad because they didn't find her alive and good because they didn't find trace of her. . . ."

Mr. Bauer said his daughter did not intend to run away because "she left everything here. . . . It's just not her."

Inspector Wally Harkness of the York Regional Police department said the girl's disappearance had passed the point where it's the "usual missing person."

Red Hot Reds

MOSCOW (Reuter) — Moscow sweltered through its hottest day for more than a century Monday, when temperatures soared to 97 degrees.

Children's Car Seats Analysed

TORONTO (CP) — The Consumers' Association of Canada announced Tuesday it is pleased with the government announcement that 20 of 45 models of children's car seats are being taken off the market.

Robert Andras, consumer affairs minister, announced earlier in the day that the 20 seats failed to pass laboratory tests conducted under regulations which came into effect June 1 under the Hazardous Products Act.

The association said: "Any consumer who has purchased one of these seats since June 1, 1972, when the regulation took effect, should return it to the retailer for refund."

The association said that "the Canada Safety Council recommends only two devices . . . the infant Carrier, from General Motors, for babies from birth to 20 pounds, and the Tot Guard from Ford, for children from 20 to 50 pounds."

Wage to Rise

EDMONTON (CP) — The $1.50-an-hour minimum wage in Alberta likely will be increased by 30 cents Jan. 1, Labor Minister Berth Hohol announced Tuesday. He said in an interview the final report on the proposal increase has been drafted and is expected to be approved by the cabinet shortly.

Potter Will Unify Health Programs

Local Boards Get Control

TORONTO (CP) — The role of health councils will be expanded under a major reorganization of the health ministry, Ontario Health Minister Richard Potter said Wednesday.

Dr. Potter said in a prepared statement the revamping of his ministry is aimed at devloping the concept of one comprehensive medical - care program for Ontario rather than a "number of separate programs identified with particular kinds of service."

Health programs and services over the years had provided "a high level of care for the people of this province."

"However, in many cases, special interests and varying degrees of emphasis on particular programs have resulted in a fragmentation of health services to a degree that interferes with their effective use.

District councils would be responsible for planning, co-ordinating and evaluating local services, but would not replace existing health agencies. Board of health, hospital boards and other management units would still be responsible for administration and quality of service under the new setup.

Laymen would be represented on district councils to ensure that the community itself, and the not government directly, is responsible for health services in their area.

The link between government and the district councils would be provided by area co-ordinators, appointed by the province.

He said standards will be adjusted to suit conditions in particular areas, with the province setting the guidelines and standards.

Under what he called the first step in the reorganization, Dr. Potter said the ministry will attempt to narrow its concentration on three major areas of concern — development of standards, delivery of health-care services, and administration.

He hoped the reorganization would result "in a rationalization of the total health-care delivery system in Ontario."

The changes are part of the sweeping recommendations proposed by the government's committee on productivity for streamlining the ministries and civil service.

Dr. H. William Hendersen becomes assistant deputy minister of health standards, while William B. Nichols takes over as assistant deputy minister of finance and information services. Ronald Oss was named director of personnel, and James W. F. Bain director of communications.

Hon. R. T. Potter

B.C. Strike Spreads

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canada's west coast ports were shut down by a longshoremen's strike Wednesday, to the surprise of maritime employers and the disappointment of federal government officials who were working on plans to get grain shipments moving again.

Nothing has moved across Vancouver's docks since Aug. 7.

Wednesday's strike extended the work stoppage to other B.C. ports — Victoria, Duncan, Nanaimo, Port Alberni, Prince Rupert and smaller centres through which some cargo had been moving. An other 1,400 longshoremen worked in these ports.

Escaped Robber Caught

TORONTO (CP) — A bank robber who escaped from Penetanguishene's maximum security mental hospital nearly two months ago surrendered Wednesday night after police threatened to storm his hideout with high powered weapons.

George Bradley, 24, surrendered to more than 24 policemen who surrounded the suburban Toronto home in which he had been hiding.

Bus Upsets, 25 Hurt

AURORA, Ont. (CP) — A Grey Coach bus driving through blinding rain overturned near here late Wednesday afternoon, injuring all 24 passengers and the driver. No one was killed.

Most persons suffered only minor injuries, but 10 were admitted to hospital, including two who are believed to be in critical condition. Their names were not available.

Reject Delay

QUEBEC (CP) — The common front of Quebec public service unions Wednesday rejected an unconditional government proposal that would have set binding deadlines for a negotiated settlement in contract negotiations to Dec. 15.

Three Escape

COWANSVILLE, Que. (CP) — Three prisoners escaped today from Cowansville medium-security prison in this community 30 miles southeast of Montreal.

Oppose Park Change

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP) — A group of mines ministry officials told delegates from the ministry of natural resources Wednesday night that they are against any plans to change the status of Killarney Provincial Park.

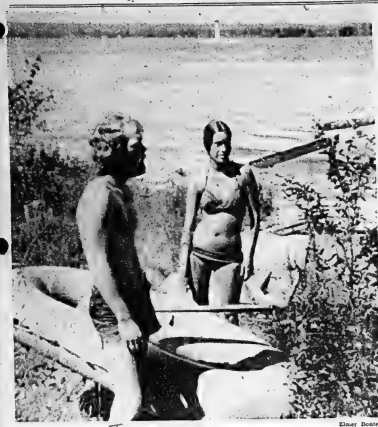
Premier William Davis announced June 23, 1971 that the park, previously established as a natural environment area, would be redesignated as a primitive park.

Off-shore Issue

PM, Premiers Said in Accord On Sea Wealth

OTTAWA (CP) — A 3½-hour meeting between Prime Minister Trudeau and the Atlantic provinces premiers Wednesday may have achieved a breakthrough in the decade-old dispute over ownership of offshore mineral resources.

The federal and provincial [illegible] Bennett met a setback five years ago.



In December, 1968, the Bennett government passed an order-in-council declaring provincial ownership over the Pacific continental shelf.

But on Nov. 1, 1967, the Supreme Court of Canada ruled that the West Coast seabed and its resources belong to the federal government. That did not [illegible] stop the dispute, since the Atlantic provinces maintained that they had jurisdiction over the seabed before they entered Confederation.

Mr. Trudeau told reporters after Wednesday's meeting that he had informed his premiers "that we were no longer going to stick to the 50-50 sharing formula, we were prepared to look at other figures."

"It would be difficult to arrive at a figure now and I think it's fair to say that there was no attempt to reach an agreement on a share of revenues, royalties or other revenues, because a lot of facts still have to be ascertained on what these figures would mean.

"Would they be net? Would they be gross? What would be the consequences on equalization and other federal - provincial payments, and so on."

Shape of Things to Come

Hot and humid weather will continue over the Quinte region this weekend, with a few showers expected until Friday. Daytime temperatures in the 80s will bring out sunbathers like John McKenzie and Helen Walsh of Toronto, who spent the last sunny weekend paddling around Brighton Bay in a rubber dingy.

Hamburger Poll Favors NDP Party

VANCOUVER (CP) — If the hamburger poll is correct, the New Democratic Party is in for a surprise victory in the Aug. 30 provincial election.

The hamburger poll is conducted by John Dyt, who runs a stall in the Pacific National Exhibition.

Latest results show the Dave Barrett-leader, named after the NDP leader, as the popular choice, with 36.25 per cent. The David Anderson-burger the Liberal leader's burger, is next with 27.15 per cent.

W. A. C. Bennett-burgers are at 23.34 per cent and the Derril Warrenburger, for Progressive Conservative patty, trails at 12.26 per cent.

With public opinion polls forbidden in B.C. during an election, the hamburger poll is the only means of voter preference.

My Dad? Oh he carries a vacation sign around. How about yours?

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Little change is expected through Friday. In the north the humidex will continue to be high with afternoon humidex readings in the mid 90s on both days. There will be hazy sunshine from time to time but generally skies will be quite dull. Thunder-storms will occasionally march across the lower lakes bringing no relief.

Rain will spread across most upper lakes regions today and continue into Friday in most localities. Only the extreme northern sections of the province will have sunny skies during the next two days.

MPP Says Man Shot To Halt Crime Probe

TORONTO (CP) — Labor Leader Bruno Zanini was shot Wednesday as a warning not to turn over to Queen's Park evidence of organized crime's move into the Toronto and Hamilton residential construction field, a Progressive Conservative MPP said Wednesday night.

"The two of us were collecting evidence of labor racketeering in southern Ontario to present to Mr. Bales (Ontario attorney-general) this week when we shot pure and simple," said Frank Drea, member for Toronto Scarborough Centre.

Mr. Zanini, 51, was shot by one of two hooded men as he entered his basement garage of his apartment home and a second shot missed him. He is in satisfactory condition in hospital today after having a bullet removed from his groin.

"Organized crime shot Bruno Zanini," said Mr. Drea, a former labor reporter with the defunct Toronto Telegram.

He said he and Zanini hoped the evidence they were collecting would influence Premier William Davis to establish a royal commission to investigate labor racketeering.

Mr. Drea, who visited Mr. Zanini in hospital Wednesday night, said the wounded man had been "scared stiff" when he talked to him about being shot before the shooting.

The MPP claimed [illegible] elections were held in New York earlier this year by certain elements of organized crime which control United States unions in which terrorists in Toronto and Hamilton were assigned to "certain labor problems" he declined to identify.

The wounded man, [illegible] construction labor union bargainer, has not been active in the field since last fall when the independent construction union he formed failed.

Union Head Says Goyer Asks Guards Be Assassins

MONTREAL (CP) — Prison officials and spokesmen for guards issued claims and counter-claims Wednesday about the responsibility for the escape of six men described as dangerous from St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary Monday.

Early today, five of the men were still at large.

Another convict, Marcel Longpre, serving a 10-year sentence for armed robbery, escaped Wednesday from the same penitentiary.

Solicitor-General Jean-Pierre Goyer has launched an inquiry into Monday's escape.

Paul Gibeau, an officer of the Public Service Alliance of Canada, which represents prison guards, said in Ottawa the minister is trying to make prison personnel "scapegoats to cover [illegible] complete failure of [illegible] UNION

As War Critics Battle Police Nixon Courts 'New Majority'

MIAMI BEACH (CP) — President Nixon, demonstrating absolute mastery of his party, has accepted the Republican party's presidential nomination, pledging as his goal "a new American majority" forged of Republicans and disenchanted Democrats alarmed over the "radical" trend within their ranks.

While he brought the three day national convention to a cheering, foot-stomping climax Wednesday night, some 3,000 war critics and other demonstrators roamed the streets of this sweltering holiday resort, clashing time and again with police, smashing a score of parking cars and generally seeking to bring an "carnival" atmosphere to the convention hall.

More than 800 were arrested—bringing to more than 1,000 the number rollared by police since Monday maybe a dozen were injured including two policemen knocked from their motorcycles, and scores were treated for tear gas inhalation.

But inside Nixon got everything he wanted: firstdown renomination, the vice-president he wanted in Spiro T. Agnew, selected without opposition, and the emotional appeal to run on a party platform drafted exactly to his liking.

All hints of dissension, particularly some rumblings against Nixon's handling of the Vietnam war, had been effectively silenced in seven committee sessions before the convention proper was opened to the scrutiny of a record audience.

Endorsing two major themes of the convention—the party's victorious campaigning for the years vote, and its desire to accommodate Democrats, particularly those of middle-age and middle-rank professions, Nixon made a direct appeal to those millions who have been driven out of the party in the Democratic party."

Without direct mention of Democratic presidential nominee Senator George McGovern, who other speakers said is spearheading the radical forces that have taken control of that party, Nixon said:

"The choice in this election is not between radical change and no change. The choice is between change that moves and change that won't move."

Industry's Wants Outlined

PICTON (Staff) — A vacant industrial site equipped only with proposed services is not marketable to industries shopping for location areas.

William Buck, chief engineer for Inducon Engineering Limited, Don Mills, told industrialists attending a three-day seminar here that potential sites must be at least partially serviced.

Mr. Buck said drainage should be established where a site is being shown and curbs and boulevards installed. Underground sprinklers should be used to keep the grounds attractive.

"It's very important to get something physically on the ground and to demonstrate what you are trying to do," commented the engineer.

He added at least one or two lots at the site should be serviced since industrialists are not convinced by promises of services.

Mr. Buck, who delivered a lecture titled Lands and Buildings, said industry seeks buildings already constructed instead of an empty site.

He advised communities seeking industry to obtain an inventory of existing space, a survey, a key plan and said shipping and receiving facilities should be examined.

Mr. Buck noted the role of speculative buildings in industry but commented every industry has specific requirements which may or may not be met by such construction. Her termed a land inventory an important step in wooing industry and said a choice of land for prospective industries is required.

Land for industrial use is not necessarily owned by a municipality. The engineer suggested a municipality may act as a catalyst to industry, but remarked land development is a difficult operation "if you don't want to lose your shirt." He added, however, that sometimes there is no private developer prepared to go ahead with plans and the municipality has no other course of action.

If no serviced land is available and a municipality must become involved, it is important that community objectives are considered. Promoters of industrial developments must decide if industry is best for the community. Mr. Buck said a municipality generally is eager, to generate assessment "of a high order", and to promote employment and complementary industry.

An industrial development plan should be integrated with the over-all plan of the community and planning now under way in the province is a major consideration.

Long-range planning is very important in view of projections of "a tremendous increase in the population of southern Ontario in particular".

Industry is seeking an economical base for its operations and is concerned with the physical conditions for its employees in all communities considered.

Zoning bylaws in some municipalities are "really appalling" and should be studied.

Mr. Buck commented that in some municipalities bylaws are too open and allow developers to do as it likes while in other communities they are too restrictive to permit growth.

The engineer suggested there should be levels of zoning including a high performance level which should feature office type use. Sales offices and outlets can be established in some industrial parks and sometimes office buildings are eventually erected.

Mr. Buck said industrial bylaws for this type of development should make provision for restaurants, recreation facilities, and service stations.

If recreation is allowed, the industrial park can be kept "alive" at night when in use for sports and other activities such as health clubs.

The speaker discussed heavy industry and said frequently in its search for sites it gravitates toward the lakeshore because of harbor facilities.

In examining other areas of industry, he referred to a restrictive covenant now used to prevent builders from buying industrial parks then leasing them rather than selling them. The land is sold with the provision that the purchaser must build in a specified length of time or the property can be sold back at original or renewal purchase price.

Mr. Buck commended the attraction of industry rebate on having something to shown areas to prospective clients and stressed industry will not buy "pig in the sky."

Hees Offers Aid

PICTON (Staff) — Unemployment figures for Prince Edward County are "far too low," Hon. Jeanne Sauvé, federal government for designation of an area making it eligible for municipal officials to exhibit resourcefulness in attracting industry.

Hon. Sauvé was speaking here since the employment ratio seemed "fairly low."

Mr. Hees explained that the county cannot be designated but said he would support council in efforts to bring industry here.

He advised councillors to contact him if they receive "even a nibble" from industrialists.

Services are available through Ottawa, according to the MP, for those who wish to locate.

There is lots the department of trade and commerce and the department of finance can do to help industry settle," he said.

penitentiary system reform."

In reply to the ministers statement that guards in solitary need guns to protect the cooper, he said:

"Facing the complete failure of his pinko-ophy he can wants to use the correctional officers as third seasons to keep the control of the prisons."

In Montreal, Jean Paul Lavesque, president of the civil liberties Laval council, said inmates are using obsolete army surplus weapons.

"I don't think the guards would shoot," he said. "Because the arms are obsolete 303 rifles from the second war plus and most correctional officers don't have the opportunity to qualify themselves regularly to shoot at ranges with them."

Dr. Gustave Morin, former chief psychiatrist at St. Vincent de Paul, said in an interview that prison authorities are too concerned with building prisons which are "architectural marvels" and too little concerned with how the prisoners are handled.

Lee Stays In Napanee

The H. D. Lee firm, best known as manufacturers of jeans, will remain in Napanee.

The Cobourg Industrial Commission had been negotiating with, the company for many than a year to assist its location in that town, but Cobourg's Mayor Jack Heenan announced this week that the company will not move to Cobourg for internal reasons". He said the reasons will not be revealed.

The company opened its first Canadian plant in Napanee in 1970. It was seeking a labor pool of about 1,000 people in Cobourg. The company hires female help and seeks housewives whose husbands are the main family wage earners. It said the women workers would make about $85 a week as "supplementary salaries".

It has been suggested in Cobourg that a large increase in wages for the firm's employees, or a strike at General Foods might have frightened off the Lee firm.

Voluntary Tax Hike Ready for OMB Study

Those who help themselves generally get more done and faster is the attitude the Belleville Downtown Association took this spring, and no one — within their group — protested when they recommended a voluntary increase in their taxes.

The proposed bylaw—which would increase the assessment of all businesses in the downtown area — allows for the extra money to be placed in a trust fund to be spent by a committee to redevelop the Front Street area.

Proposed more than three months ago, the scheme skipped through city council for its first reading and then was placed in hibernation for a three-month waiting period to give protestors a chance to intervene.

No protests were heard and for the second time the proposal sailed through council, Monday.

Now that municipal parties have had their chance to question and decide on the proposal, the paper work goes to Toronto where the Ontario Municipal Board will make a ruling.

It is expected that it will be two months before word returns from the OMB but Roger Porter, president of the association, said "there is no reason why the proposal should be held up".

Once the anticipated approval returns from the OMB, the proposal will be sent to council for a third time to be formally introduced as a bylaw.

Once this has been done, council will have to pass two more bylaws outlining the requirements of a management committee which will spend the money.

In the first year of operation (probably 1973), the increased assessment will form a kitty of about $25,000, all of which must be spent in the same year.

Each merchant will pay 14 per cent more taxes.

The committee — responsible for the funds — is obligated to appear before city council once each year to have its budget passed.

Mr. Porter felt there would be a majority of merchants on the committee with "one or two aldermen".

Some of the first projects will include beautifying parking areas and better cleaning of the streets.

$27,500 Grant Is Announced

PICTON (Staff) — The Prince Edward Region Conservation Authority has received a provincial grant of $27,500 for development of the Macaskay Mountain conservation area.

The announcement was made this week by minister of natural resources Leo Bernier and James Taylor, MPP Prince Edward-Lennox.

The Macaskay Mountain site covers 425 acres of land in Hallowell township and in Picton.

The PERCA plans to develop the area further with construction of an entrance, a service road and parking area. Initial construction work is a park shelter building, construction of an earth dam to create a small reservoir and drilling of a well for portable water supply.

Since all member municipalities are designated as benefiting they will bear the PERCA's share of the cost.

Family Planning Course Started

Family planning counsellors are now in training at Loyalist College.

They are the first volunteer counsellors in family planning in this area, and are taking a crash course to ready them for service in September.

A national advertising campaign sponsored by the Family Planning Federation of Canada will get under way at that time, and an information and referral service will begin at United Community Services offices in Belleville.

Mrs." Virginia O'Rourke of Batawa is in charge of the volunteer counsellors' training program. Eight people from Bancroft, Madoc, Marmora, Foxboro and the Belleville area are taking the first, short intensified course of three morning sessions at the college.

Twenty people will take the longer, nine-session course beginning Sept. 26 and continuing every Tuesday evening until Nov. 28.

Mrs. O'Rourke is still looking for more volunteer counsellors, especially from the Picton area. The local branch of the Family Planning Association covers both Hastings and Prince Edward counties.

"We hope the people from outlying areas will go back and set up information units of their own," says Mrs. O'Rourke.

Conducting the training sessions are public health nurses, physicians, lawyers, social workers and members of Loyalist College staff.

The volunteer counsellors will be prepared, once the information and referral service is set up, to refer callers to the appropriate source of information on birth control, family planning and fertility.

Pinnacle Protest Goes to Province

Merchants, protesting making Pinnacle a four-lane, two-way artery, took to heart the advice of city alderman at Monday's council meeting when he said to take the protest somewhere else.

Bill Millington, speaking for more than 30 merchants involved in the complaint — claiming the change will seriously damage their businesses — told The Intelligencer, "the entire effort was wasted. They persisted in talking about how this thing wasn't going to happen for years and we shouldn't worry about it."

As a follow-up to their day in council, the merchants have taken the petition, which they all signed in opposition to the move, and forwarded this and a letter to both the ministry of transportation and communications and to Dr. R. T. Potter, Quinte MPP and minister of health.

"We are requesting a meeting with the minister so we may sit down and get some solid facts on what is going on," said Mr. Millington.

Members of the merchant group were told — at council — the bridge and surrounding controversy of the use of Pinnacle Street is in the hands of the provincial government.

"If these are the people running the show, then these are the people we will go and see," Mr. Millington said.

ANAF News

The Duke of Edinburgh Unit Pipe Band continued their winning ways as they won second place in the Slow March and came third in the March Strathspey and Reel. This gives them a total this year of three seconds, three thirds, two fourths and two sixth places. A very good record and they are to be congratulated.

About 20 members and wives travelled to the CNE on the bus with the band and color party. It took over one hour to travel from Yonge Street along the Lakeshore Blvd. to the Fort York Armories with the result that the Warrior's Day Parade had already started. But the Unit representatives managed to get in position and made a brave showing with Drum Major Al Burns proudly leading them. What a crowd. The grandstand was jammed to capacity while thousands more lined the route. Up to time of leaving no results of any winners in the various groups had been heard. (Note: on the grounds, draft 70 cents a drink, other drinks in the same ratio. Don't say you weren't warned.

It was a lovely day but must have been above 80 degrees. Some of the 48th Pipe Bandsmen spotted the unit's members and a pleasant stop was made on the way back with welcome refreshments and sandwiches which were were much appreciated. Howard Kokesh, with his tongue in his cheek, gives a fashion hint of what the well dressed wife should wear when driving her husband down to catch an early bus. A kimono over a long nightdress, tied around the middle, and bedroom slippers. He said he noticed a lady dressed that way and thought it becoming.

The sick comrades in hospital for once is a very short list with just two in Belleville General Hospital, George Carver, room 607 and John Carr, room 323.

Three letters have been received from French and Swiss cadets that visited here a few weeks ago. Copies will be placed on the notice board. If interested, read them and replace on the board for other members. They're worth reading.

It was with deep and sincere regret the members of the Duke of Edinburgh Unit learned of the tragic passing of Cdr. Earl Brant. The sympathies of the members are extended to the members of his family. He was a great and dedicated Legionnaire ever ready to help out the cause of the veterans and their dependents. He will be sorely missed by all district Legion members.

The Impossible Dream

Norman Bruce McLeod, the new moderator of the United Church of Canada has the faith and enthusiasm of a comparatively young man. He is 43 and he views the world as a "glorious village." As such he wants to talk with the Moslems as well as the Anglicans and other western religions.

But he is a man in a hurry and to judge from the world's history and the fractious nature of mankind, not to mention the separate nature of the various churches, we can only view with some cynicism his view that "Union (with the Anglican Church and the entire Church of Christ's Disciples) should be done and done quickly."

If such a union is not accomplished within a year or so, Dr. McLeod believes they should "put it up." And it is he believes the concept is just "a parochial, narrow, in-the-family discussion." In the context of the global village mentioned above he would like to see discussions with the wider family of world religions.

Is this possible in a world as "hung-up" as ours is today? Superficially there is a better climate in big power relationships but an underlying tension and an atmosphere of intrigue also permeate world society.

Even the routine differences that crop up between individuals or among groups have been magnified during the United Church's discussions in Saskatoon. The word from there is that the church is having difficulty expressing an official viewpoint on issues of the day because of the church's present call for infusion of democracy." It seems the lay delegates, the "backbenchers" so to speak, are being afforded more opportunities to speak than in the past and exchanges on such subjects as Northern and English-French relations have been lengthy and heated. This means that quite apart from the more cancerous manifestations of our contemporary world — from the Vietnam war to the perennial cauldron that is the Middle East to violence in Northern Ireland — people have differences of opinion and express them vigorously.

We speak of brotherhood and a week is set aside annually to perpetuate it but really the psychological make-up of man militates against unanimity. Men may reach a decision through the democratic process but that does not make them brothers or united in thought and purpose.

Are the churches then seeking the impossible? As they put it in St. Thomas, Archbishop E. W. Scott of the Anglican Church has called on all Christians to speak with one voice to the world's leaders on major issues. Given the nature of man this is not possible, never has been and never will be. We recall part of an address during the height of the cold war by the then British foreign secretary, the late Ernest Bevin. He said in part, "We must agree with whom we can agree. . ." And that is about the best we can hope for, failing which we can only agree to differ. That is democracy; it is also human nature.

Sorry Day for Sport

This is a sorry day for international sport. The exclusion of Rhodesia from the Olympic Games in Munich because of pressure from black Africa means that politics has won the day.

In the past, for the most part, the Games have proceeded successfully without any overt political taint and; in the spirit of the original Olympic concept, has permitted the participation of all countries whatever their race, creed or religion.

The fact that the Rhodesian team is multi-racial makes the bully-boy ganging up of black African countries, supported for their own ends by American politics, all the more petulant and hypocritical. Dictatorship is the norm in many of the newly-independent countries of Africa today and it stems in large part from the political immaturity, education and backwardness of the average African. It has resulted in the establishment of an elite of the relatively few educated, who themselves are heavily dependent on white assistance in economic development and who compensate heavily by effecting the trappings of personal power.

We see this kind of thing in the actions of Uganda's General Amin who is currently expelling the country's Asian population, a move which goes contrary to the dependence theme since the Asians are the merchants and professional people in a country that has too few of these among its own native races. Thus, aside from economics, the inherent racism involved is apparent. It exposes black African politics as embracing the very tactics it traditionally accuses the former white colonialists of in the past.

The spirit of the Olympics has been tarnished and we are the poorer as a result.

Ottawa Won't Let Nelson Castonguay Go

By FARMER TISSINGTON
From The Intelligencer's
Ottawa Bureau

Nelson Castonguay probably is the only federal public servant in Canada who has been commended that the government can't spare his services. He received a Commons' committee a couple of years ago that the government didn't require his services.

He had retired as Canada's chief electoral officer and was subsequently re-engaged as the first federal representation commissioner. He undertook his new duties and, at the same time, assisted the new chief electoral officer through the general election of 1968. Then he was commissioned by the government to look into the feasibility of Canada establishing a permanent voters' list. He travelled to Australia to study their system.

Once this work was concluded, Mr. Castonguay found himself at loose ends. As representation commissioner, he only is really busy following each 10-year census when, by law, the boundaries of the federal electoral districts must be redrawn to bring their size and their population into some sort of balance.

He told the Commons' committee on privileges and elections they should do away with his job and save the cost of his salary. The committee never did get around to acting on his suggestion.

Now, Mr. Castonguay is busy preparing for the next redistribution. It should be completed about the end of 1973 for the general election some time thereafter.

In the past, Canada's riding boundaries were redrawn at intervals with the members of Parliament handling the details themselves. This led to bitterness and partisan jugg'ing as MPs tried to draw their own riding boundaries to their own best advantage. This has been changed with the passage of the Electoral Boundaries Adjustment Act of 1963. Ten independent and non-partisan tribunals, one for each province, now govern the task.

The wheels have begun to turn for the second redistribution under the new system. Tribunals must be established and ready to function by July 1, this second one is going to see some drastic revision brought about by the creativity shown by population in Canada. In the last redistribution, only four of the 264 ridings emerged unchanged. Chances are the same thing will happen this time.

The population shifts will mean that Newfoundland, Nova Scotia, Manitoba and Saskatchewan will all lose one of their seats and Alberta will lose two. The provinces to gain seats are Ontario which will go from 88 to 91 members and British Columbia which will go from 22 to 26.

Even after the new redistribution there will be many anomalies. Prince Edward Island, for example, is guaranteed four members of Parliament under the constitution, the same number as they have senators. But the entire province has a population of less than 112,000 and there are 32 city ridings which have a greater population than P.E.I., led by that giant, York-Scarborough in the Toronto area, with 391,000 people.

And what of Nelson Castonguay once his work is finished late next year? He'll probably tell the committee to fire him and save the expense of his salary.

Federal Officer Says He Is Not Needed But He Stays

By DON O'HEARN
From The Intelligencer's
Queen's Park Bureau

Through the Dalton Bales incident and the pledge of Premier Davis to consider whether the properties governing the conduct of cabinet ministers in private activity should be more clearly defined and broadened, corridor debate now is lively on just what conflict of interest controls there should, or could, be on ministers of the Crown and also, of course, on members of the legislature.

In a part since the ideal would be that neither ministers or members would have to consider or vote on matters in which they could in any way be prejudiced financially or beneficial interest.

But realistically this could not be practical. For one thing it would mean that there would be practically no revenue at all open for ministers or members to invest their savings for future security.

Carried to the ultimate such an ideal would, for example, bar personal insurance. For instance in under the jurisdiction of the legislature. Even some realtors say the ideal could conceivably come before them for decision.

Obviously some extreme weasons and hard decisions will be required in the practical set of conflict standards is to be developed by the premier and his advisers.

Overseas Junkets

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

I would like to call attention to a town item in Thursday's Intelligencer, Aug. 17 — "Ontario Tourists Urged to Take Extra-pay Holidays Overseas." The trips are too numerous to list here, but I hope you will read the item. It was relegated to the back section.

The over-burdened taxpayer who has to scrimp and save enough money (after taxes) to take his annual vacation trip in Ontario must be happy to know his member of parliament is being so fortunate.

There are seven trips planned, ranging in minimum of 33 persons. Two wives are being included but of course their fares are being paid by their husbands. How lucky can some wives get!

Besides all their first-class expenses being paid, they will each receive $50 a day while in Europe. This is in addition to their basic wages of $18,000. Very probably think that the naive public won't figure out that some of them will just be holidaying in the vicinity of Munich in time for the Olympics. How's that for political planning. "I used to be an MP . . . Join the navy and see the world," now it's join the Ontario government and go first-class.

Since this government so thoughtfully gave the Senior Citizens free transportation to their election campaign, I'm sure these good people are very happy to know they are having such a nice time tripping around the world at our expense.

When are the loyal supporters of the "Sock it to them" Ontario government going to wake up and stop this drain on the public purse?

BERT GERLING

NOT SO NAIVE

'Conflict' Controversy Still Hot

One area in which the decision should not be difficult however, is that of land holding and speculation.

There is ready reasoning why this should be banned.

No point in our economy in recent years has been more inflationary than land speculation.

For a long time there have been pleas to government to do something about these. The pleas date back 15 years at least.

A most compelling proposal that has been made from time to time again has been that government should appropriate the problem effectively. That it should launch a massive crash programs of land assembly to establish land banks in the key land-pressure areas throughout the province.

The theory behind this is that as short supply of developed land has been the cause of the drastic inflation. The one practical curb would be for government to change the situation to over-supply by putting large quantities of developed land on the market at cost.

Government has paid some lip service to land banking at election times and it has taken some legal steps at assembly through the Ontario Housing Corporation, but it never has accepted or even acknowledged its responsibility in this field.

It is still important that it do so. Very important.

But such a step would require a bold and courageous decision.

And as long as men in the cabinet are involved in land speculation and the decision is not made, the public can be sure that the government is being held back by prejudice out of conflict.

Let's Preserve City's Past

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

I would like to suggest to the people of Belleville that we form a Protective Society for the houses on our city's older streets, especially the corner. Many of them are old and beautiful and it would be a crying thing to try to save the remnants before Toronto speculators are allowed to build any more of the Cereal Box apartment blocks, as has happened in recent years.

Belleville's governing body tells us that, in spite of planning recommendations, it is impossible to apply the zoning regulations which would protect Bridge St. Perhaps it is time that we, the people that live here, did something.

The Mayor has repeatedly also told us that they are busily promoting the tourist trade in this area. If the gracious streets and buildings that we have remaining are destroyed, perhaps the tourists will whiz through Belleville without the town with more character.

A good example of this "pull everything down in the way" for concrete horrors and parking lots" way of thinking is to be seen across the American Mid-West, where they have a good deal of modern progressive building, and every town is almost identical with the others. Indeed if it were not for the enormous billboards lining the roads for a couple of miles either side, which proclaim the name of the place and the distances there will be many anomalies.

Prince Edward Island, for example, is guaranteed four members of Parliament under the constitution, the same number as they have senators. But the entire province has a population of less than 112,000 and there are 32 city ridings which have a greater population than P.E.I., led by that giant, York-Scarborough in the Toronto area, with 391,000 people.

And what of Nelson Castonguay once his work is finished late next year? He'll probably tell the committee to fire him and save the expense of his salary.

Rapid-Transit: One Answer To Those Urban Traffic Problems

The need for the development of rapid - transit systems in urban centres throughout the world is becoming more pressing. Here are some observations on the subject from The Montreal Gazette, followed by a description from a South African newspaper of an overhead-railway system being developed in Germany.

Montreal Gazette

There are few urban problems more acute in the United States and Canada than that of providing fast, economical public transportation. Even Montreal, which is well ahead of most American cities in this respect, is far from meeting its needs.

Whether the funds come from the federal or the provincial and state levels, it is a far-sighted to go on spending five dollars on highways for every dollar that is spent on urban rapid-transit systems.

It is true that the Montreal system is being steadily extended, with financing guaranteed by the province. But, at the same time, an expressway-network is being built across the length of the city and another is planned to cut across the West Island and link the centre of the city with the new airport. Nothing significant is being said about the development of a rapid-transit route to the airport.

In some provinces and states a very large proportion of the population lives in areas that could be better served by rapid transit than by highway networks that have to reach into the heart of the urban area. An adequate rapid-transit system for the Montreal area, for instance, would, in fact be serving nearly half the population of Quebec. An adequate system for the Boston area would serve about a third of the population of Massachusetts.

* * *

Martin Spring in The South African Financial Gazette

West Germany is far advanced with development of a revolutionary public transportation system which could offer solutions to some of South Africa's most intractable urban transport problems.

Indeed, it could prove to be the forerunner of an entirely new approach worldwide to the "people shifting" business.

The system, called Cabinen Taxi (or CAT for short) — will consist of a network of light-weight, twin-lane, overhead railway suspended above or parallel to existing road streets. On these rails will run electronically - programmed and controlled, automatically - driven, two- to three-passenger cabs, each destination, which will be hailed by a button at the nearest station. Passengers will key in their destination, which will be hailed by a button at the nearest station. Passengers will key in their destination, which will be hailed by a button at the nearest station. Local Sculptor Returns Home After Six Years in Britain

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Belleviliian Alan Barkley is home again, ready to work when his luggage arrives — a whole ton of it.

Alan is a sculptor who has spent the past six years refining his modern art techniques studying and working in Britain.

Packing up to come home meant more than filling a suitcase.

He also had to ship equipment and materials and many of the works he created during his years abroad. When sealed in its freight container, it weighed about a ton and had to follow him by sea.

Recent British dock strikes haven't helped speed its arrival.

Meanwhile, he's wasting no time. The 28-year-old sculptor is working to ready a studio in the garage at the Bleecker Ave. home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Barkley.

The project is typical. Work seems innate in his attitude to art.

"That's really the only way anything gets done — working at it each day or for a consistent period—not just when inspiration starts or the mood hits you," says Alan.

The garage - studio he hopes will become his working base as he re-orients himself into the Canadian art environment and decides what directions his career will take from here.

"I want to live in Belleville again for a while," says Alan. "I haven't been with my parents for some time — and I'm also tired of big towns."

Born in Belleville, a graduate of Belleville Collegiate, big communities have been his environment since he decided to broaden his artistic experience by going overseas in the late 1950s.

At the time he'd already had two years at the University of Toronto some practical background in sculpting that involved architectural commissions, and even a project for the Centennial Year Expo.

Then he struck out for Britain, where he was accepted into London's St. Martin's School of Art — at the time a focal point in developing modern sculpting trends.

Funding is always a problem in such undertakings. His parents helped his first year's stay. He also worked at various jobs when they were available. Then he got a break. In his second year a $2,000 Canada Council grant came through. It was refinanced to $3,500 for the third year.

Then, another opportunity cropped up, to help him prolong his stay, stories and work.

The Hull College of Art in 1970 offered him the position of visiting foreign lecturer. Normally, a one-year appointment, it was extended to a second term.

In total, the experience was as broadening as he had hoped, lifting him from the isolation of a beginner, giving him a view of new creative horizons, says Alan.

Britain became the base for an exchange of ideas on art, approaches, even materials which he entered as student and emerged as teacher and artist in his own right.

While still in London, he and other students had their own gallery by converting an old brewery warehouse to stage shows of modern sculpture. In Hull, he was able to have his own studio.

Artistically, the stay helped develop perspective. Contact with the history of European art, gave him an appreciation of the sources from which his own modern attitudes originated, he says.

His return to Canada is with the hope his country presents opportunities "to get a career going."

As a modern artist, he admits contemporary art causes a "certain amount of puzzlement" and hasn't "a wide audience, really."

Yet, what happens if this amounts to little opportunity for a native artist in his own land? "An alternative work locale would be needed, and he's not contemplated an immediate return to England.

"I think," Alan contemplates — "although it's not the answer you give with the new nationalistic fervor at the in-

Public Subsidy Praised

Public subsidy of the arts, while it may produce only intangible returns, is deeply linked with a country's sense of identity.

Otherwise, why is it in totalitarian regimes the arts are among the first areas to be suppressed or brought into line with official thinking?

The point is made by Alan Barkley, young Belleville sculptor recently returned from Britain where his early studies were aided by two Canada Council grants.

Alan readily acknowledges the importance of the grants—totalling $5,500 — in assisting his progress.

Getting started on an artistic career is difficult.

"But if you're ambitious all you need is some capital to get things like materials and tools and such to get going," he says.

Is public criticism in Canada of such subsidies justified?

"I suppose I understand the feeling about it," says Alan. "The Canada Council supports all sorts of things. So I suppose a lot of people feel since no one asks the government to support baseball or hockey why should tax money go to support something people are not enough interested in to support themselves."

Yet, helping create a cultural climate has a spinoff in areas of living which "many are not even aware of."

"And a strong culture has its effect on a country and its sense of identity. That's maybe why governments of various countries are always keen to support it — or, in some countries, to suppress it.

"It's interesting that in totalitarian states art is one of the first things to go against the wall or be given very strong directives. It must indicate someone believes it's vital — even if a general public wouldn't think so."

Family Reunion

CARLETON CLAN

The Carleton family reunion and picnic was held on Sunday at the Mohawk Beach, Shannonville with a large number of guests present from Thomasburg, Frankford, Belleville, Plainfield, Oshawa, Oxenfiton, Toronto, Montreal, Wicklow and Peterborough.

To start activities a smorgasbord was enjoyed at the noon hour followed by the presentation of several lucky prize drawn for the 36 in attendance.

All agreed that this special event would be an annual occurrence.

Expanded Hobby

MONTREAL (CP) — The overhead garage door at the Lebeau home slides up out of sight each morning to reveal the red door of the Coco Boutique. Andre Lebeau, of nearby Otterburn Heights set up the shop in one-half of the family's garage three years ago, after her two children were off to school, to give her an outlet for her sewing hobby. The hobby has mushroomed into a popular shop, a fabric supply business, and a sewing school.

MRS. ROY BEDARD (nee Virginia Werdin) daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Werdin, Belleville recently graduated from Oshawa General Hospital school of nursing. Virginia attended Quinte Secondary School in Belleville.

Woman's Body

TOKYO (AP) — Radio Peking reported that Chinese archeologists have found the "comparatively well - preserved" body of a woman wrapped with silk in a tomb thought to be of the early Han Dynasty, which ruled more than 2,000 years ago. The tomb was uncovered on the outskirts of Changsha City in central China.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN ROBERT BALLANCE

Ballance — Long

The recent wedding ceremony was solemnized in St. Mary Magdalene (Anglican) Church, Yarker, when Susan Lorraine Long, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Long, RR 3 Yarker, was united in marriage to John Robert Ballance, son of Mrs. Marion Ballance, Napanee and the late Mr. D. J. Ballance. Archdeacon Simmons officiated and wedding music was rendered by Mr. Barnes.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full length gown of white peau de soie in princess style with the wrist length sleeves trimmed with lace appliqued roses. A nylon net shoulder length veil extended from a coronet of white lilies and a long train caught at the waist of the gown was trimmed with matching appliques. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses and mauve carnations.

Mrs. Linda Schafer of Sydenham as matron of honor wore a yellow printed voile gown featuring puffed sleeves and lace trimmed full flounce at the hemline. She wore a white picture hat trimmed to match her dress, and carried a bouquet of lilac gladis and yellow daisies.

Bridesmaids Brendajean Long, sister of the bride, Mari McGuire, cousin of the bride from Peterborough and Sandra Love, Yarker, were attired identically to the matron of honor, but in mauve and all carried identical bouquets. Flower girl Miss Lori Jeffs, Belleville, cousin of the bride was similarly gowned but in yellow with yellow ribbons in her hair. She carried a basket of lilac glads and yellow daisies.

Dennis Dennison of Toronto attended the bridegroom and the ushers were Bill Kingsbury, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, Kingston, Roy Kerr of Napanee and John Gelan of Newburg. The ring bearer was Billy Pritchard, Ottawa, cousin of the bridegroom.

For the reception in the IOOF Hall, Yarker, and catered by the Rebekah Lodge, the bride's mother chose a pri-lon crimplene floor length gown trimmed with white dalies and complemented with white accessories and a corsage of white stephanotis. The grandmother of the bride Mrs. D. E. Jeffs, Belleville also assisted in greeting the guests wearing a blue dress with white accessories and a corsage of white stephanotis.

Leaving on the wedding trip to Kentucky U.S.A., the bride donned a white accordion pleated dress with red accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Ballance will reside at 230 Thomas St. W. Napanee.

Social And Personal

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Burchill, Belleville, wish to announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Arlene Paula, to Mr. R. George Howe, Belleville, son of Mrs. Margaret Howe and the late Mr. Raymond Howe. Marriage will take place on September 16, at 3 p.m. at Christ Church, Anglican.

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hicks, Belleville announce the engagement of their daughter Grace Marie, to Colin James Bruce, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Bruce, The marriage will take place on Saturday, September 2 at 2.30 p.m. in St. Joseph's Church, Belleville.

Previous to her recent marriage, Mrs. Robert Yearwood (nee Kathryn Marie Embury) was honored at several showers, one was held in the home of Mrs. Linda Hebden with co-hostess, Mrs. Rebecca Mole. Another shower was held at the home of Bonnie DeMille with Miss Debbie Clarke as co-hostess. A cup-and saucer shower was given by Carmel 4H members at the home of Mrs. Joan Jessup and a community shower was held at Gilead Hall. The bridegroom's parents gave a rehearsal party also.

Previous to her recent marriage Mrs. John R. Ballance (nee Susan Long) was honored at several miscellaneous showers. These included one at the home of her aunt Mrs. Louis Middleton in Belleville; one by a sister of the bridegroom, Mrs. Penny Kingsbury of Kingston and at another given by Mrs. Linda Snider in Kingston. A trousseau tea was given by the bride's mother and a rehearsal party at the home of the bridegroom's mother.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT YEARWOOD

Yearwood — Embury

Rev. L. Bigby performed the August 5 wedding ceremony in St. Mark's Church, Carrollton when Kathryn Marie Embury, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilmot F. Embury, RR 1 Corbyville exchanged vows with Robert Gordon J. Yearwood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Yearwood of RR 5 Belleville. Mrs. Earl Ross rendered organ music to the accompaniment of Karen Hamilton as soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, selected a floor length gown of tiered guipure lace which featured a fitted bodice and scalloped neckline. The long fitted sleeves ended in lily points. The centre back of the skirt was accented by a flowing train of guipure lace and the same lace edged a shoulder length bouffant veil which fell from a flowered tiara. She carried a white Bible with a single red rose and ivy.

Maid of honor, Miss Debbie Clarke, wore a two-piece dress with a flowered organza top and a mauve wrap around skirt. She carried long stemmed pink 'mums.

Bridesmaids, Judy Embury and Linda Hebden were attired in similar dresses of flowered tops and pink skirts. They carried long stemmed mauve 'mums.

Robert Luffman was best man while ushers were Robert Brownlee and Robert Landgan. Ring bearer was Christopher Sherman.

For the reception held at Gilead Hall, the bride's mother wore a robin's egg blue sheer dress with long full sleeves and a matching sleeveless chantilly lace coat. Silver accessories and a corsage of deep pink roses enhanced her dress.

The bridegroom's mother wore a long sleeved beige crimp dress with a matching sleeveless coat. To complement her outfit, she chose carnel accessories and a corsage of pink sweetheart roses.

For the wedding trip to points south, the bride donned a white hot-pants outfit with matching boots enhanced by a pink rose corsage.

Upon their return, the couple will reside on Sidney Street, Belleville.

Successful Living

The Toy Should Tally Tally with the Tot

By DORIS CLARE

Did you know that there is an organization called the Canadian Toy Testing Council? It publishes "A Guide for Consumers" and is a part of the department of Consumer and Corporate Affairs. The book describes several hundred toys which have been tested by the Canadian Toy Testing Council (available from Information Canada, Ottawa, for $1).

Here are some sample suggestions:

Birth to one year (senses of hearing, touch, sight and taste are developing): teethers, rattles, rubber squeeze toys, crib mobiles.

Seven months to 15 months (the child is on the move): large balls, single wheel toys, washable plush toys, large shapes which can fit together.

One to two years (the child's co-ordination is developing): push-pull toys which make noises, bingo beds, simple dolls or animals which can be dressed, blocks, sand and water toys.

And so on. As the child becomes more vigorous and its world larger, and as it becomes socially aware, the things it plays with change.

The whole thing is a wonderful help to anybody concerned with making the unables suitable to the user. Parents, aunts, uncles, take note.

Dear Doris: This is a letter and hope for "Frustrated Mother". My niece's daughter is invited to write in. wet her bed until she was seven. Finally they bought a "Wet Alarm" from a department store catalogue, and after one week the girl kept dry.

Is it a point of etiquette that is troubling you? Doris can tell you how it is done in Canada.

My cousin's son age 12 still wet his bed as we told her about this miracle thing, and he was trained in a few days. It cost $40, but she said it was worth $1,000 to her.

I hope parents will stop nagging and spanking their bedwetting children. It's not their fault. Parents should be glad it is the only thing wrong with the child. — Mrs. R. D.

Dear Mrs. R. D.: A wonderful testimony! I recommend the "Wet Alarm" too. Bedwetters should be handled with care, love and understanding. It is trying for Mother to have a wet bed to contend with every morning, but it is mighty hard on the youngster's ego, too!

Dear Doris: Thank you for the interesting items on senior citizens, for this is one of my fields of interest. — C. A. C.

Dear G.A.P.: Glad to hear it. Far too little has been said to alert the public about this growing body of capable and experienced people.

We should not be wasting human potential. We should not be making people feel that they are no longer important or useful.

And for the most part, that is exactly what we are doing right now. Anyone with further comments on this subject

Mirror of Your Mind

by JOHN CONWELL

NO. Unfortunately, however, old people who are isolated from relatives and helpful neighbors have no choice, said Robert Haber, of the Institute of Gerontology, a joint unit of Wayne University and the University of Michigan. Most lonely old people prefer to stay in their own homes, especially if they have stable heart conditions or other disabilities which don't require hospitalization, but there would be no one to look after them.

Will teenyboppers ever grow up?

CERTAINLY. Their mothers did, and so did their grandmothers; and there will be a fresh crop to replace the current teenyboppers. The new ones may be even screechier and have more improbable ideas. Teenyboppers need emotional outlets. Girls at their age rarely participate in sports as boys do; and therefore they need to show they are beginning to think of maturity—even if it means lavishing their feelings on teenybopper heroes.

Can marriage survive disappointment?

YES, especially when material matters don't turn out quite as expected: a fob doesn't pay as much as it promised; an apartment or a new home proves not to be the dream house the couple expected. But, a bride disappointed in her husband or vice versa, or one or both of them disappointed in the whole idea of being married—that could be dangerous. The couple might have married before they were mature enough to accept marriage.

Ann Landers

Second Hand Smoke Affects Non Smokers

DEAR Ann Landers: How many times has someone asked: "Do you mind if I smoke?"—and even though you'd rather not have smoke blown in your face you say, "That's all right, go ahead." New evidence should be called to the attention of the reading public. Ann, and here it is.

Recent experiments at Texas A and M University indicate that 30 minutes in a smoke-filled room significantly increases the non-smoker's heart rate, blood pressure and the amount of carbon monoxide in his blood. A team of researchers at the University of Cincinnati Medical Centre reported that smoke drifting from the burning ends of cigarettes, pipes and cigars contains radium which could definitely be harmful when inhaled by onlookers. Another research team at Wayne State University in Detroit found that acute illnesses, mostly respiratory, were twice as prevalent among young children whose parents smoked at home than among children whose parents did not.

Please, Ann, urge your readers to say, when asked: "Do you mind if I smoke?"—Yes, I do mind. It's bad for my health." — Charles Kleswetter, executive director, T.B. and Health Society, Wayne-Oakland Counties

Dear C.K.: Thank you for writing. For those who are too timid to say, "Yes, I do mind," I suggest that you clip this column and have copies made. When asked the question simply hand it over. That should clear a sinus or two.

Dear Ann Landers: I've been reading your column every day for four years hoping to see my problem from someone else. So far it has not appeared and I am getting desperate. I can't sign my name for obvious reasons.

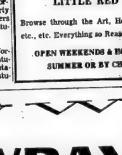
My dad is a prominent man in town. When I was 16 I had an illegitimate child. I gave him up for adoption on the advice of a lawyer and a doctor. It was the best thing to do at the same and I have never regretted it.

At age 19 I married a wonderful man who knew all about my past and has never mentioned it since. We now have two lovely children, ages four and six.

Several people in town know about my illegitimate child but no one ever threw it up to me. I have conducted myself like a lady since marriage and am considered respectable.

The question: Should I tell my children about their little brother or should I say nothing and hope no one mentions it to them? Please sign me—Sorry And Concerned

Dear S and C: Say nothing. If someone does tell them, explain that you were young and foolish and made a mistake. Then change the subject. No need to attach undue significance to the incident by bringing it up out of the blue and presenting an elaborate defence.



NUDE ACTRESS

VALLETTA, Malta (AP)—A photograph of the French actress Brigitte Bardot with nothing on above the waist appeared in a Maltese newspaper — the first time censors here have allowed such published nudity.

Dear Ann Landers: I have a friend who bragged to me that she took a trip to the coast with $600 worth of luggage that didn't cost her a dime. When I asked her how she did it she said, "I picked out the best 5 page I could find, charged it, and returned it when I got back. I just told the store manager it was poorly designed, too heavy, and I didn't like it."

I was shocked that a person could do such a thing. She told me she does the same with hats, purses, and she even "borrowed" a lamp for a party once. Why do storekeepers allow such deceit? Are they stupid?—J.J.

Dear J.: No racket lasts forever. Petty crooks are eventually found out and their reputations are mud. They are the stupid ones.

Unemployment Finances To Be Election Crisis

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield said Wednesday that Manpower Minister Bryce Mackasey must tell the Canadian people what the situation is concerning the finances of the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

"Mr. Mackasey should come clean with the Canadian people or Mr. Mackasey should resign," he said in a statement.

Earlier Mr. Mackasey told reporters that unemployment insurance payments will be more than anticipated this year but he added that that presents no problem to himself or the government.

Mr. Stanfield said Mr. Mackasey's response to the unemployment insurance issue is another example of the "insufferable arrogance that has characterized the style of the Trudeau government."

He said Mr. Mackasey has asked who knew what the unemployment situation would be in 1972. In reply, Mr. Stanfield said the Economic Council of Canada and many independent observers knew and they had the government about it.

Mr. Stanfield said that Canadians are vitally concerned about what is happening to the UIC fund "because it is the Canadian people who will have to make up the deficit."

Mr. Mackasey was asked about reports that the UIC will have a deficit this year which he came out of a morning cabinet meeting.

He said there is no "UIC fund to have a deficit."

Under a new plan started this year the old UIC fund was abolished and all unemployment insurance payments come out of consolidated revenue.

The collections from employers and employees, designed to cover payments up to a four-per-cent unemployment rate, are paid into consolidated revenue.

The government is responsible for all payments over the four-per-cent figure.

The minister said there is no way of knowing precisely what unemployment insurance payments will cost by the end of the year.

He said there are too many variables—such as the rate of unemployment for the rest of the year—to make such an estimate.

Waffle Four Quit Posts

OTTAWA (CP) — Four members of the Waffle group of the Ontario New Democratic Party announced their resignation Wednesday from the provincial executive.

Bruce Kidd, James Laxer and Krista Maeots of Toronto and John Smart of Ottawa were elected to the 26-member Ontario executive in October, 1970, at the last provincial convention of the party.

The four said in a news release that they resigned from the executive to "devote ourselves to building the new Movement for an Independent Socialist Canada set up by the Ontario Waffle conference in London last weekend."

Boy Loses Leg

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — Steven Polchak, 7, of Niagara Falls was in critical condition Wednesday night with his left leg slashed off and the right one mangled when he fell under a moving freight train.

Police said the boy was hitching a ride on the 86-car Penn Central Railroad train when he fell from a boxcar ladder and several cars ran over him.

Constable Douglas Goodman of the Niagara regional police used the cross-strap from his gun belt as a tourniquet to stop the boy's bleeding until an ambulance arrived.

Costly Refit Damaged By Corrosion

OTTAWA (CP) — Defence Minister Edgar Benson said Wednesday the extent of corrosion damage to the destroyer escort Restigouche has been greatly exaggerated.

Corrosion damage resulting from a cleaning operation at Halifax Ship Yards Ltd. has been estimated by some sources at $10 million. The ship was built at a cost of $26 million in the mid-1950s.

Mr. Benson said the damage was found during trials of Restigouche soon after the $12 million cleaning and major refitting job was completed.

He said he did not know the extent of damage and was waiting for results of a closed inquiry into the matter. The inquiry began Monday in Halifax under Lt.-Gen. M. E. Pollard, chief of technical services at defence headquarters in Ottawa.

Although Mr. Benson doubted the damage was as serious as suggested he said if costs of repair were "exorbitant," the government would not keep the ship.

"We have announced plans to retire four ships. We might have to consider retiring the Restigouche if it is that easily damaged."

He said the government wanted to find out who was responsible for the corrosion damage.

Unconfirmed reports indicate that a neutralizing agent in the cleanser caused corrosion of nearly every pipe, fitting and valve in the ship from the boilers to the steam turbines.

The corrosive agents was carried in steam to the turbine engines once the ship got under way during the trials, reports say.

Replacement of the engines would be complicated by a costly electronic warfare system installed over the engine room during the refit.

Woman Jailed

BROCKVILLE, Ont. (CP) — A 19-year old woman who admitted smuggling a spy gun to her husband in jail, was sentenced Wednesday to six months in reformatory.

Barbara Bell told court she pushed the gun through a jail window, that was covered with plastic and had no glass, to help her husband, Douglas, 24, and another man escape from Leeds and Grenville counties jail, Aug. 9.

Bell, who was serving a two-year term for burglary and Roger Caron, 24, of Ottawa are still at large.

Airport Runway Recommended

HAMILTON (CP) — The city's airport committee Wednesday selected a $25-million scheme for a new east-west runway at Hamilton Civic Airport in Mount Hope.

The plan was one of three proposed by the federal transport department. The other two called either for renovation of the present runway or location of it in an area where it would intersect Highway 6, necessitating construction of a tunnel or bridge.

Alderman Fred Lombardo, airport committee chairman, said a public meeting will be held in mid-September to discuss the plan. The meeting will follow meetings of the Hamilton-Wentworth planning board and city council at which the plan will be discussed.

Report Allan Lawrence and Wagner To Join Stanfield Slate Unconfirmed

OTTAWA (CP) — Liam O'Brien, National Director of the Progressive Conservative party, said Wednesday he is unable to confirm reports that Ontario Justice Secretary Allan Lawrence and Judge Claude Wagner, a former Quebec cabinet minister, will announce their candidacy as Conservatives when the next federal election is called.

"It is news to me," he said when asked about the reports. "But, I would be delighted."

The Globe and Mail said in a front-page story today federal Conservative sources confirmed that Mr. Lawrence, Judge Wagner and three other unnamed national figures will announce their candidacy after the election date is made public by Prime Minister Trudeau.

The Toronto newspaper said the Conservatives hope to steal thunder from the prime minister on the day the election is called by making this announcement.

The Globe and Mail said that the plan would be to have the five leading figures run in different regions. One of the three unnamed persons was rumored to be Duff Roblin, former Manitoba premier.

Municipal Board Said Too 'Protective'

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Municipal Board should be less protective and allow municipalities more responsibility in community planning, an Ontario committee was told Wednesday.

William Sims, Burlington town clerk, said the board provides "a great deal of protection" to municipalities under the present system.

"However, possibly there is over-protection and the municipalities and their administrators should bear more of the responsibility and the board a lesser responsibility."

The committee, which began sittings this month, is studying the function of the board, which is responsible for reviewing planning and fiscal projects of municipalities.

Mr. Sims said most municipalities have capable staffs, which could be better used under a more flexible OMB structure.

Mr. Sims said most municipal projects don't bother appearing before the board to state their case. They only object in the hope they may be able to hold up a development or "get something out of it for themselves." The $25 would be refunded when the objector appeared.

Seafarers Delay Ship At Welland

PORT COLBORNE, Ont. (CP) — Members of the Seafarers International Union delayed briefly Wednesday the entrance of the Cyprus-registered vessel Pampero to the Welland Canal by standing for several minutes on a St. Lawrence Seaway lift bridge.

Police walked the 20 or so men off the bridge without incident and the ship, carrying wheat from Thunder Bay, Ont., to Halifax, left Lake Erie and began the 25-mile canal trip that would take it through seven more locks before reaching Lake Ontario.

John Pearson, a union steward, said that everywhere the Pampero goes it will be picketed.

The SIU is objecting to the ship's owners, Fanfero Shipping Co. Ltd., employing an all-foreign crew while the ship is working solely within Canadian waters. The union kept the vessel tied up in Thunder Bay late last week until an injunction was imposed Sunday.

Communist Opposes U.S. Claim

TORONTO (CP) — William Kashtan, leader of the Canadian Communist party, said Wednesday Canadians should not be taken in by Herman Kahn's "pressure play regarding the sale of Canada's energy and natural resources to the United States."

Mr. Kashtan was commenting on a statement Tuesday in Ottawa by Mr. Kahn, head of the Hudson Institute "think tank," that the U.S. is doing Canada a favor by buying its resources.

"Mr. Kahn speaks for the U.S. interests who want to take Canada's over, hook, line and sinker, and that includes Canada's water," Mr. Kashtan said. "There must be no retreat to the pressure play and no sellout of the irreplaceable resources of our country."

Quebec Ownership Is Urged

MONTREAL (CP) — A Quebec study recommends that a minimum of 35 per cent of the voting stock of all securities firms operating in the province should be held by officers and employees resident in Quebec.

The recommendation was one of a dozen suggestions in the final report of the first volume of the study, headed by Louis-Philippe Bourbeau, former provincial deputy minister of financial institutions.

The report, made public Wednesday night, recommends no purchase or sale of securities in Quebec be allowed to take place through an agent unless he is registered with the Quebec securities commission.

This means that companies based in Ontario and elsewhere would have to open Quebec operations rather than do their business through an agent.

All brokers would be required to file with the commission financial statements, showing separately their regional operations by province and other areas.

HAS PARKS

The city of Montreal has about 8,100 acres of parkland.

Nursing Home Director Says 2,000 to Be Homeless

TORONTO (CP) — William Taylor, director of the Ontario Nursing Home Association, said Wednesday more than 2,000 senior citizens will become homeless when up to 100 nursing homes are forced to close by the end of this year through the new Ontario Nursing Homes Act.

In a letter sent to all legislature members, he said the homes that are closing or small ones which cannot afford to make physical additions to meet the 1972 regulations. They represented what was for many years society's only answer to the continuing needs of the aged ill."

The Conservatives have long been wooing Judge Wagner, once a candidate for the leadership of the provincial Liberal party. Judge Wagner built a reputation as a tough justice minister in former Quebec premier Jean Lesage's cabinet in the 1960s.

Mr. Lawrence has been noncommittal about his election plans. He has neither confirmed nor denied reports that he intends to be a Conservative candidate in the next federal election.

Statistics Reveal Economic Pickup

OTTAWA (CP) — While unemployment remains high with more than 500,000 jobless, some features of the government's latest employment statistics show hints of economic improvement.

Economists for years have been trying to find the statistics that indicate what is likely to be in store for the future. A few seem to show upswings and pauses in economic growth before others, though most statistics come out too late to show much more than what has happened in the past.

Among these so-called leading indicators are the rates at which employees are hired, the rates at which they are laid off, and the average length of the work week.

When activity is picking up, particularly in the manufacturing industry, employers tend to ask their workers to work longer hours. When employers are confident of continued good times, they then start to hire more.

Those trends now appear to be emerging in the latest Statistics Canada figures on employment and hours of work.

More workers are on the job longer hours than a year ago. The rate at which jobs are being filled is picking up. Fewer workers are on short-term, lay-off. And the government's latest job vacancy survey showed a marked increase in demand for workers.

Food Price Increases Mostly at Retail Level

OTTAWA (CP) — While the prices of food sold at retail for home consumption rose more than four per cent last month, Statistics Canada reported Wednesday that the selling prices of the foods and beverages industries rose only four-tenths of one per cent.

Officials at the statistics bureau could not explain the spread. They say there is no direct link between the prices charged by food and beverages processors and the prices charged by retail outlets for the consumer.

The industry selling prices index for foods and beverages, based on 1961 prices equalling 100, rose last month to 137.2 from 136.7 in June. It was, however, 8.1 per cent higher than the index of 127 struck in June last year.

The consumer price index for foods for home consumption, also based on 1961 prices equalling 100, rose last month to 138.6 from 133.2. While it rose 10 times as fast in the month as the processors' selling price, it showed less of an increase over 11 months—6.9 per cent.

The industry selling price index covers domestic food manufacturers and processors only. Prices of foods shipped into Canada therefore are not covered by the industry selling index.

Nor does the industry selling index cover transportation charges between the food manufacturer or processor and food retail outlets.

The consumer price index for food also can be sent higher by bigger retail mark-ups.

Statistics Canada said of 23 industries in the foods and beverages field, 12 reported higher prices in July, three reported lower prices, and eight reported no change from June.

Americas Are Drifting West

MONTREAL (CP) — Recent approaches by Canada and the United States towards China may have been a dramatic political breakthrough but North America has been inching closer to Asia geographically for millions of years, a Canadian scientist says.

J. Tuzo Wilson, professor of geophysics at the University of Toronto and principal of the university's Erindale College said Wednesday the Atlantic Ocean is expanding and North and South America are moving steadily westward.

Such drifting is a matter of only inches annually, he said.

Made Threats

TORONTO (CP) — Richard Wayne Garbutt, 21, of Norval, Ont., who admitted making telephone threats to the president of a Toronto company after he was fired, was convicted Wednesday of attempted extortion. George Gardiner, president of Rapid Grip and Batten Ltd., testified that a caller had threatened to blow up his home and that he would not see his wife and family again if he did not pay $500.

Get Strike Pay

TORONTO (CP) — Local 1903, Canadian Union of Public Employees, has paid almost $300,000 in strike benefits to some of the 12,000 members on strike now for 64 days against Ontario Hydro. Angela Aiken, Local 1000 information officer, said Wednesday the money comes out of the union's general account, "which is still in good shape."

Dirty Affair

SALONICA, Greece (Reuter) — A 69-year-old man obtained a divorce when he told the court his wife had been washing dirty linen in public during their years of marriage, always doing the washing in the clothes she took to wore at their wedding and never changed the bedsheets.

Seek Conciliator

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government and its postal employees applied Wednesday for a conciliator to take part in their contract negotiations in disclosing this after Wednesday's cabinet meeting. Postmaster General Jean - Pierre Coté denied it meant negotiations have broken down, saying: "I think that it is a way for us to speed up the negotiations." Talks between the three-party board and the Canadian Union of Postal Employees began Feb. 16. Their contract expired March 26.

Dockers Sued

QUEBEC (CP) — Six shipping companies have filed damage suits totalling $756,453 against a local of the International Longshoremen's Association and its officers. They charge that a strike from May 12 to July 7 was illegal as the longshoremen were violating terms of a collective agreement and refused to obey a court injunction ordering them back to work.

Returns Ransom

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — The Algerian government has returned over to two airline representatives $1 million ransom recovered from a United States airliner hijacking this month, state department officials said Wednesday. The ransom was taken to Algiers by a group of eight black Americans, including women and children, who seized a Delta Airlines DC-8 between Detroit and Miami Aug. 1.

More Flee Zaire

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — A new wave of Nigerians expelled from Zaire has arrived in Lagos with tales of midnight arrests, imprisonment, starvation and torture. More than 320 Nigerians and hundreds of other West Africans were reported from the former Belgian colony last year in a crackdown on illegal residents and foreigners without work permits. The latest refugees say they were thrown out after being detained a year in prison without explanation.

Likes Mice

SALONICA, Greece (Reuter) — A 55-year-old spinster has declared to coroner Sandis Atlanta Minister Robert Andreadis that she prefers to be called rather than carry out a police "This is supposed to be a mouse order to pasten reuters of mice where they do not need to in her flat, claiming they are be but they do not need to her sole companions. buckle around the child.

"One of the world's leading proponents of the continental drift theory, Prof. Wilson is explaining his ideas at the 24th International Geological Congress here.

He said in an interview the idea that continents drift was first proposed in the 19th century but it was not until recently that the theory received widespread acceptance among scientists.

Must Go to Jail

MONTREAL (CP) — A unanimous judgment was rendered in the appeal court here Wednesday that Jacques Desmarais, a lawyer for the Confederation of National Trade Unions, must go to prison for four months and pay a $500 fine for participating in a riot four years ago.

The court ruled that Desmarais was properly convicted and not punished excessively for his participation in the St. Jean Baptiste Day riot June 24, 1968.

Desmarais has been free on $1,000 bail pending the decision. He was convicted July 24, 1969.

Reject Freeze

TORONTO (CP) — About 500 production workers at Canadian Acme Screw and Gear Ltd. walked off their jobs Wednesday after rejecting a company request to accept a second 18-month wage freeze.

The workers, members of local 984, United Auto Workers, accepted a wage freeze for the 18 months ended July 25.

Friedan Protests

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Women's movement leader Betty Friedan disrupted a meeting of the Republican women's political caucus Wednesday, charging that women's issues were not being raised.

"Whatever is going on here, I don't know," said Mrs. Friedan, as she prefers to be called. "This is supposed to be a meeting where problems women face are discussed."

Disqualifies Self

INGERSOLL, Ont. (CP) — Oxford County's only provincial judge disqualified himself Wednesday from hearing an impaired driving case after a London, Ont., defence lawyer argued there was a possibility of bias due to the judge's connection with Abstainers' Insurance Co. of Simcoe, Ont.

Judge R. G. Gredon is vice-president of the insurance firm, which promises automobile and fire insurance exclusively to those who abstain totally from alcoholic beverages.

Anchor Seats

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal regulations that govern safety standards for children's car seats require that adult seat belts be used to anchor the child's seat.

The Canadian Press erroneously reported Tuesday that the adult belts must buckle over the child's lap.

A spokesman for Consumer Affairs Minister Robert Andras said Wednesday that the belts must be used to anchor the child's seat.

Cancer Kills Girl

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — Singers Robert Goulet, Bobby Sherman and Al Martino visited her and gave her tips on how to become a star.

But the dream of Marlene Ann Miller, 14, of Springfield, to enter show business ended Wednesday. Marlene died of cancer.

During the summer of 1970 she felt while playing with friends in her backyard and broke a leg. When the cast came off, she had a limp that didn't go away. Soon there was a pain behind the knee. Tests indicated it was cancer.

On July 13, 1971, Marlene's leg was amputated in an attempt to stop the spread of cancer.

She was never told she had cancer, and she graduated with honors from junior high school in June and hoped to enter high school theatrical productions this fall.

Game Drawn

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — American Bobby Fischer marched relentlessly on today toward the world chess championship after a draw in the 17th game.

The draw Wednesday came only five moves after play had been resumed. Spassky repeated a position for the third time.

The experts were divided over whether Spassky intentionally went for the draw or whether he had blundered into it. They had said he was in a slightly stronger position when the game adjourned Tuesday night. And he appeared surprised when Fischer paused out the violation to referee Lothar Schmid.

Murder Charge Is Laid

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) — Jailed here July 29 from Igluolik, Keewatin District, Northwest Territories, Provincial Judge C. E. Gold, 42, of Keewick, Ont., was committed Wednesday to trial on a non - capital murder charge in connection with the death of bicyclist Michael Chauvette, 10, of the Wawa-Michipicoten area, of Wawa, Ont. A trial date has not been set.

The boy was riding north on with criminal negligence, but Highway 17, about 23 miles was changed to aft-murder north of Wawa, July 12 when he murder and later to non-capital was hit by a car heading in the murder. He is still in police same direction. He died in hos- custody.

Soviet Scouts Leave

TORONTO (CP) — Arkadi Chernyshev, whose somewhat somber appearance has been a constant reminder at Maple Leaf Gardens this last week of the forthcoming Canada-Russia hockey series, returns home today.

With him goes a notebook full of trifles he picked up at Team Canada training quarters to pass along to the Soviet hockey hierarchy in their preparations for the eight exhibition games in September.

He and his scouting colleague, Boris Kulagin, were entertained Wednesday night at a cocktail party attended by National Hockey League governors.

After watching Boston Bruins centre Phil Esposito making one of his patented moves in the slot to get a shot away as a goaltender during the scrimmage, Chernyshev was asked his opinion of the play.

"The big thing we notice is that Canadians do not have just one player like Esposito. There are many we must watch."

Chernyshev, who had seen NHL players during visits of the Russian national team in this country, said he had noticed a marked change in the style of play.

"There have been some changes in your game. Not so much individual play, for example. Now you seem to play more as a team."

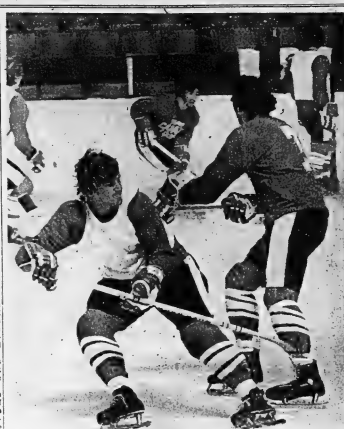
He and Kulagin were impressed with the three Team Canada goalies—Ken Dryden of Montreal, Tony Esposito of Chicago and Ed Johnston of Boston.

"Very good on long shots," Chernyshev observed. "Quick hands."

Was there any other facet of the game that impressed him during his week-long scouting trip?

"The Canadian shooting is hard. You shoot from a longer way out than we do. Your Dennis Hull shoots very, very hard."

Team Canada coach Harry Sinden, who played for the champion Whitby Dunlops in the 1958 World Championships, noted that on previous Canadian tours the Russians used to split at players who flew past them.



Chernyshev, however claimed splitting is no longer a part of Soviet strategy.

What surprised the two Russians most, however, was where the Team Canada players got their energy for two workouts spaced so closely together.

How long before the Russians challenge for the Stanley Cup, emblematic of world professional hockey champions?

The two Russians pondered the question for several moments before Chernyshev replied:

"The series with Team Canada will determine that."

Orr Back on Ice

Boston Bruins' defenceman Bobby Orr, foreground, skates past Phil Esposito during a Team Canada workout at Maple Leaf Gardens in Toronto Wednesday. It was Orr's first practice since a knee operation last month. He will be playing with Team Canada against the Soviet national team in an eight-game series this September. (CP Photo)

McLellan Suggests Sweep

TORONTO (CP) — Team Canada coach Scotty Bowman returned from Moscow and suggested Aut[illegible] day night a possible eight-game sweep by the Canadian pros in the September exhibition hockey series.

John McLellan and Bob Davidson, coach and chief scout respectively of the National Maple Leafs, spent a week in the Russian camp.

"The big thing is you can't [illegible] as long as you [illegible] ask a lot. If we play up to our capabilities, though, we could."

McLellan and Davidson were sent to Moscow with the purpose of making detailed notes on the Russian goalies, their power play and penalty killing formations and to assess these facets of the game as they apply to Team Canada.

They saw two tournament games in which players that will make up the bulk of the Soviet squad competed.

"We saw Tretiak (Vladislav), their No. 1 goalie, and he didn't get [illegible] look particularly good," [illegible] said Davidson. "He let in eight [illegible] goals, some high over his head [illegible] They can't skate [illegible] defenders and a couple he went [illegible] legs.

"They didn't play any differently than we do with [illegible] killing penalties and their power play wasn't all that different.

He said the basic difference in the two styles was that the Russians passed more to the slot in front of an opponent's goal "and seldom shoot from the wing like our guys."

Demanded Trade

MONTREAL (CP) — Defenceman Terry Harper says he demanded a trade by Montreal Canadiens because he could not stand coach Scotty Bowman.

"I've never spent a year on a more disorganized club since I started playing hockey."

Harper, a 10-year veteran with Montreal's National Hockey League club, was traded Tuesday to Los Angeles Kings for a future draft choice and other considerations.

Ballard Okay

TORONTO (CP) — Harold Ballard can represent Toronto Maple Leafs on the National Hockey League board of governors as long as he is physically able," NHL president Clarence Campbell said Wednesday.

Ballard, 63, was convicted Aug. 15 of 47 charges of fraud and theft amounting to $205,000 and was remanded to Sept. 7 for sentence.

Orr Claims Knee Will Be Ready

TORONTO (CP) — Bobby Orr skated with Team Canada for the first time Wednesday overweight and undermuscled after surgery to rectify an ailing left knee.

The Boston Bruin defenceman, outstanding player in the National Hockey League the last three years, entered the camp five pounds over his playing weight and about 2½ inches underdeveloped on his left thigh.

Prospects of the 24-year-old superstar making the lineup for at least part of the eight game series with Russia looked brighter after he skated for almost an hour.

"The knee didn't bother me at all," Orr claimed later. "The thigh muscles are still a little shaky."

"But if the knee gives me no trouble, like today, I'll be ready for the games in Russia and maybe sooner. If I could go all-out, I would be in shape in 10 days."

Orr said he believes checking in with Team Canada will speed up his recovery since he has his own admission, he's his own worst enemy. He said he hadn't done the exercises prescribed by Karl Elfff, the physiotherapist at Maple Leaf Gardens where the team is training.

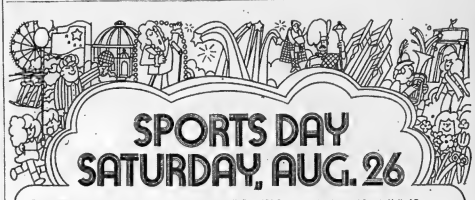
"You need someone to push you," Orr said. "Karl helped me three or four years ago. When I had surgery on the knee, and he pushes me."

"I'll be wearing a brace all the time now. I should have been wearing it this summer because I stumbled a couple of times and twisted the knee.

"I've never liked wearing a brace. . . . But this is a great one, it doesn't bother me at all. My doctor saw it at a convention. With this one, they take a mold of your leg from the cast and it fits perfectly."

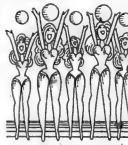
Orr said he didn't expect any recriminations from Boston Bruins whose president, Weston Adams Jr., has expressed doubt the youthful defenceman will play.

"I'm sure the Bruins won't object to my playing," Orr said. "We've talked to the Bruins and we've talked to the doctor who did the leg, and I won't play unless the knee is satisfactory."



"I hope to play in Russia, but it's possible that I'll get back sooner.

Team Canada Players Split Up



TOONTO (CP) — National Hockey League governors voted Wednesday to break up Team Canada.

The action was confined, however, to airline flights for the NHL players who will meet Russia in an eight-game exhibition series in September.

The action to use a number of flights would minimize the effect of any air disaster, according to NHL president Clarence Campbell.

There's always plenty of action at the Canadian National Exhibition, and more than ever on Sports Day. Ball games and boxing, gymnastics and judo, tennis and trampoline, and many other activities add to the excitement throughout the grounds. Here are just some of the highlights to give sports fans a field day.

Chasey Can't Fool Bombers

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers defeated Toronto Argonauts 21-19 in a Canadian Football League game Wednesday night after being thrown off stride temporarily by the rollout attack of Toronto backup quarterback Jim Chasey.

Chasey, a former Montreal Alouette making his first appearance in an Argo uniform, brought a change of style when he took charge in the first quarter, after starting quarterback Greg Barton threw two interceptions.

Chasey turned a 20-yard touchdown pass to Bruce Bergey near the end of the first quarter. A few minutes later, after Dick Thornton intercepted a Winnipeg pass and ran 41 yards, Chasey scooted for a five-yard touchdown.

Bombers, having planned on meeting Barton's drop-back type of play, switched to defensive plans originally drawn up to contain Joe Theismann, the scrambling Argo quarterback whose sidelining three weeks ago opened the door to Chasey.

The Bombers, under the direction of quarterback Don Jonas, overcame a 14-1 second quarter deficit to earn their third win against one loss and a first-place tie with Edmonton Eskimos in the Western Football Conference.

Eskimos, with a 3-0 record, meet British Columbia Lions Friday night in Edmonton.

Argonauts' loss was their fourth in as many games and

White Sox Overtake Oakland

By HAL BOCK

Chicago-White Sox used Dick Allen's lively bat, and Wilbur Wood's rubber arm for a 3-2 victory Wednesday over New York Yankees and then hopped into first place in the American League West a few hours later when Detroit Tigers whipped Oakland Athletics 7-5.

The Tiger victory enabled them to remain one-half game ahead of Baltimore in the East. The Orioles rapped California Angels 7-1.

Elsewhere, Cleveland Indians dropped Minnesota Twins 5-1 and Kansas City Royals blanked Boston Red Sox 3-0. Texas at Milwaukee was rained out.

Allen hit his 32nd homer of the year, a titanic two run shot in the seventh inning, to help Wood beat the Yankees. It was the 22nd victory of the year for the knuckleballer.

The homer soared into the centerfield bleachers at White Sox park—470 feet from home plate, an area reached only three times before.

"I don't know if it was my longest," said Allen of the blast. "I really don't keep track of those things."

Chuck Tanner of Chicago, reaching into his managerial bag of adjectives, called Allen "Babe Ruth, Rogers Hornsby and Ty Cobb, all put together."

Detroit won with a seven-run second inning, four of the runs scoring on Bill Freehan's six-run grand slam homer of the season.

Joe Coleman had it easy until the ninth when he was suddenly stroked for four runs. Chark Scelbach came on to get the last out.

Baltimore stayed one-half game off Detroit's pace by pounding California for Jim Palmer's 17th victory of the season.

The Orioles also used a big all the Royals' runs with a inning for their victory, bun- three-run homer in the sixth ching six runs in the fourth in- inning against loser Sonny Siening, three of them on a homer bert.
by Earl Weaver.

Roger Nelson carried a no-hitter until two were out in the eighth inning against Boston when Ben Oglivie spoiled the Kansas City pitcher's bid with a clean single on a 3-2 pitch.

Ed Kirkpatrick accounted for Buddy Bell drilled a bases loaded double for three runs as Cleveland stopped Minnesota.

The Indians snapped a scoreless tie in the sixth, scoring two runs on Alex Johnson's sacrifice fly and an error.

Woods Led Landslide

MONTREAL (CP) — Ron Woods shook his head in disbelief after he crossed the plate in the sixth inning of Montreal Expos' game against Cincinnati Reds Wednesday night.

The right handed hitting outfielder had just belted his second three-run home run of the night, key blows in the Expos' 11-9 rout of the Reds.

"It's not a usual thing for me to hit one homer, let alone two," Woods said. "When I go up to the plate, I try to make contact. Tonight, that's all I was trying to do."

Woods was making a rare start appearance in right field for the Expos. Normally, the former New York Yankee starts against left handed pitchers.

"This is the first time I've started against a right hander with the Expos," he said Woods. "I started against righties a couple of times while I was with the Yankees."

Woods' offensive display overshadowed a solo homer by Ken Singleton in the first inning and a brilliant four hit, 13 strikeout performance by Ross Moore. The shutout was the first for Moore in his major league career and the win brought his record to 5-6.

Singleton's homer gave Montreal a 1-0 lead in the bottom of the first inning. The Expos added another pair in the second, four in the third and four in the fifth.

Both four-run innings were keyed by Woods' blasts.

STEVENSON FORD SALES LIMITED

ANNOUNCES THE
2 YEAR GUARANTEE
ON A-1 USED CARS

At Stevenson Ford Sales Ltd. we couldn't afford to offer you a guarantee this strong if our A-1 used cars couldn't back us up.

FIRST MONTH GUARANTEE

We'll give you a 50% discount off the regular retail price for any parts and labor on repairs needed to keep your A-1 used car in serviceable condition. This discount is good for the first 30 days or 1,000 miles, whichever comes first. The guarantee does not include repairs to tires and tubes, glass, radios, and, of course, any repairs occasioned by accident or abuse.

TWO YEAR GUARANTEE

After the first month guarantee you get a 15% discount on parts and labor on repairs necessary to keep your A-1 vehicle in serviceable condition for 2 full years except of course those occasioned by accident or abuse.

Guarantee — this money back guarantee is only as good as the dealership that stands behind it. After all, if we can please you with a great A-1 used car — maybe you'll come back for a new one.
Look for our A-1 used car signs and values like: (list units by make, year, description, price)

Rain Boon To Anglers

The Kenora district of the ministry of natural resources says many inexperienly-equipped anglers are missing some of the best time to catch fish.

In its weekly report to The Canadian Press, a ministry spokesman pointed out that some anglers still do not realize the value of rain gear when fishing from open boats.

"Angling success will show a marked improvement for a short time during a rainfall," he said.

"It is hard to take advantage of this feeding spree if you are trying to find shelter or running for your boon buddies."

Several large fish were caught in the province last week with the most outstanding being a 16-pound six-ounce coho salmon caught by Ron Kirby of Coldwater, Ont., near Orillia, in the Coldwater River.

Mr. Kirby was using a spinning rod with 15-pound testline when he hooked the lunker. A friend, Peter Solva, jumped into the river to help land the fish, the largest ever reported in the area.

Residents said the catch was unusual in the area, noted for its rainbow trout, not salmon.

Other good catches included a 36-pound four-ounce lake trout in Clearwater West Lake, and a 25 - pound pike in Eva Lake. Both lakes are located in Northwestern Ontario near Atikokan.

Dancer's Daughter Sets Fort Erie Mark

FORT ERIE, Ont. (CP) — Laurier Dancer, the Canadian horse of the year in 1971, established a track record at Fort Erie race track Wednesday by running a mile and one eighth in 1:48 in the sixth race.

The four-year-old daughter of Northern Dancer also matched the Canadian record for the distance set last year in the Woodbine Derby by Speedy Zephyr.

The time clipped two-fifths of a second off the former Fort Erie track record set by Stevie Bood in 1967.

Jockey Sandy Hawley took Laurier Dancer to the front at the start and was never headed, winning by more than three lengths over Crimson Dancer. The finish resulted in a $16.40 exactor payoff.

Last year Laurier Dancer won the Canadian Oaks, Alabama Stakes and Delaware Oaks and earned $136,642.

In seven starts this season, the filly has won twice and finished second twice for earnings of $1,360.

Peterborough Meets Gaels

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) — Peterborough PCOs clinched a tie for first place in the semi-final round robin Ontario Lacrosse Association Junior A playoff series by defeating Rexdale Warriors 18-7 Wednesday night.

The Warriors, already eliminated from the finals by virtue of five losses in the series, battled Peterborough for two periods.

Peterborough has won five games, lost one and tied one in the eight-game series. The PCOs meet Oshawa Green Gaels Friday in the final game. The two clubs will then go on to a best-of-seven final series.

Title Door-Opener

MONTREAL (CP) — A Canadian junior golf title would fit nicely in the plans of Montreal's Robbie Jackson.

"If I win this it will open a lot of doors," the 17-year-old said Wednesday after he took a two-stroke lead in the first round of the 72-hole event with a two-under 70.

"I don't intend to go professional right away, if ever; I want to finish school. But here would probably get me into a good university in the U.S."

But it'll have to be a good school where I can learn something, like the University of Indiana," Jackson added.

Jackson showed his superiority over the elements and more than 170 other golfers Wednesday, taming the 6,510-yard Laval - sur - le - Lac course with the only sub-par round.

Two strokes behind the leader were John Ervasti of London, Ont., and Winnipeg's Kevin Scoll, with par 72.

Another Quebec golfer, Roderick Dodd-Hebert of Thetford Mines and Gerry MacMillan of Kingston, N.S., were another stroke back at three-over 73, one better than four other golfers.

Among the next-four was bobby Stinson of St. Andrews, N.B., who at 16 still competes for the juvenile title as well. Junior Dodd-Hebert's at the championship must be 18 years old and under and have handicaps of four and under while juvenile title aspirants have a maximum age of 16 and must have handicaps of six and under.

Bowa Gets Bleep

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Play one or two more innings, shortstop Larry Bowa of Philadelphia Phillies. Don't press your luck, says manager Paul Owens.

The player and his boss took verbal swings at each other following Wednesday night's 9-6 National League victory in Atlanta Braves.

Bowa, who claims he's in Owens' dog house, said: "Nobody appreciates anything I do."

Would Owens trade possibly the best fielding shortstop in baseball?

"Certainly I would," said Owens. "If I could help the club."

Bowa, a 221 hitter, was pulled out of Wednesday night's game in the sixth inning in favor of Terry Harmon, a .250 hitter.

"He told me I needed a rest," said the 26-year-old defensive star who set a major-league fielding record for shortstops last season. "Who needs a rest when there is a day off . . . tomorrow?"

"I'll bite to go keep in his hat," said the manager. " . . . His trouble is that he's happy when he gets two hits and we lose, but he's burned up when he gets shut out and we win."

LEAPS TO THIRD

MUNICH (CP) — John Hawkins of Courtenay, B.C., finished third in the high jump Wednesday in a warmup meet for the Olympic Games. The 23-year-old silver medallist at the 1970 Commonwealth Games cleared seven feet ¾ inch to finish behind Dwight Stones of the United States and Hermann Magerl of West Germany, both of whom managed seven feet 1¾ inches.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

FRIDAY, AUG. 25

Aries (March 21-April 19): Let others lead the way, but be right next with your best efforts to mend any breaks. Avoid clandestine actions, if possible.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Let your work go along seasoned routines, concentrate your main thrust on building healthy contacts. Don't fret your finances.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Quiet persistence begins to yield results, people begin to listen, but it is not yet time to force any issue. Gather good friends.

Cancer (June 21-July 23): The tide turns and you have general agreement on any reasonable course. Romantic or sentimental ventures offer quiet satisfaction.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): If you are on the right track, some streak of coincidence comes in to help. Reaching out to help others tends to upset your budget.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You are the main source of your own problems and should solve them yourself. An unorthodox approach may be needed.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Make use of improving relationships to take care of yourself; attend any discrepancy quickly, before it widens into further complexity.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Cater to your urge to change appearances—an investment in public image can really pay off. Later hours test your patience.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Get busy early. Get yourself free to attend to home and family. Your share may include meeting relatives more than half-way.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Bridge gaps in your information the best you can. Make introductions; where others have disagreed, seek compromise.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Co-operation is available if you concern yourself with your own needs rather than what you think others ought to be doing.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Switching from weekday conditions to week-end turns out quite a chore this time. You have better emotional rapport.

To Your Good Health

Bed Not Needed If Pressure High

By G.C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a cheerful neurotic (social teacher) age 55. The doctor says I am in excellent health but I have high blood pressure. I have lost 20 pounds, take medication and watch my diet.

Several of my friends have high blood pressure and we compare notes. I am the only one 150-90, they take off from work to rest under (they say) their doctors' orders.

Last week mine was 158-118, and my doctor was pleased as punch. When I report my blood pressure, they all tell me to go to bed and change doctors.

I respect my doctor who has taken care of me and my husband for nearly 35 years, and he tells me to keep on working. So should I keep quiet about my blood pressure score?—Mrs. G.V.N.

Managing a patient with high blood pressure can vary quite a bit depending on a lot of things besides the patient's emotional makeup, his "general health, whether he is making some gradual progress, and so on.

However, it is extremely unusual for a patient to be told to stop work and go to bed just because pressure reached 150-90, and frankly it sounds to me as though your friends are using a pretty flimsy excuse to stay away from work.

Let's admit that your pressure is higher than ideal—but you are doing something about it other than ducking work. I would, most certainly, follow your doctor's instructions, and take your friends' free advice with a grain of salt.

Yes, I'd keep quiet about your score, and if your friends do any insisting, lie to them with a clear conscience. It is quite probable their meddling is upsetting you enough so that your nervous tension is adding to a few (or more than a few) points to your blood pressure readings.

Get more information on the matter, just understanding the condition, and knowing that you are taking the proper steps to treat it, should give you a little more self-confidence and less worrying about what your friends say.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: The other day I was reading about an operation to remove facial scars, called dermabrasion. Can you tell me how old one should be to have this done, the price, and where it can be done?—P.M.

Age isn't particularly significant. Keep in mind, however, that dermabrasion is for relatively superficial scars and blemishes, and won't remove deep scars of any size.

The cost varies depending on how much area has to be treated. Your family doctor can refer you to a plastic surgeon, or to a dermatologist, since many dermatologists use dermabrasion.

It amounts to removing the surface layers of skin, and allowing a new surface layer to form. It's excellent in certain cases, but it isn't the end-all of blemishes that some folks think it is. So talk to a skin specialist or plastic surgeon first, before making up your mind whether it will help you.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 70 and my health is good. I work right along, do a lot of walking and go dancing once a week.

In the last few months I have had a hernia on the right side. The doctor said I should get it fixed. Do you think I should at my age?—G.W.

Yes. Your doctor recommended it as he knows you have general condition. A hernia does not improve by itself. It gets worse.

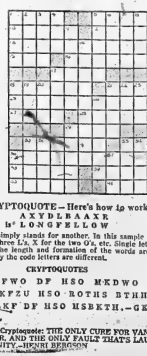
Opening lead — five of diamonds.

There is no magic rule that tells a defender when to cover an honor. The fact is that while it is usually best to cover an honor with an honor when declarer seems about to finesse, there are times when it's better not to do so.

Actually, the governing principle is to cover when it is advantageous to do so and play low when it is disadvantageous, but this advice is not very helpful because it leaves a great deal to the judgment of a player.

Consider this hand where South wins the diamond lead with the ace and returns the jack of spades. Should West cover with the king or not?



Clearly, the answer is yes. First, let's assume West ducks. Declarer wins, leads another spade, and makes five spade tricks as well as four notrump.

Second, let's suppose West covers the jack and that declarer wins with the ace and continues with the Q 10, hoping for a 3-3 division. When this fails to materialize, South makes only three spade tricks and winds up going down one. The outcome is favorable to West's covering with the king, which in turn elevates the rank of East's ten.

Nine covers because he cannot possibly show a profit by ducking but is sure to gain at least one trick if he covers and East has any holding whatever of four spades.

It must be mentioned in passing that if West covers the jack, South has a counter-measure available. He permits West to win with the king! In that way he makes four spade tricks and the contract. Declarer refuses to stake the outcome solely on a 3-3 division; instead he ducks to protect himself against the more likely 4-2 division.

Tomorrow: Bidding quiz.

Pinder Gets Used To Quinte Course Quickly

By RANDY DERBY
Sports Staff

Frank Pinder is getting it together, but don't ask any members of the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club for an eye witness report because he is almost out of sight.

The newly - arrived golfer takes an almost insurmountable eight - stroke lead into this weekend's two final rounds of the Quinte Club Championship, an edge which should give the St. Catharine's native the club honors in his first year as a member.

"Sure it's a big lead but a couple of shots out of bounds and that eight strokes can disappear pretty fast. I'll tell you after Sunday if it was big enough," smiles the new Hastings County Engineer.

Rounds of 72 and 73 in the club championship's first 36 holes are just a bit better than his usual but from all indications his game is improving which means more low scores, much to the chagrin of the 17 other finalists who will be gunning for him.

"I've been playing four or five times a week lately and things have been going pretty well," says the three handicapper. "It's the first time I've got everything together — putting, irons, drives. I'm getting more confident in every aspect of my game."

Pinder, who hails from the St. Catharines' Twenty Valley Golf and Country Club, has been golfing for 20 years and his move to Belleville brought him to a club tailor-made for his game. "It's a pretty nice course here, longer and more open than the Twenty Valley. I hit the ball fairly long so the course suits me fine. I suppose if I'm lacking anywhere it is in my putting."

Perhaps one of the reasons his driving is his golfing forte is the fact that his wrists and forearms have had a side activity to strengthen them. Pinder was an active member of the St. Catharines Rowing Club, probably one of the biggest and best clubs in North America.

He was also a member of the North American lightweight eight rowing champions last year and a member of the eights that finished third in the European Championships in Copenhagen, also last season. Not settling for that, the team finished fourth in the world championship and as a personal victory, Pinder was named Oarsman of the Year at the St. Catharines club.

A prime concern of Pinder now is the formation of a rowing club here in Belleville, starting at the high school level, but for the present time even that must take a back sea to the Quinte Club Championship title.

Of his eight - stroke lead he explains: "I play a bit better under a little pressure."

Parsons' Youth Movement Pays

Belleville Parsons showed that they could successfully switch old heads for young legs by capturing the Bay of Quinte Soccer Association pennant, last night.

Parsons, who lost six veterans to the Kingston and District Lino's Pizzaers before the season started, relied on graduates of high school soccer to bring them a first place finish. They clinched the pennant Wednesday night by trouncing Quinte Transport 7-1.

Phil McSherry, Peter Hillier and Mark Metus scored two goals each for Parsons with the seventh tally going to Brian Preston. Other members of the league pennant winners included Al McNeil, Dudley Hillier, Billy Lucas, Steve Redner, John Thompson, Peter Kazoucilis, Reid Mallory, Gary Hollerwah, Warren Rainblow and Charlie Smith.

Belleville United wrapped up their regular season schedule last night on a winning note by blanking Batawa 4-0.

The win assured United of second spot in the standings with a record of seven wins, three ties and a loss.

League scoring champion Mario Collaragh picked two goals last night as did Keith Parry.

The same two teams meet next week in the first round of Cup action.

Fencers Fast To Mend Holes

Supreme Fence Flyers patched up some defensive gaps to earn a 3-3 overtime deadlock in their Belleville Minor Soccer Cup match last night.

The Flyers found themselves on the short end of a 3-0 count to the Golden Mile mosquitoes in last night's semi-final match, but managed to bounce back for a 3-2 split at the end of regulation time. Each team scored once in the overtime period.

Lino's Play in Hurry

Belleville's Lino Pizza Rovers will be squeezing six games into the time of two this Saturday in a quest for championship honors at the 12th annual Smiths Falls Soccer Tournament.

Lino's will be one of 14 teams entered in the day long event which will see competitors from the Ottawa District Soccer League and the Kingston and District Soccer League.

The gruelling 90-minute regulation games have been reduced to 20 minutes but an assurance of at least six matches in the day make up for the shortened games.

Belleville battles the Greek Olympics in their opening match at 9:50 a.m. The Greeks lead the Kingston and District League by one point over Lino's and the contest could prove to be a grudge match.

Kinsmen Bat Two-for-Three

The Kinsmen received new life on two fronts in last night's Belleville Minor Baseball play-off action but a third front found itself on the brink of elimination.

The Kinsmen bantams came up with a 12-6 win over the CIHQ Expos to even their best-of-three series at one game apiece.

John Fieldstra pulled a homer and three doubles and Mike McClelland a triple and double to lead the winners' hitting spree. Peter McBride went the distance for the pitching win.

Mark Soules and Clyde Reedley combined for 13 strikeouts on the Expos mound.

The Kinsmen juveniles also forced a third and deciding game in their series with Mel Barrtage by clopping the Landscapers 4-1 last night.

Alan Young had a double for the only extra base hit in support of Dave Bennett and Paul Marineau, the winning pitching combination.

Shawn Mulroney lost a five-hitter for Barrtage's.

The Kinsmen infields found the results a bit different, however, as they were hammered by Planes Concrete 16-0 in their opening game of the play-offs.

Phil Van Lunteren and Brian Crookright threw a two-hitter and whiffed 16 in recording the victory. Scott Dafoe polished a homer for Plane's big blast.

Mike Dowling and Ron Guthrie also notched 16 strikeouts in taking the loss for the Kinsmen.

Farmers Far From Being Out

The Junior Farmers may be down but they're certainly not out in the Prince Edward North Shore Softball League finals against Consecon.

After trailing the best-of-seven series three games to none, the Farmers have won two in a row including Wednesday night's 9-1 victory to close the gap. Sixth game of the series will be Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m. in Ameliasburg.

Clarke Alexander hurled the Farmer win, allowing Dave Hits and whiffing nine. Brian Montgomery and Bill Kristalyn had two hits apiece for the regular season third-place finishers, with Pete Pettingill knocking a bases-loaded triple in the sixth.

Art Kellar took the loss for Consecon, giving up seven hits while fanning four. Dave Phillips stroked two hits in a losing effort.

Mexicans 'Must' Win Tonight

TORONTO (CP) — Mexico's national soccer team feels it must win tonight's World Cup zone contest against Canada—and win convincingly.

"This is very important . . . very important," says Enrique Borge who is his country's leading scorer and plays centre forward with Club America in Mexico City.

"We must win here and win well. There's so much pressure at home."

Coach Javier de la Torre agreed.

"The opinion of the Mexican people is that Canada and the United States should be no trouble for us. As a coach you can see that I must win here."

The game is the first for Evaline Hodgkinson, Kay Watt and Josephine Armstrong took the women's triples title with a 4-0 record.

Ontario Takes Title

MONTREAL (CP) — Ontario bowlers dominated play at the Canadian lawn bowling championships, winning titles in four of six categories Wednesday.

Barry McFadden of Port Credit won the men's singles title with a 21-4 victory over Saskatchewan.

In doubles play, Jim Law skipped Ontario to a 19-5 conquest of John Berry's British Columbia team in a 13 - end playoff made necessary when both teams finished with 5-1 records.

Shirley Otis and Nellie Kipp of Woodstock guided Ontario to a 24-0 women's doubles victory over Manitoba, enabling their team to take first place with a 4-0 record.

Killanin Open Advocate

MUNICH (AP) — Lord Killanin, who will succeed Avery Brundage as president of the International Olympic Committee, has indicated that he will not be a diehard champion of amateurism during his eight-year term.

"I don't believe in open Olympics," he said in an interview after his election Wednesday. "I don't believe in professional Olympics. But I do think we have to realize that we are about to enter the last quarter of the 20th century."

Killanin, 59-year-old Irish nobleman who has been journalist, author and movie producer, does not take over as president until mid-1972 at the Munich games Sept. 10. Until the Olympic torch is extinguished, Brundage, who has retained his badge an inch on amateurism and the eligibility rule for the last 20 years, remains in office.

"I will make no policy statements for the moment," Killanin said. "I do not wish to say anything which might be interpreted as being in conflict with the president—not that there is any conflict between us."

Olympic Buildup Gains Momentum

MUNICH (Reuter) — The buildup for the 1972 Olympic Games gathered momentum today with the scheduled arrival of hundreds more athletes and the easing of tension following the ousting of Rhodesia.

Bitterly disappointed at their expulsion from the games—decided by the International Olympic Committee's 38-to-31 vote Tuesday night—the Rhodesians put a brave face on their disappointment and manifested their loyalty to the Olympic movement which disowned them.

Jean-Claude Ganga, secretary-general of the Supreme Council for Sports in Africa, summed up African feelings when he said: "We are satisfied. This is a victory for sport and for Africa."

More than 1,000 officials and competitors from 21 countries were due in Munich today, boosting the total to around 7,500 from 116 countries. The final figure has been estimated at 12,000 from 130 countries.

Yardmen Gals Oust Broadloom

The Yardmen girls slammed the Carpets 18-7 Wednesday night to sweep their best-of-three Belleville and District Ladies Softball league semi-final series in three straight games.

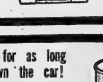
Sharon Hall and Judy Johnson a trio of safeties. Lynda Empey and Sue Mercer shared the pitching duties.

Leah Van Rompay smashed a four bagger in support of losing pitcher Marianne Sills.

"Killanin made it clear he does not agree with Brundage's wish to see the Winter Olympics wound up. But he shares Brundage's resistance to political interference with the Olympics."

Brundage, an American, has repeatedly branded winter sports as tainted with professionalism and commercialism.

Hawks Fly Away With Tyke Title



Kinsmen Hawks flew to the tyke minor softball championship Wednesday night by beating GB Watts Motors 9-2. The victory gave the Hawks the championship in two straight games.

Sean, Monaghan clouted the losers on just two hits, striking down 16 batsmen on strikes and walking five. The loss was pinned on Doug Haley who allowed eight hits and seven walks. He struck out 12 batters.

Andy Shaw swung the big bat for the tyke champs, crashing a homer and single. Don Simonds singled twice while their other hits went to Sean Monaghan, David Karsikas, Brad Grey and Steve Hannah. The lone GB Watts hits were collected by Doug Haley and Stephen Smith.

Process Filters Oil from Water

HALIFAX (CP) — Experience gained during the 1970 Arrow disaster in eastern Nova Scotia has led to development of a filtering process that removes oil from water.

Scientists and engineers who unveiled the process here Wednesday said it was efficient and cheap, and would have practical as well as critical applications.

A filter made of polyurethane—a synthetic foam derived from petroleum and used in automobile dashboards—removes virtually 99.9 per cent of oil from water, John Jay, president of Canadian Plant and Process Engineering Ltd., told a news conference.

A demonstration filter, fed water bearing about 150 quarts of bunker C fuel oil per million parts of water, cut the contamination to about 10 parts per million. As the oil was removed, the upper side of the filter blackened while clear water gurgled in the chamber below the filter.

Mr. Jay drank several sips of the filtered water.

His Halifax-based firm first suggested the polyurethane concept to federal officials shortly after the Arrow grounded in Chedabucto Bay in February, 1970, and spilled about 2.5 million gallons of bunker C into the ocean.

A. A. S. Atkinson, chief of the scientific support division of the Canada Centre for Inland Waters in Ottawa, said the company was established within a few days under those crisis conditions and was subsequently given a $50,000 federal contract to develop the concept.

Much of the development period was taken up with eliminating the endless variables arising from different types of oil, different water temperatures and different salinity levels, Mr. Jay said.

He said that aside from oil spill cleanups, the filter would permit ships to pump their bilges without putting oil into the sea and would remove effluents from oil refineries.

Area Trio Attend Conference

Vietnam War May Last Years Yet

WASHINGTON (AP) — High U.S. Air Force officials believe North Vietnam still is importing considerable amounts of vital military supplies despite the United States bombing and say American involvement in the war could last several more years.

These officials estimate that anywhere from 25 to 50 per cent of North's petroleum, ammunition and other war goods—as compared with pre-bombing amounts—are getting past the American bombing and mine blockade.

They said it is enough to sustain, on a limited basis at least, Hanoi's war effort in South Vietnam.

And, they say, it is conceivable that if efforts to negotiate a settlement to the war fail, the American bombing from bases in Thailand and navy aircraft carriers could last for some time possibly for three or more years.

This assessment, given to a small group of reporters Wednesday night, was perhaps one of the more sobering reports on the situation since the North Vietnamese Easter offensive began.

Although the Pentagon never has asserted that the bombing would shut off the flow of war goods to North Vietnam, administration and military officials have claimed that the flow had been reduced to a trickle.

It was stated in Wednesday night's assessment that the amount of supplies reaching Communist forces in South Vietnam has been drastically curtailed.

Before the U.S. resumed the daily bombing of the North in April, Hanoi received 250,000 tons of supplies a month by sea and thousands more by rail.

Toronto Plays 'Possum

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto has an opossum scurrying around its wooded areas.

And the city has members of 28 other warm-blooded animal species, says a zoological student who has spotted them.

The animals include shrews, white-tailed deer, flying squirrels, Norway rats, house mice, deer mice, meadow jumping mice, bog lemmings, weasels, brush wolves and a few red foxes.

No minks were spotted during the summer studies of Geoffrey Carpenter, a University of Guelph student, but he believes they are still in the city.

He did spot varying hares (snowshoe rabbits), cottontail rabbits and European hares (jack rabbits), six different types of bats (little brown, big brown, silver-haired, red, hoary and keenmyotis), two kinds of moles (Hairy-tailed and star-nosed), skunks, raccoons, groundhogs and muskrats.

Mr. Carpenter said the city was formerly inhabited by 12 other species which he believes may occasionally visit the metropolis.

They include beavers, porcupines, bobcats, timber wolves, black bears, martens, fishers, wolverines, otters, Canada lynx, wapiti (elk) and the occasional cougar.

Mr. Carpenter plans a book on animals in the city, written in co-operation with his zoology professor, A. E. Dagg, who is doing a similar survey in Kitchener-Waterloo.

Sewage Sludge Said Not Toxic

OSHAWA (CP) — Thomas White, city environmental control superintendent, said Wednesday there is a high level of heavy metals in the city's sewage sludge, as would be expected in a centre with so many metal finishing plants, but they are neither toxic nor dangerous to humans.

He was commenting on a report Tuesday in the environmental magazine, Water Pollution Control, which said Oshawa was among three Ontario municipalities having toxic heavy metals in its sewage sludge that is used in making commercial fertilizers.

The report urges caution in the use of sludge based fertilizers on vegetable gardens because of possible contamination from the toxic metal content.

Mr. White said sewage plant operators and the ministry of the environment have been aware of the high level of heavy metals since the plant was opened 19 years ago, adding he knows of no harmful effects which have resulted from placing the treated sludge on farmers' fields during the 13 years.

Prairie Crops Rate As Good

OTTAWA (RP) — Harvesting is beginning on the Prairies and crop yields will generally range from average to good with favorable weather, Statistics Canada reported Wednesday.

Although recent warm weather has advanced plant development, Prairie crops are still later than usual, the agency said.

In Ontario, harvesting of winter wheat is being completed with good weather although sprouting has been a major problem. Most crops have not yet reached maturity in eastern and Northern Ontario while combining of spring grains is underway in the southern and central areas. The general outlook is good except in eastern Ontario where several thousand acres of corn for grain will not mature and will be harvested as silage. Tobacco picking is well under way and the harvest of cherries and processing sweet corn is being completed.

Heat Wave

MOSCOW (Reuter) — Soviet scientists Mikhail Budyko forecast that the earth's temperature will rise by the end of the century, causing sea ice limits to race towards the poles, ocean levels to rise and air to grow much warmer, Tass news agency reported Wednesday.

No Vote Date

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal cabinet met Wednesday without discussing a possible election date or admission to Canada of Asians from Uganda. "Why don't you stop talking about this," Prime Minister Trudeau snapped at the end of the meeting when asked by reporters whether the cabinet considered an election date. "We aren't hesitating, we're administering the country. You will know when there will be an election."

Police Forces To Amalgamate

BRAMPTON, Ont. (CP) — A study committee of the Peel County regional police force has recommended union of police forces in Mississauga, Brampton, Chinguacousy, Streetsville and Port Credit.

The committee, under County Judge Barry Shapiro, said the amalgamation would be "for the best interests of the citizens."

The amalgamation will be discussed by county council at a special meeting Sept. 7.

County Warden Lou Parsons said if approval is given, the five municipalities will be asked to reach an agreement on unifying their forces.

Per capita cost for unified service would drop to $16 compared with the current costs of $24 in Port Credit and $18 in Mississauga, said Mr. Parsons.

UCS Has the Facts

A guidebook containing information on almost every aspect of daily life in Ontario is now available from the provincial government.

Distributed here through the United Community Services, the 163-page volume also comes with an indexed appendix for the Quinte region.

As recommended by the community services division of the department of the provincial secretary and citizenship, A Guide to Services is designed for use by information centres, agencies, librarians and teachers, particularly those working with newcomers to Canada.

But the book is also useful for anyone wishing to brush up on employment regulations, home requirements, citizens' rights and a host of other, useful items.

The Quinte supplement pinpoints contacts for the services described in the guide.

For instance, one section lists real estate boards from Brighton to Deseronto and another even contains the telephone numbers of Belleville's five Justices of the Peace.

The entire guide is printed on bond leaf paper so that the appendix can be inserted into the provincial booklet. Information will be updated periodically, with new pages printed to replace obsolete ones.

The entire guidebook is available free of charge from the new UCS office at 340

PLAYS FOR CHILDREN

MONCTON, N.B. (CP) — A group of 18 students from the University of Moncton's theatre department have spent seven weeks touring the provinces and presenting six plays aimed at three different levels of schoolchildren. The project, sponsored by the university and the provincial cultural centre, is aimed at giving schoolchildren an introduction to theatre. The second part of the project involves conducting four workshops in production techniques, improvisation and interpretation, plastic arts and body expression.

Queen's Students Will Open Legal Aid Centre in Belleville

By BRIAN AMARON
Staff Reporter

Queen's University law students are opening a legal aid centre in Belleville, similar, it is hoped, to one in Kingston that during the past year handled more than 1,600 cases.

When the centre opens Sept. 5, Belleville will become only the fifth city in Ontario to have such a facility. Others are located in Kingston, Toronto, Windsor and London.

Three senior law students will man the local outlet from 7 - 9 p.m. Tuesday and Thursdays. More students will be available as demand increases, so that in a year's time 25 or 30 people could be commuting from Kingston to serve the Belleville populace.

The reasons for extending the project to this city are many, according to Richard Williams, Loyalist College teacher and the man behind the Belleville centre.

If all legal transigencies were brought to court, Belleville's lawyers would be swamped, so great is the potential case load. Instances of landlord - tenant conflict, financial and welfare problems, traffic tickets and cyber small claims provide the bulk of work in student legal aid centres. Particularly those from lower income groups, are timid about approaching lawyers. The centre gives them a place to obtain free legal advice.

"Finally, some grievances are not of sufficient size to warrant professional investigation. The familiar case of a friend owing another friend money is a common example.

"People can come to us to see if they have a case," Mr. Williams advises. "We're geared to everyone."

The Belleville centre also helps ease a manpower over load at Queen's. The Kingston centre currently uses about 90 students but another 150 applied for positions. The three-year law course there has a total enrolment of more than 400 students.

Although the workers will come from Kingston, control of the centre here will be Belleville-based. Mr. Williams, himself a Queen's graduate, is currently busy recruiting a board of directors from around the community.

Labor Racket Probe Revived

TORONTO (CP) — Justice Secretary Allan Lawrence ordered Thursday a stepped-up police operation against what he described as criminal elements in Ontario's construction industry.

Mr. Lawrence told a news conference that the ambush shooting Wednesday in Toronto of union organizer Bruno Zanini convinced him that police investigation of the industry has so far been inadequate.

He said he has been unhappy "for some time" with the information the ministry has been receiving from the joint force operation which has been involved with these and other investigations.

Mr. Zanini, 51, recovering in hospital from a bullet wound in the leg, said he was shot because of his own investigations of worker exploitation in the industry. His assailants escaped.

Mr. Lawrence told reporters he has ordered that Project B be reactivated to supply extra punch to the joint investigative teams of RCMP, Ontario and Metropolitan Toronto police that has been operating for several years.

Project B, a special intelligence squad of police chiefs, RCMP, and quasi police organizations, was formed in 1969 to gather evidence in the construction industry which had exploded into violence and unrest.

Mr. Zanini was a central figure in the industry at the time because of his efforts to organize a union among concrete forming workers. He became involved in a jurisdictional fight with powerful United States - based international unions and his union was later labelled Mafia ridden by Dr. Morton Shulman, NDP legislative member for Toronto High Park.

The Project B force was disbanded after it produced reports that led to several prosecutions, mostly dealing with charges of conspiracy, but no convictions.

Nixon's Aim : Breakthrough for Peace

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Predicting he will win the November election by a margin "twice as big" as that in 1968, President Nixon says he wants four more White House years to pursue a "breakthrough for peace" in dealings with Peking and Moscow.

Nixon spanned the continent Thursday just hours after accepting renomination by the Republican party at Miami Beach.

Quota Is Not Fixed

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government has strongly condemned the proposed expulsion of Asians from Uganda and said it will accept some of them into Canada without setting a quota officially.

Prime Minister Trudeau issued a strong statement Thursday regretting and deploring the decision of the Uganda government to expel Asians with British passports.

He said a team of immigration and health officials will be sent to Kampala to accelerate the processing of applications from those Asians who apply to come to Canada.

But he gave no indication of any upper limit to the number that Canada will accept. The only hint came earlier in the day when he told reporters Canada will accept a certain number under certain conditions. However, there are indications that Canada is prepared to accept between 2,000 and 5,000 Ugandan Asians.

His statement said the Canadian team going to Uganda in the next few days will enable us to form a clearer impression of the numbers involved and of the extent to which exceptional measures may have to be taken to deal urgently with those who would not normall qualify for admission."

"Should circumstances demand, the minister of manpower and immigration has been authorized to institute a program of admission on an emergency basis."

The government has steadfastly refused to comment on numbers when talking about Asians, saying more information is needed.

Presumably if only a limited number of about 20,000 holders of British passports that President Amin plans to expel want to come to Canada there will be no question of quotas.

But if there is a massive response to what amounts to a Canadian invitation to come here, the government will have to at least consider some limit.

Special Treatment for Canada

Eight McGovern Panels To Draft Foreign Policy

WASHINGTON (CP) — The McGovern campaign organization announced Thursday the formation of a series of foreign-policy panels to develop position papers and reports "on all major areas of international affairs" on behalf of the Democratic presidential nominee.

Eight specific panels were announced and three more were promised, including a separate panel for Canada, the only one to be "devoted exclusively to bilateral relations with a single foreign country."

Abram Chayes, a former state department legal adviser and currently professor at Harvard Law School, was named to head the general advisory panel. He told reporters he'll set out Sunday on a two-week trip to Europe and Israel, where interest has been expressed by government officials and in the press about aspects of Senator McGovern's foreign policy stands.

Chayes said pressure of other work had prevented the formation now of a panel on Canada. However, it was being put together and would be announced shortly.

Many of the issues affecting Canada, he said, would already be dealt with by panels examining international economic matters and North Atlantic treaty affairs.

"However, we need more consideration of the special bilateral problems involving Canada. It will be the only country with a bilateral panel set up by our closest neighbor, we think it deserves that kind of special treatment."

Comment Is Refused on Case Of Man in Hospital 56 Years

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario health ministry has ordered an investigation into the incarceration of Benjamin Goldberg, 72, for more than 56 years in Ontario mental institutions, but results of the investigation may not be released.

Ron Poulton, supervisor of the ministry's communications branch, said publication of the findings could be considered a violation of the Mental Health Act which forbids the ministry to comment on individual cases.

Provincial police also are investigating how the medical file on Mr. Goldberg was copied and sent to the Church of Scientology's committee on constitutional psychiatry. The church released some details of the file Tuesday.

Mr. Poulton said the ministry could not say how many other patients might be in the same position as Mr. Goldberg.

Health's Bid for Power Gets Hostile Reaction

LONDON (CP) — Reports that Prime Minister Edward Heath is actively considering a major enlargement in the authority of his office are meeting a generally hostile reaction here from critics who label the proposal an affront to parliamentary government.

Sources confirm that Heath has been studying with interest a plan to set up a full fledged prime minister's department within the permanent civil service.

The man most likely to head a new establishment of this kind is Sir William Armstrong, permanent secretary to the civil service department and a close associate of Heath.

The Daily Mail commented recently:

"In power, influence and the wealth he already administers, Sir William makes the Godfather look like the leader of the local Brownies' pack. But being Whitehall, the exercise is concerned with far more sophistication than sawn-off shotguns.

The Mail said no change should be made in the present distribution of government power without an exhaustive public examination and discussion.

Japanese Nurse Trying to Register Here Saves Sight of Young Vancouver Woman

VANCOUVER (CP) — Carol-Ann Lang, 20 of Vancouver faced certain blindness before meeting a young Japanese nurse on a crowded Vancouver bus last February.

Today she's in the Kaisei Hospital at Kobe, Japan, recovering from a delicate three - hour brain operation performed by two of Japan's top eye specialists.

Prof. Jo Imachi and Dr. Ako Yamanaka say they have halted the progression of blindness and feel their patient will regain a good portion of her sight.

Miss Lang and the Japanese nurse, Kazue Nancy Fujita, worked at the same nursing home, but had never met before that February bus ride.

Miss Fujita, who became a registered nurse in Tokyo, was putting in time at the nursing home until her English was good enough to pass the registered nurse exams in British Columbia.

She remembered seeing physicians Imachi and Yamanaka restore sight to a young Chinese man. She wrote to the hospital and, when six weeks passed without an answer, telephoned Dr. Yamanaka to tell him about the "beautiful Canadian girl with the big blue eyes" who seemed to have the same symptoms as the young Chinese man on whom he had operated.

Miss Lang's opthalmologist told her "surgery is unwarranted" and that her mother, who had been seeking medical help for her daughter for six years, was "overprotective."

The diagnosis was given as optic neuritis, a condition generally associated with multiple sclerosis, although Miss Lang did not have multiple sclerosis.

Miss Lang was advised to get psychiatric help and accept the fact that she was going blind.

Miss Lang went to Tokyo July 7 and was operated on July 28.

Her head still swathed in bandages and writing pad only two inches from her eyes, Miss Lang wrote to her mother, mostly about Miss Fujita.

"Nancy was more than a saint! I'm doing great! She attended the operation and stayed in the bed next to me until one left."

Miss Fujita is back in Vancouver, hoping to find a job as a practical nurse in a general hospital until her English improves enough to write her exams.

Britain Welcomes Action

LONDON (CP) — The British government welcomed today Canada's announcement of its decision to accept some of the thousands of Asians facing deportation from Uganda.

In an official statement, the government said it hopes the Canadian move, announced Thursday by Prime Minister Trudeau, will encourage many other Commonwealth governments to take similar action.

"We are very grateful for this offer from the Canadian," a foreign office spokesman said.

"It is the kind of genuinely humane action that is needed to deal with this critical problem."

A British airlift of some of the Asians is to begin in a week after a reconnaissance operation to evacuate them before the Nov. 5 deadline set by Uganda President Idi Amin.

Hobby Shop Set To Fill Leisure

What do teaching and running a hobby shop have in common?

Not much, if you listen to Ron Mason. In fact the sports store he's just opened in the Belleville Plaza will be geared to fill a gap the education-al system has overlooked.

"When they get out of school, kids don't know what to do," he was saying prior to the opening of Ron's Hobbies and Sports last night. "Working hours are becoming shorter but what are people going to do with this leisure time?

"Schools are not doing a proper job of educating people for it."

So, in effect, Mr. Mason feels he'll continue to fulfill the role of educator but from a different position — behind a counter instead of a desk.

That's why his shop covers such a variety of interests. In stock are tools for cycling, model planes and trains, marine, bead craft, candle making, copper tooling and a variety of other diversified activities.

Mr. Mason and his wife Beth have sampled most hobbies.

When he's not teaching at Moira Secondary School, Mr. Mason builds radio controlled aircraft or plays with his model railroad. Outdoors in cycles everywhere, often from his Elmwood Drive home to the Belleville Flying Club where he is one of Canada's top flying instructors.

His wife, meanwhile, has sampled all the latest craft-work fads and is an expert on batik, macrame, art foam and more.

"If we get established, we'll have twice as many hobbies in the store," says Mr. Mason.

Actually, the job of running the store will fall to Beth's brother, Phil Rimmer, at least for the first year. After that, Mr. Mason hopes to leave Moira and take over the reins himself.

An immigrant to Canada 14 years ago from England, Mr. Mason says his new career is the fulfillment of a childhood dream.

"When I was a kid, there was a corner-hobby store nearby. I spent hours and hours with the old gentleman behind the counter. I said then that one day I would like to have a store like that."

Does he regret leaving the teaching field to which he has devoted 11 years of instruction in instrumental music?

"I didn't think I would last more than five years. But it's a profession and there's a relationship between the student and teacher that builds up. It's hard to explain. . . ."

Mr. Mason, a native of Ontario, Mr. Mason builds radio controlled aircraft or plays with his model railroad. Outdoors in cycles everywhere, often from his Elmwood Drive home to the Belleville Flying Club

School Bus Service Increased in P.E.

BLOOMFIELD (Staff) — Students living in specified areas of Picton and Wellington this year will be bused to school for the first time while all Bloomfield pupils will continue to receive bus services.

The decision followed a recent review of school busing by trustees and was made "in an effort to equalize school busing service in the main population centres of Picton, Bloomfield and Wellington."

Through the conversion of bus owners involved, adjustments to other routes will allow the implementation of the new arrangements for Picton and Wellington at no additional cost.

All Wellington students living east of the Glenora Ferry Road, north of the main railway line and west of Consecon Road will be bused to school.

Bus service in Picton will be provided for all students living on and south of Mount Street, south and east of town creek and south of Bay Street.

All Bloomfield students again will be bused to classes because of the hazardous situation existing on Corey Road.

Trustees agreed conditions there are not suitable for both heavy school bus traffic and student pedestrians.

In Sophiasburg township two new bus routes will be operated instead of last one to avoid overloading and to provide faster service.

The decisions follow the need for special transportation arrangements for a group of pupils who last year delayed others at an additional-bus stop while being stimulated through adjustments.

Two bus routes have been eliminated in Ameliasburg and South Marysburg township ships without any hardship.

A board release concerning transportation stated, "It is the board's intention to transport as many students to school as financial considerations, the location of the students, the availability of suitable transportation and road conditions permit. The board policy concerning school busing which conforms with Ontario department of education in this regard is in course whenever and wherever possible pupils are picked up as near to school opening time as possible, arrive home as soon after school closing as possible, are not required to walk more than one mile to the school bus, and are not required to ride more than twenty five miles from home to school."

The board has encountered problems in implementing this policy through road conditions or the lack of adequate turnaround areas, eliminating or restricting the use of certain roads for school busing.

Other difficulties have been prompted by load limits, fin ancial considerations making door-to-door busing for all students impossible and a need for practical routes which sometimes demands that students living in isolated areas cannot be bused to classes.

In its review of school busing this year, the board considered the new department of education transportation grant regulations which emphasize the size of buses used, the mileage travelled and the need to load buses to capacity.

Full details of the new Picton bus routes will be published when arrangements are completed following a meeting with the Picton public works department, on Tuesday, August 29.

More than 4,000 students are transported by bus to county schools and families experiencing problems with the bus system have been invited by trustees to contact the Bloomfield board offices for assistance.

Students and parents will also find a great source of information concerning individual routes in the bus owners and drivers who are instrumental in making the Prince Edward County school bus system successful" observed a board press release.

Obituaries and Funerals

MRS. GERARD McEVOY

In failing health for some time, Mrs. Loreta Agnes McEvoy, 42 Craig St., died in Belleville General Hospital Thursday. She was in her 52nd year.

Born in St. Catharines, daughter of the late Mr and Mrs. John Treacy, she had lived in Belleville for the past 25 years.

A member of Holy Rosary church, she was active in parish activities through the Catholic Women's League.

Mrs. McEvoy is survived by her husband, Gerard (Gerry), a son, Paul, at home and three daughters — Catherine and Susan, at home, and Mrs. Terry (Mary) Lawless of Belleville, and a granddaughter.

She is also survived by three brothers and one sister — Howard and Ernest of St. Catharines, Donald, Ottawa, and Mrs. Joseph (Marie) Cassady, St. Catharines.

Resting at the O'Brien Funeral Residence. Funeral will take place Saturday at 9:30 a.m. to Quiem Mass at Holy Rosary church and interment in St. James' cemetery.

ERWIN ATKINS
Northbrook

Funeral service was held earlier this month for Erwin Atkins of Northbrook who died in Kingston General Hospital after a lengthy illness. He was 77.

He is immediately survived by his wife, Blanche, and a son Ronald.

Two brothers, Hart of Florida and Harold of Madoc, and two sisters, Mrs. Bessie (Myrtle) Clarke of Thunder Bay and Mrs. Wilfred (Florence) Baker of Harlowe, also survive.

Rev. G. A. Bombay officiated at the funeral in Northbrey Funeral Home, Northbrook. Interment was in Northbrook Church Cemetery under the auspices of the Loyal Orange Lodge of which Mr. Atkins was a member.

Bearers were Hugh Armstrong, Gerard Martin, Melvin Green, Charles Wood, Arthur Garey and Sanford Keech.

CHARLES ROY COVEN Sr.

A custodian at Quinte Secondary School for the past 14 years, Charles Roy Coven, Sr. died in Kingston General Hospital Aug. 24, 1972 in his 59th year.

Born in Belleville, the son of Thomas Cantrell Coven of Belleville and the late Mrs. Coven, he had lived in Carlton for the last 23 years. He was a member of Christ Church.

Mr. Coven is survived by his wife, the former Lorna Weese, two sons, Donald, Rev. Hicks and David Andrew, all of Belleville and a brother John Coven of Belleville. He was predeceased by a daughter, Mrs. Ann.

Mr. Coven is resting at the John R. Bush Funeral Home for visitation until 2 p.m. Saturday. The funeral will take place in the chapel Aug. at 1 p.m. with Canon E. B. Wright officiating. Interment will be in Belleville Cemetery.

FREDERICK LIGHTFOOT

The funeral for Frederick Lightfoot was held in the chapel of the John R. Bush Funeral Home Aug. 21, 1972 at 3 p.m. with Rev. J. M. D. McLeod officiating. Interment was in Belleville Cemetery and the pallbearers were grandsons of the deceased, were Larry, Kirk, Stephen, Alton, Hi-rod Jr. and Joe Lightfoot.

Cyclists 3,200 Miles from Home

MARMORA (Special) — Three young adventurers travelling cross-Canada by bicycle visited Marmora last week.

John Evans, Ron Patsch, and Dan Stanton, all 23 years old and all from Salem, Oregon, have been on the road since June 12. Averaging 80 miles a day, they have covered an estimated 3,200 miles.

They entered Canada Aug. 10 by way of Port Huron and Sarnia and intend to continue to Quebec City, then down through the New England States to Boston. They will end their journey there and hitch-hike home.

The three men arrived in Magnora at noon, after leaving a Petrolyeum hostel in the morning. They commented favorably on the hostels in Canada, which are unknown in the United States. The hostels offer bed, breakfast and a shower for a nominal sum.

The three carry camping equipment on their Peugeot racing bikes. They chose this way of travelling in order to see more of the country.

The men had visited western Canada before, but this is their first trip east. On their return home Dan Stanton expects to resume his university studies and the other two, who already have degrees, hope to get jobs at the ski resort in Aspen, Colorado.

IN MEMORIAM

MOSEMAN — In loving memory of our husband, father and grandfather, Ernest Moseman, who left the service of a good friend August 26, 1971 at the Belleville General Hospital.
Memory is a golden chain
Time has been passed away.
It seems not eight years ago,
But many a day.
God saw our love, we loved you,
And used his sentence for you.
The Lord gave and the Lord took,
It was His Holy Will.
He has filled a place with a vacancy,
A home and a life with sorrow,
But in our saddest moments,
One happy thought lingers on,
We will meet again, there's hope,
We'll meet in Heaven above,
—Wife and Family.

LICKFOLD — In loving memory of our dear Dad, Frank Lickfold, who passed away August 25th, 1965, four years ago today.
Your love remains with us yet,
You were laid at rest,
Your loved ones would never forget.
(Mary), Bernice
—Always remembered by our Son and daughter-in-law Vera.

Queen's

The student-run centre has the blessing and the legal efficials in Hastings County. Queen's personnel spoke to potential court judges at C. Clendenning and Robert Walmsley, crown attorney John Preside, district legal aid officer Ormonde Butler and various police before going ahead with the project.

Mr. Butler has agreed to a partial exchange plan that should assure maximum legal opportunity for everyone.

"Any serious charges we'll refer to the provincial legal aid office," said Mr. Williams. "And if a person is refused a legal aid certificate, he or she may come down to us."

The centre must advertise the fact that it is manned by students, in accordance with the Ontario Legal Aid Act, and persons in need of its services will be referred to Mr. Butler.

Just how far a student lawyer's authority extends is also set down in the act. Students may enter pleas and appear on a client's behalf, but only for non-indictable offences. Major crimes such as theft, possession of deadly weapon and others still require a lawyer.

The success of the program in Kingston can be illustrated by the number of cases it has solved. Whereas only 25 persons were handled during the initial few months, 50 now man the office on a rotating basis.

"It spreads through word of mouth," reminisced Mr. Williams.

Funding could be a problem. United Community Services is providing an office, telephone and secretarial help in the new building at 240 William St. Transportation costs for students commuting between here and Kingston could total $1,500 for the first year. The Quinte Help Fund, a city body, is to be set up in second month of operation, has volunteered to contribute.

What are your chances with student legal aid?

"You take your risks," said Mr. Williams. "You certainly get 100 per cent effort."

Rebates Could Total Millions

Ontario municipalities could be faced with bills for millions of dollars following a ruling by the Ontario Municipal Board yesterday on an Ontawa area taxation case.

Leighton Thompson, regional assessment commissioner for region six based in Trenton, analyzed the local implications of the board ruling in an interview today and concluded similar but minor difficulties may exist locally.

The OMB ruled that Nepean Township must refund more than $1-million in 1969 property tax collections to Minto construction because its apartment and other rental properties were assessed at between 18 and 25 percent of market value, while single family homes were assessed only 12 percent of their real value.

Thompson emphasized that local difficulties would not be as ponderous as the Nepean-Minto situation only now resolved after an appeal initially launched three years ago. The case predates the takeover by the province of assessment functions.

With 80,000 entries on the rolls," said Thompson, "there are always problems maintaining a proper balance — especially between commercial and residential assessment." He said this is largely due to shifting market values.

"Maintenance of proper equity is difficult at times and these things (instances of inequity) can happen," the commissioner explained, adding he does not expect local inequities to be great.

In fact, Mr. Thompson said he invites those dissatisfied with their assessments to seek clarification because "we want to have things right. He doubts that major claims exist here against the Ontario-administered assessment system.

In Nepean, Minto is also contesting 1968 and 1970 assessments on the basis apartment owners were discriminated against.

Leighton Thompson speculates that Nepean was applying a different assessment formula to apartments because they are income properties.

If the Nepean case becomes a precedent for similar appeals in Metropolitan Toronto, the metropolitan government could have to pay back $500 million in property tax refunds.

The OMB decision has greatest relevance to assessment appeals already launched against municipalities for years 1970 and before.

Thieves Open Up For Coons, Porkies

TRENTON (Staff) — Officials of 394 Air Force City Squadron, Royal Canadian Air Cadets, CFB Trenton, have reported serious vandalism by raccoons and porcupines after thieves removed a large quantity of equipment from their Camp Ross.

The cadet training camp, situated 14 miles southeast of Bancroft, was vacant in between camping sessions.

Bancroft Ontario Provincial Police are investigating the break-in which netted thieves approximately $1,200 in cooking equipment, stoves, gasoline lanterns and sleeping bags.

A spokesman for the cadets said when the culprits left the camp, raccoons and porcupine had approximately eight or nine days to chew their way through food staples stored in boxes, 20 mattresses and a first aid kit. The buildings were also damaged by nature's prowlers.

The Lighter Side of Amy Emily Vanderbilt Post opens tonight at the Pinnacle Playhouse, bringing to a close the summer theatre workshop, YouLeatre '72.

SWEEPers Clean Up

STIRLING — A summer spruce-up of the Quinte countryside is ending.

And on a clear day, if you can pick out the improvements it will also be one of the benefits of the local $30,000 provincial SWEEP program which ends next week.

Its most dramatic marker is south of here, on the west flank of the Oak Hills — a lookout deck that gives a panoramic view for 30 miles around the countryside.

The 300-foot stairway which makes the ascent easier was built by students.

The SWEEP (Students Work ing in an Environmental Enhancement Program) project has improved the holdings of two local conservation authorities and the finances of students headed for higher education.

In all, it set 21 students working for the Moira River and Lower Trent conservation authorities.

The observation post — in the Lower Trent's Sager Conservation Area — is its most costly discernible undertaking.

But since late June the students — either from university or high school grads ates — have been laboring on more obscure, but necessary jobs, clearing waterways and brush, upgrading trail and picnic areas and breaking ground for new conservation schemes.

The students — earning $2 $2.50 an hour for a 40-hour week — showed themselves hard workers, despite such problems as insects and often poor ground conditions caused by fitful weather, says Dave McBride, 21-year-old university student from Campbellford, who is senior supervisor for the program.

Because of this all projects will finish as scheduled despite work interruptions caused by one of the wettest summers recorded — when the SWEEP program ends a week from now, he says.

Jobs included clearing brush and debris from the Flinton area of the Moira watershed; painting the O'Hara millhouse project north of Madoc; fencing the Thurlow wildlife area east of Foxboro; laying several miles of trail in the Vanderwater park area near Thomasburg, and breaking ground for a new conservation area in Sidney township on land once used by federal government entomologists from Belleville studying mosquito control.

Such projects were part of a total $2 million SWEEP program which this year has employed 1,320 students across the province.

The production is done completely through improvisation, using material gathered over the past few weeks in classes. Director Ted Bairstow said, "improvisation is one of the best ways to teach acting." There will be no admission to the performances tonight and Saturday night which will each run approximately one hour. "We have brought people into the theatre this summer who never before considered it," said Mr. Bairstow. "These young people will be great assets if they return for the winter productions of the Belleville Theatre Guild."

Working Up: Sweep Students In Oak Hills

Act Change Swells Sidney Voters' List

Sidney Township's municipal voter's list will be almost twice as long this December.

Thanks to changes in the Ontario Election Act, more than 2,000 persons affiliated with Canadian Forces Base Trenton and others living in trailer parks are eligible to vote in the municipal election for the first time.

Just how many new voters there are will not be known until after Sept. 5. That's the day enumerators begin the long chore of house-to-house calls to collect names of persons 18 and over.

But Sidney Reeve Jack Bush estimates the two sectors may boost the number by 2,500 voters, bringing the total in he township to approximately 6,000.

Main reason for the increase is a change in the act dealing with property ownership. No longer is it necessary to own land in order to receive the vote franchise.

As a result, adults living in Middleton Park, the housing development just west of the air base, and in the township's three trailer parks can vote for council Dec. 4.

How many will exercise their new right is another question.

"I think it's likely we'll have a very small turnout," said Mr. Bush. "They usually don't take much part in municipal council work. In most cases people are moving about don't is why they never get involved."

He did not rule out the possibility of a combined effort, "If they stuck together as an association, they could elect someone easily."

Under the new act, candidates will require 10 signatures of support. Previously a meeting was held at which a mover and seconder would nominate their choice for office.

Another difference will be the number of polling booths — as many as 20 compared to 10 before. Clerk Hugh Lyons is already making arrangements for the new stations.

As for Mr. Bush's candidacy, the two-term reeve and current chairman of the Quinte Planning Board won't commit himself.

"I'll have to do some thinking first," he said.

Deaf Ears

Neither governments nor professional people are always receptive to advice. Or if they are, it may be only by way of a token and then the advice is promptly ignored.

It is the same with the public at large. Thus we find that to suggestions that people might become more litter-conscious — that the kids stop throwing away candy wrappers for instance and adults quit emptying their car ashtrays all over the supermarket lot or the street — the next day you see the same wretched sloppy habits repeated somewhere else.

Or suggest that weeds, litter and cigaret butts strewn along the edge of a parking lot beside the public sidewalk be cleaned up, or that a pedestrian crossing be better defined — and there is no response.

And in Picton the other day Prince Edward County councillors complained about the reluctance of planning consultants to incorporate suggested amendments in the official plan.

Councillors received some moral support from Prince Edward-Hastings MP George Hees and from Prince Edward-Lennox MPP James Taylor who were present. Mr. Hees noted that civil servants had one thing in common and that was a desire to run the government. He urged toughness in dealing with them, and that "nothing is as strong as a delegation to a minister," especially with area MP support. Mr. Taylor urged councillors to defend their proposals, noting that council was paying the planners for their work and should "call the tune."

We agree. While the advice of professional people should be heeded and the authority of government respected, they in turn should respect the wishs of the public and of those who as Mr. Taylor points out, are paying the shot.

All Sides

It looks as if the 100 miles or so separating Brockville from Prince Edward County is too much for that city's political commissioner, Peter Lyon, judging from what little he seems to know about the Sandbanks controversy and even less regarding news coverage of the issue.

In Picton the other day he confessed to having heard or read nothing of environmentalists' protests against quarrying at the Sandbanks yet he criticized newspapers' reporting of only the negative results thereof. Told of the government report supporting quarrying at least for two years, Mr. Lyon said newspapers would be unlikely to print a report such as this that is "all for it."

Rubbish.

We do not propose to hunt through our files and refer to dates and chapter and verse, but suffice it to say that this newspaper for one has given all sides of the controversy, furthermore, its editorial comment we have tried to keep a sense of proportion, expressing the view held by many that the Sandbanks will still be there hundreds of years from now.

For Mr. Lyon's further information, we reported the government recommendations — as did other newspapers — and supported them.

Bicycle Thieves

The young lady from the radio station was chaining her bicycle outside the back door the other day and we remarked what a terrible situation it was that she should have to take such a precaution — and in broad daylight at that. What she said, looking up from a mass of shiny blonde hair . . . It's a new bike and. . .

So it has come to that, you cannot even leave a bike around in Belleville without locking it. But if it is bad here what about Kingston? Here is the caption under a picture in the newspaper there. "Whatever the reason, thieves in Kingston have found a field day this summer, stealing everything from a pea shooter to television sets. And because bicycles are a common target, at least one wary cyclist is taking no chances. Peter Joyce, living just outside City Hall, is registered to Michael Haynes of Victoria Street. The more than adequate chain secures not only the rear wheel and the frame but also the front wheel which the owner has removed from the forks."

True, cycling is increasing in popularity, but it is puzzling that they should also be a favorite target of thieves. Cars, by contrast, are relatively safe in this regard in Belleville, but again it is wise to lock them up also and take away the keys.

P. M. and Stanfield Both on Same Wavelength

Doubletalk and Hypocrisy on the Bilingualism Issue

From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

Ottawa — There are still a lot of worried Conservatives — members of Parliament included — feeling that Robert Stanfield is too low-key.

They examine some of his statements on the issues, and are concerned that he sounds not unlike Prime Minister Trudeau.

Softer, more conciliatory, tending to compromise, willing to look on both sides of an issue perhaps, but essentially following the same line.

Stanfield comes through on the basic issue — bilingualism, Quebec, the language question and all the associated factors of national unity — like a pale Trudeau.

In effect, he seems to be saying "Me too, but maybe not quite so far so fast."

The Prime Minister has laid it on the line, the hard line.

"The country," he has said publicly, must hurry with bilingualism or decision "might get tired of waiting."

He said "country," but it was clear then, and still is, that he meant "public service."

And so the government is committed to pushing bilingualism, as the directive to thousands of middle-age unilingual English-speaking civil servants, and the fear of many Liberal parliamentarians of a backlash that could drive them into defeat.

The Prime Minister has recalled that for 100 years French Canadians suffered a subtle job discrimination in the federal public service and that now there is urgency to expand the career opportunities of the two language groups.

A French language instructor at the federal government's big Ottawa bilingual training school put it more crudely to his English-speaking class:

"We from Quebec had it hard — for a century — now it is your turn."

So where does Robert Stanfield stand?

What, if any, alternative policy is he offering?

He supports Pierre Trudeau in defining bilingualism as meaning that:

"Within the limits of practicability, Canadians should have the right in federal government service in English and French according to their own choice."

He states it two or three other ways, but they are all variations of that basic theme.

Stanfield comes through a little more clearly in defining what bilingualism is not:

"It does not mean that civil servants, whether French or English, should be penalized because they speak only one of our two official languages.

"It does not mean that the merit principle should be replaced by other criteria for promotion.

"It does not mean that we must appoint a set of (French or English) quota system. It has nothing to do with compulsion . . . or any veiled form of coercion."

Pierre Trudeau says exactly the same things.

No alternative there, then.

So how does Robert Stanfield propose to handle this political hot potato of bilingualism?

He will "offer incentives" to provide "a growing number of public servants with the opportunity to speak both languages."

Precisely what Pierre Trudeau is doing, offering bonuses for bilinguals, wider opportunities, more assured prospects for promotion.

What Pierre Trudeau knows and is not saying is exactly the same thing as Stanfield, too, must know, and if knowing it, similarly is saying nothing.

And that is that regardless of what policies are chosen — or would-be prime ministers — say and promise, their words are empty, for they lack the power to keep their bilingual pledges.

Prime Minister Trudeau, like Prime Minister Pearson, promised "no one will suffer" because of bilingualism.

But thousands are suffering career damage and other thousands live in fear of it because what matters is the Official Languages Act and the Public Service Employment Act, and neither the Prime Minister nor Mr. Stanfield have whispered a word about changing a line of them.

Marriage Survives Despite Obstacles

Brantford Expositor

Recent criticism of marriage pale before statistics showing that weddings in Canada are up 11.7 per cent in the first half of the year compared to 1971 and up 12.7 per cent over the past three years.

Women's liberationists and welfare activists have made a sound like a bad deal for wives (for men, marriage continues to be like the girl with the cat, either very, very good or very horrid). A change in the household's role seem a revealed in the decrease in the birth rate to two children per couple (2.1 is considered the "safe" rate at which population neither grows nor declines) and by a great increase in the percentage of wives (36.7 in 1953) among working women.

It would appear that marriage need not be radically changed, marriage need not be given a guaranteed $300 a week as proposed last month by Heidi Miniuk of Montreal's citizen's council, for wives to have a better life.

The $100 salary for mothers would cost an estimated $10.4 billion, amounting to 13 per cent of the Gross National Product. Mr. Munro's citizen advisors argued that mothers' money would release many working wives from outside employment, freeing jobs for the unemployed. Maybe not. But might prefer "working" world to salaried motherhood for fulltime is emphasized. Those mothers who stick to their jobs would be discriminated against unless public day care services flourished beyond all expectations. The independent feeling might be good for wives but who should not be salaried too Could fathers mind the home for the motherhood salaries while their wives worked?

For all the women's lib cries, reason did not plan a guaranteed kind of work, another reason for the decline of overt mothers salaries; it would be less disruptive, more equitable to find ways to make it easier for mothers to work outside the home and easier for workers, regardless of sex, to gain a livelihood with dignity. Removal of hindrances to work for mothers would make their social role comparable to that of fathers (except for childbearing periods).

The higher marriage rate of farms mankind's monogamous bent in spite of fabled sexual permissiveness, the insecurities of females and, in the words of the president of the American marriage counsellors' association, the general recognition that "somehow marriage stinks." Many remarry (12 per cent of divorced Canadians in 1970) to help balance the fact that three out of four couples are divorcing in California, out of every five across the United States and, in Canada, almost one in four.

If marriage is easier to get out of, should it be harder to get into? Many say trial marriages are here without any rigid legislation, that birth control and easier abortions make regulations banning children for young couples unnecessary. And experimenters in various lifestyles, in the end, gravitate towards monogamous twin unions commitments. It seems to be normal.

Is This Downtown Canada?

Peterborough Examiner

The downtown area of Peterborough will be redeveloped, sooner or later, we hope, but even if it happens as soon as humanly possible, it will still be at least a long time before we see a new or even partially new downtown section.

What's going to happen in the meantime? At the moment downtown at night after the stores close and the workers from the George Street area go home, is almost deserted.

George Street at night these days does not present a very good picture and under the present circumstances there isn't much hope that it will improve.

George Street, north of Charlotte Street, does not have much night entertainment to offer but it is — or used to be — a good place for a stroll and a bit of window shopping.

Not any more. The situation as far as entertainment — or more demanding adults is concerned has not changed during the past few years.

But at the same time the street has been taken over by certain types whose main occupation seems to be to hang around street corners.

The presence of adults of the same category, have complete ly changed the appearance and character of what can be considered Peterborough's main street.

Main street is now a place where the night owners fear the presence and appearance of not to mention behavior, has alienated others.

Perhaps redevelopment would change the character of the area and with it the late night clientele to something more desirable.

But can we wait that long? Is the present picture the kind of picture we want to show our visitors? Should we just give up and flee to suburbia?

Something could and should be done to give downtown back its own and desirable character which is a combination of attractions and attractive people.

With 1,720 students registered for the fall term, every available inch of space at the BCIVS is being utilized, principal George Currie said today. Student congestion is such that two classrooms are being arranged in the school auditorium where desks are being installed and temporary partitions erected.

A five man recruiting team arrived in Belleville today to await the arrival of Eaton Fairmiles which lifted anchor at Hamilton last night and are expected to arrive here early this evening to spark a week-long recruiting drive for the RCN.

Stressing the necessity of regular attendance, Stanley F. Emerson, district governor of the Rotary clubs this area, told Rotarians "You can not have a Rotary Club without compulsory attendance". He was guest speaker at the club's meeting in the Hotel Quinte.

Canadian Smugness Rapped

Letter in The Globe and Mail

Summers in Canada have long been for me and my family a time of relief from unfiltered beauty, and, above all, inhabited by friendly, courteous people. When back in the States for the school year I've seen T. often been friends with my constant extolling the virtues and consequent envy of Canada.

Slowly but surely another element is creeping in — a "vociferous minority" to be sure but one has to draw an analogy between these "few" and the few Nazis who are present on the destruction of existing institutions. Unfortunately, too often I hear here either complete apathy or a smug sniping at the United States.

Reading some of the letters to editors and listening to the "cutsie-pie" remarks made by some of the commentators and disc jockeys one would think that Richard Nixon was a maniacal killer let loose on the free world and Spiro Agnew was a book at the very least.

Please note that Mr. Agnew is a very fine man, an outstanding governor of Maryland and a man an honest and progressive State Government. He has had the courage to say what had to be said — heaven knows we are constantly harangued by the liberal left point of view. Richard Nixon is a brilliant strategist. So he lacks charisma! — world politics is not the Miss Universe contest.

It's funny so many up here sneer at American politics—and I agree it is rotten — but they deride Mr. Nixon because he is a politician. How in heaven's name do you expect he'd act, live, let alone be elected, if he wasn't master U.S. politics.

The majority of Americans are working hard to do what is right while protecting themselves and freedom from a vociferous minority of anarchists, Communists, malcontents and "spoiled brats". They need support and help from reasonable people and Canadians would do well to be more friendly — you have the same trouble brewing here, but it's not as far-advanced as in the United States — just think back to the United States five years ago and look at what is happening here - i.e. Rochdale, U.S. draft dodgers coming over here, drug decriminalization, strikes, strikes. This is no time for smugness.

(Mrs.) Dorothy McCallum Capes, Blanco.

Home Truths for Parents

Letter to
The Hamilton Spectator

My son Neil plays hockey at the Ancaster double rink. It is a very good facility and I enjoy every game as it keeps them busy and off the streets.

But he also plays lacrosse. And after a recent game at the Mountain Arena, I was lost for words.

The boys are 14 year-olds who play lacrosse well and it was a good game for them. They really enjoyed it.

But some of the parents that are spectators. They are lousy, uneducated sports.

They badger the referees who are only amateurs, the boys on the game set down by the Lacrosse Association.

They curse them, swear and wave their fists at them when they were intervening a game. When they were in the hallway of the grownups' dressing room beck that was a little too much to see and hear in front of 14-year-old boys.

This should not take place in front of these boys. At the rink, spectators tell their boys on the one team, swat him, trip him, kill him.

I am trying to bring my son up to play sports but this is not a game for children, as the grownups get so involved and frustrated. I should say a boy home as they are irritating to a lot of other fans and to the boys playing and they don't help to make the referees distraught.

The game is for the boys not the grownups. Let the boys learn from the stands. Worse of all, many a kid like boys to get hurt on purpose.

A tripping call, okay. A lot of penalties, okay. But this forcing of boys into the boards and other boys who are also 14, and seeing boys struck across the stomach with a lacrosse stick or deliberately run violently on the floor with pain. . .

I used to say "coach a coach and he said he wouldn't coach again after this year.

I say let coaches, let them play, win or lose. It's their game, not ours. We are guides to the future for these boys. A father or parents do not show respect for anybody.

Today In History

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Aug. 25, 1972 . . .

The Belgian revolution against Dutch control began 142 years ago today—in 1830 —stimulated by the Paris July Revolution, class warfare and discontent with Dutch King William I. Belgium and Holland had been united in 1814 as a buffer state against France, but traditions, religions and interests split the new state. After the revolution broke out, Dutch troops were driven out of Brussels by Belgian workers and independence was proclaimed. Other European countries later prevented Dutch reoccupation and recognized Belgium in 1839 as independent and perpetually neutral.

1944—Paris was liberated.

1962—The Duke of Kent was killed in a plane crash in Scotland.

1970—Britain and Poland signed a mutual assistance treaty.

1971—Toronto announced that school opening would be deferred because of a polio epidemic sweeping southern Ontario.

As Election Campaign Commences

Politics Before Humanitarianism in Vietnam Decisions

By JOHN D. HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomas More Institute

Unlike Canada, the underlying issue in the upcoming national elections is foreign policy or to be precise a war, the Vietnam conflict.

Both the presidential candidates in this United States election campaign have been pledged to end it. In Canada, foreign policy hasn't really been a reason for defeat of a government since the Conservatives in opposition in 1956 made much of Canada's decision not to support Britain in the abortive Suez Crisis of that year.

Even then, it was peripheral to a major domestic crisis, would we control the Trans Canada pipeline, an upheaval which shook Parliament and the country to its foundations. A pipeline, not a foreign war divided the St. Laurent Liberals in June, 1957.

But the Vietnam war has been a pervasive, and in the case of most, unwanted, intrusive force in their political careers. For Senator Goldwater, Republican presidential candidate in 1964, his extreme views on how to bring North Vietnamese to its knees, helped defeat him.

When Lyndon Johnson won overwhelmingly against him—yet slowly but surely had to use many of the tactics Goldwater proposed—for example defoliation of Viet Cong jungle hideouts, his power slipped away. One could say former President Johnson left the White House a broken man.

President Nixon won in 1968 to a large degree because he said he would end the war. He has "run down" the U.S. contribution to it so that military support troops remain on land and land and sea elements. Offshore ships and planes presently used in the renewed bombing of the north and its port blockades, can be withdrawn quickly when a peace is negotiated.)

In every case, doing something about the Vietnam war, escalating it as Johnson proposed and Johnson finally did, ending it as McGovern and Nixon promised, the motives are intensely political, less humanitarian.

At the front of Richard Nixon's mind must be the classic remembrance that, "Democrats start wars, Republicans end them." Historically, it looks amazingly true.

Democratic President Woodrow Wilson got the United States into First World War in 1917, Republican President Warren Harding took her out of Europe, as well as out of signing any peace treaty, in effect into 20 years of disastrous isolation.

In June, 1950, Democratic President Harry Truman put America in the Korean War. Three years later, Republican President Dwight Eisenhower took her out. Democratic President Kennedy sent the first U.S. military into Vietnam as "advisers" in 1961. Republican President Richard Nixon has been the major "de-escalator" since then.

All but over-simplified in the cause of winning in 1972. Woodrow Wilson long years ago was the supreme architect of the 1919 peace and Versaille treaty. Nixon escalated grandly at sea and in the air when he recommenced the bombing of North Vietnam and blockaded the ports last spring.

Tragically, in Vietnam, truth is also an election victim.

Harbor Said to Be Unrealized Asset

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

"There's no way you can make a harbor marina pay," says a city businessman who owns one.

So, why did Bill Vaughan open a marina on the east side of the harbor this May?

"It's a service to our customers," says the owner of Vaughan Automotive and Appliances Ltd. "We'll be lucky if we break even."

The marina provides yachtsmen with fuel and a pump-out service for their holding tanks. Holding tanks have been mandatory for the last three years for all boats large enough to have heads. But because there were no pump-out stations in Belleville, the regulation was not strictly enforced the first year.

The government instituted, and now enforces, the holding tank regulation but leaves it up to private interests to install pump-out stations.

The station, which empties sewage directly from yacht holding tanks to the city's sanitary sewer on South Front St., cost about $1,200 to install, says Mr. Vaughan.

With most pump-outs costing the minimum charge of $3, recovering the installation expense is a long-term project.

Most yacht holding tanks have about a six-gallon capacity, but on large yachts they can go to 100 gallons. Vaughan Marina pumped out one of these this year.

There's not enough water traffic in Belleville harbor to make a marina profitable, says Mr. Vaughan.

"Lack of facilities at the docking level is the reason," he says. "It's ridiculous the trade that leaves the city because yachtsmen can't find a place to tie up."

The town of Annapolis, Md., with a population of 8,000, does a $1 million business with yachtsmen annually, says Mr. Vaughan.

"People off boats are impulsive buyers," he says.

Belleville harbor, in his opinion, has the space to accommodate the boats that want to tie up but now turn away.

"But we need better docks to accommodate more boats and hydro service at 'dockside.'

Mr. Vaughan says he knows of two industries whose owners changed their minds about coming to the city because of lack of facilities in the harbor.

"The Harbor Commission is interested but the people of Belleville just don't care," claims Mr. Vaughan. "They never come down here to see what's waiting to be developed."

Wallbridge Plaza Not Dead Yet

Wallbridge Plaza may get off the ground next year — but don't keep your fingers crossed.

That is the feeling of major principals involved in the 14-store complex, originally proposed to open last spring.

The problem lies with Zellers Ltd., the department store chain which owns the site at Wallbridge - Loyalist Road and Highway 2.

Several projects in the company's 1973 budget have been determined but one still up in the air is Wallbridge Plaza.

Eric Bell, project engineer for Leasehold Construction, the Montreal-based company that did most of the preliminary work, says Zellers' plans should be known soon.

"I would think any month now they will look at it again," he said.

Leasehold has been in close contact with Zeller's with the two firms co-operating on a major shopping centre in Belleville.

"They set up their budget in pieces," said Mr. Bell.

The prime locations are already done. But the Belleville plaza is going to be reviewed again for 1973."

Two major concerns thwarted plans this year: lack of water and the widening of Highway 2.

"We would need a big water tower and of course the cost would come right back to the tenants," commented Mr. Bell.

He did not elaborate on problems that might be created by road widening being carried out simultaneously with building construction.

Another puzzle is the status of Atlantic and Pacific Food Stores, at one time frontrunner as the plaza's other major tenant.

"They haven't considered the project yet for 1973," said Mr. Bell. He suggested a new food chain could be brought in should A and P decide to back out.

The question of services is a major bother to Reeve Jack Bush of Sidney Township in which the site lies. Sewage disposal, in particular, perplex potential developers in that area, he feels.

"They would need a line all the way in to the sewage treatment plant. They might even need a small treatment plant of their own," he said. The present plant is located at the foot of Sidney Street, south of Dundas Street West.

But Mr. Bell commented he "could live with the sewage problem," even though it would mean installing a septic tank "with all kinds of permits".

Meanwhile, Mr. Bush is urging another area services meeting, last of which was held a year ago.

A spokesman for Whalen Real Estate, the Belleville firm handling the land transaction, could shed no further light on plans for the plaza.

"I can't guarantee the same construction company will be involved," said Jack Diamond.

"There's nothing definite from Zellers or the others," he added.

So far now, developers, realtors, politicians and public must wait, just as they have been doing since July 1971 when Wallbridge Plaza was first mentioned. Perhaps this is the year the western portion of the city will find out if a plaza lies in its future.

Park Star-gazing Proves Popular

Loyalist college has been taking astronomy to the people in a unique leisure time program.

Math teacher William Camp bell has set up the college telescope at one provincial park and intends to tour others, offering "instant astronomy" to campers and picnickers.

The only flaw in the scheme is its success — so many people turn up for his lectures that Mr. Campbell cannot give each person as much time as he would like at telescope and star gazing.

The first lecture was given last weekend at Bon Echo Provincial Park, where there was an hour-long lineup to look at the heavens. Next on the schedule is Presqu'ile Park, weather permitting. Mr. Camp bell intends to set up the telescope at Zwick's Island and will have it in operation during the day for fun shots, as well as at night.

His program consists of a talk, slide viewing and then the peek through the telescope.

"For the kids, I talk about the big dipper, and they are fascinated by the moon," says Mr. Campbell. "They get a big kick out of seeing the craters plainly."

"Jupiter is big right now — it's that bright star in the south. At Bon Echo we were able to see the planet and four of its moons."

Because the Loyalist telescope has camera mounts, campers at Bon Echo were able to take their own shots of the heavens. Mr. Campbell is initiating an astronomy course at the college this fall for regular students.

WILLIAM EDGAR SNIDER

William Edgar Snider, of Trent Valley Lodge, died in the Trenton Memorial Hospital, Saturday, Aug. 19.

In his 85th year, he was born in Ontario and was the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Snider.

He had resided in the locality for the past 30 years and is survived by his wife, the former Edna Mae Blair.

Also surviving him are his stepchildren Mrs. James (Kathleen) Cullen of Brighton, Mrs. Arthur (Theresa) Williams, Gordon Brillinger, Mrs. Joseph (Betty) Nicholas, all of Trenton. He was predeceased by Donna McCarnan.

He is also survived by his brothers, John of Trenton and Earl of Frankford and his sister, Ella.

He was a retired laborer and was a member of Trenton Senior Citizens' Club.

He was a World War I veteran and served in France.

Funeral service was held in the chapel of the Weaver Funeral Home, Monday, Aug. 21 at 11 a.m.

Rev. Shrecket conducted the service and interment was in Glen Ablo Cemetery.

NOW Favorable Awards

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Organization for Women cited a diaper manufacturer Friday for advertising a "positive image of women." But elsewhere, there were pans among the plaudits in NOW's annual survey of the media's portrayal of women.

The feminist group, in a study of advertising, television, magazines and other media, issued Positive Image of Women awards, Keeper Her in Her Place awards and favorable citations.

No awards were given to newspapers, which NOW said "continue to reflect stereotyped women through men's eyes."

Among the favorable awards were:

Advertising—To Procter and Gamble Co. for a diaper ad showing a small girl over the caption: "The future president of the United States deserves a drier bottom."

Magazines—To Ms., the new feminist magazine.

Movies—To the First International Festival of Women's Films held in New York June 5-21.

Music—To Yok Ono and John Lennon for their recording Woman is the Nigger of the World, and Sisters, O Sisters.

Movie producers Alfred Hitchcock received a Keep Her in Her Place panning for his film Frenzy, which NOW said was "a prime example of the alarming trend toward rape and violence in American films."

Advertising — To Weverberg Shoe Co. of Milwaukee for an ad showing a nude woman lying next to a man's shoe over the caption: "Keep Her Where She Belongs."

Magazines—To Playboy and Cosmopolitan for "priming women for their role as sex objects."

Music—To Jimmy Castor's recording Troglodyte with its "dehumanizing sexual references."

MR. AND MRS. JOHN HILL

Hill – Butler

Rev. Leslie Dean officiated at the August wedding ceremony in Tabernacle United Church when Judith Ellen Butler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Butler, Belleville exchanged vows with John Nelson Hill of Oshawa, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Hill, Stouffville, Ont. W. G. Connor rendered organ music and accompanied Miss Rosslyn Robertson, the soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her mother and father, chose a floor length empire styled gown of white organza over taffeta with alencon lace extending from the high neckline to the hem and around the empire waist. Her long sheer sleeves were accented by small cuffs and a floor length veil which was trimmed with alencon lace fell from her pillbox headpiece. She carried a bouquet of red roses, stephanotis and ivy created on her nurse's Bible.

Miss Barbara Diamond, as maid of honor wore a floor length princess line gown in turquoise Swiss dot over taffeta with short puffed sleeves which were trimmed with white daisy lace. A wide bow accented the back of her gown. Bridesmaids, Miss Jacki Butler, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Lorna Sheehy, sister of the bridegroom were dressed identically to the maid of honor and carried nosegays of pink carnations, pink roses, shasta daisies and ivy. The bridal attendants also wore shasta mums in their hair.

Flower girls, Miss Marianne Davidge, niece of the bride and Miss Lisa Sheehy, niece of the bridegroom wore similarly styled gowns to the bridesmaids except in mauve and accented with purple velvet ribbons. They also wore matching bows in their hair and carried baskets of white and mauve baby mums.

Ronald Jones of Oshawa was best man and ushers were Douglas Scott and Rob by Barnes, brother-in-law of the bride.

For the reception held at Tabernacle United Church parlor, the bride's mother received the guests wearing a floor length dress of robin egg blue polyester crepe with a white and blue lace bodice and long sleeves. She also wore matching accessories and a corsage of red roses and white carnations to match her dress.

The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a floor-length dress of lilac chiffon over taffeta with a white beaded neckline and georgette sleeves. Her gown was enhanced by white accessories and a corsage of yellow roses and white carnations.

Also taking an active part in the wedding was the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Fred Sprung, who wore a floor length gown of chiffon over taffeta with long sheer sleeves, a lilac floral skirt and a plain bodice.

For the wedding trip to Pennsylvania, the bride donned a white pant suit complemented by red accessories and a corsage of red roses and carnations.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Hill will reside at 33 Montgomery Ave., Brooklin.

Rent-a-Plant Suggestion Now Successful Business

DALLAS (AP) — Business is almost too good, George Vonelf, 11, will tell you.

He knows what he's talking about, too, despite his lack of years. For almost a year he has been a quite successful businessman.

"My mother and I have always had a big interest in plants," George said. "Ours seem to grow real well. When a woman in my mother's office said she couldn't get anything to grow, we joked and said we'd rent her one of ours."

At that point the woman took them up on the offer, So George, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Vonelf, launched himself into the rent-a-plant business. He charged 50 cents a month and found other customers easily interested and satisfied.

"At the end of the month we would either pick a plant up, leave it or bring another plant," George said.

"Our business is called DGEM. That stands for Daddy, George, Elizabeth (his sister, 9) and Mother. When DGEM had collected about $50, I decided to open a savings account."

He took his money to a savings and loan association and told how it was earned. George left the place with an order for four rent-a plants.

"Most of the money goes back into equipment for outgreen house," Mrs. Vonelf said. "But George is learning something more important. He's learning how to run his own business. He even keeps his own books and goes around to the various nurseries in town and talks to the nurserymen about different problems that arise."

George sells some plants and several florists are among the customers.

Now he has branched out a bit—to plant-sitting.

"We will keep plants for anyone who wants to go on vacation," he said. "We keep them here (at his home) and take care of them, free of charge. The only thing we ask is that we get a cutting of the plants. We call it pinching rights."

Enagement Notice

Mr. and Mrs. E. Rowan Hall of Belleville are pleased to announce the engagement of their daughter, Betty Lou Bryson to William Stephen Hunter, son of Mrs. Ora M. Hunter, Belleville and the late William Earl (Curley) Hunter. The marriage will take place in Bridge Street United Church on October 7, 1972 at 1:30 p.m.

One Simple Dish - - - - An Elephant?

MOOSE JAW (CP) — The answer to a party-giver's dream how to feed a big crowd with one simple dish— is provided by a Moose Jaw woman who has shared her recipe with local newspaper readers.

There's a catch, however.

Blanche Binner's recipe, for elephant stew, was in a recent supplement of the Moose Jaw Times-Herald. It calls for one medium - sized elephant and two rabbits.

"Cut elephant in bite-sized pieces," says Mrs. Binner. "Add enough brown gravy to cover. Add rabbits and salt and pepper to taste. Cook over kerosene fire about four weeks at 451 degrees.

"Serves 3,000. If more are expected, two additional rabbits may be used. Do so only in an emergency, since most people do not like lare in their stew."

The Times-Herald backed all recipes in its supplement with the statement that "all recipes published in this cook book have been proven and tested by better cooks in Moose Jaw and surrounding district."

How often has Mrs. Binner tested her recipe?

She hasn't. There's been a problem in getting one of the ingredients.

Social And Personal

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. William Neven Hannah, Belleville wish to announce the forthcoming marriage of their eldest daughter Sharlene Jean, to David George Pulver, son of Mr. and Mrs. Merris Pulver, RR 1 Carrying Place. The wedding will take place in the Salvation Army Citadel, Belleville on Saturday, September 23, 1972 at 1 p.m.

* * *

Previous to her recent marriage, Mrs. John Hill (nee Judith Ellen Butler) was honored at a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. Lorna Sheehy in Markham, Ont. Mrs. Frank Butler, mother of the bride, gave an informal coffee party in her daughter's honor. Another miscellaneous shower was given by Miss Barbara Diamond, Miss Marion Ramsey and Mrs. Diamond in Brooklin, Ont. and Mrs. Mrs. Vern Ferguson of Brooklin gave a barbecue and Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Davidge held a rehearsal party in their home with Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Hill as hosts.

Clara Wilson of Belleville who has been a patient in the Belleville General Hospital since August 2 following major surgery is now progressing favorably at the Queen's Self Care Unit.

Women Play Leading Role In Underworld

LONDON (AP) — A petticoat revolution in organized crime is producing a new breed of women gang leaders and urban guerrillas, a British security expert says.

Women gangsters are "as ruthless or more ruthless than their male counterparts," Peter Hamilton told an international conference of Brighton, England, Wednesday.

Hamilton, a security firm executive, said women have carved out a leading role in Britain's underworld and in guerrilla organizations in Britain, the United States and Germany.

"There is no area of criminal violence today in which women are not involved—not as camp followers but as operators, planners and commanders," Hamilton said.

From the security point of view, we can no longer assume that women are the gentler sex."

Hamilton said that the women gang bosses do not shrink from violence, and added: "Women are among the strongest and most daring members of the Irish Republican Army."

He said courts should drop their "anti-male bias" and start handing out tougher sentences to women criminals.

SUIT FASHION — This brown tweed pantsuit, (right), from Oscar de la Renta Fall 1972 collection, features a short jacket with suede and brass closings and matching pants with straight, cuffed legs and suede closing at the waistline. The three-quarter-length coat, (left), is cut in grey thatch-tweed and features back collar which overhangs the lapels. The coat is worn with tweed pants, gilet and a mail-lot of paisley-printed tissue-jersey. (CP Photo)

Felt No Pain

RANGOON (AP) — The state-owned Morning Mirror newspaper reported Burmese doctors made their first use of acupuncture, the Chinese method of anesthesia by inserting needles in the body, to operate on a woman's goiter. The paper said the 67-year-old woman was alert throughout the operation and did not feel pain.

Ann Landers

Quoted Biblical Line Often Misinterpreted

Dear Ann Landers: I am writing in the hope you will correct an impression which you inadvertently gave your readers regarding Judaism. You said in a column recently you have never believed in the biblical line, "An eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth.' If everyone practised this philosophy we would eventually have a world of blind and toothless people."

It is regrettable that this quote is widely misunderstood by a great many people, Jews included.'

'An eye for an eye' literally means that the punishment must never exceed the crime. This piece of legislation was revolutionary in a time when cruel and inhuman punishment was inflicted upon people who perpetrated minor offences. Even in enlightened England, when a man stole a loaf of bread he was thrown in jail where he often languished until death.

So you see, Ann, this precept is actually a relatively compassionate piece of legislation, thousands of years ahead of its time. Thank you for setting the record straight.—Dr. Jerome Ketenbaum (Norfolk)

Dear Dr. Ketenbaum: I appreciate your interpretation of that frequently quoted biblical line. Thank you for educating me.

Dear Ann Landers: Yesterday afternoon at about 2 p.m. company arrived—unexpected and unannounced. My husband was lying down trying to take a nap. I was in the kitchen preparing food for 18 people who were invited for the next day.

These drop-in guests showed no embarrassment at inconveniencing us. What burned me up more than anything was that my husband offered them the food I had prepared for the next day's company. They made boats of themselves and practically wiped me out. After they left, I had to clean up the mess and start cooking and baking again. I was in the kitchen until 11 p.m.

Now my husband isn't speaking to me. It says I humiliated him because I wasn't charming and hospitable. I'd like your comments.—Miffed with Milton In Montana

Family Reunion

REYNOLDS CLAN

MADOC — Presqu'ile Provincial Park was the location for the annual reunion on Sunday, August 20, of the descendants of Charles Reynolds of Madoc.

Registration showed that 129 family members attended the day long event. The year marked the 12th consecutive year that the gathering has been held.

The reunion blessing was given by Charles Reynolds of Webster, N.Y., and a bountiful noon meal was enjoyed by all.

Races, baseball and swimming were all included in the afternoon activities. Prizes were given for the various events, and also to the youngest baby, newlyweds, birthday, oldest couple in attendance and the family travelling the longest distance.

Many friendships were renewed and a pleasant day was spent catching up on the family happenings of the past year. Families attended from Webster, New York; North Tonawanda, New York; Niagara Falls, New York, and Stittsville, Bath, Petawawa, Lindsay, Bloomfield, Oshawa, Breslau, Toronto, Frankford, Peterborough, Belleville, Campbellford and Madoc.

Dear Miffed: Husbands should keep their noses out of the kitchen unless they are doing the cooking and baking. Milton had no right to offer the food you had prepared for the following day. Following the drop-in unexpectedly, the helpless victims (surprised hosts) have no obligation to lay on a feed—or anything else.

Dear Ann Landers: A few years ago my husband and I became friendly with a couple who seemed interesting and fun to be with. We were a good deal of them, had a few trips together and became quite close. When they bought a house two blocks from us we were not very happy.

To put it candidly, by that time we were sick of them. They wanted to be in on everything we did, even family affairs. We were never out of place. We tried to cool the relationship but they wouldn't take the hint. They began to show up at odd hours of the day and night. How we knew they are crazy.

We refused to answer the door last night when they came over. They knocked on the windows and harrassed us for one solid hour. Then the phone started to ring. We did not answer and they kept us up calling until 2 a.m.

What can do we do?—Targets

Dear Targets: A frank talk is in order. Tell them you want to be left alone for a while. Be friendly but firm. If they continue to harrass you, have an attorney write them a letter saying you don't want to make their persistence a legal matter but if driven to it, you will do so.

Rose Designed China World's Biggest Seller

LONDON (CP) — Most of the world's tea-drinkers like to sip from cups decorated with roses. At least, that's the way it seems to Harold Holdcroft whose Old Country Roses design has become the world's biggest selling pattern in bone china with sales of 14 million pieces.

Pottery designer Holdcroft said in an interview: "If a design hoong we will get business from all parts of the world." And he finds that certain factors are constant throughout the world, apart from a fondness of roses.

He uses plenty of gold, stippled gradually into the design to blend smoothly. Then there are warm colors—a rich red for most of the roses and cold blue to be used in making this color lift.

Holdcroft is art director of Royal Albert, whose designs are produced by Allied English Potteries Ltd.

His other roses are tea roses in warm peachy yellows. Even the greens used in the foliage are warm greens. This color warmth is combined with a semi-naturistic look. But do not follow one particular named rose in every single detail.

A soft, natural look is an important quality in bone china design, hence the importance of the design melting into the glaze. In each European pattern the design tends to sit on top of the glaze. Holdcroft's background is vignetted, he shaded off, into the pure white of the china itself.

Shape is important to the design. With cups of Old Country Roses the handle is "as stendi proud," as the industry calls it —that is, it rises above the rim of the cup.

There is a foot on the cup, which gives fluency in design. The cup shape is round. Period.

Roses inside the cup as well as outside add to the lavish look. As many women do—turn the china upside down to look at the bottom—they see it, a neck-stamped with a small rose mark from the main pattern.

The saucer is color-trimmed with gold, the teapot has a wide opening at the top so that it is easy to wash up and both teapot and coffee pot have a slightly curved spout that makes pouring easier.

Like much child's wear, drop-gears from the shops after a while, this pattern has a 10-year replacement guarantee.

Every spring a list of patterns that will be available for the next 10 years is issued—the more successful a pattern the greater the likelihood of it appearing on the following spring's 10 year list.

Successful Living

Child with One Parent Proud to Be Needed

By DORIS CLARK

It seems there is something to be said in favor of the single-parent home. A prominent psychiatrist says so.

He points out that a child in such a home is in a good position to feel needed and to develop a sense of worth through helping in the operation of the home.

He warned against a parent feeling that the child should be indulged and free of responsibility.

"In these pampered, automated times, vast legions of children are being raised from infancy to adulthood with an almost total isolation from responsibilities, save the most elementary ones such as dressing and feeding themselves and getting punctually to school.

"Although a child in a single-parent home does not have the advantages of one living with two happy parents he is much better off than the millions who live until premature adulthood in desperately unhappy homes where both parents are locked in a destructive relationship."

Dear Doris: You mentioned a monthly magazine by the John Milton Society; could you please tell me how these could be obtained? I am writing for some friends who are only able to read large print.

Also, do you know of any hymn books or songs with large print? — Lighten Their Darkness.

Dear Lighten: The late Helen Keller said:

"I cannot rest happy while my blind fellows are lonely and unhelped before the gates of life".

We cannot give blind people the gift of sight but we can find out the resources there are for helping the blind and the partially blind to keep in touch with this fast-moving world of ours.

The new magazine will be entirely Canadian edited and printed, and in large type.

The first one will be in time for Christmas and you could not beat a year's subscription as a gift to those friends who need the large print.

Write to The John Milton Society for the Blind, 154 Uni versity Avenue, Toronto 110, Ontario. Ask them about hymn books too.

Confidential to Bev: Simmer down. My guess is that it was Bob who gave you the record. He is keeping it quiet because your so-called pal Betty made a scene when he gave you something before. But he is hoping you will guess that it came from him.

Perhaps you could write him a little note thanking him for the gift, saying you prize his friendship.

This will encourage him to respect himself more — something he is not doing now, when he is so ready to lie his way out of what might be a panicky situation.

Look at the kids who think it is being chicken to hold back when the others do a little shoplifting. Bob needs somebody like you to stick up for the truth and yet make him feel that he is worth your friendship.

Women's Institutes

HART RIGGS WI

MADOC — Tuly meeting of the Harts Riggs Women's Institute began with a pot luck dinner at the cottage of Mrs. William Bateman.

The women in attendance enjoyed a bountiful meal followed by the program on public relations.

Mrs. Allan Pigden called the meeting to order and she then dealt with the Branch business and thanked those who served as guides at O'Hara's Mill.

Mrs. Cecil Woods gave the motto and she quoted from the late Will Rodgers, his love and understanding of people. He valued friendship above the pretty things of life and his was the richer for extending a helping hand to humanity.

The public relations program was in charge of Mrs. Carl Fleming. A poem was read and a contest on a Canadian cities bingo was held. The winners were Mrs. C. Woods and Mrs. Austin Bristol.

The remainder of the afternoon was spent in reminiscing as Mrs. L. Trotter showed slides she had taken of activities of the institute, including corner loan trips, district annuals, picnics, fairs, and centennial outings. The change of guard was relaxing and Mrs. Bateman was heartily thanked for her hospitality.

Club Activities

MADOC SENIOR CITIZENS Club No. 671

MADOC — On Wednesday, Aug. 16, a number of members of the Madoc and District Senior Citizens Club No. 671 attended their annual corn roast at the Price's picnic grounds, Actinolite. A fine feast of corn, hot dogs, watermelon and marshmallows prepared by Mr. and Mrs. John, Mr. and Mrs. Broadworth and their assistants, was much enjoyed.

Mrs. Retha Parks conducted a short program of contests and games, which brought about much merriment. On behalf of the group, Mrs. Delesie presented everyone's appreciation to their hostess for the most enjoyable afternoon.

The Club was pleased to hear that a fellow member, Mr. Rutledge, is home from the hospital. It was also reported that Jim Rollins is in the hospital. Sympathy is extended to Miss Ranee following the death of her brother, club member Eric Ranee, and also to Mrs. Margaret Blake by following the death of her brother Martin Generoux.

The next regular meeting will be held at the usual time and place on Wednesday, Aug. 30. Lunch committee will be Mrs. D. Kernahan, Mrs. Dora Sherrow, Mrs. M. Brough, Mrs. Mary Ward and Mr. Rutledge.

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)— Joyce Price, chief commissioner of Australian Girl Guides, posed for photographs and said "sex" to the cameras—Mrs. Price said she had been told the word "sex" gave the mouth a softer line.

Mirror of Your Mind

by JOHN CONWELL

Can a gambler fall in love?

YES, but rarely. All the love a gambler—a compulsive one—usually finds is in the cards, dice, roulette wheel, or whatever turns his crank. He uses to chase Lady Luck. If an admitted compulsive gambler, a man, say, does find a woman to marry him, chances are that she is not the right one for him. Indeed what the gambler believes is love is more often a mask for an unconscious yearning to have someone else take the responsibility for him and his compulsions.

Are sports good for mental health?

THERE is nothing better than sports to prove the adage that links a sound mind and a sound body. Besides the exercise, sports provide an outlet for aggressions and tensions. And the sports heroes? They have to be among the tops in any mental health ratings. Otherwise, how could they accept cheers from their fans one day, and not lose their cool when they catch the boos and other signs of displeasure from the same bufs the next day?

Is it hard to teach a child tact?

YES; but not for the reasons many parents advance for not teaching a youngster how to be tactful and discreet when the situation demands it. They'll say, "You know how kids are" when Junior blurts out, "Grandma's got a dye job!" If he notices her gray has suddenly turned blonde. Many parents, however, overlook the fact that frequently tact is one of the social graces they have failed to acquire themselves.

Wilkinson Returns to B. C.

EDMONTON (CP) — Tom Wilkinson plays a key role tonight in one of sport's favorite dramas—the rejected player who comes back in another team's league with the opportunity to show his former mates a thing or two.

Wilkinson, a travelled quarterback who was released in July by British Columbia Lions as coach Eagle Keys elected to go with younger players, is the starting quarterback for Edmonton Eskimos against B.C. in the two clubs' record meeting here this season. Eskimos won the first Western Football Conference game 34-22.

He's taking over from Bruce Lemmerman, who owned the hottest hand among quarterbacks in Canadian football until he was sidelined for two months with a shoulder separation in Edmonton's Aug. 16 win over Saskatchewan Roughriders at Regina. Lemmerman had led Eskimos to five straight triumphs at the tail end of the 1971 regular season and another three this season.

Although it was Lemmerman who brought Edmonton back from a 14-0 deficit in the Regina game, it was Wilkinson who came off the bench after the injury to the No. 1 pivot to fire the winning touchdown pass.

Unlike some similar situations in the past, the Wilkinson-versus-Lions drama is unlikely to be tinged with bitterness. It was Keys who, when breaking the news to the stubby 33-year-old quarter that he was cutting him, suggested he get in touch with Eskimos who were looking for a backup man.

"Eagle is a pretty straight shooter in things like that," says Eskimo coach Ray Jauch.

Keys, at the end of the game, didn't think Wilkinson had any particular advantage from having once played with B.C. "He knows our personnel, but when he comes up to the line of scrimmage he won't know whether we will go to a man-to-man or zone defence on a particular play."

The Lions' coach, who says his young club needs the inspiration of a win after losing three of their first four starts this year, figures Wilkinson, who likes the short pass, will pick veteran Canadian flanker Bobby Taylor as a favorite target.

"He has leadership qualities," coach Jauch says of his new first-string quarter now Lemmerman is expected to be out of action for all except the last few games of the regular schedule. "We're quite happy to go with him."

Eskimos have reactivated Canadian rookie quarterback Dave Syme, a college standout at Simon Fraser, as their No. 2 quarterback. They've shored up the defensive-end spot by signing six-year NFL veteran Jerry Shay to fill in there for injured all-star Ron Forwick.

Treden with Hamilton Tiger-Cats earlier in the week brought Edmonton offensive guard Jim Papal, from University of North Carolina, and Wally Gabler, the CFL's most travelled quarterback, wanted as backup to Wilkinson. But Gabler has been suspended for falling jo report.

Jim Hensball, three-year Eskimo from University of Western Ontario, takes over the key safety spot in the defensive backfield formerly occupied by veteran John Wydareny, traded to Hamilton and then suspended by that club for not reporting.

With these changes, Eskimos hope to continue their unbeaten ways. They and Ottawa Rough Riders of the Eastern Conference are the only unbeaten outfits in the Canadian Football League so far this season.

Cosy Ousts Opposition

The Cosy Grill unleashed a potent attack last night to knock off Bob Blaind-Red Barn 13-8 and sweep the best-of-five Belleville and District Ladies Softball League semi-final series in three games.

Sandra Claus pounded out a homer, double and single and Sharon Francis a homer and triple to pace the Grill's 25 hit surge. Beth Palmer added three singles and a triple and Cathy Brown two doubles and a triple.

Claus hurled the win for Cosy who now meet BYBF for the championship.

Valerie Brown pulled a circuit blast and Mary Scanlon a double and two singles in support of losing pitcher Terry Hounslow.

Jcrry's Hit High Gear

Jerry's Motorcycle Sales were rolling well in the second game of the Soots Hastings Little League championship last night as they whipped Corbyville A and B Precast 14-4.

The win evened the best of three series at one game each. Third and deciding game will be Monday night.

Martin McKnight and Stephen Wellman combined for Jerry's win with 13 strikeouts. Scott Moore and Wellman had doubles.

Mosquitos Tie

The best laid plans for victory by Station Square and the Yardmen Olympics fell to the wayside in a Belleville Minor Soccer atom semi final match when the two teams battled to a 1-1 draw.

Danny Hounslow gave Station Square the half time lead before Jason Jackson sent the game into overtime.

Speier Sparkles

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Soon, especially if artificial turf makes grass obsolete in baseball, all major league shortstops figure to be Chris Speier models.

San Francisco Giants are betting that none of the imitators will match the prototype, their quick, strong-armed 22-year-old star.

"He's not the shortstop of the future—he's the best shortstop right now," says coach Joey Amalfitano, a former big league infielder.

Speier has been described by one columnist as "the first human being designed by nature to play on an artificial surface."

He plays the position exceptionally deep, and says: "I'm safe to be beaten if my arm."

Manager Walter Alston of Los Angeles Dodgers calls Speier "a throwing arm "as good as any I've seen in that position in several years."

The Giants had an established shortstop, Hal Lanier, before Speier arrived last season. But a new AstroTurf infield was installed at Candlestick Park and Manager Charlie Fox decided it would be too fast for Lanier to handle.

Speier, who began as a sophpro in the Senior Inter - County League in southern Ontario, had never played on artificial turf before the 1971 National League season. He made 33 errors, tops among the league's shortstops, but participated in 46 double plays, the second-best total.

He has made only 15 errors this year, with just 35 games left. At bat, he's made even more dramatic improvement, hitting .270 compared to 8 in rookie season .235.

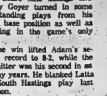
South Hastings Hitters Force Adams to Change No-Hit Formula

By ERIC EMERSON
Sports Staff

It's said in some corners that "familiarity breeds contempt", but those corners don't include the South Hastings Baseball League.



South Hastings hitters certainly don't feel contempt when Garnie Adams is on the opposing mound, they're probably too busy feeling relief that Garnie righthander has good control over his flaming fastball.

However, in this case, familiarity does breed familiarity and that probably accounts for the fact that Adams is forced to rely more heavily on his breaking pitches in the local league than in the admittedly tougher New York State loop and OBA playdowns in which he is also competing.

"The batters here are used to my fastball," explained Garnie after pitching Plaine's Concrete to a 9-0 draw with Read Thursday. "With King size (he's a member of the senior CKLC Ponies) I can throw the fastball because they don't expect it, but here I have to go to the curve more often. Guys like Gerry (Brennan), Carm (Milligan) and Pat (O'Connor) are just waiting for the fastball because they've seen it so often."

While the Read line up may be geared to expect such amazing velocity from a 160 pound frame, it obviously came as a surprise to Senior "A" Peterbrough Petes, Monday, Pitching for Kingston in the fifth and deciding game of the Eastern Ontario Baseball Association senior championships, Garnie turned in a no-hitter to give the Ponies a 1-0 win.

The righthander hurled his masterpiece against a lineup that included a number of former pros despite the fact that he was bothered by soreness in his pitching arm throughout the game. He lost his bid for a perfect game in the seventh inning when he hit leadoff batter Herb Van Deusen. An infield error accounted for the only other Peterborough base runner.

GARNIE ADAMS

Garnie had plenty of local support in pitching the win that gave Kingston a berth in the Ontario finals. Steve Bedard, who played in Frankford as well as with the Belleville juniors was his catcher for the entire nine innings and Greg Goyer turned in some outstanding plays from his first base position as well as driving in the game's only run.

The win lifted Adam's career record to 8-2, while the no-hitter was his second in as many years. He blanked Latta in South Hastings play last season.

A five-year veteran of the South Hastings League, Garnie has also pitched two seasons with the Belleville seniors and a year with the Kingston juniors. When not pitching for Plaine's he is inserted into the game as a catcher and is currently one of the top hitters About his transition from a one-time "automatic out" to a proficient stick man, he notes that, "I don't think I'm belting out the way I used to."

It was a slightly different story Tuesday night as Read came close to pinning the loss on him that would have eliminated Plaine's from their semi-final series. Garnie was forced to pitch himself out of a bases loaded jam in the fifth and final inning to retire the 0-0 deadlock.

Larry Coffey matched the Plaine's ace with a three-hitter to account for the second consecutive scoreless tie in the series. Read's Frank Farrell and Bernie Coughlan battled to a similar 0-0 deadlock Tuesday to leave Plaine's on the short end of a 2-1 count in the best-of-seven series. There have been three tie games.

Adams struck out eight batters and collected one of his team's three base hits with the others going to John Twoody and Ken Alverna. Coffey set down three men on strikes, while the Read hits went to Paul Hanley, Peter Enright and Carm Milligan.

The sixth game in the series is scheduled for Sunday, 2 p.m. in Canifton.

Cardinal Cracks Devolins

Devolin Motors met a "Cardinal" Thursday night and it was obvious they hadn't said their prayers before hand.

Belleville's Ontario Amateur Softball Association Senior B representatives were jolted 6-2 by the Cardinal Pats at the Alemite last night in the first game of a best-of-three first round series.

Three walks and a pair of errors gave the visitors a 2-0 lead after one and a half innings, a lead they never relinquished. Single tallies in the third, sixth, seventh and ninth pushed the game out of reach for the local Commercial League runners-up.

Eric Maher put Devolin as close as the Midcrimen came all night to Cardinal with a second inning home run to cut the difference to one. Long-time team mates got together for the final Devolin run in the ninth when Ron Maracle singled in Marv Stacey who had opened the inning with a base hit.

Maracle went the route for Devolin giving up eight hits, fanning five and walking eight. Three unearned runs padded the winners victory margin.

Nick Pasquarello punched a pair of singles while Bruce Sickels added the other Belleville hit.

Ted Hay fired a six hitter for the winners walking four and whiffing 11. Ed.St. Louis and Doug Castleman had a pair of singles each for the series leaders.

School's In

Action gets hot and heavy around the goalmouth in a Thursday night scrimmage at the Twin O'Shanter Hockey School in Trenton. While instruction should as this is readily available for minor hockey players, the OHA is attempting to strengthen minor hockey through another means. Ron Smith, standout left winger with the Galt Hornets, has been hired by the OHA to conduct a series of coaches' cli nics throughout the province this winter.

OHA Initiates Coaches Clinics

By ERIC EMERSON
Sports Staff

In the past hockey coaches have never been glad to see Ron Smith come to their town. That's because Smith has generally been accompanied by his Galt Hornet teammates, an outfit that has spelled trouble for rival coaches throughout the OHA Senior A circuit.

Things will be different this winter however. Smith will be concentrating on alleviating some coaching problems, rather than adding to them.

The all-star left winger has accepted the position of technical director with the OHA. His main responsibility in that position will be to conduct a series of coaching clinics throughout the province.

"We're attempting to present an organized, scientific system of hockey rather than developing super players or super coaches," advises Smith. He agrees with John Ferguson's assessment that European hockey has surpassed Canada at minor and junior levels. "It shows that he's been out of touch with international hockey for a while," he noted of the Team Canada coach's observations. "It's something that many people in the sport have known for some time. Providing good coaching could be one step towards solving the problem."

Ron obtained his coaching and answering an ad in the hockey news this summer. He is under the direction of the OHA, much of his salary will be paid by the department of youth and recreation. His grounding in Senior A hockey and inter-county baseball, as well as his experience as a high school coach should helped him to obtain the position.

Since his appointment in June he has mailed 500 letters to organizations throughout Ontario, informing them of the proposed clinics. "I've received about 30 replies already, including ones from Brighton and Madoc. If I had requests from, say Belleville and Trenton, I might be able to arrange a week long tour of that area." He plans to conduct 60-75 clinics this season, involving about 3,000 people.

Best clinic is scheduled to run 3-4 hours with equal time spent upon lectures and films, for participation such as setting up drills and a discussion of the general philosophy, strategy and organization involved in coaching.

"Our main attack for this year will be first year coaches in order to provide a solid basis," notes Smith. "we're attempting to get away from the old shouting method into more humane methods.

"For house league coaches the emphasis would be on team play and attitudes, since they don't have practice time to work on individual skills. For all-star coaches you can get down to fundamentals since they'll have time during the year to work on them."

Belleville Minor Hockey president Don Gavey admitted a need for this type of clinic, but wasn't certain whether or not the OHA clinic would be best for this city. "I'm not discounting it altogether but, as far as our all-star coaches, there's not much that Ron Smith can teach people like Lou Snrike, Dave Jones or Gordie Bell.

"We're lucky in this aspect that Belleville probably has more ex-professional hockey players per person that any other city in Canada...These fellows appear to be agreeable to setting up a clinic for house league coaches, which might be better since it would allow them to set up a style of play that would allow boys moving up to all-star to fit right into their system."

Will Last-Minute 'Rush' Succeed?

Most people don't like to rush into things but come Saturday evening Al Vance will be 'Rushing' as best he can.

Vance will be reining Skippy Rush in defence of his fleetest pace win last week over the Quinte Exhibition and Raceway regular Saturday harness races.

Skippy ran in a personal best of 2:09.4 last week and will be out to improve that time as the ninth race of the card.

Post time is 7:45 p.m.

Kinsmen Tykes Use Plate Power Wisely

The Kinsmen tykes aren't ones to scrimp on runs and they needed all they could get last night when they topped Alhambra 109 15-10 to take the first game of the best of three Belleville Minor Baseball semi-finals.

Brad Miller smashed a homer and two doubles, Brad Begbie a triple and double and Jeff Haywood four singles to pace the winners at the plate. Kevin Jones, Haywood and Bruce McBrien all saw mound duty for the Kinsmen.

Larry Hanlon and Mark Pearson combined to fan 11 strike outs in a losing cause for Alhambra.

Mike Burke supplies much of the Conductor and Brakeman power hitting, having blasted four homers this season.

Commonwealth Games In Edmonton

MUNICH (CP) — Edmonton was chosen Thursday as the site of the 1978 Commonwealth Games. It will be only the third time in the history of the Games that they have been held in Canada.

In a tense competition that lasted almost until midnight Thursday night, the British Commonwealth Games Federation selected the Alberta capital over Leeds, England, by a vote of 34 to 30.

Canada won 20 gold medals in the inaugural British Empire Games at Hamilton, Ont., a showing yet to be equalled. In the 1954 Games at Vancouver, the Canadian team won nine gold. In the last Games in 1970 at Edinburgh, Scotland, a strong Canadian team won 18 gold.

An intense lobbying effort which took Mayor Ivor Dent of Edmonton to many Commonwealth countries helped win the 1978 Games for his city. Edmonton spent $60,000 in promotion expenses, Leeds $40,000.

The Edmonton bid, however, are expected to be recovered by donations from the public and corporations. Several million dollars will be needed to erect sites for the various sports including a main stadium.

"The lobbying done here by my people was fabulous," Mayor Dent said. "I would like to want to tackle it again, though, the way I rushed through Africa and the Caribbean to get votes from those areas."

The banning of Rhodesia from the Summer Olympic Games, due to open here Saturday, was a factor in swinging the decision to Edmonton, Mayor Dent said.

Since Rhodesia is not a member of the Commonwealth it could not qualify for the Games. But strong anti-British feeling among black African countries worked against Leeds. Some black Africans say Britain has not taken a tough enough stance against Rhodesia since the white-ruled country broke away from the Commonwealth and proclaimed its independence.

The Leeds delegation leader, Ald. Irwin Bellow, said: "I am pretty sure the Rhodesian problem had a blocking effect on England.

"I am sure Edmonton will do well. And good luck to them. But sports has become so political today. We're all disappointed. There was no contest (of the merits of the presentations). It was obviously a political decision."

Yes, I think it was a factor," Mayor Dent said of the Rhodesian issue, "because I expected and didn't help their cause."

But Mayor Dent said he had received assurances from the Commonwealth that in fact African delegates earlier this year during visits to key African capitals that they would support Edmonton's bid.

Another factor believed to have influenced the selection was an offer by Air Canada to fly African athletes to Edmonton at charter rates. The Leeds delegation had said that air fares to Alberta would have been prohibitive.

Olympic Torch Arrives Tonight

MUNICH (CP-AP) — Bavaria's festive capital welcomes the Olympic torch tonight as a relay runner from Greece jogs into historic Koenigsplatz where Adolf Hitler plotted his course to infamy.

The 20th Olympic Games, a $1-billion undertaking of contemporary West Germany, became a reality Saturday with athletes of at least 122 countries marching into the 80,000-seat Olympia Stadium.

On the eve of the opening ceremony the Olympic torch, ferried by hundreds of runners from Olympia, Greece, will reach Munich to be received by Olympic officials and a likely international ovation from tourists and visitors gathered in Koenigsplatz.

That monumental central square of neoclassic architecture was the site of the Brown House which served as Nazi party headquarters at the time of Hitler's rise to power in 1933. It was destroyed by Allied wartime bombing raids.

It also was the scene of the signing of the Munich pact, the 10-point peace agreement between dictator Benito Mussolini of Italy, German Chancellor Hitler and Prime Ministers Neville Chamberlain of Britain and Edouard Daladier of France.

When the pomp and pageantry take centre stage in the cool Bavarian night, the 10,000 athletes at Olympic Village will be poised to match their skills for 195 gold medals in 21 sports. Competition begins Sunday.

The International Olympic Committee announced Thursday night it had offered to welcome China into the Olympics, but Peking says no as long as Taiwan is admitted.

In sheer IOC action, the four-man bobsled competition was eliminated from the 1976 Winter Games as too expensive a sport. Avery Brundage, retiring president of the IOC said it cost $3 million to build and tear down the four-man run in the Winter Games at Sapporo, Japan, last FBruary. He estimated the cost at $100,000 an entry, far too rich for the Olympic blood.

Members of the 24-man Edmonton delegation, dressed in bright red blazers, shouted with joy when Sir Alexander Ross of Australia, chairman of the British Commonwealth Games federation, announced the choice of Edmonton. The 1974 Games will be held in Christchurch, N.Z.

"I think it's fantastic," said Ald. David C. Ward of Edmonton. "They are going to see the best Games they have ever seen."

Munich Remembers Jesse Owens

MUNICH (AP) — Germany remembers. And Jesse Owens is glad.

"It gives me a good, warm feeling," the black hero of the 1936 Berlin games said Thursday after waiting through mobs of autograph seekers to his suite little office in the Olympic Village.

"Everywhere I go, it's like this. We were eating in a restaurant and old elderly couple came up and wanted to talk. They had remembered Berlin.

"I went out to the stadium area for some filming this morning. People came up and gave me pens and all sorts of little souvenirs. A middle-aged woman kissed me on the cheek and said: 'We're glad you're here.'

"This is the great Jesse Owens who was slighted by Adolf Hitler after he won four gold medals with record-shattering performances in 1936 in the 100 and 200 metres, broad jump and 400-metre relay.

Owens isn't sure that the Fuehrer deliberately snubbed him but, regardless, he holds no animosity.

"But, looking back, I am glad the world has this contrast to look at. Hitler destroyed six million people. I was lucky enough to represent the good side of life—a black boy from poverty occupying the spotlight as a sports champion."

More Sport On Page 8

Owens, now 58 and 22 pounds heavier at 181 than when he won his gold medals, is in Munich as guest of the German organizing committee.

He strode through the Olympic Village in a bright red-white-and-blue gold jacket and striped pants.

He was besieged every few feet of his journey. Even the athletes thronged around just to get a glimpse of him.

"People are always bugging me, asking what I thought of Hitler's snub and of treatment of black athletes. I am not bitter. I am happy. I came along at a dramatic moment of history and I am glad I can always say 'I was there.'"

NHL Expands -- AGAIN

TORONTO (CP) — Cincinnati was assured Thursday it would be included in the next National Hockey League expansion.

A group from Cincinnati, headed by William DeWitt Jr. and Brian Heeking, needed assurances from the NHL governors meeting here before the city would begin construction on a new 18,000-seat arena.

Date for the next expansion is not yet known, but the league is aiming for 21 teams by 1980.

NHL President Clarence Campbell said the Kansas City franchise entering the league in 1974—Washington is another expansion club for that year—had until Oct. 1 to meet certain obligations.

Pressed as to whether Cincinnati would get the Kansas City franchise if that city fails to meet its obligations, Campbell replied: "We are not contemplating a Kansas City default."

Campbell disclosed that the huge screens for instant replays at Maple Leaf Gardens, Philadelphia Spectrum and Nassau Coliseum won't be ready until at least the 1972-74 season.

He said there were technical problems concerning installation and that he had drawn up guidelines limiting to two the number of times any potentially-controversial goal could be shown to fans.

Scheduling for the 1972-73 season had been delayed by the decision of CBC television to show two games on Friday evenings during prime time. The dates were Dec. 29 and March 23 but "we have no outside attraction either night." He said the schedule will be adjusted.

Campbell said the governors also discussed two anti-trust suits lodged by lawyer Nat Shayne, former franchise holder of New York Raiders of the rival World Hockey Association, and the WHA's Philadelphia Blazers.

The other concern, the U.S. Justice Department investigation of the league and profes sional hockey, is at the point at which they seem to have completed their submission. . . . Now all we can do is wait."

Also heard was a bid for an NHL franchise from Seattle Totems of the Western Hockey League.

The Totems are a farm club of Vancouver Canucks of the NHL but under an agreement with the Canucks, Vincent Athley, a vice-president of the Seattle club, was reported to have a right to repurchase control of the Totems if a major-league franchise is granted Seattle.

Different Greetings From Team Canada

TORONTO (CP) — Charles Hay and John McKenzie visited the Team Canada training camp at Maple Leaf Gardens Thursday and received contrasting receptions from National Hockey League brass.

Hay, president of Hockey Canada, the agency under which Team Canada was established to play against Russia in September was greeted warmly.

McKenzie, who jumped to the rival World Hockey Association to coach Philadelphia Blazers, was the first WHA player even to get a look-in at the Team Canada site which in reality is made up of NHL selects.

"They shouldn't have let him in the building," said one NHL employee among the many from around the league who took advantage of a league meeting here of governors to get a look at controversial Maple Leaf Gardens.

But McKenzie got an enthusiastic welcome from his former Boston team-mates and Bruins vice-president Charles Mulcahy stepped up to say: "Hello there, g.m., how's it going?"

McKenzie recalled Mulcahy thidded me all last winter after I was drafted by Quebec of the WHA, calling me the g.m.

"I told him I wanted to hire him as g.m. because nobody else could sign players as cheaply for me."

Hay, confined to his home after a recent illness forced him to resign his activities with Hockey Canada, avoided WHL/WHA politics.

"I'm delighted with the way this is going," he said. "And not only what I see here today, but the effect this is having on making our Hockey Canada intentions known."

Clarke Clicks for Cats

MONTREAL (CP) — For all intents and purposes, Thursday's Eastern Football Conference game between Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Montreal Alouettes was over after the first 14 seconds.

It was at that point that Dave Clarke crossed the Montreal goal line after scampering down the right sideline 102 yards with Don Sweet's opening kickoff.

The Tiger Cats never relinquished the early lead and went on to snap their three-game losing streak by dumping the Alouettes 25-12.

"We practised covering kickoffs and what happens?" asked coach Sam Etcheverry. "We practise and they run it back for a touchdown."

Clarke also broke a long kick off return in last Saturday's game which the Alouettes won 35-23.

"It was exactly the same as last week," Clarke said. "I got one great block from someone early. I had to turn into the middle and then go back to the sidelines."

The Alouettes did manage to chop the Tiger Cats lead to 7-3 midway through the opening quarter when Sweet booted a 10-yard field goal, but with 13 seconds left Ian Sunter kicked a single on a wide field goal to put Hamilton ahead 8-3.

It was 11-6 at the half as Sweet and Sunter each booted field goals in the second quarter.

Veteran Garney Henley scored the only major of the third quarter when he grabbed a 6-yard pass from Chuck Ealey on the five-yard line and ran unmolested into the end zone. Henley beat defenders Brad Upshaw and Ed Hayes on the play.

Upshaw made a strange play in the fourth quarter that led directly to Hamilton's third touchdown by Tony Gabriel.

Upshaw, a second-year defensive halfback, caught a punt from Bill van Burkleo and started running back towards his end zone. He was hit by a Tiger Cat defender, the ball popped loose and rolled over the goal line and Gabriel pounced on it. With Sunter's third convert of the night, the TiCats led 25-6.

Etcheverry called Upshaw's play "lackadaisical."

"He's got to get serious about this game," he added.

Alouettes got the game's final touchdown when Quarterback Dell Riva caught an eight-yard pass from Sonny Wade, who replaced George Mira with 3:54 minutes left in the game.

"They threw some different defences at us," said Mira. "They're a good football team and they played well.

"It was just one of those nights. We didn't play a good game but there are plenty of games remaining. We'll have to work harder next time."

Scoring Leaders

Rookie Ian Sunter regained second place in the Eastern Football Conference scoring race Thursday night kicking seven points as Hamilton Tiger-Cats defeated Montreal Alouettes 25-12.

Sunter, with three converts, a field goal and single against the Als, now has 28 points in five games and trails only leader Gerry Organ of Ottawa Rough Riders, by five. Organ scored midway through the opening quarter when Sweet booted a 10-yard field goal, but with 13 seconds left Ian Sunter kicked a single on a wide field goal to put Hamilton ahead 8-3.

Howe's Induction Has Special Touch

TORONTO (CP) — Women broke another male bastion Thursday night and it was none too soon for Gordie Howe.

The great right winger of 25 years with Detroit Red Wings, who retired before the 1971-72 season, was inducted into the Hockey Hall of Fame, his wife and family beside him near the head table.

The usual minimum five-year waiting period that normally follows an active player's retirement from the National Hockey League before he becomes eligible for the Hall of

GORDIE HOWE

Fame was waived this year for Howe and centre Jean Beliveau of Montreal Canadiens.

Howe said he considered the occasion all the more important because his wife Colleen, sons Mark, Murray and daughter Kathy were able to attend.

Hall of Fame dinners have always been all-male gatherings of hockey luminaries, writers, and broadcasters.

"At 16 per cent of these occasions, I can honestly say that I have been deeply honored but I felt deep down that I would feel that more now as if Colleen had been among you.

"Tonight, I can honestly say it and mean it."

Inducted into the Hockey Hall of Fame along with Howe were former players Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, Reginald (Hooley) Smith, and Harry (Hap) Holmes and, in the builders' section, Weston Adams Sr. of Boston.

Howe, in 25 years as a Detroit player, established records that will probably never be equalled. Included along those are 853 goals, 1,114 assists and 1,1967 points in 1,841 regular season and playoff games.

"But I wouldn't be here except for the Detroit organization. . . . And to say I did it alone would be a lie. It was guys like the Sid Abels, the Ted Lindsays, the Red Kellys, the Marcel Pronovosts that sent me up here to join the greatest all-star team of them all."

Now a vice-president with Detroit, Howe spoke briefly of his years in the NHL and, pointing to his three sons, : "I hope they get to know the joy of playing in the NHL." Marty and Mark are both major league prospects with Toronto Marlboros of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A Series.

Geoffrion, second NHL player ever to score 50 goals in a season—Maurice Richard was the first—playfully took shots at a former employer.

Of Frank Selke Sr., one-time general manager of the Canadiens: "Mr. Selke, your biggest mistake was sending me to an English camp near Kingston as I could learn to speak English."

"When I first came up to Montreal I couldn't speak a word of English so I couldn't sign my contract. So they sent me to this camp where they only speak English. Then at 18, I walked into that office and said to heck with you, I can sign my own contract now."

He was later a player and coach for New York Rangers, and now is coach of the new Atlanta franchise in the NHL.

Geoffrion looked on the occasion as one of dignity but was saddened that his wife, Marlene, daughter of another Hockey Hall of Famer, Howie Morenz, could not attend following surgery in Montreal earlier in the week.

In a more jocular mood, he said: "She wanted to see me right up there along side her father. But I talked to the man at the Hall and told him I didn't want us hanging side by side. Why, he couldn't even carry my skates."

His remarks about Morenz brought good-natured laughter from the packed room. Morenz's speed on skates earned him the nickname, the Stratford Streak.

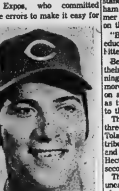
Bench Finds Home at Third As Redlegs Rout Montreal

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Look out, Joe Torre. Your switch from catcher to third baseman may be catching on.



Torre, who bounced into a full-fledged star when he gave up his chest protector and shin guards, may have given Johnny Bench, already a star, some ideas. Cincinnati's slugging receiver showed up at third base for the Reds Thursday and tagged a 7th homer of the year in a 6-0 victory over Montreal Expos.

That was the only game played in the National League Thursday. In the American League, Texas Rangers split a double-header with Milwaukee Brewers, winning the first game 14 but dropping the nightcap 4-3.

"It's tough to catch everyday," said Bench.

"The bat gets heavy after awhile. I find it easier if I can play in the field. It's almost like a rest for me."

The rapid development of rookie catcher Bill Plummer has enabled manager Sparky Anderson to let Bench work elsewhere in the lineup. Mostly, the Cincinnati slugger has been on right field but he switched to third base Thursday and handled two chances, including a bunt, flawlessly.

JOHN BENCH

The same couldn't be said of the Expos, who committed three errors to make it easy for the Reds and Jack Billingham, who tossed a six-hitter. It was the second straight shutout for the veteran righ-hander and evened his season's record at 10-10.

"He called another outstanding game," said Billingham of the new catcher. Plummer credited a hurry-up course on the job from Bench.

"Bench has given me a real education on National League hitters," said Plummer.

Bench's homer gave the Reds their first run in the second inning. Cincinnati added two more in the third, one of them on a sacrifice fly by Plummer, as two Expo errors contributed to the rally.

The Reds wrapped it up with three in the fifth with Bobby Tolan and Darrel Chaney contributing run-scoring singles and Expos' second baseman, Hector Torres, committing his second error of the game.

The Rangers scored three unearned runs in the first inning off Clyde Wright, the last two on a misjudged fly ball which fell for a triple by Tom Grieve.

Frank Howard homered and Elliot Maddox contributed three singles to the Texas attack. Mike Hegan and Pete Broberg combined for the six-hitter.

In the nightcap, Dave May clubbed a two-run homer, tying the score for the Brewers and then beat an infield single in the eighth inning to deliver the winner.

Hawks Fan Five In Hull Feud

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago of the new World Hockey Association starting operations this fall.

Bobby Hull's counsel, Morse showed the court a newspaper advertisement in which Hull encouraged persons to attend the Oct. 31 WHA opener in Chicago between the Jets and Chicago Cougars.

Morse said Hull's contract with the Black Hawks still expires Sept. 30, provides that Hull can only lend his name to promotions for the Black Hawks.

Morse said Hull should be allowed "so he can't induce other players to join him" in leaving the NHL for the WHA.

Emergency Judge James B. Parsons ordered Morse and Hull's counsel Jerome H. Torshen, to work out an agreement in the matter and precaut it to the court today. Torshen said Hull would voluntarily agree to refrain from further press statements, but Morse persisted in demanding a court order.

Dennis Throws Curve

TORONTO (CP) — Dennis Hull and Chicago Black Hawks were fined $1,000 each during the National Hockey League playoffs last spring when it was discovered the curve in Hull's blade was more than that allowed in NHL rules.

But there's nothing in International Ice Hockey Federation rules limiting the curve of his blade so, at least for the Canada-Russia hockey series in September, Hull is reverting to his boomerang style blade.

The NHL limits curves to one half inch. Hull's is more than an inch. During the NHL quarter-finals against Pittsburgh Penguins, Dutch van Dorden, Western supervisor of officials, discovered Hull's blade was three-eighths of an inch over the limit for curve.

"I feel more comfortable with the curved blade," Hull explained Thursday during a Team Canada workout. When the NHL placed a limit on the curve last year, he found it a difficult adjustment.

"I went soft or nine games before I got a goal, so I didn't say anything to Billy (Reay, coach of the Black Hawks) but I switched back to the old stick."

The result was 30 goals using an illegal stick before getting control in the playoff.

Hull switched to a relatively straight blade for the rest of the post-season games and scored four goals in eight games.

"I think the rule is silly. I don't shoot any harder with the curved stick then I do with a straight one. The difference is in control. You hear that you can't control a shot with a curved blade but for me just the opposite is true."

Unknown Leads 'L and M Open

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — Richie Karl, a one-time army cook and former Alaska amateur champion was not at all disrnayed he may have to relinquish a lead in a $100,000 golf tournament to face one of the game's great star—perhaps Jack Nicklaus—in a head-to-head' competition.

Karl, who's never come close to winning a regular event on the pro tour, set a course record with a career-best seven-under-par 65 Thursday in the opening round of the $100,000 L and M Open.

Should he retain the top spot in that chase for a $20,000 first prize through today's second round, he's required to drop out of the tournament and move into the 16-man bracket for the U.S. Professional Match Play Championship, a $150,000 event offering $40,000 to the winner.

That one will be played Saturday and Sunday with two rounds of match play each day.

Nicklaus, Trevino, Arnold Palmer and five others already have their spots in the match play and after today's play, in the Lee Mad M, the eight players leading the field drop out of that tournament and move into the match play.

In addition, to Nicklaus, Trevino and Palmer, the exempt players are defending champion DeWitt Weaver, George Archer, Jerry Heard, Frank Beard and Miller Barber.

Karl held a one-stroke lead over Bob Barbarosa and little Deane Beman, tied for fifth after the first round over the 6,388-yard course.

Paul Moran and Jim Merchall had 67s, with former PGA champion Dave Stockton and rookies Chuck Thorpe and local favorite Lenny Watkins tied at 68.

Low Canadian, Ken Fulton of Montreal, had a 72. George Knudson of Toronto checked in with a 73, Toronto's Ben Kern had a 74 and another Toronto area golfer, Gary Bowerman, a 75.

Sport Briefs

TORONTO (CP) — Juan Manuel Borbolla's goal at 16 minutes of the second half gave Mexico a 1-0 win over Canada in a World Cup concentration rary round game Thursday night.

A crowd of 16,500 watched the hard-hitting game which saw rough tactics on both sides.

Borbolla's goal came on a pass from Rosario Victorino. He beat Canada's goalkeeper Dick Howard of Toronto with a lazy shot from 18 yards which bounced the ball over Howard's left arm.

The game was the second for Canada and the first for Mexico in group play leading to the 1974 World Cup tournament in West Germany. "Canada defeated the United States 3-2 in St. John's, Nfld. Sunday in the first game of their home-and-home series.

Winner of the three-team grouping goes into a final series with the winners of five other groupings in Central America. The ultimate winner goes to the final in West Germany.

The Mexicans had expected to win by a wider margin and had to stave off a fierce Canadian bid for the equalizing goal in the last 10 minutes.

Canadian coach Frank Pike called the result "a great boost for soccer in this country."

TORONTO (CP) — Calgary Tinnae Tire picked up two wins to move into first place in the Canadian women's softball championships at the Canadian National Exhibition Thursday.

The Alberta squad defeated Toronto 4-3 behind the pitching of Jean Lanscher and downed Upton Territories 9-6 behind the slugging of Val Jensen.

Jensen hit two doubles and a triple.

British Columbia defeated the Yukon 10-1 in the Northern squad's second game.

Fort Erie, Ont., defeated Quebec 8-0 and Nova Scotia split its two games, losing 6-4 to the Northwest Territories and beating Saskatchewan 9-8.

Joan Moore, Fort Erie's pitcher fanned 22 Quebec batters and gave up only one hit. Top batter Rose-Fort Erie was Jean Moir with two hits, including a homer.

MONTREAL (CP) — Donato Padauano, forcing flashy with uppercuts and crosses, pounded out a unanimous 15-round decision over Reynald Cantin Thursday night in a welterweight match at the Montreal Forum.

Padauano, the former Canadian welterweight champion, was never in trouble during the fight and had Cantin, the Canadian junior welterweight champion, lighting in a daze in the 14th and 15th rounds.

The three judges scored it 57-56 and 58-56 and 58-52. Padauano lost his last match with Cantin, who is from Quebec City, by a narrow point margin.
